ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The Public Sale which commenced on the 16th comprised 28,813 packages, 25,703 packages being without reserve, and included 1,884 packages New Season's Congou, ex Agamemnon, printed "without reserve," which sold on the average fully 1d. per lb. over private contract prices, viz., from 1s. 7¼d. to 1s. 8¾d. per lb. for chests, and 2s. 0¼d. to 2s. 0¾d. per lb. for boxes.

Foo Chow Congous: Fair to good leafy siftings have been sold at 6½d. to 7d. per lb.; broken leaf is still quoted at 8d. to 9d., and inferior common at 9d. to 10d. per lb.; common to good common realised in public sale 10¼d. to 11½d., and fair 1s. per lb.; Black Leaf Congous: Some very low siftings have been sold by auction at 2¼d. to 2¾d., and a parcel of inferior common Congou at 8¼d. per lb.; common may be quoted at 10d. to 11d. per lb., and good common to fair, 11¼d. to 1s. per lb.; but these prices are quite nominal. In New Season's sales have been made showing a heavy decline on opening rates, and present quotations are: for good medium to fine, 1s. 6d. to 2s. per lb.; finest, 2s. 2d. to 2s. 4d. per lb., with very little business doing, owing to the Public Sale. Tayshan Congous: In these descriptions we have nothing new to report. Souchongs and Oolongs are without alteration. Scented Teas: Several parcels of low Canton Scented Orange Pekoe realised at Auction 5d. to 6d. per lb., and Scented Caper 5d. to 6¾d. Some few parcels of very fine extra curious New Season's, ex Overland, have been sold: Scented Orange Pekoe at 3s. to 3s. 9d., and Scented Caper at 3s. 6d. Green Teas: 6,317 packages included in the present sale have realised for Gunpowder: common 1s. to 1s. 2d.; fair to medium, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6¼d., and fine, 2s. 7¾d. to 2s. 10¼d. Hyson: common 9¾d. to 10d. per lb.; fair, 1s. 1¾d.; medium, 1s. 5¼d. to 1s. 8d. Young Hyson: common, 7½d. to 10¾d.; medium, 1s. 5d., which show no alteration, except for the commoner grades, and these are about 1d. to 1¼d. per lb. lower.

SILK.

There is no new feature in the Silk market beyond its being a shade firmer; a small daily business is doing at about the same rates as last quoted, but importers generally do not feel at all disposed to sell their new China Silk at the current rates; 24s. 6d. has been offered and refused for new Red Peacocks. Country manufacturers are evidently in want of Silk, and only await some definite range of prices to operate. Deliveries are quite as good as could be expected; say from 1st to 17th instant, 1,017 Chinas, 218 Cantons, 216 Japans, and 155 Bengals total, 1,606 bales.

COFFEE.

The market for Ceylon exhibits no change, so far as regards the ruling prices, which nominally maintain the low range established some time since; but holders evince considerable firmness in withholding supplies from the market, and there have been consequently no parcels offered at the public sales. That the lowest point has in all probability been reached is evidenced by the business transacted privately, all parcels sold obtaining prices on a par with those quoted for last mail. The sales in this way amount to about 10 casks good colory Plantation at 71s. 6d., and about 1,000 bags Native at 50s. for bold, and 46s. 6d. to 47s. for good ordinary. In other East India nothing has been done. The week's landings, which consist chiefly of Ceylon and Costa Rica, are only about one-half the large amount of last year; the deliveries have also fallen off to a considerable extent, being 550 tons less than last year, and the deficiency in the stock is enlarged to 1,900 tons. Stock, August 6, 22,461 tons against 23,645 tons.

The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation 286,739 cwt., against 276,877 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 20,684 cwt., against 39,610 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 22,952 cwt. Plantation, against 8,252 cwt., and 9,031 cwt. Native, against 11,038 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-two weeks ended Aug. 13, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 22,328 tons, against 24,279 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 37,559 tons, against 43,952 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 6,578 tons, against 6,955 tons; of all descriptions, 11,529 tons, against 11,580 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 17,427 tons, against 15,506 tons; of all descriptions, 27,431 tons, against 26,879 tons. The stock on Aug. 13 was, of Ceylon, 12,187 tons, against 12,807 tons; of all descriptions, 22,818 tons, against 27,731 tons.

SUGAR.

Great dulness continues to prevail in the market, and the business done has been smaller than for a long time past. Prices show a further fall, and are in most cases 6d. lower than those of a week ago. East India kinds are still withheld, and the only sale to report is of 1,212 baskets good and fine strong yellow Java (duty 5s. 3d.) at 31s. to 31s. 6d., a few lots at 32s. The weekly imports in the two years are much alike, the deliveries for the week are the largest for many weeks, the increase taking place in British West India and Manila, and being 600 tons in excess of last year's, the surplus in the stock is again lessened, being now 18,200 tons. Stock, August 6, 104,192 tons, against 85,093 tons.

The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-two weeks ended Aug. 13, 1870, was—of Penang, 2,277 tons, against 2,101 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 14,360 tons, against 22,247 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 1,565 tons, against 1,593 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 16,191 tons, against 10,612 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 95 tons, against 77 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,825 tons, against 828 tons. The stock on Aug. 6 was, of Penang, 2,947 tons, against 760 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 32,134 tons, against 39,371 tons.

Coir Goods.—At the last sales the small quantities offered were all taken off, the better qualities of yarn, fibre, and rope being fully sustained, other sorts bringing previous rates. 34 tons Ceylon Yarn sold, very common to common at £17 to £19; medium to good medium at £22 to £26.

Cocoa-nut Oil.—The market is quiet at last quoted rates, viz., £36 10s. to £37.

Cutch.—Fine Pegu has sold at a further advance, 600 boxes having been taken at 20s. 6d. per cwt. We note, also, the sale of 100 boxes good Pegu from Singapore at 19s. 3d.

Camphor.—Prices for Chinas show a decline of 4s. to 5s.; of 313 cases in lead offered 116 cases sold, fair at 71s. 6d. to 72s., more or less wet with sea water at 71s. 6d. to 71s. Nothing doing in Japan.

Gums.—Benjamin; of 80 cases Sumatra offered 10 cases sold—good seconds £9 to £9 5s., ditto rather streaky £9, good fair £8 12s. 6d., fair mixed with dark £7 5s., the remainder being withdrawn or bought in at £7 7s. 6d. to £8 10s., almondy thirds 85s.; 14 cases Siam were bought in—firsts, glassy block mixed with dark to good at £19 to £22 10s., seconds at £15, thirds at £10. In other Gums there have been no transactions.

Hides.—At yesterday's sales 755 Ceylon, sold—light 6½ to 6¾ lb. at 5½d. Of 4,129 Penang offered 2,807 sold—light 6¾ lb. at 8d., heavy 8½ to 9¾ lb. at 6d., extra 12¾ lb. to 13½ lb. at 6d. to 6½d., small 4¾ lb. at 6½d., thirds 5d., fourths 4d.

Hemp.—There has been a limited business in Manila since our last report, at the former quotation of £57 for fair roping.

Japan Wax.—The only parcel offered, 10 boxes good saucers, was bought in at 75s. per cwt.

Pepper.—Prices have advanced; in Black business has been done in Penang, afloat at 4¾d., which is now refused as is 4¾d. for Singapore; on the spot the only sale has been 230 bags sea damaged Penang, first class quality, at 4¾d. to 4¾d. Of White the sales have been 78 bags Singapore, import 1868 at 5¾d. to 6d., and 56 bags Penang at 5¾d. to 5¾d.

Rice.—The inquiry continues very limited, but as sales are not pressed prices are nominally maintained. The only sale reported consists of 2,500 bags garden Siam at 8s. 3d. Landed last week, 1,803 tons; delivered (exclusive of the quantity ex ship), 981 tons; stock, 39,108 tons, against 48,324 tons at this time last year.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's Circular, dated 29th July:—Our last report of the tea market was under date of July 15, since which sales have been made from first hands to the extent of 5,800 hf.-ch Green, 2,200 hf.-ch Oolong, and 3,200 hf.-ch Japan, the latter including about 2,000 hf.-ch choice, new crop goods to arrive via Panama. Shortly after the despatch of the last mail, an increased inquiry from the trade generally for teas was observable. This would doubtless have led to considerable business, and on better terms for importers, but for the War news from Europe and consequent rise in gold here. At the close no sufficient advance in currency values has been realised, to meet the increased cost of gold, and the trade are now operating with extreme caution, and only to meet passing wants. The Surprise from Shanghai, and Cœur de Lion from Yokohama have arrived since our last. We revise our quotations for this mail to correspond with prices accepted for the recent sales.

The following are the current quotations:—Greens (Moyune, Twanki and Fychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 70c. to 120c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 55c. to 105c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 42c. to 110c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 52c. to 88c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow Oolongs, common and good, 48c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 56c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 46c. to 53c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 63c.; finest, 67c. to 72c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 40c. to 50c.; superior and fine, 54c. to 63c.; finest, 65c. to 85c.; Japans, common, 55c. to 58c.; medium, 62c. to 64c.; fine and finest, 70c. to 77c.; choice, 80c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to July 27, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 17,139,265 lbs.; Japans, 7,782,390 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,408,937 lbs; Oolongs, 8,203,853 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 35,688,909 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 45,555,076 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to July 27, 3,174,116 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 23,390,325 lbs., there remains a total of 18,990,635 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from July 13 to July 27 amounted to 2,118,285 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 1,236,351 lbs.; and the exports to 181,777 lbs.

Coffee.—The market for Brazil presents the same features as when we last reported, viz., a fair demand for prime and good qualities, and an absence of inquiry for common sorts. For East India there is not much demand; the prices realised at an auction sale of Java showed a decline of over one cent per lb. gold, as compared with those previously ruling. Of the invoice per Auburn, only 200 mats were disposed of under the hammer; subsequently the remainder of the offering, say, 15,244 mats, was disposed of on terms not made public. Other offers at auction have been 1,352 mats Padang per Zeebloem, sold at 19½c. to 20c. gold, 30 and 60 days' prompt, and 200 mats per Auburn at 19 1-3 to 21 1-3 gold, 60 days' prompt. By private contract sales are reported 2,850 mats Padang per Zeebloem, 180 bags Java, and 200 mats Singapore per Abbie Clifford on private terms. The closing quotations are :—Java, 19½c. to 22c.; Singapore, 18c. to 18½c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. gold. The stock of Manila on the 1st July was estimated at 1,700 bags, against 6,769 bags on July 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 850 bags, against 1,995 bags; of Java mats, 49,362, against 66,691 bags; of Ceylon, 250 bags, against 1,884 bags; of Singapore, 5,171 bags, against nil.

Camphor.—China is quoted 18c. gold (in bond).

Essential Oils.—Aniseed is quoted $2 to 2.5; Cassia, $1 to 1.25 gold.

Fire Crackers.—There is no demand, and prices are nominal.

Gambier.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

Gunny Cloth.—The market is quiet at 31½c. to 32c. for Borneo.

Hemp.—The market for Manila is very dull, and prices continue to show a downward tendency. Shortly after our last report sales were effected of 1,140 bales medium quality at 12¾c. gold, and 1,000 bales on private terms, but at the close there is no inquiry and the nominal quotations are 11¾c. to 12c. The stock of Manila on the 1st August was estimated at 16,934 bales, against 3,600 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 26,680 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from the 1st January to the 31st July, 1870, were 88,353 bales, against 61,235 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on the 31st July was 33,045 bales, against 60,952 bales at the same date last year.

Indigo.—A limited business has been done in Manila at previous rates; the sales are 10 cases only at $1.15 to 2.30 currency.

Preserved Ginger.—China is quoted $8 to 11 currency (duty paid).

Rhubarb.—The quotation for China is $1 to 2.50 currency) duty paid.

Rice.—There is a fairly active inquiry for all kinds both Native and Foreign, and prices are without change. Of Rangoon we note sales to the extent of 4,600 bags at $7.25 to 7.50 gold, duty paid, and 2,700 bags at $3.25 to 3.50 in bond.

Sugar.—The inquiry is limited to immediate requirements, but stocks are firmly held and prices are maintained; we note the sale of 9,000 bags Manila at 8¾c.

Spices.—There is scarcely any stock in first hands—an invoice of Pepper, a little Ginger, and a small lot Nutmegs embraces all, so that the market for whole parcels is necessarily quiet. In a jobbing way there is a moderate business at firm prices. Pepper is most in request, and remains steady at 27 cents gold. We notice sales, in lots, of 400 cases Nutmegs at $1.7½ to 1.10; 20 do. Mace, $1.22½ to 1.30; 700 to 800 bags Pepper, 27 cents; 100 do. Ginger, 11¼ to 11¾; 150 do. Pimento, 18½ to 19; 200 to 300 bales Cassia, 47; 150 do. Cloves, at 25¾, all gold.

Tin.—The market for Straits, owing to unsatisfactory reports from London and Holland, is dull and prices have declined; the current quotations at the close are—Straits, on the spot, 36c. to 36½c.; afloat, 35c. to 35½c. Banca, 38c. gold.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET REPORT.

Coffee.—There is nothing doing in East India kinds.

China Matting.—Imports from January 1st to July 15th: 82 bales, 3,478 rolls. There is but a limited inquiry for any description, and prices, therefore, largely nominal.

Gunny Bags.—Imports from January 1st to July 15th: 299 bales. There is no stock here in first hands, and the limited supply remaining is for the most part controlled by a single house, now jobbing the same at 23c. to 25c. for double and single sowed.

Rice.—Imports from January 1st to July 15th: China, 9,129,491 lbs 28,096 mats. There continues to be a good healthy trade in progress, but no round purchases are reported. The general tendency of the market is upwards. We quote China at 6c. to 6¾c.; Siam, 5¾c.

Tea.—Imports from January 1st to July 15th: China, 352,475 lbs., 1,085 packages; Japan, 774,000 lbs., 7,426 packages. There continues a good steady trade requirement for Japans, with sales of several hundred cases of 5 lb. and 10 lb. caddies, at 70c. to 75c. Shipments by rail continue to go overland almost daily, in response to interior orders.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
FOUR GOLD MEDALS.
Supplied to the British, French, Prussian, Russian, Italian, Dutch, and other Governments. Dr. Lankester writes regarding Extract of Meat:—"But there is a difference in flavour, and here, as in all other kinds of food, it is the flavour that makes the quality." It is essentially on account of the fine meaty flavour, as distinguished from the burnt taste of other Extracts, that LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT defeated all Australian and other sorts at Paris, Havre, and Amsterdam, and is so universally preferred in all European markets.
One pint of fine-flavoured Beef-tea at 2½d. Most convenient and economic "stock."
CAUTION.—Require Baron Liebig's, the inventor's signature on every jar, and ask distinctly for LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT.
As stated by the War Office, "the assertion of an Australian Agent of solely supplying the British Government is proved to be nothing but an untrue statement.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS
The most effectual remedy for Bowel Complaints and Disorders of the Stomach. At this season of the year, when these complaints are so prevalent, there is no better remedy than Holloway's Pills, whether as a preventive or cure. When taken in moderate doses, and strict attention be paid to diet, the worst cases will be relieved. The strengthening properties of these Pills restore the impaired tone of the stomach, and cleanse the liver. Nothing so good has been discovered for the cure of persons suffering from a long residence in hot climates, and they surpass every other medicine for general family use. They have the happiest effect on the stomach and secretions, promoting digestion, and gently stimulating the torpid bowels.

YOKOHAMA.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

July 4, 1870.

Business is rather dull, rice very low, and all engaged in it are losing. The harbour-master is in office, and drafting some regulations for the approval of all the Consuls. He will be a useful man if he takes under his charge the boats, and goes in for a lighter company, which I think he will. Ships are longer than ever discharging at our port. The present hatoba (called French) is to be broken up, and the harbour-master's house built there, a new hatoba to be made off the creek, the creek to be deepened and extended on to Mississippi Bay. All houses on hill are occupied, and demand for others.

Railway works are progressing. It is stated there is every probability of the troops leaving this year, and being replaced by Marines. The Naval Hospital will probably be built on the site of the present camp, and the piece of ground formerly set apart for it given up to the native authorities.

I heard of a good case to-day. A merchant (foreign) some time since received some Daimios niboos in payment of a debt, which he declined to accept as payment until he had ascertained the value; on doing so he found that they were far above the value of Government ones. The season to present time is a most prosperous one, and all crops promise to be very large.

Mr. Adams, our Secretary of Legation, is expected from the silk districts about the 15th, and then we may look for another report. Four princes, with a few retainers, came up in the last American steamer from the Inland Sea. This is a great assistance for them in visiting the capital, and a good way of bringing them into each other's society, and also into that of foreigners. Every chance of fortnightly mails from San Francisco, and then more through Inland Sea.

The Japan Mail of July 2 contains an exhaustive notice of the article in the London and China Express relating to the Japan loan and Mr. Lay, which is discussed without personality, and in a very able manner. This loan has been the chief topic of the day.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

TIENTSIN, June 25.

It is my painful task to send particulars of a barbarous massacre of the French by the Chinese, which took place on the afternoon of the 21st, and resulted in the deaths of the French Consul, Fontanier; his Chancellor, M. Simon, M. and Madame Thomassin, (who had newly arrived, and were on their way to the French Legation), Father Chenier, M. and Madame Chalmaisin, and nine Sisters of Mercy, with three Russians—in all nineteen souls.

This outrage was entirely unexpected. It is, however, to be feared that the massacre took place with the consent, if not by the advice, of some of the mandarins. Placards have been exhibited with ambiguous phrases, believed to mean harm to foreigners; and a proclamation to the Chifoo, or head magistrate, tended much rather to raise than to abate the threatened storm. Three days before, again on the day before, and again on the very day on which the rising took place, the British Consul called the attention of H. E. Ching How to this proclamation, urging him to put forth another which should calm and paify the people. But no other proclamation was issued; nor was any reply sent to the Consul's despatches. The first intimation we had of the bursting of the storm was the sight of dense volumes of smoke in the city, upwards of two miles from the Foreign Settlement, and caused by the burning of the French Cathedral and Consulate, and hospital and schools of the Sisters of Mercy, the latter being nearly half a mile nearer the Settlement than the Cathedral and Consulate, which stood close together at the upper end of the reach, on the Pesta, where it is joined by the Grand Canal.

The reasons given by the Chinese for this outbreak is, that the Sisters were believed to be buying or otherwise getting possession of children, whose eyes and hearts, &c., they took out for the purpose of making medicine. The Chifoo's proclamation is said to have been worded in such a manner as to lead others to think he believed this report, and strongly condemned the practice, saying he had caught and beheaded two men, whom he had found guilty of kidnapping children (believed to be for the Sisters). On the fire breaking out, the workmen on the settlement—upwards of two miles distant from the scene—on being asked the cause of the fire, at once replied it was against the Frenchmen, but had nothing to do with the English. A few minutes after the fire broke out hardly a Chinaman was to be found on the settlement. Hardly had the fire broken out, when we received news that three foreigners had been killed, and during the afternoon the number had swelled to nineteen foreigners, who were believed to be killed. That this massacre was intended, and was known far and wide to the Chinese, I believe can be fully proved. A native preacher of one of the Protestant missions here, two days' journey from this, was stopped and told proclamations were out against the Catholics on account of their evil doings; but the people were advised, on account of their being unable to discriminate between Catholics and Protestants, to bring them all to the Yamun. And in the city of Tientsin, the Protestant missionaries, for a fortnight past, have been unable to get workmen to put a building they intended for an hospital in order. For some days also before the outbreak foreigners going to the city were hooted by the Chinese, who were also heard to say, when a foreigner was passing, they would soon kill the foreigners. After the outbreak on the Consulate, the Consul sent his chancelier, M. Simon, to Ching How to request a stop being put to it; finding he did not return, he walked there himself in uniform. He was, no doubt, very excited, and, according to Ching How's account, which he gave at a meeting of the Consuls on the following day, he said the Consul fired his revolver twice at him. Ching desired him to lay down his pistol, and he would go with him to the Consulate. He did not lay down his pistol, but still Ching How went with him, he said, either arm-in-arm or close together; but had not gone far when they met the Chishien, and, according to Ching How, the Consul said to him, "You are another of the fellows who are the cause of all this trouble," and fired at him. The mob, on seeing him fire on the magistrate, at once fell upon and killed him on the spot; and, in answer to an inquiry, Ching How said he had possession of the Consul's body. M. Coutol, a French subject, living close to the Consulate, went to the Yamun for protection, walking there with his gun in his hand. The magistrate advised him to go away, but he threw himself in the magistrate's arms and said he would not leave. While he was in Ching How's own Yamun he was kicked and knocked about by Ching How's retainers, who wore their officer's caps at the time. The magistrate gave M. Coutol protection for the night, and next day he came down to the settlement with Ching How. On the 22nd the bodies of five persons in coffins, and three empty coffins, were sent down to the British Consulate, and a receipt demanded for six bodies. No receipt was given at that time. On the following morning Ching How sent down a special messenger for this receipt, speaking of the Consul's as being one of the bodies sent down. Unfortunately for his claim the Consul's body was found floating down the river on the evening of the 22nd, when it was taken to the Consulate, and at once recognised by several persons who knew him, except one, who, unfortunately, inhabits at the same time the Consulates of Minitsin and Tientsin, while he is, at once, a paid servant of the Chinese, and a British subject. It would be well if he were divested of such anomalous and conflicting situations. The five bodies were at once recognised by the Chinese, as well as by foreigners who had known them. By evening the bodies of M. Simon, Chancellor of the Consulate, but so hacked about as to be hardly distinguishable, and of Madame Thomassin, were discovered. Her features were as if she was asleep—her head from behind was almost cut off; she had on her clothes. Father Cheverier was much cut, with bowels protruding, and a Chinese priest was so cut and disfigured as to be hardly recognisable. The mandarins sent with the bodies were determined to pass one of these down as being the body of their Consul, and it was greatly to their surprise and disappointment when they were told that not only was the body taken out of the water recognised as being that of the Consul, but his initials H. F. were on his socks. What can be said or thought of Ching How, who said he had the Consul's body in keeping, while a few hours afterwards it was found floating down the river? The body, face, and head of the Consul was very much cut and he was completely stripped. It will be recollected that when killed alongside of Ching How, the highest in authority here, he had on his consular uniform, at least his cocked-hat and sword. Of the three Russians who were killed on their way from the city to the settlement, and close to the settlement on the other side of the river, two were found in the water stripped early on the morning of the 23rd; they were husband and wife of only a few days' standing, their wedding having taken place here amid great rejoicings only a few days previous. Both bodies were much cut, the young wife's arm was almost severed, and her fingers, on which she wore rings, were cut off. They were buried in one grave the same day. The body of the other Russian was found in the river a few hours afterwards, and buried the following day. The bodies of the French Consul and the other five were buried in the British cemetery. It had been intended to keep them until the arrival of the French authorities from Peking; but that became impossible, and they were privately buried, side by side, without any religious ceremony whatever. They may possibly be exhumed, some months hence, and buried in the French cemetery, close to the consulate. The bodies of the nine Sisters of Mercy have not been received. The Chinese report that, when the unfortunate victims were taken, they were stripped and stabbed; their hearts and eyes were taken out, and their bodies thrown into a fire, which left no remains save two heaps of charred ashes. The bodies of M. and Madame Chalmaisin have not yet been found. The lady escaped at first, and was hidden by some natives, but, on going out in the evening, or night, in Chinese clothes, to look for her husband, she heard the noise of soldiers, and returned so hastily that she mistook the door. She knocked at another hut, which was filled with soldiers, who at once killed her. We have not, at present, received exact accounts of how all the victims met their deaths—there are conflicting stories. H.E. Ching How said at the meeting of the Consuls that the French Consul was killed by his side, immediately after leaving the Yamun. Another mandarin tells a foreign resident that such was not the case, that he and another—likely not knowing Ching How's version of it—and not Ching, accompanied the Consul and M. Simon, and that both were killed close to the Cathedral. Let this be as it may, the fact remains the same, that these nineteen men and women lost their lives through the treachery and cruelty of the Chinese, several of whom, at least, were of rank and standing, and might—had they so chosen—have allayed the tumult, and altogether prevented the sad affair. The Chinese authorities are now awaking to a sense of the crime they have committed, and both in Peking and here are offering money as satisfaction for the blood of the slain. It is said they are most anxious to effect a settlement with Count Rochechouart, and beg him to propose terms of settlement. On the 24th was found in the river the body of a Chinese woman, shown, by the ornaments round her neck, to be a Catholic, and believed to have been a teacher in the Sisters' school. She was also much cut and disfigured; she was buried alongside the other six. On the morning of the 26th six coffins were sent down from the city; the contents on examination were found to be the bodies of M. and Madame Chalmaisin; Madame Chalmaisin had been cut down by a sword right across the face, cutting nose and eye. An arm was also cut; she had on a chemise, and on one leg was her boot and stocking. M. Chalmaisin had the upper part of of his skull cut off, and his eyes cut out, besides other cuts. Two of the other bodies were half burned, and two appeared to have been in the water, and partially eaten by dogs. The remaining two were burned to a cinder, the skull and a few bones being all that remained of one of them. Whether they were the remains of the Sisters or whether of Chinese it is impossible to tell. The mandarin in charge said they were the bodies of Sisters, and that they lay close to the gate—first one, then two, and then one. There were Chinese there also, they said, but their instructions were to leave them alone, and only send down the bodies of the Sisters. The six coffins were placed side by side with the other seven, making thirteen in all; five still remain to be accounted for, and no doubt their bodies will be quite impossible of recognition. Numerous children with their teachers also perished in the flames. There was one school of nearly 100 little girls; some thirty of them ran for refuge below the chapel and hospital, both of which were vaulted. They were all suffocated, and their bodies were found after the fire had ceased. A great proof that the Chinese knew what was intended against the Sisters is the fact that for some ten days before the parents of children at the schools were coming daily and nightly to take them away—and of the whole number, believed to be about 450, only 200 remained at the time of the fire, about 180 of whom are said to have been taken away by the authorities. That the Sisters, with the best intention in the world, gave cause of complaint against them, there is little doubt. Children have been kidnapped by bad people, and the Sisters have purchased children, but we do not for an instant suppose that the Sisters employed people to kidnap children any more than we would believe of their taking out the hearts and eyes of such children. The Sisters have been devoted to the Chinese,—feeding and clothing them, and nursing them in sickness, training the rising generation in good and clean habits, and teaching them all they were capable of receiving—and this is the reward they have met with for all their kindness.

What may be the result of this we cannot tell, but firmly believe it will all be overruled for good, for the ultimate good of China and the Chinese. While deeply regretting the deaths of so many good and innocent people, we cannot help thinking that their deaths will bring forth more fruits than they were permitted to see from their labours in their lifetimes. The French Government cannot permit this to pass unpunished; if they do they had better leave China at once and for ever, and all other foreigners with them. We must hope that the French Government will remember mercy in their punishment of the Chinese. They have now a noble opportunity of doing good and counteracting the effects of the late Convention. Besides eight Catholic Churches and Chapels destroyed, eight Protestant Chapels have been completely looted. While many Catholic converts have been killed, the Protestant converts have been allowed to escape with beatings, and the loss of their goods. The mob at the fire, it is said, was perfectly organised; the fire-brigade, who were the ringleaders, calling away their men when the work was done by sound of bell, heard by several foreigners. There are many thousand desperadoes about the place who live by plunder; they are now raising a cry against Ching How, as being a foreigner, do not give him his title, and threaten to burn his yamun. These stories may be all inventions of the enemy, trying to get foreigners to believe in Ching How's good-will towards us. Let him be judged by deeds not words. He is the most powerful man here, and had the means, if he had had the will, of putting a stop to the bad feeling against us, but he did not choose to exercise that power. He has generally been believed, during the ten years he has been here, to have been favourably inclined towards foreigners, but those who have had intimate dealings with him do not trust him. His principal fault is, perhaps, weak-mindedness, allowing himself to be made the tool of others, and afraid to express an opinion of his own, if in favour of foreigners. Some two years since he might have had mines opened here, but for his duplicity. He gave the Commissioner of Customs and British Consul to believe he was in favour of the reduction of the duty on coal, and of being able to lay it down cheaply. The Tsing-a-Yamen had twice promised to make a road to the mines. But before doing so they asked Ching How's opinion. As superintendent of trade his opinion to the Tsing-a-Yamen was, "That if coals were allowed to be exported, there would be none left for Tientsin." Such is the character—or a phase of it—of the man in chief authority here at present. Since the murders he has issued a proclamation much to the following effect—Now that your quarrel with the French is ended, if you touch any other foreigners you will be severely punished.

I compelled myself to look on the contents of the last six coffins sent down from the city. I hope I shall never see such another sight. A gentleman who has seen the whole of the bodies has given this account of the state they were in when received from the Chinese authorities.

Mrs. H. Fontanier, head and face cloven to pieces with sword cuts, one open wound through the chest.

M. Simon, head and face covered with sword cuts, a few open wounds in the body.

M. Thomassin, head and face covered with sword cuts, a few open wounds on the body.

Madame Thomasson, a sword cut through the back of the neck.

M. de Chalmaisin, left side of the face cut away, eyes scooped out, numerous wounds on the body and extremities.

Madame de Chalmaisin, a deep sword cut across the face, just beneath the eyes, left arm and side hacked with sword cuts.

Father Chevrier, skull cloven in several places; chest and abdomen laid open; bowels protruding. The coffins supposed to contain four of the Sisters were filled with charred pieces of flesh and bone.

Mr. Protopopoff, a Russian, sword-cut five inches long through the chest, and one on the left hip.

Mrs. Protopopoff, a Russian, body literally covered with sword-cuts and open wounds.

Mr. Basoff, Russian, head covered with severe cuts; chest pierced with numerous spear wounds.

Most of the bodies were in an advanced state of decomposition, having been probably a good deal exposed to the sun, on the banks of the river. They were also all more or less naked, excepting M. Thomassin and wife. It is reported that 180 children were brought to the Yamun the day of the massacre. Thirty children were found smothered in vaults—supposed to be those either of the Church or European hospital. I consider that between fifty and sixty people must have perished in the sisters' place alone. Some of the first of the couriers, with despatches from the Consul to Peking, after the murders, were stopped at the city. One, the North German Consul's courier, was pursued for some time, taken to a magistrate's yamun in the city, and bambooed. Fortunately another had been sent with him; he escaped and reported to the Consul. Ching How was written to, the courier released, despatch returned, and afterwards $4, which had been taken from him. It is not likely that the Foreign Governments will much longer permit conduct like this, when their despatches might have been sent in a few seconds by telegraph, and instead of travelling two days by springless carts, four horses might take one in comfort between the two cities, a distance of some eighty miles.

There was a meeting of the residents here yesterday, and I believe they came unanimously to the conclusion that it was still not safe to be without the protection of the vessels in port. So the s.s. Manchu, with the ladies and children on board, is to remain here for the present, with the four sailing vessels in port. The Manchu was providentially here at the time of the outbreak, and by the kindness of her agent and commander she was at once placed at the disposal of all who might wish to go on board. The residents at once formed themselves into a guard for the protection of the settlement, and a strong night-guard has been kept up ever since. Ching How himself does not yet consider it safe for foreigners to go into the city though this is the 8th day after the attack. Mr. W. H. Lay, H.M. acting consul, has been appointed Acting French Consul, but as he himself allows, even if put into practice now, it would hardly bear fruit for this generation of foreigners. This is hardly the sort of scheme we want for this practical age, but to do him justice we would like to see railways, if they could be had in accordance with the terms of the treaty. I greatly fear that if Mr. Wade could influence the settlement of these brutal murders and burnings, he would accept a money compensation. It is to be hoped more far-seeing people will have the management of it and that something else besides money will be required.

The correspondent of the China Mail gives the following additional particulars. The Manchu is to remain here until another steamer of the same company arrives. The Appin also arrived here on the 26th, so that if an attack on the settlement takes place the two steamers could protect all foreigners.

This morning early, three foreigners, Mr. Cox, British, and Messrs. Cordes and Spelling, North German subjects, came down to the settlement from the city. This morning also a Chinaman was found in the steeple or tower of the Protestant church built on the Mission ground, close to the settlement, with balls of combustible materials for the apparent purpose of firing the church. During the day a Chinaman in the settlement was found with a revolver up his sleeve, who, finding he was being caught, succeeded in throwing the weapon into the river. Both these Chinese have been handed over to the native authorities.

To show that the attack was premeditated and threatened I may mention that my workmen, two miles or more from the scene of action, said to me, on seeing the fire, that Englishmen had nothing to fear, for the attack was only on the French. Whether the Chinese apprehended immediate retribution or not I cannot say, but hardly a man was to be seen in the settlement after the first fire took place; on the following day labour was partially resumed.

His Excellency Ching How met the Consuls at the house of the Commissioner of Customs. He seemed bewildered, and intimated that the day's work had made him a poor man, and that he would not be responsible for the lives of foreigners; at the same time he offered to send down a guard of six hundred soldiers. But the British Consul strongly objected to any such step, while another gentleman, a Consul for more than one Treaty Power, and at the same time occupying the anomalous position of paid servant of his said Excellency, was for leaving everything, as in duty bound, to his Excellency.

One of Tseng-kwo-fan's lieutenants is now here with an escort of 80 or 100 troops, with no ostensible object. It is somewhat curious that when Tseng-kwo-fan himself was down here last year one of the reasons given for his visit was his intention to seize the French Consulate, it being Imperial property, and it is also noteworthy that when some of us in 1861 endeavoured to purchase this property we were told it could not be sold as it belonged to the Emperor.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are down to the 7th July. The mail of 20th May arrived out on the 4th July. The excitement in regard to the Tientsin massacre continued. The North China Herald says:—Our anxiety was relieved by the arrival of the steamer Appin, with the detailed accounts of the proceedings, which will be found elsewhere. The news brought by the Dragon was confirmed and extended; but our minds were set at rest as to the majority of the foreign community, who had been unmolested. The attack had been directed solely against the French portion of the community, of whom about twenty-two had met a horrible death.

There are at present 200 volunteer names on the muster-roll, divided into three companies, of which Messrs. Maclean, Cann, and Kidner were elected captains, and Messrs. Forbes, Pearson and Annett lieutenants. There is also a Ranger corps, about fifty strong, of which Mr. Dunn was elected captain, and Mr. Bidwell lieutenant. The fire brigade serves as a distinct brigade of the corps, and will, we believe, turn out nearly 400 strong, in case of need; 500 Snider rifles have been ordered from Japan; in the meantime a number of short Enfields have been lent. It was agreed to drill every day, in order to get over the first clumsiness; and the senior naval officer in port has kindly placed drill-sergeants at the disposal of the officers.

At a meeting held on the French concession, seventy volunteers were enrolled; and it was agreed to form, out of this number, one company of infantry and one of artillery. M. Bacconnier was elected commandant, M. Ulbrich, captain; M. Labarde, lieutenant; M. Maton, sub-lieutenant, and M. Collin lieutenant of Artillery. Dr. Galle was appointed surgeon, and a committee was named, to decide on the uniform. A torch-light parade of the Fire Brigade was held, when some 150 foreigners turned out, and made a very effective procession. The question was asked whether the Brigade would be willing to serve as a volunteer corps, and there was a unanimous shout of assent.

We have to congratulate ourselves on one effect of the opening of the Suez Canal, in the reduction it has brought about in the rates of passage money by the mail steamers. The agent of the M. I. Company announces this morning that the cost of first, second, and third class passages will be, in future, Tls. 386, Tls. 290, and Tls. 174 respectively. The rates by the P. and O. Company's steamers are also reduced to Tls. 386 first, and Tls. 214 second class.

Intelligence has reached us of trouble at Tungchow, near Chefoo. Prayers and processions had been ordered during a late drought, to procure rain; and at the same time, and for the same object, prohibitions were issued by the magistrates against the killing of animals. The butcher at the American Mission at that city was seized and imprisoned for disobeying this decree; and his employer, Mr. Mattier, took such active measures at the yamun to secure his release that he himself was imprisoned.

Among the Sisters of Mercy murdered at Tientsin was one well known in Shanghai by the name of Sister Louise, and we believe a British subject.

The Taoutai has visited the French and English Consuls proposing to order down the disciplined Chinese troops from Fen-wen-shan for the defence of the foreign settlements. His offer was in both instances, we believe, declined, with a quiet intimation that we were prepared to defend ourselves.

We notice the arrival, from Nagasaki, of H. M.'s str. Zebra, having left on the 2nd inst. Capt. Hon. A. D. S. Denison is in command. Also H. I. M. gun-boat Lenosis, from Saigon, 25th June.

SHANGHAI, July 4, 1870.

Full particulars have at last arrived of the chapter of horrors enacted at Tientsin. As usual, the Chinese try to overlay and mystify the matter by a tissue of falsehood. As far as can be gathered from the various accounts, rumours of an outbreak were current for some days, and it appears that the French Consul went to Ching How, the principal mandarin at Tientsin, requesting him to adopt precautionary measures, and giving him notice that he would be held responsible for anything that should happen. When the row commenced the French Consul went to the Yamun to demand protection, and Ching How asserts (falsely no doubt) that the Consul fired at him, and then returned towards the Consulate and was set upon by the mob and killed. In the edict from the Emperor, a copy of which I have seen, it is asserted that the cause of the outbreak was the French Consul firing at Ching How, and the reports of the kidnapping. The former is a scandalous falsehood. The mandarins memorialised the Throne that they might be punished as they deserved, for having managed the office so badly (this is Chinese etiquette), and Tsing-quo-Fan, the Governor of the Province, is ordered to make an investigation. Good may arise out of evil in this case if the Foreign Governments avail themselves of this opportunity to really open China, and give railways, telegraphs, coal-mining, and internal steam navigation to the people, who are only too ready to adopt them, if untrammelled by their Government. As we have the power, it seems childish not to take those privileges, and do away with any distinction between natives and foreigners. The absence of a gunboat at Tientsin no doubt led to the massacre being perpetrated, the worst that has been known since the commencement of foreign intercourse.

The day after the massacre this Ching How had the effrontery to come to a meeting of Consuls in the English settlement and say he would guarantee all their lives, having allowed twenty persons, including eleven or twelve women, to be murdered close to his own yamun. When the Opossum gunboat arrived he went to the English Consul to beg that he would not let the gunboat fire upon the city. The people are said to be flying from the city in thousands to avoid the vengeance which they fully expect will be taken. It would be culpable weakness not to demand and take a heavy retribution. Both the Peking and local mandarins offer any sum of money demanded to settle the affair, but woe to those who accept money in extenuation of this outrage. A few days later Ching How hits upon an easy way of getting out of the dilemma, viz., that Mr. Lay, the English Consul, should get himself appointed acting French Consul, and that then they both could settle the affair amicably. This shows what children even the highest mandarins are when any international question requires solution. As the French Government entertain different ideas from Lord Clarendon, it is to be hoped that the rowdies of Tientsin may be punished as they deserve.

A volunteer corps has been formed here for defence, and is expected to number 500 or 600 men. The indignities and cruelties practised upon unoffending women ought to be signally avenged. A British fleet at Chefoo is a necessity, and if not kept there, the next massacre will be the foreign Ministers and their attachés at Peking. Much anxiety was felt for their lives until news reached us from Tientsin. The residents at Peking are wholly at the mercy of the Chinese, the most base, treacherous, and cruel people on the face of the earth.

I believe that the English settlement at Tientsin owed its safety to its being defensible, having an open space round about, and steamers at hand.

One of the sisters murdered was a British subject and of Irish parentage, a cousin of Captain O'Sullivan, well known in China.

The Shanghai Evening Courier gives the truest account of the affair. Much indignation is felt at the account published in the Daily News, which was written with a strong bias in favour of the Chinese, and extenuating the murders.

There is doubtless much to blame in the system of taking very young children to bring up, as they nearly all die; but this does not justify those poor sisters being murdered and mutilated. When the Chinese act as savages they should be treated as savages. It will take some time before an adequate force can be collected, but foreign Governments have now a glorious opportunity of opening China in earnest.

HONG KONG.

The mail of June 3 arrived out on July 12; dates are down to the 14th. The papers are full of the Tientsin affair.

The Daily Press says:—We are glad to be able to report that Mr. Moss has returned safely, having successfully accomplished his journey up to West River. He has penetrated as far as Nanning-foo, the limit of trade in this direction in Kwangsi. Mr. Moss had hoped that it might be possible to enter Yunnan, but he found the intervening country so disturbed as to render this course impossible. He has succeeded in acquiring much valuable information, and he hopes shortly to start for Pak Hoi, a port on the south coast of the Kwangtung Province, on the Gulf of Tongquin, whence he has ascertained all foreign goods in the country beyond Woochaou-foo are brought by various routes. He was desirous to make his way to Pak Hoi, but his health having become impaired by the severe exertions which were entailed upon him, combined with the refusal of the mandarins to give him any assistance, and the impossibility of obtaining the means of transport, induced him to return to Hong Kong.

A general feeling of regret is caused (says the China Mail) by the fact that the Rev. Canon Beach is leaving the colony, and the feeling is deepened inasmuch as his departure is occasioned by ill health. He carries with him the high esteem and respect of the whole community, whose regard was actively expressed this afternoon. At a later date the rev. gentleman would have been entitled to a passage home at the cost of the Colonial Government, but the sudden breaking down of health necessitated his sacrifice of the claim. Under these circumstances it was determined that the obligation of the State should be wholly adopted by Canon Beach's friends, by whose voluntary offerings the necessary provision for his passage home, by the French mail, was secured.

The Gazette notifies the appointment of Thos. Fitzroy Rice, Esq., Assistant Superintendent of Police, to be Acting Captain Superintendent of Police, during the absence on leave of W. M Deane, Esq.

The following account of the average amount of bank-notes i ' circulation in Hong Kong during the month ending 30th Junen 1870, is published in Saturday's Gazette:—

Oriental Bank Corporation	$472,196
Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China	608,320
Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China	334,475
Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation	1,309,128

Advices from Shanghai state that at Chefoo the mob rose and threatened the foreigners, and were happily quelled. The affair was so serious at first that the Manchu was detained at the above port for two days. The Taoutai sent out one hundred soldiers to put down the disturbance; but had the mob felt disposed to attack them, this miserable force would have proved totally useless.

It is current at Yedo, that H. E. Von Brandt, the Prussian Minister, has been asked by the Japanese Government to act as intermediate between Japan and Corea, and that the Prussian Minister has accepted the mission and proceeded to Nagasaki; there he will embark on board of the Prussian man-of-war some Corean merchants, and then proceed to the Corea and see if he can settle amicably the difficulty between Japan and Corea. The Japanese are to waive all claim against the Coreans, and to withdraw their pretensions entirely. After visiting the Corea, the Minister is to return via Ne-e-gata and Hakodadi back to Yokohama.

From Foochow dates received up to the 8th. On the 4th the crew of the ship Windhover were reported to be in a state of mutiny, and H.B.M. Acting Vice-Consul was called upon (in a vague sort of way) to take an armed force on board to quell the disturbance. Thanks to the common sense of the said Acting Vice-Consul, that officer did not take an armed force on board, but went to the vessel himself, mustered the crew, sent the ringleader of the mutiny to prison, and harangued the men upon the folly of mutiny. The men went to their work quietly. A naval court has been called by Commander Davidson, R.N., of H.M.S. Hornet, to investigate the question of the ship's discipline. It appears that there are numerous complaints by the crew against the second officer of the ship. The court was to meet on the 11th nstant.

at Foo Chow Arsenal several days before the foreign vessel conveying the news arrived. Mr. Sparrow Knight, who is possessed of some notoriety in connection with Chinese affairs, was liberated from prison the other day, where he had been luxuriating for the space of fifteen days; he had committed an assault on a Chinese. The opium smugglers arrested by Captain Ashton of the Yesso, are still in durance vile, undergoing the treatment of the gentle bamboo in the hope of discovering the consignees of their contraband freight.

July 19, 1870.

The news of the outrage on the French at Tientsin caused considerable excitement here, and the Admiral at once despatched three gunboats. We have still a good sized transport left in port, which will probably be sent with troops, if necessary.

On the 30th ult. the Siamese gunboat Regent arrived from Bangkok with ministers to settle some question with the French regarding Cambodia, which having been done, she left again yesterday. The Regent (formerly the Lotus) deserves a few words, as she is a proof of the progress of the Siamese. She is quite new, having only been built last year, by Samuda, with engines by Penn. She is beautifully fitted with all the latest improvements, has six guns (four brass and two Armstrongs), with which she fired salutes in good style. She is manned by Siamese, having only four Europeans (Britishers) on board, and she does great credit to Mr. Mason, the Siamese Consul General in London, who designed and sent her out to the Government.

The China and Straits Steam Company (Limited) have just started their pioneer vessel, which will run via this port. So what with the other Company (the China Sea, Saigon, and Straits) and the Messageries, we have now plenty of mails; in fact, more than is good for business.

Rice has been kept up by the fluctuating advices from Japan, and there is now an end to all chance of business with Europe this season.

The Suez Canal is taking effect even here, and the Chinese are coming to look upon steam as the only proper means of transporting merchandise of value. Sailing vessels are now taking rice to Hong Kong at twenty cents per picul. Prospects for shipowners are indeed bad, but still I hear more vessels are building in England. Like the P. and O. Company, your shipowners are not keeping up the mercantile reputation of the British, by prolonging doubts about the Suez Canal. Its success is now an established fact, and the sooner John Bull properly admits it the better for him.

We learn from the Courier de Saigon of July 20 that the news of the massacre at Tientsin had been received at Saigon, and had created a profound sensation in the European community. Immediately on receiving the news the Government despatched the gunboats Le Frelon (Captain Vivielle) and La Couleuvre (Captain Richier) with the mailboat Le Kien-chan (Captain Reilhac) to Hong Kong. The two former left on the 12th, and the latter on the 14th July.

We have received a copy of the regulations, and a list of the prizes of the French Exhibition to be held at Saigon next year, and also a supplement of the Saigon Courier containing the new notarial regulations.

From the Weekly Advertiser of July 7 we find that the Americans assembled at the house of the Rev. D. B. Bradly, M.D., and in a very rational and enjoyable series of entertainments celebrated the 4th July. The instrumental and vocal music and the impromptu speeches were very creditable to their taste, their talents, and their high toned morality and piety.

There is a rumour going the rounds that a prominent French merchant of Bangkok was tried at the French Consular Court, upon the charge of contempt of court, prefered against him by the U. S. Consul, that the decision given was a fine of 100 francs, and six days' imprisonment; the latter part of the sentence could be commuted by payment of some legal sum.

The Siamese Government has despatched commissioners to Saigon, who, in conjunction with the French officials there, will settle definitively their mutual rights to the fisheries and navigation of the great fresh water lake, called by the Siamese T'alc Sap. The names of the commissioners are Phrayu Rajwara-na-kul and Phra Rajsena. Mons. Pilfert and Nai Phon go as secretaries and interpreters.

Mr. H. G. Kennedy, who, as we announced some time ago, had left the Consular service and been called to the bar by the Hon. Society of Lincoln's Inn, is much regretted by those who knew him intimately in Bangkok, and who speak in terms of high praise of the legal ability he displayed, and of the great advantage it would have been to him in his future promotions in the Consular service. His present position will doubtless give a much wider field for the development of his talents as a lawyer and place within his grasp more eminent positions than could possibly be acquired in the routine of Consular service and promotions.

SINGAPORE.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

SINGAPORE, July 23.

His Excellency the Governor has just returned in the colonial steamer Pehio from a trip up the east coast. He was accompanied by his Highness the Maharajah of Johore in the Rainbow. The party first of all visited Calantan, the Rajah of which place received them with great eclat, and entertained them at a feast, at which the Governor and the Maharajah took the head of the table, while the Rajah, their host, squatted apart. Sir H. Ord was presented with a handsome gold pinding, or belly plate, and a gold chain, two diamond rings, and two gold tombaks—the batons which are carried before great personages. The next day they left for Tringanu, the Sultan of which country excused himself from doing honour to his Excellency under the plea of sickness. He, however, granted an audience to Sir Harry, but paid no attention whatever to the Maharajah, who not being of Royal blood was not entitled to the favour of his Majesty. Next they visited Pahang, but the Bandaharah, not relishing the recollection of the last visit of his neighbours, sent to say that he had gone out hunting, but offered a "cumshaw" of eight piculs of tin to the Governor of the Straits. Sir Harry, indignant at his reception, declined the proffered gift, and returned in wrath to Singapore. The Maharajah stayed a day behind to take a look at the much-coveted land of "Indau," and report says that since his return he has begun to assemble an army to take forcible possession. It is not yet known whether the Governor will lend the colonial fleet to assist in this filibustering attack on the territory of a peaceful neighbour, whose chief fault is refusing to give up the property of his ancestors at the dictum of a British Governor who wishes to confer the spoil on his favourite chief. So, after all, the trip up the coast was not productive of good to anybody, and less than ever did it tend to the honour, glory, or beneficial influence of Great Britain.

Scandal of scandals! One of our bankers has sealed up the opium and spirit farms, and, what is worse, if report speaks anything like the truth, the spirit farm is three months in arrear, $27,000; the opium farm, June, and twenty-three days of July, or $30,000 and $23,000. By what right was credit given them? It is dead against the terms of the contract. This is one way of getting rid of a surplus, which need hardly be recommended to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. There will be some funny measures put before Council probably.

KIUKIANG AND ITS VICINITY.

We have been favoured by an esteemed correspondent with the following account of an excursion into a district as yet comparatively little known.

We started from Hankow, on the Yangstze, on one of the river steamboats, at four in the morning. The country was flat and uninteresting for many a league, but, about noon, we saw some really fine hills, with a waterfall or mountain-stream leaping from rock to rock down a picturesque gorge. To this succeeded mound-like heights, laid out in terraces and bristling with corn. An illustration of the thrifty husbandry of the Chinese was here afforded by the natives scattering wood-ashes in the spaces between the rows of corn, and planting there the seeds of the cotton-plant. By the time the corn is cut, the cotton seeds will have germinated. Two crops a year are thus secured, but the process is too exhaustive of the soil for English ideas. About 240 miles from Hankow we passed a magnificent mass of granite rock, precipitous towards the river, but descending on the other side in a series of plateaux until it was lost in the plain. After eleven hours' steaming we arrived at Kiukiang. The foreign hongs are not half so numerous as at Hankow, and the native city bears no comparison in point of population, being under 120,000. The suburbs are all in ruins, but the sites of pagodas, temples, and large buildings are still pointed out. Such is the condition of every city in this province, and generally throughout China: Hankow, which rises ever and anon from its ashes, is quite an exception. The rest of the country has suffered severely from the insurrectionary spirit which the Government is too idle or too powerless to check. A handsome stone church, capable of seating 100 or 150 persons, and furnished with pulpit, lectern, harmonium, and stained-glass windows, stands in one of the principal cross-roads of the foreign concession. There is a thoroughly English home-look about the building, and it is disappointing to know that it has not been used for public worship for a long time. The Kiukiang shops are celebrated for their crockery, and Cantonese shops, with foreign goods, abound, their door-ways being infested with beggars, whose habits are too revolting to be believed except by eye-witnesses. There are many country walks about Kiukiang, through lanes radiating in every direction and abounding in woodbine, wild-rose, and a hundred varieties of wild flowers. "The Mandarin's Grave," five miles from the city, is well worth a visit. As we ascend the hills we get a partial view of the Poyang Lake, which may be said to receive the running waters of the whole province. The approach to the grave is very striking. We pass under a three-arched pailow, or memorial arch, and ascend by a flight of steps to the tombs. Some fine plane and ash trees form an avenue and enclosure, and there is a noble laurel, fifteen or twenty feet in girth, and of great height, whose glossy green leaves possess at this season a strong camphoraceous odour and taste. Behind the tombs of the mandarins are several tablets in commemoration of the celebrated philosopher Tsow Taye, whose system is partially illustrated in the sculpture on the slabs. First there is a homogeneous ball, emblematic of primæval chaos; this is next represented as separating into the Tin and the Tang, or the male and female principles of nature, by the union of which the five "elements"—earth, fire, wood, water, and metal—are believed to be generated, according to the generally received Chinese cosmogony.

The European community have a pleasant summer retreat in a bungalow erected near the Leen How Tung, or Lilly Grotto, in the hills about nine miles from the city. Many of the low cliffs and banks along the road, which are of a dull red colour, and full of gas-holes, appear to be volcanic.

The rice, when it has sprouted, grass-like, to the length of four or five inches, in the original beds, is transplanted to the permanent locks, where it grows rapidly in from three to four inches of water. This is the time for transplanting. It is ripe for the sickle in the month of August, or within two months from the date of transplantation. In the lanes and roadside hedges we observed the privet, the holly, the arbutus, the mountain ash, and the aspen. From a handsome bridge, of stone, in the interstices of which grow the bitter sweet, white phlox, wild strawberry, and yellow stone-cross, we obtain a view of an expansive vale, bounded, towards the city, by a broad sheet of fresh water, studded with mountains, and covered with fine standing crops of wheat and barley. The villages, embedded in trees, and a mountain stream, diverging into many channels, gave a charm to the landscape, which did not seem so very foreign-looking after all; indeed, it vividly recalled to my memory the vale of Grasmere, while the very counterparts of Knabscar and Helmcrag hung overhead. The women, too, appeared more gentle and feminine than their sisters in Hankow, and the style in which they dress their hair is strikingly different, it being brushed straight back, and gathered into a high peak behind.

Wild flowers—Meadow Rue, Garlic, Clematis, Guelder Rose, Cotton Weed, Yellow Fumitory, Hemp Nettle, Saxifrage, and Patentilla—flourish here, together with an immense variety of ferns, amongst which we identified the Northern Fern, Polypody and Common Bracken, Bladder Fern, Harts-tongue, Male and Female Shield Fern, Asplenium Adiantium Nigrum and Trichomanes, and the Royal Fern. The view down the vale at sunset was magnificent. We slept that night, with the murmur of innumerable cascades sounding in our ears, in the bungalow, which the shelter of the surrounding hill leaves in the deepest shade, until about 8 A.M. At about 6, the woodmen, with knives like reaping-hooks, and poles tipped with iron, began their work. They cut the young wood one day, and carry it away the next. By 3 P.M. they begin to descend the hills with their loads which bring them coolie's wages, about 200 cash per day. They have to make no payment for forest rights, and the hilly regions, as in most parts of China, are rapidly growing bare and desolate under their hands.

We saw several specimens of the Tung Yew tree, which yields a very valuable oil used in japanwork and by cabinet makers. One of their principal varnishes is said to be made by boiling this oil with oxide of iron. Its large palmate leaf, green, smoothly-polished bark, marked by the depression of fallen leaves, and tricoceous fruit, distinguish this tree as a member of the Spurgewort order. The Croton and Castor Oil plants, and the Tallow Tree (Stillingia Sebifera) are also members of the same natural order found in this neighbourhood. The bed of the stream is strewn with immense rocks of gneiss and greywacke, as hard and as slippery as ironstone. A more romantic spot cannot be imagined than the upper waterfall, half-an-hour's walk from the bungalow. There is a huge boulder, cleft in twain by the force of its fall, but, from its hardness, retaining the perfect shape of the original rent in the opposite halves, though it is probably many centuries since it was dislodged from the heights above. Beetles and butterflies of brilliant hues and countless varieties abound on the mountain we ascended.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—A fair business had been done in Cotton Yarn, prices of which showed an improvement on the rates last quoted. Grey Shirtings had met with but limited support, and light weights had slightly declined; in other Cotton goods hardly anything had been done, and quotations were to a great extent nominal. Woollens continued depressed, only a few worsted Camlets having changed hands at low rates. Quotations:—G. E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., per piece, $2.50 to 2.55; 8 4 lbs., $2.85 to 2.87½; 9 lbs., $3.25 to 3.30; G. E. White Shirtings, $2.65 to 3.05; T-Cloths, 6 lbs. to 7 lbs., $1.80 to 2.15; Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, per picul, $45.50 to 46; 28 to 32, $47 to 48, 38 to 42, $48 to 49; Camlets BBB, and S, per piece, $13.50 to 14.50; SS, $13 to 13.50; SSS, $9.50 to 10.50; Lastings, $12 to 13.50; Lead, $3.50 to 4.25; Tin Plates, per box, $5.75 to 6.0; Coals (English), per ton, $8.50 to 9.0.

SHANGHAI.—The excitement and anxiety caused by the advices from Tientsin stopped business here until the 3rd July, when news of a more definite character was received. The opinion that hostilities will not ensue gained strength amongst the dealers, and they had, in consequence, evinced some desire to operate in Piece Goods—chiefly Grey Shirtings of the medium weights, considerable sales of which had been made. At the close there was an active demand for 7 lb. and 8¼ lb. Grey Shirtings, and heavy settlements were being made at rapidly advancing rates, the quotations being, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.75 per piece upwards; and 8¼ lbs., Tls. 2.15 to 2.22 per piece. In the other kinds of Cotton Piece Goods only a very trifling business had transpired. Woollens had been almost entirely neglected. Long Ells, Camlets, Lastings, and Figured Orleans were offering at greatly reduced rates, without inducing buyers. Some 3,000 pieces of Crape Lustres (Martaban) had been sold at Tls. 2.8.0 per piece, immediate delivery. Metals.—Iron: Only a very trifling business transacted, and the market continued extremely quiet. Sales only 5,000 bundles, small sizes, at Tls. 2.20 to 2.22 per picul. Quotations nominally unchanged. Lead: A few small lots of L.B changed hands at low rates. Common chops offering at Tls. 4.25 to 4.30 per picul. Coals: Market continued very weak; transactions trifling, and rates nominal.

FOOCHOW.—No transactions were reported.

HONG KONG.—We take the following from Messrs. Olyphant and Co.'s Circular:—Business in all departments of trade during the week has been very limited, and the native dealers have shown an increased unwillingness and hesitancy to enter into operations of any character. The depression in our markets has unquestionably been greatly increased by the news of the outrages at the North, and the effect of this has been particularly noticeable upon our Piece Goods market, which is at present in a literally stagnant state. All manufactured goods are nominally lower, and for no particular fabrics are there any buyers, as holders are most ready sellers, and in nearly all instances come to terms with purchasers. 8.4 lb. Grey Shirtings are refused at $2.80, and American Drills cannot be placed at $4.40 per piece. Small settlements of Raw Cotton have been made at lower values. Cotton Yarns are offered "to arrive" at reduced prices. Woollens are neglected, and rates are, if anything, weaker.

SAIGON.—In consequence of very large arrivals from Singapore, the market was over-stocked for all descriptions, and even at the ruling low rates sales were very difficult. The following quotations were, therefore, nominal:—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.90 to 2.92; ditto, 7 lbs., $2.50; Grey T-Cloth, 4 lbs., $1.35; ditto, 4½ lbs., $1.38; ditto, 4½ lbs., $1.45; ditto, 5 lbs., $1.57; White Irishes, $2,05 to 2.10.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been rather quiet, the firmness of native dealers in their demands for full prices having somewhat curtailed business; settlements amounted to about 2,000 piculs, principally of Good Medium and Fine grades. Prices again showed an advance, but arrivals having come forward rather freely, the market closed with an easier tendency. The leaf as yet had been of good quality, and the crop promised to be a plentiful one. Stocks for this period of the season were large. The P.M.S.S. Company's steamer China sailed on the 22nd June with 345,015 lbs. for New York, and 203,522 lbs. for San Francisco, making the total export for the season 10,667,135 lbs., exclusive of 1,448,864 lbs. exported to America, &c., from Hiogo and Osaka. The Britomart for San Francisco, and Chloris for New York, would sail in a few days. Quotations:—Common and Good Common, nominal; Medium, $37 to 39 per picul; Good Medium, $40 to 43; Fine, $44 to 47 per picul; Finest, $48 to 50; Choice, nominal.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Settlements since the departure of the English mail amounted to 29,513 chests, and re-shipments to 4,534 chests, leaving 83,000 chests in stock. Prices were without material change. Common Hohows had been settled at Tls. 18, and offers of Tls. 16.5.0 to Tls. 18.5.0 had been made for common to fair Oanams. Green: 4 chops of Pingsuey settled, at rates fully equal to those last current, as also had a few parcels of old Fychow, of common quality, at Tls. 20 to Tls. 22. Hoochow tea, Shanghai packed, placed on the market, and one chop had realised Tls. 31.5.0. Total settlements for the week, 6,330 half-chests. Stock, 13,000 half-chests.

HANKOW.—There was nothing of interest to report; the only settlement had been one chop of medium Tea.

FOOCHOW.—The following is from the Chamber of Commerce Circular, dated 8th July:—The market was opened on the 2nd instant by the purchase of 3,106 half-chests and 215 chests of Chingwo Congou at Tls. 28 to 32; and the highest price which has since been paid for this class is Tls. 33½. Comparing the prices now current with those ruling at the commencement of last season, it will be found that these Teas cost about the same while they are inferior in quality. Some finest Seu Moo Teas have been settled at Tls. 33, the contract, however, including some inferior at the same price, and thus raising the cost of the finest to Tls. 36 to 37. Purchases have been made of finest Teas from other favourite districts up to Tls. 36. During the first three days business was restricted to settlements of Chingwo, Pehling, and other Pekoe-flavoured Teas. Since then it has been more active, and included other kinds; but the total amount for the six days is only 40,000 chests, which is much below the average of former years. The fine grades for England have commanded more attention, owing to their comparative scarcity and to the high prices asked at first for the lower kinds. Latterly the teamen have much reduced the rates at which they are willing to sell the common Teas, and settlements are being made for Australia. The following are the current quotations, to which Tls. 2.8 must be added for duty. The cost at which the Teas lay down in London is calculated at an exchange of 4s. 7½d., and freight £3 10s. One penny more must be added for extra freight on those shipped by steamer:—Dust and Siftings, Tls. 5.75, equal to 7½d., cost in London; Broken Leaf to Ordinary, Tls. 15, equal to 1s. 1½d.; Fair to Good Common, Tls. 15.5 to 18, equal to 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 3d.; Flavory to Medium, Tls. 19 to 25, equal to 1s. 4d. to 1s. 8d.; Good Medium to Fine, Tls. 25 to 30, equal to 1s. 8d. to 1s. 11¼d.; Fine to Finest, Tls. 30 to 36, equal to 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 3d. Souchong: 3,000 chests of fine to finest have been taken at Tls. 28 to 34, and one chop of common at Tls. 23. Oolong: A few have been settled up to Tls. 23, and one large operation is reported to have been made at Tls. 18½ to 22. Scented Teas: A large business has been done in fine to finest at Tls. 24 to 32. Flowery Pekoe: No transactions have yet taken place, owing to the excessive demands of the Teamen.

Digitized by Google

AMOY.—Business had not been commenced; offers were said to have been made for Oolongs within $3 of the prices which Teamen would accept.

CANTON.—There had been a moderate amount of business at about former quotations. The Belted Will was engaged full, and would be despatched in a day or two. Prices were remaining as last advised.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—Fair arrivals of new silk had come down since the last report, and the season may be considered to be a good fortnight earlier than usual. The quality of the more recent arrivals of Hanks appeared to be better than the average at the commencement of last season; there was still much want of proper reeling, and the caslyg of the Skeins was also to be noticed. Prices opened high, varying from $800 to 850, whilst $720 to 740 were the rates paid in July last year. Settlements amounted to about 80 to 100 bales new silk; there were also about 150 bales old staple going forward, partly from Hiogo. Settlements:—Hank sorts, 100 bales; Oshu, 50 bales; other sorts, 100 bales—total, 250 bales. Stocks, new and old, 200 bales.

SHANGHAI.—An active business continued, on terms fully equivalent to our last quotations for most descriptions, whilst for chop and good Tsatlees and the better grades of Taysaams a slight advance may be remarked. Settlements were estimated at 2,000 bales, making 12,500 for the season, against 5,200 bales at same time last year. The unsold stock consisted of some 4,000 bales.

SAIGON PRODUCE.

The following, on the Rice market, is from Messrs. Behre and Co.'s Circular, dated 19th ult:—During the last month transactions have been very trifling; prices receded to $1.60 for round, and $1.45 for long grain, and there was no animation whatever in our market until the arrival of the Suwonada on the 10th inst. This steamer bringing better reports, both from China and Japan, and arrivals from the interior being very scanty, our natives holding back their stock in anticipation of higher rates, we again experienced an advance of prices. Our quotations close for round rice, which at this time of the year is scarcely obtainable in larger quantities, at $18.0 per picul; long, at $1.70 per picul; and even at these figures it is very difficult to place contracts. Exports since our last are:—China, 4,360 tons; Japan, 7,725 tons; Europe, nil; Mauritius and Bourbon, 163 tons; Singapore, 238 tons; total, 12,486 tons.

Messrs. Kaltenbach Engler and Co. report as follows upon the other articles of produce:—Paddy followed the downward tendency and several lots have been bought at 85 to 95 cents per picul. Closing quotations are 95 cents to $1.05 per picul. Fish: There is not very much stock in China town and prices have undergone no material change. We quote:—Ikan Spat, $2.75 per picul; White Siam Fish, $3.65 per picul; Black ditto, $2.50 to 2.75 per picul. Exports for the month amout to 9,936 piculs. Cotton: Uncleaned: Lower rates at the Chinese ports have had some effect on our market, and last reported purchases have been made at somewhat cheaper rates—$6.40 to 6.45 per picul. Cleaned 1 and 2 remain scarce and prices nearly the same as before—$21.50 and $19 respectively. The monthly exports amount to 4,510 piculs. Hides remain unchanged as before—Buffalo $8.75, Cow Hides $12.50 per picul, at which rates any quantity would find buyers, but there is nothing on the market. Horns continue in equally good demand at $8.75 per picul. Pepper: On arrival of the last French Mail advising a more settled position for the article in France a great excitement prevailed on our market, and buyers were freely offering higher rates; but as transactions have this year almost been confined to the interior, purchases were very difficult, and with the exception of a lot of 2,000 piculs, which obtained $9.87½, a few trifling lots only changed hands afterwards at $10 per picul. Cocoanut Oil: The season for this article having begun, a further decline is to be reported; last sales took place at $6.50 per picul. Gamboge: Scarce at $58 per picul.

THE JAPANESE STUDENTS IN AMERICA.

According to the New York Independent of August 4, there are at present in the United States nearly fifty Japanese students. They are from all parts of the empire, from the inland daimiotes as well as from the sea-coasts. The allowance made to the students by the Mikado and the daimios amounts to a thousand dollars in gold, or about £200 of our money, per annum. Of the fifty, two are sons of daimios, two are sons of Queggi, the Mikado's counsellors, and the first belong to the two-sworded class. They seem to have imbibed American democratic ideas already to a considerable extent. On their first arrival in the country they scrupulously observed Japanese etiquette in their intercourse with one another. This, however, was kept up only a few weeks. These Japanese youths, are quick and bright. They hold the first place in their classes; but their forte is mathematics. They evince a fondness for natural science, though the terms puzzle them. In other languages they are apt scholars, except as to pronunciation. They delight in history, and "it is little less than astonishing to note the ease with which they grasp and unravel metaphysical ideas." In character they are manly, generous, extremely polite, temperate, chivalrous, and brave. They are liked and respected by their fellow-students, in whose sports they freely join, and are well received and esteemed by the townspeople where they reside.

Launch of the "Mindoro."—There has been launched from the building-yard of Messrs. Thomas Wingate and Co., Whiteinch, Clyde, a handsome screw-steamer of 450 tons, and fitted with a pair of surface condensing engines of 70-horse power nominal. This vessel has been specially built for trading with goods and passengers among the Philippine Islands, to the order of Messrs. Ker, Bolton, and Co., of Glasgow, and has elegant and airy passenger accommodation, awning deck, and all the latest improvements for a hot climate. The ceremony of naming her the Mindoro was performed by Miss Wingate. The Mindoro has been built under the superintendence of Captain David Henderson, and is classed A 90 at Lloyd's. She was launched with steam up, and immediately proceeded down the river on her trial trip. After completing her loading she will proceed to her destination, via the Suez Canal, and will act as a consort to a steamer previously built by Messrs. Wingate and Co. for the same owners.

We have received the first number of The Phœnix, a monthly magazine for China, Japan, and Eastern Asia. It is designed to supply information on the various topics relating to the countries we have named, and thus to some extent it will supply the place formerly occupied by the Chinese Repository. The type and general get-up of the work are satisfactory, but its size is at present extremely limited. We are, however, promised in the opening address that future numbers will be of larger dimensions. The editorial department is conducted by the Rev. James Summers.

Bankruptcy of Mr. W. R. Seares.—This case was mentioned upon an application for the appointment of a receiver. The debtor, trading at 89, Great Tower-street, as a tea merchant, had filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement, under which his debts were estimated at £63,000, with assets £4,700, consisting of cash, stock in trade, and book debts; and it was desirable that there should be no unnecessary delay in collecting the property. Mr. Brough applied that Mr. John Ball should be appointed receiver. The Court, upon proof of the requisites, granted the application.

The executors to the late E. R. Michell have requested all claims to be sent into Messrs. Prior and Bigg, Southampton-buildings, Chancery-lane.

Breakfast.—Epps's Cocoa.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homœopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets labelled—James Epps & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

LONDON : MONDAY, AUGUST 29, 1870.

GALLE OR COLOMBO AS THE MAIL-PORT.

The question of the substitution of Colombo for Galle, as the mail-port of Ceylon, derives greater importance, and presses more urgently for decision, in consequence of the successful opening of the Suez Canal. Putting out of view the purely partial arguments with which the advocates of the rival ports support their special claims to pre-eminence, we are informed by the last mail of several facts of great value in forming a comparison of the advantages of the two routes. It seems that the Home Government hesitate to accept the modest estimate of a quarter of a million, which the Galle Harbour Commissioners consider sufficient to construct a breakwater without the other improvements which were projected in connection with it. In view of the expected revolution in Eastern trade consequent on the realisation of M. de Lesseps' great work, they are of opinion that at least three times that sum would be required for the completion of such works as would enable Galle to accommodate the vastly increased amount of shipping which may be expected. Another, and a fully experienced and competent, Commission is therefore to be sent from home to inspect the harbour of Galle, and estimate the capability and cost of its enlargement. Here, however, the advocates of Colombo demand why, if Ceylon requires a harbour costing three quarters of a million, it should not be constructed at the capital of the island, and the chief seat of its commerce and its exports. This is certainly a difficult question to answer, if the new harbour can be constructed as well and as economically at Colombo. There does not seem room for much doubt that both these conditions of the utility of a port can be complied with at Colombo, at least as well as at Galle. Now that steamers intended for the Eastern trade are being fitted with machinery especially constructed to economise coal, the number of those requiring to stop at Galle for fuel will be gradually lessened. Most of the new vessels will be able to take in sufficient coal at Aden to last them to Calcutta or China, and vice versa. Moreover, Colombo is nearer than Galle in the line from Suez, and it is a port more easily made. Add to this the probability of the deepening of the Ramisseram Channel, so as to admit vessels of as great draught as can pass through the Suez Canal, and the P. and O. steamers would save 230 miles by going from Cape Comorin to Colombo instead of Galle; while, by the same route, the Messageries Imperiales would save 245 miles, and the British-India steamers 285 miles. Mr. D. Wilson has calculated the distance from deep water to deep water at less than a quarter of a mile, and Sir James Elphinstone has recorded his opinion that "few undertakings involving a small outlay "would produce more marked results as respects the "convenience of the whole trade of the coast of India "than the opening of this Channel. It would at once bring "Colombo on the high road for all ships bound from the "Bay of Bengal to the Malabar Coast, and vice versa." "I "think" (pursues Sir James) "that the best way of strengthening our position, and reducing the chance of such a proposition" (as that of annexing Ceylon to India) "is to accept "frankly the office of making a harbour at Galle, even at "the contingent risk of having to pay something for it." Among the objects included in this calculation, Sir James considers a port at Colombo as one of the most urgent. "The risk, loss, and damage of shipping in Colombo roads "are too well known to make it necessary even to allude to "them; and a trade, which amounts to eight or nine millions in value, deserves more than an open and exposed "roadstead for its conduct and safety."

Mr. R. J. Dunlop, of Jaffna, has published a timely pamphlet, in which all the information regarding the existing channel at Paumben, and the proposed opening through Ramisseram, is collected. Captain Donnan, the Master Attendant of Colombo, is in favour of straightening and deepening the Paumben opening. Mr. Dunlop, sharing the opinions of Sir James Elphinstone and Mr. D. Wilson, propose that a fresh channel should be cut, about midway between the coast of India and that of Ceylon, through the reef of coral and sand called Adam's Bridge. On a small map, which accompanies Mr. Dunlop's pamphlet, the precise position indicated is the end next India of the island of Ramisseram. The calculation is that the distance from deep water in the Gulf of Manaar to deep water in Palk's Strait would be less than half a mile of cutting through sand and soft coral; and Mr. Churchill, C.E., of the Ceylon Public Works Department, has estimated the cost at something more than £44,000. Allowing £50,000 for this, Mr. Dunlop estimates the gross annual returns to be expected at £24,000, or almost 50 per cent. on the cost. Mr. Dunlop proposes that a company should be formed to take over the Paumben Channel, with all stock, paying Government an equal rent, and levying on all vessels a toll sufficient to keep up the work properly, and pay shareholders. By this route Mr. Dunlop says that the ports of Tuticorin and Colombo are both within a few hours' sail of Negapatam, in the Bay of Bengal; whereas, by the present route, round the south of the island of Ceylon, via Galle, the voyage varies from five days to two months between those ports—according to the season of the year, and the vessel employed, whether steam or sailing. In eighteen months he is confident that it might be so far completed as to allow a large portion of the trade to pass through; and eventually it must become the route for steamers and ships to and from Pondicherry, Madras, Calcutta, and other ports in the Bay of Bengal, to and from the westward. As soon as this channel is completed, steamers will not require to coal at Galle, as at Ramisseram Island the water is deep and calm, with abundance of space on shore for sheds, so that steamers might coal comfortably from their own hulks or from the shore. The advantages of the proposed channel are not unquestioned. Sir Wm. Denison and Lord Napier have expressed opinions adverse to it. But, the Ceylon Observer well remarks, "Let us "never forget the adverse opinions held regarding the Suez "Canal, and the enormous amount of word-eating, and frank "admission of error, which followed when the success of that "undertaking was undoubted." Deeply as the interests of Ceylon are involved in the present question, it is one of cosmopolitan rather than local importance. It is, moreover, not solely an engineering problem; it is, to a great extent, nautical, and on nautical subjects Sir James Elphinstone's opinion must always command respect.

THE MAIL SERVICES.

A rumour was circulated in London that the French mail steamer had not left Marseilles on Sunday, the 21st, and great surprise was expressed that the directors of the Messageries Imperiales had not sent timely notice to their London agent. It appears, however, that their steamer Guienne was detained only a few hours, in consequence of an interruption on the Lyons Railway. We are of course quite prepared for any derangements incident to the war, but we cannot excuse a want of forethought on the part of the administrators of companies. By a timely notice much of the loss and annoyance occasioned by the non-departure of a mail may be avoided. Should Paris be besieged, the transit of our mails through to Marseilles cannot be relied on, and we have called the attention of the Postmaster-General to the circumstance, and requested to know if any steps are being taken to meet this contingency. The whole of the route by Ostend, Cologne, Frankfort, Munich, Innsbruck, and the Brenner pass to Bologna and Brindisi is clear, and likely to remain out of the range of the war. This route occupies about a day longer than by Paris and Mont Cenis, which is compensated by the shorter sea passage from Brindisi to Alexandria. Should this route be also interrupted by the war we must fall back on Southampton; and even now it would be well for our merchants to at once use this route for their bulky despatches and general business correspondence. Indeed, if it becomes necessary to entirely adopt Southampton, and ignore the Continent for a time, no doubt the P. and O. Company would put on an extra speed, and reduce the difference which now exists of seven days to four, leaving Southampton on Tuesday instead of Saturday.

Since the above was in type we have received the following communication from the Post-office :—

I beg leave to inform you that the Postmaster-General is already in communication with the French Post-office, and also with the Post-offices of North Germany and Italy, for the purpose of making such arrangements as will ensure the due transmission of the important Overland Mails between this country and India, China, &c., in the event of the usual route through Paris being interrupted.

THE STRAITS STEAMER.

The following is the reply of the Earl of Kimberley, Secretary of State for the Colonies, to the letter of the Straits Association, which appeared in our last issue :—

Lord Kimberley directs me to inform you in reply that he is most desirous that all unnecessary expenditure should be saved in this matter, but his Lordship cannot agree with the Straits Settlements Association that the colony should be without one efficient steamer, and he is not satisfied that the Peiho would sufficiently answer all the requirements of the Colonial Government. I am to add that a steamer has been purchased for the colony by the orders of Lord Kimberley's predecessor, and will shortly be sent out to Singapore, when it is proposed that the two larger steamers, at present employed by the Colonial Government, should be sold. These new arrangements will in due course be communicated to the Legislative Council of the Straits Settlements, and Lord Kimberley does not doubt that they will be found more satisfactory and, on the whole, not less economical than those proposed by the Straits Settlements Association.

The Times publishes a letter from its correspondent at Shanghai on the subject of the Tientsin massacre, but in these days the affair has not received any attention from the English press. The latest telegram we have on the subject, Hong Kong, Aug. 4, says that the English and French Admirals were at Chefoo waiting instructions from home; and that the French Charge d'Affaires at Peking had demanded the execution of three mandarins and the liberation of native Christians, or the alternative of the bombardment of Tientsin. There are rumours that all the foreigners at Peking and Tientsin have been murdered, but there is no foundation for them. We have now received full details of the horrible affair which will be found in our Mail news. It will also be seen that we have advices from Saigon announcing the despatch of three war vessels, but no troops.

An expedition for the exploration of Mongolia, under the leadership of M. N. M. Prshewalski, has been despatched under the auspices of the Russian Geographical Society. The expedition is intended to last three years, and M. Prshewalski is to spend the winter in Peking, and to push forward next spring towards Russian Turkestan through the Chinese parts of Central Asia.

With reference to the Great Northern Telegraph Cable we notice that the Great Northern has passed through the Canal, and that the Cella has left the Thames. These vessels take out the second and concluding sections of the cable respectively.

CHINESE LABOUR IN AMERICA.

The New York Journal of Commerce contains the following article on the comparative value of work performed by some Swedish immigrants and also by Chinamen and negroes :—

"A gentleman largely engaged in cotton-raising in Louisiana gives us some interesting facts about the comparative value of different kinds of labour employed on his plantation. His main force is negroes, about 150 in number, whom he hires on the following terms :—The mules and all the tools required are furnished by him, and he makes reasonable advances for food and clothing, and the negroes give him half a bale of cotton to the acre and have the rest of the product for themselves, reimbursing him for his outlay for subsistence, &c. He was fortunate in engaging twelve Chinese at New Orleans, who had served eight years under Coolie contracts in Cuba, and were experienced in plantation work. To these he gives one-half of the profits over all the expenses, supplying mules and the other working capital, and advancing means for supplies as wanted. His Swedish employés, but few in number, were obtained in New Orleans, where he found them out of work, and glad to accept the same terms that he made with the negroes. These terms, as also those with the Chinese, are considered by all hands very liberal; and if the cotton crop turns out as well as expected they will each make a handsome sum of money during the season. The Swedes, though not as skilful in the use of the hoe (for want of practice) as the Chinese and negroes, are in other respects the best hands. They cultivate thoroughly and carefully, keep the mules in fine condition, and take good care of the tools. The climate and the labour seem to agree with them perfectly. But of course a large supply of Swedes or other white labourers from any part of the world cannot be depended on, although their remuneration in a good season would be ample. Next in order of value stand the Chinese—and those employed in the case under notice are decidedly inferior to the Celestials more recently imported direct from Hong Kong. They are fully as industrious as the negroes, neater in details, better mechanics, and in all respects more satisfactory. In the use of liquor they are more temperate than the blacks. It should be said that the freedmen do much more work when Chinese or others are competing with them—on separate portions of estates, however, since it is not deemed expedient to have them labour together. Last year, when the negroes had a monopoly of the work, our informant had occasion to find much fault with their idleness and shiftlessness and carelessness. This year they are doing their best, under the stimulant of competition, which we take to be a proof that the importation of Chinese to the South will have a good effect in bringing out the industrial resources of the freedmen. Subsequent to the engagement of the three classes under mention, the same planter hired eight Pennsylvania farm hands, but for some reason they have not taken readily to cotton culture, though he has not tried them long enough to determine their real worth for that business as compared with the others. This gentleman, like other planters in the same region, is impressed with the desirability of importing as many Chinese as possible. Wherever they have been set at work in the South they are doing well. The Arkansas Association report very favourably on the success of their importation. The Hon. Oakes Ames, who has a sugar plantation near New Orleans, has just received 150 Chinamen direct from Hong Kong. A large influx of the same race may be expected during the year. Our informant says that the cotton crop throughout Louisiana is looking finely."

The Chinese Government having limited the exportation of Chinese labourers to the vessels of the Treaty Powers, General Legendre, the American Consul at Amoy, reports that it is his impression this course will tend at present to decrease Chinese emigration. The American statute of 1862 forbids the transportation in United States' vessels of coolies to be carried to any foreign country, port, or place whatever, to be disposed of or sold for any term of years or any time as servants or apprentices, or to be held to service or labour. The statute provides, however, that nothing in it is to prevent the voluntary emigration of any Chinaman or to apply to the vessel carrying him; but he must have a certificate from the Consul at the port of embarkation, showing that the Consul has personally inquired into his case, and that he is a voluntary emigrant. The Secretary of State, having examined into the present importations, says he is not aware that any coolies are being imported into the United States of the class prohibited by this statute. He has been informed by the American Consul at Hong Kong of the recent departure from that port of two shiploads of coolies for New Orleans, but the Consul describes them as voluntary emigrants, and not only willing but anxious to go. All the American Consuls in China have been requested to rigidly observe and enforce the provisions of this statute. Consul Legendre at Amoy, whose report is above referred to, adds that the order of the Foreign Board in Peking provides that only Treaty Power merchants can open emigration agencies and only Treaty Power ships carry the emigrants, while it is only to the territories of such Treaty Powers that the emigrants can proceed. The coolie traffic is prohibited at Macao. The Consul is sure that under the new rule the traffic must die off, for it has ceased to be lucrative, and the lawful emigration of Chinamen to the Pacific and other States of America, confined to Hong Kong, may soon become a monopoly in American hands.

AMERICAN REPRESENTATION IN THE FAR EAST.

(New York Times.)

The application made a short time since by Mr. de Long, our Minister in Japan, for an establishment and retinue on the same scale as, and similar to, that afforded to his British colleague, opens up an interesting question regarding our diplomatic and consular establishments in that country and China. The reasons urged seem sufficiently cogent. More hands are wanted to do the work, and more "show" is necessary to retain influence over the native mind. We are disposed to go further than Mr. de Long, and to say that the whole of the diplomatic and consular establishments, not merely in Japan, but in China also, require a thorough revision and reorganisation. At the smaller ports, the Consuls are merchants, whose training has in no way fitted them for the arduous and delicate tasks devolving upon them as judges between their countrymen; while, as diplomatists, they fail utterly. Destitute of interpretorial help, the despatches which, by the help of a "pigeon-English" speaking comprador, they produce for the benefit of the local authorities are so imperfect that the latter have even been known to show them to the interpreters of other nationalities with the remark that they are utterly incomprehensible. The "consulate" is of course a room in the house, often more filled with "tea-musters" than official documents; while the staff consists of a "marshal," who is as often as not a runaway seaman of doubtful antecedents, Add to this that the profession of a merchant is in Japanese or Chinese eyes extremely low, and the opinion entertained by natives of our representative officials may be easily conceived. It is all very well to say they must be educated out of such absurd notions, but that argument would equally apply to a great deal which is simply done to meet prevailing ideas in civilised countries.

If we turn to the diplomatic service, we have evidence of insufficiency not less striking. The whole staff at Peking consists only of the Minister and Secretary of Legation, a resident missionary being attached as interpreter. The ties which bind this latter gentleman to the Legation being of the slenderest description, it frequently happens that he is out of the way when wanted. And if, as has more than once been the case, the Secretary happens to be ill or absent, the Minister is compelled to borrow an interpreter from the English or French Legation. No demonstration is needed to show how destructive of our position such a system must be. It has formed the theme of numerous articles in the Chinese Press, and is a standing subject of complaint by all citizens whose interests have been injured by the necessary delay which such a short-handed state of affairs necessarily insures.

There is but one cure for this objectionable system—to make the China and Japan Consular services an exception to party patronage. Clever, able men, knowing the langnages and versed in legal matters, could easily be found to take the appointments, if they were assured that their tenure did not depend upon the result of elections at home in which they can have no voice. But who would undertake to learn Chinese or Japanese, or to read up law—still less, who would give up a practice at home to reside abroad, conscious that the accidents of one man's life might in a moment displace him and render of no effect the study he had devoted to his duties? Moreover, it may be added that it takes at least two or three years to master the duties of a consulship in a country where each Consul is rather a Minister in petto than a Consul, as the term is understood in this country. We make no charge against the present Consuls, beyond that of unavoidable incapacity for their duties. But we cannot remain deaf to the repeated remonstrances addressed to us by every journal published in China and Japan. Mr. de Long's request is, in this respect, but a legitimate result of the system which, to retain party influence, has seriously injured our prestige in the "Far East.'

BULLION AND SPECIE.

Gold.—The arrivals comprise—£158,500, per Russia, from New York; £10,000, per Minnesota, from New York; £440,000, per City of Brooklyn, from New York; £2,400, per Nestorian, from Quebec; £5,500, per Lagos, from Africa; £3,000, per Etna, from Halifax; £80,500, per Great Britain, from Melbourne. About £459,000, in bars and sovereigns, has been taken to the Bank of England since our last, and 90,000 sovereigns have been withdrawn. Owing to the danger of transmission the demand for export has materially abated, notwithstanding the low quotation of the Paris Exchange. A large proportion of recent arrivals will probably be purchased by the Bank.

Silver.—An exceptional purchase of bar silver last week led to some temporary increase in price, but the market is now quiet, with a limited supply. Our quotation is 60½d. to 60⅝d. per oz. standard; but this is in great measure nominal, and little, if any, could be obtained at this rate.

Mexican Dollars.—We have no arrivals to report; the present price is 58¾d. per oz. The P. and O. steamer Delta, on the 20th inst., took £24,500 for Hong Kong on Government account.

Monetary and Commercial.

A telegram received from Hong Kong by the Hong Hong and Shanghai Banking Corporation states that the result of the last half-year to 30th June will give the usual dividend of 12 per cent. per annum, and show a surplus of $100,000 carried forward.

The following vessels passed through the Suez Canal from the 17th to the 23rd inst.:—Outward bound—the English steamers Ercilia, Neera, and Great Northern; the Egyptian steamer Massouah; homeward bound—the English steamers Chiltern, Nile, Statesman, and Achilles.

Messrs. Nicol, Duckworth and Co., of Liverpool, have issued the following notice, in consequence of reports of their suspension :—

"Certain purely private and personal arrangements for relieving ourselves of our interest in cotton have no doubt given rise to the report published, but we deny having made any suspension of payments, and beg to state our ability to meet all our engagements as they arise."

The Economist has the following on the P. and O. Company's new contract :—

"The changes, we think, may be considered for the public advantage. In principle certainly it is better to have a contract for the payment of a fixed sum, and not one which varies according to the profit of the contractor—a profit which will depend entirely on the management of a business, which the Government can only control in respect of the efficiency of the services to itself. The old contract with the Company, in short, applied the vicious principle of sharing profits which has been found to bring so little good to a Government in the guarantee of railways—with this difference, that the Government exercises a real control over the whole business of the railway companies. Whether £450,000 is too large or too small a sum for the service rendered is a different matter, but the difficulty of getting efficient contractors for such services is enormous, and practically it cannot be considered too much as a compromise of the stipulation for which it is substituted. As to the alterations of the services, again, it cannot be considered that any material harm will be suffered by permitting the substitution of Liverpool for Southampton, though it may enable the Company to increase its profits, while the provision for giving us Brindisi for Marseilles is only what should have been thought of before. We can hardly agree with the representation of the Company that Brindisi may be less profitable to them than Marseilles—the passengers can hardly fail to be more numerous,—but in the increase of the speed the Government have at least got some compensation for the diminution of the length of the voyage which the vessels will have to make. We should have liked some arrangement for taking more advantage of the Brindisi route, even before the Mont Cenis Tunnel is completed; but that is fast becoming a question of the past."

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market has been very quiet. The demand chiefly runs on Teas ranging from 1s. 6d. to 1s. 9d. per lb., and for the finest parcels, which continue scarce. Red-leaf Congous: Siftings and broken-leaf kinds show no alteration, the demand being quiet. Fair to good common remain firm at previous prices, with only a moderate inquiry. In all the better kinds business has been limited, buyers now waiting the arrival of the Achilles. Black-leaf kinds: The lower qualities have been taken to a small extent at previous prices. Fair to good common have been steady at former rates. In new season's Teas a further decline has been established for all but the finest kinds. Sales have been made from 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 9d. per lb. for good to fine quality, these forming the bulk of the transactions reported. Amoy kinds: Some very low quality was sold in public sale from 6½d. to 6¾d. per lb.; the better kinds are out of request. In new-make Canton kinds there is nothing of interest to report. In Oolongs and Souchongs there is no alteration to notice. In Scented Teas there has been an arrival overland of over 4,000 boxes of new season's really fine Caper and Orange Pekoe, from Macao and Canton, the whole of which found ready buyers at very high prices, say 2s. to 3s 8d. per lb. for Orange Pekoe, and 2s. to 3s. 6d. for Capers. In old season's but little has been done, except at public auction, where mixed spurious kinds sold from 5d. to 7d. per lb., and good quality Foochow Orange Pekoes at 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1d. per lb., being 1d. per lb. decline. There has been but little done in Uncoloured Japans. Green Teas: The market continues much depressed, and sales made at public auction have been at low prices for all common to medium kinds. Privately but few sales have been made; the prices of the finer kinds remain comparatively steady. Canton-made kinds have been dull of sale at former rates.

The following is from Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular:—The chief business has been in new season's Tea, at a further decline of 2d. to 3d. on second-class quality, or 4d to 5d. per lb on first sales ex-Erl King, but at a public sale, without reserve, held 19th inst, of 1,880 packages ex-Agamemnon, a recovery of a 1d. per lb. took place, and this improvement has since been maintained, though few transactions have taken place. In old season's leaf, public sales commencing 16th inst of 28,800 packages (25,000 without reserve), have supplied buyers for the present, and restricted business by private contract. For export to the Continent no business has been done, but about 5,000 packages of the Agamemnon's cargo have been transhipped. To Canada, moderate purchases have been made in Uncoloured leaf and Young Hyson. The grades of Red Leaf, up to medium Kaisow, have been obtainable by public sale at very cheap rates; Siftings, from Foochow at 6½d. to 7d., bold leafy kinds, good liquor at 8¼d. to 9d., inferior flavory to Kaisow kinds 9¾d. to 1s. per lb. Siftings and leafy of black leaf (redried) sold as low as 2½d. to 3¾d.; bold leafy kinds, with pure liquor, at 5¾d. to 6d. per lb. Pakling, first crop (season 1869-70), in boxes, fine quality, at 1s. 5d. to 1s. 6d. per lb. Tayshan Leaf: No sales have transpired. Black-leaf: In old season's fair quality, with all faults, ex Dartmouth, sold at 9¾d. to 10d. per lb. The arrivals of new season's equal 58,000 chests, and at one time prices were unduly beaten down to 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 7d. per lb. for Oonam, and 1s. 7d. to 1s. 8d. per lb. for Oopacks, but there has been a recovery of 1d. per lb. from these forced sales, to-day's quotations closing at 1s. 7½d. to 1s. 8½d. per lb. for Oonams, 1s. 8½d. up to 1s. 11d. for Oopacks and Ooanfas, and for extra fine quality, of which the market is bare, fully opening rates are obtainable. In Souchong and Oolong there is nothing of interest to report. Scented Tea: Canton Orange Pekoe, ex Fairleader (season 1868-69), of low spurious quality, sold in public sale at 5d. to 6d. per lb., and medium, wiry leaf, well scented, at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d. per lb. Of new season's, per overland French route, about 2,000 boxes have been received, which, after great competition, sold at extreme rates, the Teas being strong scented and of superior quality; the same remarks apply to Caper, of which about the same quantity have come to hand, and also sold extremely well. Old season's, low spurious leaf, have sold at 5d. to 8d. per lb. Foochow Scented Orange Pekoe has seldom sold cheaper, 2,500 boxes of medium quality, good leaf and well scented, at public sale, realised only 1s. to 1s. 1½d. per lb.

Messrs. Kinnear, Hawes, and Hertz's report:—Since our letter of the 11th inst. the steamer Agamemnon has brought us a further supply of new season's black-leafs, mostly of medium to fine medium quality. The parcels of finest quality are very few, and for a small chop of half-chests the top price of 2s. 8d. per lb. has been paid. The market throughout the fortnight has been in a depressed state, and all transactions effected show a further decline in prices. About 1,900 packages ex steamer Agamemnon, which were sold without reserve in public sale on Friday last, commanded considerably better prices than had been obtainable by private sale, but contracts effected since show that these better rates have not been sustained. The quotations of most contracts range between 1s. 6½d. and 1s. 8d. per lb.

SILK.

Messrs. Jacomb, Hogg, and Co. report as follows:—We have again some sort of a market for Asiatic Silk, the wants of the home trade and a few orders from Switzerland have resulted in a little business at better prices than might under the present circumstances have been expected. In Chinas the demand has been principally for Tsatlees, at one moment a few parcels were sold at prices from which there has since been a recovery of about 1s. per lb. The extreme cost of the new Silk makes importers unwilling to sell; the little business doing is therefore almost entirely confined to old Silk in second hands, though a few lots of new Silk have been placed at the above quotations. In Japans there has been some inquiry the last few days, but at very low prices. Deliveries, 1st to 24th inclusive—China, 1,728, Japan 290; total 2,018 bales.

Messrs. Kilburn, Kershaw, and Co. report as follows:—The market has been rather firmer, with more inquiry during the last few days, but importers are so very determined to hold for improved rates, that very little business results; 25s. has been freely offered and refused for Red Peacocks, and at 23s. to 26s. for 4½ to good No. 4 Tsatlees several parcels have changed hands, chiefly to country buyers. In Japan silk some forced sales of Mybash at a very low price took place recently, but prices are since higher by fully 1s. The deliveries continue very fair considering the state of events.

COFFEE.

The market since our last report has exhibited some improvement, especially for Plantation Ceylon, which has been in better demand than at any period since the check imposed upon business by the declaration of war. Although the quantity disposed of has not been large, the prices realised show an advance, and this is firmly maintained at the close. At public sale, on the 20th inst., 103 casks 10 tierces 4 barrels 52 bags realised—triage, 45s. to 48s.; small, 52s. to 56s. 6d.; middling greyish, 59s. 6d. to 60s.; middling to good middling, 61s. to 68s. 6d.; bold, 60s. to 71s. 6d.; peaberry, 74s. 6d. to 76s. On the 23rd there was another offer, consisting of 94 casks 2 tierces 3 barrels 52 bags, which realised—triage and ordinary, 39s. 6d. to 54s.; small, 56s. 6d. to 57s.; low middling to middling, 59s. 6d. to 64s. 6d.; peaberry, 76s. 6d. In addition there has been a moderately active inquiry privately, and about 450 casks have been taken at prices on a par with those of the auctions. Of Native Ceylon there have been no offers at the public sales, but private transactions to the extent of 80 casks and 800 bags are reported, at 47s. to 50s. per cwt. In other East India there has been no business. The Dutch Trading Company's auction, consisting of 100,400 bags Java and 5,000 bags Padang, is announced for the 31st inst. Although the landings for the week are fully 800 tons less than last year, the deliveries are also 600 tons less, the deficiency in the stock being only slightly more. Stock, Aug. 20, 1870, 22,835 tons, against 24,949 tons 1869.

The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation 308,112 cwt., against 275,046 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 23,140 cwt., against 44,369 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 15,018 cwt. Plantation, against 8,252 cwt., and 21,768 cwt. Native, against 19,290 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-three weeks ended Aug. 20, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 23,150 tons, against 24,731 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 38,635 tons, against 45,857 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 6,774 tons, against 7,146 tons; of all descriptions, 11,875 tons, against 11,938 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 17,747 tons, against 16,213 tons; of all descriptions, 28,144 tons, against 28,190 tons. The stock on Aug. 20 was, of Ceylon, 12,503 tons, against 12,367 tons; of all descriptions, 22,835 tons, against 24,949 tons.

SUGAR.

The market has slightly improved, a better demand having been experienced, and prices show some advance. The public sales have been for the most part of West India kinds, the only offer of East India 1,900 bags clayed Manila (duty 4s.), being bought in at 23s. By private contract, 100 tons unclayed Zebu, have realised 18s., and 300 tons superior Ilo Ilo 21s.; 400 baskets good Java, about No. 14 (duty 5s. 3d.), have been sold at 32s. 9d., and 1,600 baskets good to fine Java at 30s. 9d. to 33s. 3d, chiefly at 31s. 9d. to 32s. 6d. The deliveries for home use have fallen off considerably, being nearly 1,000 tons less than last week, but with larger exports, the total is equal to last year's, and as the landings are also nearly alike, the surplus in the stock remains about 18,500 tons. Stock, August 20, 105,228 tons, against 86,667 tons.

The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-three weeks ended Aug. 20, 1870, was—of Penang, 2,277 tons, against 2,101 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 14,423 tons, against 22,434 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 1,578 tons, against 1,650 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 16,672 tons, against 11,037 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 95 tons, against 80 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,830 tons, against 892 tons. The stock on Aug. 6 was, of Penang, 2,934 tons, against 700 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 31,711 tons, against 39,069 tons.

Coir Goods.—At the weekly auctions a fair quantity of Yarn offered met a steady but not active demand, and the greater portion found buyers at previous rates, except for common, which sold cheaper. Fibre and Rope were both in small supply and went off without alteration. 172 bales fine to superior Ceylon Yarn were bought in at £41 to £60; of 51 tons ditto in dholls about 30 tons sold. common, £18; good common, £20 15s.; medium to good medium, £23 5s. to £28 5s.; good, £30 5s. Kitool Fibre: Of 285 bundles Ceylon offered 104 bundles sold without reserve at 4¾d. per lb.

Cocoa-nut Oil.—A better demand for Ceylon has been shown; at auction 250 tons are reported sold at £37, and there is a fair amount of business doing privately at the same quotation. The quantity of Ceylon afloat is estimated at 23,219 cwt., against 18,068 cwt. in 1869, and 16,339 cwt. in 1868.

Cutch.—The recent advance is steadily maintained, and there is a fairly active market; at auction 580 boxes good Pegu from Singapore sold at 19s. 3d.; privately, 200 boxes fine Pegu have realised 20s. 6d., and 100 tons for arrival at 20s. per cwt.

Essential Oils.—We note the sale of 2 cases Citronelle at 2½d.

Galls.—About 150 cases China have been sold privately at 43s. 6d.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to July 27, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 17,139,265 lbs.; Japans, 7,782,390 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,408,937 lbs; Oolongs, 3,203,853 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 35,688,909 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 45,555,076 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to July 27, 3,174,116 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 23,390,325 lbs., there remains a total of 18,990,635 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from July 13 to July 27 amounted to 2,118,285 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 1,236,351 lbs.; and the exports to 181,777 lbs.

COFFEE.—Following our last report sales were effected of 3,192 mats Java at 19½c. to 21c. gold, and of 215 mats Singapore on private terms. Subsequently the demand fell off, and at the close the market is very quiet at last quotations, viz.:—Java, 19½c. to 22c.; Singapore, 18c. to 18½c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. gold. The stock of Manila on the 1st Aug. was estimated at 1,700 bags, against 6,769 bags on Aug. 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 850 bags, against 1,995 bags; of Java mats, 49,362, against 66,691 bags; of Ceylon, 250 bags, against 1,884 bags; of Singapore, 5,171 bags, against nil.

FIRE CRACKERS.—There is no demand, and prices are nominal.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

GUNNY CLOTH.—The market is very quiet at 31½c. for Borneo.

HEMP.—The sale is reported of 500 bales Manila, common quality, at 12¾c. gold 60 days' prompt; the nominal quotations for fair and good is 12¾ to 13c. gold, but no business has been done. The stock of Manila on the 1st August was estimated at 16,934 bales, against 3,600 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 26,680 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from the 1st January to the 31st July, 1870, were 88,353 bales, against 61,235 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on the 31st July was 33,045 bales, against 60,952 bales at the same date last year.

INDIGO.—The demand is still limited, and the only sale has been of 10 cases Manila at the previous price, viz., $1.25 to $1.30 currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $8 to 11 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1 to 2.50 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—The market generally maintains a steady tone. In Rangoon sales for home consumption have been effected at the last quoted prices, namely 3,000 bags at $7.12½ to $7.50 currency, and 350 bags at $5.75 gold, duty paid, but for export there is not so much inquiry, and prices have declined 12½c. to 25c., the sales being 1,970 bags at $3 to $3.37½ gold in bond.

SPICES.—The market for whole parcels is very quiet, and we hear of no sales. In a jobbing way there continues a fair business at steady, and for most goods, firm prices. Nutmegs are a little lower, but the other descriptions are quite firm. We notice sales to the trade of 200 cases Nutmegs at $1.7 to 1.7½; 50 do. Mace, $1.30; 100 do. and 200 bales Cassia, 47c.; 1,200 bags Pepper, 26½c. for Sumatra and 27c. for Singapore; 500 do. Wrecks and Casualties.—An analysis of the wrecks and casualties reported in Lloyd's List during the year 1869, compared with the average of the three previous years, has just been issued. The figures, which occupy eighty-one large pages, have been compiled by Mr. Henry Jeula, the honorary secretary of the statistical committee of Lloyd's, and must have involved much labour and responsibility. The number of casualties posted in Lloyd's Loss Book last year was 2,986, as compared with 2,805 in 1868. The "total losses" were 2,006, of which 1,877 were ships, and 129 steamers, against an average of 2,162 in the three previous years; and the "constructive" losses numbered 156, against an average of 270. These figures show that, notwithstanding the large increase in the mercantile marine of all nations, the proportion of the more serious class of casualties has decidedly diminished. Taking the results to cargoes, we find that in 1869 there were 971 totally lost, against an average of 1,270 in the three previous years; 568 part lost, against an average of 612; and 6 "all saved," against an average of 50. The list of "crews saved" numbered 1,128, against an average of 714; and the lives lost, so far as reported, were 1,643, against an average of 1,703 in the three previous years. The returns show that by far the largest proportion of casualties is in the British islands, the total losses in this division numbering last year 481.

The "Lord of the Isles," the new steamer, built by Messrs. Napier and Sons, Glasgow, for Messrs. Shaw, Maxton, and Co., for the China trade, has arrived in the Thames to load. The Lord of the Isles is 1,753 tons register, and 240-horse power, and is commanded by Captain Robinson, late of the China clippers Fiery Cross and Sir Lancelot. She will proceed to China via the Suez Canal.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.

FOUR GOLD MEDALS.

Supplied to the British French, Prussian, Russian, Italian, Dutch, and other Governments. Dr. Lankester writes regarding Extract of Meat:—"But there is a difference in flavour, and here, as in all other kinds of food, it is the flavour that makes the quality." It is essentially on account of the fine meaty flavour, as distinguished from the burnt taste of other Extracts, that LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT defeated all Australian and other sorts at Paris, Havre, and Amsterdam, and is so universally preferred in all European markets.

One pint of fine-flavoured Beef-tea at 2½d. Most convenient and economic "stock."

CAUTION.—Require Baron Liebig's, the inventor's, signature on every jar, and ask distinctly for LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT.

As stated by the War Office, the assertion of an Australian Agent of solely supplying the British Government is proved to be nothing but an untrue statement.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

The most effectual remedy for Bowel Complaints and Disorders of the Stomach. At this season of the year, when these complaints are so prevalent, there is no better remedy than Holloway's Pills, whether as a preventive or cure. When taken in moderate doses, and strict attention be paid to diet, the worst cases will be relieved. The strengthening properties of these Pills restore the impaired tone of the stomach, and cleanse the liver. Nothing so good has been discovered for the cure of persons suffering from a long residence in hot climates, and they surpass every other medicine for general family use. They have the happiest effect on the stomach and secretions, promoting digestion, and gently stimulating the torpid bowels.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The present mail brings dates to the 12th of July. The Pacific mail via San Fransisco, however, the correspondence by which was delivered on the 30th ult., brings advices to the 22nd July. The London mail of 3rd June arrived out on the 18th July.

The following letter denies that Sir Harry Parkes assisted Mr. Lay in the loan affair :—

British Legation, Yokohama, July 20, 1870.

SIR,—As Her Majesty's Minister wishes his countrymen to receive a distinct denial of the imputations contained in an article which appeared in yesterday's issue of the Echo du Japon, he instructs me to inform you that he never in any way used his influence to promote the negotiation which resulted in a loan being made to the Japanese Government by Mr. Lay, and that the article in question is the first intimation which he has received of another loan having been offered to the Japanese Government on the terms therein named.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

F. O. ADAMS.

The Japan Herald has the following on the Loan :—

The account of Mr. Lay's doings in London with respect to the Loan has excited amongst the Japanese the liveliest interest, the information which we were enabled to furnish through our columns having been translated for the Government. In our last summary we mentioned the dubiety of Mr. Lay's authorisation, and events which have since transpired show that our remarks were warranted. It is alleged that Mr. Lay concluded a contract with the Japanese to furnish one million sterling at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum, and that he has failed to do so; but that he has instead, by representing himself as the duly authorised agent of the Japanese Government, procured a million sterling, at the rate of nine per cent. per annum, by pledging the Customs and railway income. His authority to do so is, we understand, denied, the Japanese Foreign Office (through which all dealings with foreigners are made), having declared itself not cognisant of the documents incorporated in Mr. Lay's Bond as published. and it is further averred that the Council of State is equally ignorant of the powers which Mr. Lay has exercised on behalf of the Japanese Government. The three Ministers of Finance—Owagma, Okuma, and Ito—who were principally concerned in Mr. Lay's negotiations, are being subjected to a most searching examination by the Council of State, with the object of elucidating the mystery that has shrouded Mr. Lay's proceedings with them, but the investigation is not yet concluded. It is deemed not unlikely that these officers may be removed from the posts they have hitherto held. Until everything is satisfactorily cleared up about this strange affair, we understand that the Government have resolved not to touch a dollar of the money resulting from Mr. Lay's operations. The affair is in such bad odour here that the British Minister has deemed it necessary to deny officially that it was owing to his influence with the Government that Mr. Lay was enabled to enter into a contract with it—a statement to that effect having been made in the columns of a contemporary, and very generally, though it would seem erroneously, credited.

The Ocean proceeds to Nagasaki, there to wait for orders. Of course, the object of this is to be near to China, in the event of affairs there taking such a turn as to necessitate British interference.

The trial of the two Chinamen who established a private mint at the British Legation for the manufacture of spurious paper money has taken place. Ah Ho (Sir Harry Parkes's butler), who gave the other a room to work in, and struck off one note himself, will experience the miseries of life in a Japanese gaol for three years. The other, and his Japanese accomplices, were doomed to be beheaded. A Chinese money-changer, who was so incautious as to issue notes with the ink so wet that it smeared the customer's hand, has since closed and departed. "Honour amongst thieves" is a proverb that does not apply to Far East forgers, for these paid in bad notes their comrade who found the paper.

Mr. F. O. Adams, H.B.M.'s Secretary of Legation, and party have returned from a lengthened tour in the interior, undertaken for the purpose of inquiring into the state of the silk districts and the present condition of silk culture in Japan. Mr. Adams has already by his exertions of last year established a protectorate over the silkworm of Japan, and the Uji have learnt to look upon him as a kind of entomological Attila. We trust that the implacability with which he pursues this race of parasites will be as beneficent as it is determined and vigorous.

Mr. Farrington, who has returned from Hiogo, will commence prospecting next month. A meeting of Daimios and merchants has been held in Yedo concerning the propriety of working the mineral wealth on several estates, the upshot of which is that sixteen wealthy merchants have formed an association to work mines in the neighbourhood of Osaka and Simoda, and are now in negotiation for the services of Captain Coffin, of the U.S. Consulate, of whose successful explorations in Oregon we have spoken before.

The untimely death of Captain Gilfillan, from the effects of an overdose of chloroform, administered by his medical attendant during a surgical operation, has caused through the whole community the liveliest emotion. The verdict delivered by the jurors on the inquest gravely inculpates Dr. Dalliston.

The well-known spot in Yedo, outside the castle and above the foreign college, from where one of the finest views of the city is obtained, is now being laid out and planted as a public recreation ground for the citizens of Yedo.

July 22, 1870.

The Japanese Parliament met at Yedo, July 21, and granted an amnesty to the persons who lately coined spurious money.

It was stated that the Government was about to repudiate the English loan negotiated by Mr. Lay, and would send an agent to England to explain the matter. The English Minister officially denies any knowledge of its terms. The works are, consequently, not progressing so fast as might be expected, but I hope they will not be long suspended. There is no fear of the investment. The Government are daily gaining strength, and are well able to pay interest on the amount demanded, and the principal when due.

Nobody in England seems to know anything about the American route to Japan. Men who have lived in Yokohama write me that they know nothing about the mails, and passengers, when they come out, say that they cannot get information at the London office when they inquire about the arrival and departure of the steamers from the different ports. It would be a public boon if the Pacific Mail Company were to advertise more. The American steamers do very well, especially through the inland sea.

A subscription is being raised for $20,000 to purchase an organ, $2,500 for the purchase of ground from the Chartered Mercantile Bank, to widen the main street opposite to the Chamber of Commerce, and $1,500 for the hospital, with $1,000 expenses. The remaining $15,000 is for prizes. This is taking a hint from Judge Hornby, who, by the way, is expected here shortly.

The weather is charming, and all looks well for a most favourable year for the natives. I hope to be able to send you Mr. Adams's report of his silk trip in my next. The Commercial Department have just bought the steamer Vulcan for $67,000.

Transport corps should be organised in Yokohama, and only coolies employed. This is far better than wasting money on horses and ponies. Our well-known friend, "public-spirited" Smith, has had a great experience of the coolie transport system in China and Mexico, and warmly advocates its establishment here.

The English and French admirals have left for Chefoo, the Barossa for Shanghai; and a North German frigate (the Medusa) and two French ones make a good force with the vessels already in China.

Schools for the education of the natives in the English language are to be opened in all the chief towns.

HIOGO.

The following items are from the Hiogo News:—

The first of the four dredgers imported from England by Messrs. Alt and Co. was launched on the 3rd July. She would have got off before but for the heavy wind and sea beating into that end of the bay, which lifted her off the ways as she got to the water but would not allow her to go off. This is a single dredger, fitted with oscillating engines of sixty effective horse power, and with a mean lifting power of thirty-five to forty tons per hour. It is fitted with four anchors and steam gear for hauling itself about. A double dredger will be launched in a few days, and in about a month they may be expected to be at work.

The last of the telegraph poles has been erected between Kobe and Osaka. The members of the Race Club have advertised for tenders for improving their racecourse. The municipal council have resolved to exclude all non-members from their meeting; reporters are, however, tolerated, but forbidden to publish the proceedings! Kobe is never without a grievance, calling to heaven and earth for redress; the present is the eternal shrieking of engine whistles. Five steamers ply to and from Osaka; each whistles for two hours and a-half before starting, and commemorate its return without accident by another shriek-sonata of an hour and three quarters' duration, which, when it occurs in the dead of night the people of Kobe are unreasonable enough to wish curtailed. They ought to have a Belgian cathedral with an infinity of jingling carillons in their midst to teach them patience.

Rumours have for some time been floating about with regard to the visit of the Mikado to Kioto. It is asserted that the Emperor himself, and the Kuges also, would rather stay where they are, but that some of the Southern princes, notably Satsuma amongst others, wish him back at his old quarters. The Mikado no doubt must look back with feelings approaching to loathing upon the old dull days at Kito, when, though nominally an Emperor, he was virtually captive; his present life must be one of comparative freedom. Then again, it is said that some of the Northern princes are old favourities of the Mikado and his uncles, and that Aidzu, arch rebel as the Southerners forced him to appear, was but a very few years ago an especial favourite of the royal family. It was Biduz and his men who guarded the royal palace when Chosiu made his raid on Kioto during the Stotsbashi-Chosiu war, and who drove the latter away after a hand to hand fight in the streets of the sacred city. These, like many other events of the last decade in Japan, appear distant to us, lost in obscurity, because of our imperfect knowledge of them, but to the Mikado, young as he is, they must be as fresh as those of yesterday. Satsuma is placed in an awkward predicament; on the one hand he cannot afford to keep up his present large establishment at Yedo, but still less can he afford to leave the field to the intrigues of his natural enemies, the Northern princes. So long as the Mikado is at Yedo, Satsuma must have troops there ready for any emergency. Now, to escape the dilemma he was thrown into by the avowed unwillingness of the Mikado to return to Kioto, Satsuma, it is said, threatened that he would make the Emperor's brother Mikado, and place him in Kioto, so that whether there were to be in future one Emperor to Japan or two, there should be one in Kioto at any rate. Now it is said that the recent visit of the Foreign Ministers to Kagosima—Satsuma's capital—was occasioned solely by these threats of Satsuma to set up a rival Emperor, and plunge his unfortunate country once more into the horrors of a civil war.

NAGASAKI.

JULY 15, 1870.

My previous letter, dated 24th ultimo, via Marseilles, was despatched from this by the P.M. steamer Oregonian, which vessel passed H.B.M. corvette Zebra coming up the harbour, with the English mail of the 6th May, forty-nine days. On the 8th inst. the British steamer Fusiyama arrived with the French mail of 15th April, eighty-four days. The London mail of the 29th May arrived here on the 12th inst. in the North German steamer Tapangnyo, fifty-three days. H.M.S. Salamis also arrived the same day, from Yokohama, with the mail (French) of 13th May, sixty-one days.

Monday, the 4th inst., being the anniversary of American Independence, the day was kept by the American citizens resident here in the usual manner, but owing to the very small number, and there being no vessel of war in harbour, the event was an unusually quiet affair. However, illuminations and cracker firing were kept up, and marked the day.

The British steamer Bertha, belonging to Messrs. Adrian and Co.'s line, has again become Japanese property, and changed her flag at the end of last month, and now flies that of Satsuma. The small steamer Flying Cloud, and the schooner G. C. Love, have also been changed to the Japanese flag; the latter is now employed as a collier, and brings coal from the Takasima mine to the store at Sagromatz, which service she is well adapted for, owing to her having a flat bottom and a light draught of water.

The consular body here have addressed a letter to Mons. Leon Dury, late H.I.F.M. Consul at this port, expressing their regret that he has ceased to act in his official capacity; it also pays him a just tribute for his friendly manner to all.

The Nagasaki Shipping List informs us that it is the intention of the Japanese to erect a guard-house at the entrance to this settlement, and looks upon it as a step in the right direction, but how the Editor can arrive at such a conclusion I am at a loss to understand, as it was clearly proved how useless the former one was in times of danger. It was within a few feet of this spot that a ruffian in July, 1865, ran, drawn sword in hand, making cuts at all who came within his reach, and on his approaching the guard-house, the brave custodians, two boys, shut it up and bolted into the back premises, and nothing has been heard of the scoundrel since.

It is said that the Japanese intend running steamers between this and Yokohama, via Hiogo, in opposition to those of the Pacific Mail Steam Ship Company. They have commenced with the Tosa steamer Nautilus, which was built in America, and has already performed one trip. Announcements have been made that the firm of Messrs. Wachtels, Groos, and Co. ceased in Nagasaki on the 25th ult., and that the interest and responsibility of Mr. J. Henry Spahn, in the firm of Schmidt, Spahn, and Co., ceased on the 30th of June, and that Mr. George Westphal has joined the same as partner. The firm is now Schmidt, Westphal, and Co., and consists of Messrs. Max Militzer, George Westphal, and Carl Krümmel, the latter residing in Hamburg. Mr. Aug. Stein is authorised to sign the firm per procuration from 1st July, 1870.

People here seem very divided in their opinions as to the best method of getting the mail punctually. The Nagasaki Express says:—"Our readers are doubtless aware that H.B.M. Acting Consul has arranged with the Postmaster-General of Hong Kong, that letters addressed to parties here will be delivered in Shanghai on the application of authorised agents, and thus allow of their being forwarded by the American mail." The same paper suggests that our mail be sent to Yokohama and then to this by the steamer Thaba, which will run shortly. If the latter proposal is adopted it will be a move from bad to worse; which my letters to you will clearly prove—in fact the present one gives a very good illustration. I think the best way of getting over the difficulty would be for the postal authorities in London to charge an extra rate on matter when posted, and pay the extra local postage to the American postmaster at Shanghai (letters 6 cents per ½ oz.—currency, I believe—newspapers 2 cents each) when they are compelled to send them by the U.S. packets—this would only happen when a British steamer was not likely to come over. The present arrangement does very well for a makeshift, and when you have personal friends to look after your letters; but I know from experience that on the arrival of the mail from Europe in Shanghai people are very busy, and that our letters are likely to be forgotten, especially when a steamer is likely to leave for Nagasaki in an hour or so.

It will be seen by the movements of H.B.M. ships of war during the interval that we have had very little protection. The Zebra left this hurriedly for Shanghai on the morning of the 2nd inst. where she went to replace the Dwarf; the Grasshopper also left for Tientsin at the same time. The Salamis arrived from Yokohama on the evening of 12th inst., and coaled next day, and left again for Chefoo on the afternoon of the 14th idem. The Adventure also came in from Shanghai on the 12th. A French despatch boat anchored down the harbour yesterday, coaled, and left again shortly afterwards, for Tientsin, it is said.

In consequence of the supposed danger at ports in China, the ladies and families who annually leave Shanghai for Chefoo during the hot months, I hear, are coming to this place, and have rented several of the deserted bungalows, and many have engaged rooms at the Belle Vue Hotel. The present season bids fair to be a successful one for Mrs. Stewart, who is just the sort of person to cause her visitors to renew their trips next year.

The announcement of the Japan Customs Loan has given a subject for discussion here, and is generally considered to be a risky investment by persons who know the character of the natives. It is true that they never openly repudiate, but their propensity for wriggling out of their engagements is something astonishing, and even when most binding documents have been given they will often endeavour to do so. A case occurred here some time ago, when the following defence was set up:—"We regret to say that the agent of the Prince who made this contract has been brutally murdered." This is tantamount to saying that if Her Majesty's Minister happened to be murdered England would not ratify any engagement he had entered into; but in the case of the Japanese it was believed to be untrue, and that the Agent had never been murdered at all.

The state of Japan is very unsatisfactory, and the natives have no confidence in the ruling classes, and any attempt to raise a loan from their own people would be unsuccessful; even if they were able to lend, they would be unwilling to do so—although the Government might offer 24 per cent. per annum. When such a state of thing exists, I think the subscribers to the loan are entitled to our thanks for the boldness of the step they have taken, and even if they have overstepped the bounds of prudence, they have the satisfaction of knowing that the name of Englishmen is not so bad in these parts as certain M.P.s are in the habit of stating; for if it was true the Japanese would never have their railway and plant, too, from a country whose people were hated by them.

The Japanese being a proud and haughty race is an additional security to the lenders, as nothing would sting them more than pointing to them as a dishonest lot in the event of any attempt at repudiation being made by them, and I believe they would repay the amount if it were only to prove their worthiness to be admitted into the family of civilised nations.

Fickleness is one of the greatest failings the Japanese have. While a thing is a novelty they are enthusiasts, but when the novelty has worn off they throw whatever they have on one side as a child does broken toys. They buy steamers, and use them as playthings; not one in ten is used for purposes which is likely to repay its cost, and after badly treating them they are either resold to foreigners at a great sacrifice, or handed over to them for large repairs. Fickleness is not confined to the upper classes alone, but descends to the lower classes. Some time ago foreign clothes were all the rage, and every native felt himself bound to become the owner of as much as he could find the means of purchasing, and some thought themselves tremendous swells when strutting about the settlement dressed only in a shirt and a pair of boots. But this soon died out, and a native in foreign clothes is a rare sight, excepting the soldiery, who now have a regular uniform.

It may not be uninteresting to some of your readers to know some particulars respecting the manner in which the Custom's revenue is collected at this port, especially if they are holders of Custom's Bonds, unless some measures are taken by them; they are not likely to get much from this port, as the Chinese, who falsify both contents and weights of packages, carry on smuggling to an extent which would surprise people at home. Take, for instance, sugar; the weights are declared very often by them at 33 per cent. below the actual weight, while sugar-candy and the dry white are often entered as rice, which pays no duty at all. The valuable article native gensong gets through as Bancha. I could give you a long list which would include all the high duty articles in the tariff. Your readers will no doubt ask where are the custom-house officers all the time this is going on. I will answer the question. In their proper places, but there are none so blind as those who will not see, and it is generally supposed that heavy bribes pay them better than their miserable salaries. I now find that the Customs allow the Chinese to pass all their entries in the "Celestial tongue," which makes it more difficult to obtain information. The administration of the Customs here you will see sadly requires reform, as the honest traders are quite at a disadvantage with the Celestials; most of whom are open to anything, from pitch and toss upwards.

I have written the foregoing to show your readers how dangerous it is to lend money to the Japanese, but not with the view of making them distrustful. For my own part I should like to see Englishmen lend them more, but on good security; which in my opinion is only to be obtained through H.B.M. Minister at Yedo, for not only is it necessary to have the Government seal, but it is also necessary to know that the Japanese Minister who signs the bonds is authorised to do so on behalf of the Government of the Mikado, and then there will be no plea "that the Minister has been cruelly murdered." Japan would be a fine field for enterprise on the part of English capitalists if that dreadful slippery tendency on their part to evade their contracts did not exist.

CHINA.

PEKING AND TIENTSIN.

The correspondent of the North China Herald writes:—

Great uneasiness still prevails in Tientsin, though the arrival of H.B.M. ships Dwarf and Avon, and H.I.M. Flamme had aided to restore partial confidence. The Viceroy, Tseng-kwo-fan, had not yet obeyed the Imperial order to visit Tientsin and investigate the circumstances of the massacre, but his arrival was daily expected. Ill health is said to be his excuse for delay. Tacit sympathy with the crime is, however, also named as a possible motive. Mr. Meadows was the only foreigner who had been into the city since the outbreak, and he had passed through unmolested; but it was generally believed that his official connection with the Arsenal had secured for him this privilege; and no confidence was created by his experience. It is said, further, that the Manchu in coming down the river saw men employed in strengthening the forts; and people on the river were calling out Ta Ta, and making signs across their throats. It is evident, therefore, that the excitement has not yet subsided, though it may be hoped there is no immediate danger of further outbreak.

At Peking, at the date of our latest advices, all was quiet, but a very uneasy feeling prevailed. H.I.M.Chargé d'Affaires was detained in Peking, the Chinese averring that they could not be answerable for his safety on his way through Tientsin. We completely disbelieve their assertion; even if the riot had been more spontaneous than we believe it to have been, a clear intimation of the Emperor's wish would suffice for anyone's passport. Ching How is said to have been appointed Ambassador to Paris, to apologise for the riot; and Messrs. Novion and Imbert of the Custom's service, and Mr. J. A. T. Meadows, of the Imperial Arsenal at Tientsin, will accompany him.

CHEFOO.

A panic arose on the night of the 3rd, strengthened, we are told, by the presence of a number of suspicious characters in the settlement, and by an apparent inclination on the part of Chinese servants to quit their foreign masters. But nothing occurred to substantiate the alarm; and the Taotai declares that there is no fear of disturbance. These disquieting rumours have, however, led the community to follow the good example of Shanghai in forming a volunteer corps for local defence. But there seems every probability of tranquillity being undisturbed. The Chinese authorities have assured the Consul that there is no cause of grievance at the port between the natives and foreigners, and no feeling among the people adverse to ourselves. As business ness is going on as usual there seems no reason to doubt this.

The arrival of H.M.S. Grasshopper, Lieut. Hope, R.N., from Nagasaki at such an opportune moment has considerably added to the confidence already previously felt. A report will be found elsewhere of proceedings at a meeting held for the purpose of forming a volunteer corps, and we hear of a subsequent meeting at Messrs. Fergusson and Co.'s offices, for the purpose of forming a permanent vigilance corps, when resolutions were passed to obtain a supply of Snider rifles and ammunition, to be used in case of emergency. The moderate display of determination on the part of this community not to be taken by surprise has had an excellent effect on the Chinese, who seem disposed to avoid any act that could give offence. Our correspondent thinks, therefore, visitors desiring to enjoy the cool sea breezes of Chefoo during the coming hot weather may come in all confidence of not being molested.

SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port now reach to the 14th July. The outward mail of 20th May arrived on the 3rd July.

The absorbing topic was the Tientsen tragedy, and its consequences. The North China Herald says :—

It must be understood that the victims were not merely killed in a street riot, under the influence of sudden popular excitement, but were butchered—by a mob assembled with official countenance, after deliberate pre-arrangement—with the addition of every fiendish torment that the imagination of the rioters could invent. The picture must be conceived, of nine defenceless women in the hands of a vast mob, looking for instant death as a relief almost from their terror, but condemned to first pass through a series of mental and physical tortures almost too horrible for recital. Stripped naked before the eyes of their butchers, they were not even allowed the mercy of simultaneous death ; but were killed one by one, after deliberate mutilation and outrage. A picture must be conceived of a woman dragged away from her sisters, her eyes dug out, her breasts cut off, her quivering body elevated on the point of a spear, the death-blow inflicted only after this awful torture, and the survivors told that each one would have to go separately through the same process before the eyes of the remainder. Our readers will then understand what it is the French nation have to avenge, and what it is that the Chinese seek to compensate by a simple apology and monetary payment. The Chinese officials appear at the present moment to be divided between satisfaction at an injury successfully inflicted on foreigners and a dread of its possible consequences. Their reliance on their warlike preparations is rather shaken now that they have provoked a trial, yet they entertain a half hope that they will be able to extend the process of extermination to all foreigners in the Empire. It is the opinion of nearly every foreigner, and the Chinese themselves admit, that any further disaster in the north would be a signal for immediate outbreak elsewhere ; and that, unless reparation is exacted with a firm hand on the spot, the position of foreigners at every treaty port will become insecure.

A very uneasy feeling prevails in the Settlement, from an apprehension that the first success of the Tientsin outbreak may encourage a similar movement here. Reports of proclamations, exciting the people against foreigners, have been current ; and though we have failed to obtain a copy there is no doubt that such have existed A placard of a hostile nature was found also a few miles inland, on the Pootung side, near a Catholic church, and sent into Shanghai. Innumerable other rumours have been current—many, no doubt, utterly baseless ; but still showing a disturbed state of public feeling. The Volunteer Corps is drilling actively, in case its services should be needed, and has attained, in the short while since its formation, a very fair degree of efficiency. Ammunition has been served out, and an alarm signal and a place of rendezvous agreed on. We are thus prepared, as far as possible—in case of the emergency, which we all hope will not arise. It is arranged that Captain Denison, R.N., will take command of the Corps, if their active services should be claimed.

An alarm was raised of an attack on the French Settlement ; and a large number of foreign residents turned out for its protection. The French Volunteers, a number of the English Corps, a small body of Rangers and nearly all the French residents, mustered, and patrolled the settlement till an early hour in the morning. A guard of a hundred men were also landed from the Zebra, and stationed in the British Consular Compound for a short while, but were re embarked when it appeared that there was no urgent danger. The approaches from the city were guarded, and all Chinese were prevented from entering, though free egress was allowed from, the settlement. A slight collision occurred in one case in consequence of this order.

The Chinese Government has appointed Ching How ambassador to France, for the purpose of conducting negotiations relative to the late outrage. The appointment of so high an official contrasts strongly with the slight shown in the nomination of the men to accompany Mr. Burlingame, and shows that the Government at least appreciate the gravity of this crisis. But we cannot think an official on whom rests suspicion of connivance at the late outbreak will be a welcome envoy at the Tuileries We think it undesirable, moreover, that the venue should be thus changed from Peking to Paris, and undesirable, therefore, that Ching How should leave China before the necessary investigations are entered upon.

Our readers will probably infer (says the North China Herald) with us that there is little fear of disturbance originating with the Shanghai men proper ; but that there is sufficient risk of disturbance by bravos acting under higher inspiration to make it well worth our while to keep on the alert. The result of the alarm on Tuesday night will have proved to the Chinese that we are so ; and the unremitting drill of the Volunteers will strengthen the evidence. The gun-boat Leven has gone to lie up near the junks, for which she would be well able to account, in case the crews became unruly ; and the shells of the Zebra and rifles of the Volunteers should be sufficient to check any attempt at incursion into the Settlement.

Messrs. Lees and Hall, missionaries, have addressed Mr. Lay, the acting Consul, in which they conclude :—Our only anxiety has been to assist you in forming an accurate idea of what appears to us to be the truth in this dreadful business. Much of the evidence upon which our views are based is already in your hands. Further evidence will probably yet be obtainable, and, of course, we shall feel it to be our duty to communicate to you anything which seems really valuable. It does not lie within our province to do more. We would only, therefore, express the fervent hope that such action will now at length be taken by civilised powers as to make the repetition of such awful deeds impossible. If crimes like these are permitted to pass unpunished, what may we not look for in the future ? Certainly, on this occasion, nothing but the gracious care of God has prevented Tientsin from becoming a second Cawnpore.

The Evening Courier says :—

We hear that pending the appointment of a Vice-Consul for Shanghai to replace Mr. R. J. Forrest, who leaves for England. Mr. J. P. M. Frazer will take charge of the Vice-Consul's office, and Mr. H. Margary will act as Assessor at the Mixed Court.

It is said that a nephew of Tseng-kwo-Fan arrived here a few days ago to enter on the duties of Haifung, to which office he has been appointed. The title implies duties analogous to those of port-admiral with us. He ranks next to the Taoutai, and with a Taoutai whose eccentricities are excused on the ground that he has had no experience in dealing with foreigners, and a Haifung so closely related to the very head and embodiment of Chinese anti-foreign feeling, we have little prospect of satisfactory relations with the local authorities at the present crisis.

A funeral service was held at the Roman Catholic Cathedral, in memory of the victims of the Tientsin massacre.

July 13, 1870.

You will have received full particulars of the massacre at Tientsin by last mail. The most important additional information to hand up to this time is the fact of the French Consul having been murdered in the official residence or "Yamun" of Ching How, the chief authority at Tientsin. The only survivor, who was concealed in the Yamun, heard and saw what took place. The Consul was first speared in the thigh by one of Ching How's soldiers, and when he went to the outer door he was attacked by the soldiers and mob and killed. This same Ching How, in whose house the French Consul was murdered, is appointed by the Emperor Ambassador to France. A more gross insult was never offered to any nation.

This Tientsin massacre ought to arouse the attention of the Government and people at home ; but, judging from the conduct of the Home Government in the Greek massacre, but little can be expected from them. The policy of the English Government in refusing to protect their subjects in China, while possessing an undoubted treaty right, and censuring their officials here, and submitting to every species of insult from the Chinese short of murder, has emboldened them to commit the atrocities they have done, expecting, of course, the promised impunity in consideration of paying some blood money. If the French or English Governments do not inflict a heavy punishment on the mandarins and people of Tientsin, good-bye to any security of life for foreigners in this savage country. The Chinese already say that it is only a small affair, and can be settled by paying some money.

All nationalities here sympathise with the French under so great a calamity, which comes nearest to the Cawnpore massacre in everything except numbers ; but it is impossible to ascertain even now how many Europeans have been murdered.

After an experience of twenty-five years in China, my opinion is that the Chinese never believed the stories circulated, but merely used them as a pretext to exterminate the foreigners, and the exemption of the English settlement from attack at Tientsin was owing to the fact of its being defensible. It is situated two miles from the Chinese city, and has an open space around it, where an attacking party could be easily shot down. The French Consul's residence was in the Chinese city, and indefensible. Twelve French gunboats have already gone to Tientsin, and the Admiral is expected shortly from Saigon, as the Nile steamer, on her way to England. was chartered to deliver a letter at Saigon to the French Admiral, advising him of what had taken place. It is to be hoped that this Chung How, the arch murderer, may be taken and hanged before he can have an opportunity of insulting still further the French nation, already so outraged.

A feeling of insecurity exists at all the outlying stations, and the demeanour of the Chinese has become most insulting; and even in the French settlement at Shanghai they have insulted foreigners. Last night the guards were doubled in the French settlement, as the walls of the city were placarded with threatening notices against the French. Had there been even a solitary gunboat at Tientsin, the massacre might have been prevented, and a fleet at Chefoo could have avenged the outrage in a few days. Now that the mischief is done we shall have a large naval force going to the gulf of Pechelee, and most likely doing nothing, as the hands of the authorities are so tied by instructions from home. Every day brings fresh proofs of the complicity of the Mandarins in the murders.

P. S.—Shanghai is now in a state of commotion, as the Chinese have commenced to threaten foreigners, particularly French; 200 men were landed last night from H.M.S. Zebra, to guard the French settlement, and the volunteers were on duty all night. The priests and sisters were brought to the French Consulate. Stones were thrown at the French Police Station, but no harm done. One Chinese soldier was cut down, as a small mandarin and party of soldiers tried to force their way into the French settlement. The volunteers are drilling every evening; things are very unsettled, and all now depends upon a speedy and severe retribution falling upon the mandarins and people of Tientsin, otherwise more murders will be committed.

JULY 13, 1870.

There is no special news just now in Amoy. Indeed, every other subject seems for the present to be overshadowed by the startling event that has just taken place in Tientsin. News has come down the coast that a mob had there attacked the Roman Catholic mission and had murdered several of the missionaries, as well as the nuns that were residing in the city. The French Consul also, who had gone to their assistance, had fallen a victim to the brutality of the mob. In all, according to the report, some ten or eleven persons are said to have been killed. It is to be hoped that further accounts will modify somewhat this disastrous story, though, from the private accounts that have been received here, it is to be feared that it is but too fearfully true. Of course, as usual, those delightful characters, the literati, are said to be at the bottom of the whole. Anyone who knows anything of Chinese life will have very little difficulty in believing this. These are the men that Western governments are just now so particularly tender about, for whom such a concern is manifested that their own countrymen would be snubbed in order to pay due regard to them. It is to be hoped that a fact like this will convince our rulers that China cannot yet be placed on a footing of equality with the civilised nations of the West.

HONG KONG.

Dates from this port are to the 21st July. The outward mail of 10th June arrived on 18th July.

There is but little local news, the papers being full of the Tientsin tragedy. The China Mail says:—

There is a rumour—it can be nothing else, though it may foreshadow a fact—that the Emperor has acted promptly on M. Rochechouart's telegraphic message; that he has sent an Imperial ultimatum, demanding a material guarantee pending negotiations; and, following the example of Great Britain on a certain other occasion of stern political necessity, that he has backed up his demand by the despatch of an expeditionary force, military and naval, strong enough to compel acceptance of the ultimatum, if compulsion should prove necessary. The expedition will leave Marseilles and will proceed via the Suez Canal. [How cruelly the French in China will find themselves neglected.]

We hear with regret, of the sudden death of the Very Reverend Pe. Jorge, Acting Bishop of Macao. His reverence complained of some slight indisposition a few days previous to his death, but nothing of a serious nature was apprehended until on the 14th at one o'clock, when his illness assumed a serious form, and he sank a few minutes afterwards. His reverence had acted as schoolmaster for upwards of twenty-five years, and was much respected and esteemed by the Macaences.

The clergy of Macao have now requested the Rev. Padre Remedios, the brother of the Portuguese Consul here, to fill pro tem. the office of acting bishop until a new one is nominated by the Archbishop of Goa.

The following official notifications appear in the Gazette:—

The Rev. Canon Beach, M.A., colonial chaplain of Hong Kong, having been granted six months leave of absence from the 14th inst., H.E. Major-General Whitfeild has been pleased to appoint the Rev. John Piper to act as Colonial Chaplain provisionally, and until further notice.

Notice is given that G. Overbeck, Esq., Consul General for Austria, has returned to Hong Kong, and resumed charge of his office.

The Hong Kong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Company held their ordinary half-yearly meeting on the 16th July, when the report was unanimously adopted. The working of the steamers for the past six months showed a profit of $80,204.21, paying a dividend on the paid-up capital at the rate of sixteen per cent. per annum, and carrying $30,000 to the credit of depreciation and reserve account.

The Hong Kong Hotel Company's half-yearly meeting was held on the 15th, when, also, the report was unanimously adopted, showing a balance to credit of $5,552.55, thus reducing the debt of the company to $8,496.76.

PHILIPPINES.

MANILA.

The Spanish barque Tetuan, which vessel left this for Liverpool, via Cebú, on March 31, put back to Zamboanga where she arrived on June 22 last. Being off Celebes Island on the 8th part of the crew mutined, killing the first and second mates and the boatswain, and, as rumours goes, two more of the crew, wounding at the same time the apprentice and carpenter. The captain leaped overboard, and in the quarrel which ensued amongst the three principal leaders, about who was to follow the captain to despatch him, they fought and murdered each other. The remainder of the crew lowered a boat and took the captain on board, who carried the vessel to Zamboanga, from where the Perla del Occeano brought the news here.

The following extract from a private letter from Manila, June 9, has been kindy handed to us (China Mail):—"The English barque Petunia, just in from Hong Kong, picked up a little steamer between this and that port. She is without name; no papers or persons on board, and in no way damaged. Is about 53 feet long and 13 wide, and painted red. She was probably cut adrift from some vessel which had her in tow, as she was found with two hawsers out which had been cut." There is no doubt that this derelict is the Sultan Muda, built in Hong Kong for Mr. Thomas Howard, and intended by him to be used in developing his trade with Coti and other places in Borneo. The little craft is fitted with engines especially made for her in Scotland. She departed from here a short time ago in tow of one of Mr. Howard's vessels; when the journey was about half accomplished a storm came on during the night, the towing hawsers parted—not "cut," as the letter says—and nothing more was seen of her, though search was made for several days in the neighbourhood of the place where the parting occurred.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

Dates by this mail extend to the 8th July. From the Summary we learn that the large estate of the late Chow Phya T'ipa Karawongsa Maha Kosa Dipa Bawdee, valued at about $500,000, is at the disposal of his Grace the Regent, who is said to intend to devote part of it to the construction of roads, canals, and bridges. Nothing is said about the endowment of schools, but it is felt that education is the primary want of Siam just now.

An Embassy, consisting of Phraya R'at, ambassador, Nai Phawn, secretary, and Mons. L. Pilfert, interpreter, appointed by the Court of Siam to proceed to Saigon to settle some matters with the French authoritles, left Bangkok in H.S.M.'s steamer Regent on the 27th June.

On the same date the American steamer Coetey returned, having on board the French and U.S. Consuls.

The cremation of the remains of the eldest sister of the present Chow Phya Yomarat, and daughter of the late Chow Koon Me-t'-ap, was consummated in Wat Sumplung. H.M. the supreme King ignited the pyre; H.M. remained in the Wat about half an hour, and then returned to the palace.

When will the Government of Siam follow the example set it by the Japanese and commence "the work of putting down Buddhism?" A proclamation has been issued ordering that all Shinto Mias (Temples of the Kami or gods) should be forthwith purged of all Buddhist idols. In consequence of this edict one of the stock sights of visitors of Yokohama,—the gigantic bronze statue of Daiboots at Kamakura,—is likely to dissappear from its pedestal, where for about six hundred years it has sat in serene and solemn majesty. The image is for sale, and will probably be bought by some one for the metal it contains, as it will be impossible to remove it without breaking it up.

The case of the United States v. steamer Coetey was decided in in the U.S. Consular Court, when half the Coetey was adjudged forfeited to the United States. A brief report of the proceedings will appear in the next mail.

The steamer Chow Phya reports that the British steamer Bangkok, on her passage to Singapore, struck on a reef, four or five miles below point Romania. Her fore-foot rested on either a rock or hard bottom for about seven hours, and she only got off when the flood made. She made no water after the accident, but probably she will have to be docked.

Bangkok is full of people from the country, who have come at the call of the Government to have their names enrolled or re-enrolled on the books of the lords or chiefs to which they respectively belong. In this enrolment, called Sak, every man is obliged to receive an indelible mark on his fore-arm or side, denoting the chief to whom he belongs. They are of four classes. 1st. The Prei-luangs, or servants of the Government, who are obliged to give one-fourth of all their time to the king's business. 2nd. The class denominated look-som, literally children suitable—that is suitable or proper for the chief ruler as appendages of dignity, being liable some times to be called to hard service. 3rd. The class called t'a-nai, young men regarded as the personal servants of chief rulers, but not liable to be called to hard service. 4th. The class of mahat-lake-Chow, men who perform light gentlemanly service for the chief princes, as the company of Mahat-lakes do for the kings. In short, nearly all persons who receive no salary from the Government are obliged to be Saked, or thus marked and all other subjects are enrolled on the Government lists of beawat men, that is men who receive salaries from the royal treasury ranging from $2.40 to $960. These annual stipends are considered not as equivalents for services performed for the State, but rather as an indication of the degree of rank given them by the State and the amount of freedom they each enjoy in taking b ibes from the plebeians and squeezing them for their time and money.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates by this mail extend to the 29th July. On the 21st the P. and O. steamer Columbian arrived with the London mails of 17th June.

H.E. the Governor returned from his visit to the native rulers along the east coast of the Malay Peninsula, on the 16th in the Peiho. The Maharajah of Johore, who accompanied him in the Rainbow, returned on the 18th. The object of the visit, we are told, was to make the acquaintance of the Rajah of Calantan, and to make friendly visits to the Sultan of Tringanu and the Bandahara of Pahang. H E. was well received both at Calantan and Tringanu, but the Bandahara of Pahang was absent in the country when the steamers arrived, and, therefore, they had no opportunity of seeing him. A murrain among cattle had prevailed both at Tringanu and Calantan, which had proved very fatal, and had caused great distress; it was said to be spreading across the peninsula in the direction of Penang.

In the Legislative Council the Malacca land question has been again discussed. Mr. Thomas Scott asked Government to lay on the table such papers as will afford the Council an opportunity of forming an opinion on the subject; to which the Governor replied that the matter was not in a state to be laid before the Council. As the Malacca land question has been made the subject of local legislation, it is to be regretted the Government was not in a position to explain the state of affairs there.

An alteration has been made in the days of sailing of the B.I.S.N. Company's steamers during the months of August and September, and the next one to arrive here was to leave Calcutta on the 20th July, and is due at this port on Thursday, the 4th August. The following steamer will leave Calcutta on the 17th August, and is due here on Thursday, the 1st September. After that, they will again fall due here every fourth Saturday as hitherto.

Some very strange rumours are current here regarding the steamer Fair Singapore, which vessel has been trading between this port, Malacca and Penang, for some time past. This vessel, according to the shipping reports, left here on Saturday last, having cleared under British colours for Malacca and Penang as usual; but it is asserted that she is no longer a British owned ship—in fact, that she has been purchased by the Rajah of Quedah, manned by European sailors, and armed expressly to enable this Rajah to carry on the war with the Rajah of Klang—the result of a family quarrel. If there is any foundation for these reports the fact does not speak much for the vigilance of our authorities.

PENANG.

The London Mission Chapel and the Boys' School in Farquhar-street have been pulled down. The chapel was built fifty years ago, at a cost of $6,000. In our own time Scotch Presbyterians, Baptists, Plymouth Brethren, and others, have worshipped in the chapel. The attendance was never great, and the concern has been a total failure. As emphatically remarked, "there has been no result," and that was the reason why the London Mission Society sold the grounds. A trial of fifty years, and an expenditure of fifty thousand dollars at least, with half-a-dozen Christian Chinese to show for the money, is certainly discouraging enough.

The new Excise Act, which came into operation on the 15th July, will cause a loss to our Municipal Revenue of a considerable sum. Although a portion of the fines under the Act will go to the Government, and from that to the Municipality, and the effect of giving a moiety of the fines under it to the farmer may be to increase his activity, still the clause forbidding him to compromise offences which was in the old Act and has been left out of the new one vitiates everything.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

Concerning this atrocious outrage, of which we gave particulars in our last, we have received the following from a correspondent, dated Shanghai, July 14th.

There is not a shadow of doubt that the massacre was instigated by officials. A certain Szechuen mandarin, who was on active service at Nanking as a ti-tee or general officer, when Rochechouart was there, came into collision with the latter, and was somewhat curtly treated. This man is the intimate friend of the Fu of Tientsin, and went to Tientsin a few days before the incendiary proclamation was issued. It is thought that Tsing Kuer-fan was also an instigator, for the secret memorial shows that Tsing is bitterly opposed to foreigners, though he quite appreciates their power. Moreover, Tsing is a man of vast ambition, and has been very badly used by his Government, being practically degraded from the post of Governor-General to that of Governor. He was formerly Governor-General of Kiangsu, Kiangse, and Anhuie, and is now Governor-General of Chihli only. If, therefore, he could inflict injury on foreigners, and, at the same time, bring down their vengeance on Peking, he would be killing two birds with one stone. As an illustration of the pride of his family, his son, who is a distinguished man of letters, refused to pass any examination, which is the portal of official life. Pressure, however, was brought to bear on the Court, and, the other day, young Tsing was appointed by edict to a secretaryship in one of the Peking boards.

But although undoubtedly instigated by officials, the massacre cannot be said to have been officially originated. The Cabinet here had nothing to do with it, beyond being so weak that they are mere puppets in the hands of the anti-foreign party, and, therefore, unable to inspire any fear of consequences from home falling on the perpetrators of the outrage. Hence at present there is no ground for war. That ground must arise from the refusal of the Chinese to meet the demands of the French. Now, what ought the French to do and to demand? In the first place, it is now officially announced that Ching How, accompanied by Mr. Meadows, head of the Imperial arsenal at Tientsin, and Messrs. Novion and Im bert, of the Customs service, will, within a month, leave for Paris to negotiate the matter. It is important to notice that Ching How is not, in the eyes of his countrymen, a high mandarin. He is Foreign Commissioner at Tientsin. He has never governed a province, and, in fact, his official existence is altogether anomalous. He is appointed solely to control the "barbarians," and if foreigners left China to-morrow, Ching How would become a mere private individual, and would probably return to mercantile life. His Legation to Paris is, therefore, a mere "coolie Legation," and the French Government will make a great mistake if they receive it officially. The Chinese do not understand the courtesy which causes their envoys to be received at foreign Courts, when they keep their own ruler inviolate from the pollution of foreign eyes. They, consequently, regard every audience granted to a "coolie Minister" as an act of submission.

The French ought to insist upon an audience of the Emperor, either by Rochechouart or by a special envoy. Bruce had ambassadorial powers in reserve, should he ever stand in need of them—a fact which cannot be too generally known. Rochechouart ought to be appointed to conclude this affair, or else the Chinese will say that his being superseded by someone else is a mark of disgrace; but it is also necessary that he should be armed with ambassadorial letters, and firmly demand a garrison Taku, with at least two regiments, at the expense of the Chinese Government, who are confessedly unable to control their own servants and subjects. All this ought to be done before the winter. For three months Peking, Tientsin, and Newchwang are cut off from help, and during those months God knows what may happen to the foreign residents!

A mixed commission should also be appointed to try the offenders, and, if it takes ten years to detect them, let the guilty parties be brought to justice; when convicted they should be executed by the French. Hanging is an "honourable" death among the Chinese; beheading is the usual process; but neither of these forms of execution would suit the present case. Special emergencies demand special means. The condemned should be blown from the mouths of guns. We know what the effect of this was in India—it would be immeasurably greater here.

Lastly, indemnity, cession of territory, or whatever else the French Government may demand, should be insisted on, under penalty of war. Do not be deceived into the mistake that the present massacre is anything exceptional. International law does not recognise either consuls or nuns, as such; therefore what the Chinese have to account for are certain atrocious murders committed by persons whose official position infinitely aggravates their offence. Such murders may, at any moment, be repeated, because the Chinese Government has not the power, if it has the inclination, to exercise proper control over powerful official subordinates, who are subordinates only in name. Unless a bitter expiation is exacted for the Tientsin Massacre, foreigners lives will be no longer worth a day's purchase in China; and no European can feel justified in keeping his wife and family here to share his dangers. Decision and promptitude may restore security on a permanent basis, but nothing else will do, and no time is to be lost.

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—I have read carefully the article headed "Missionaries in China" in your Express of May 4th, and wish to offer some remarks on the reply of Sir Rutherford Alcock, of which you give a summary, to the question whether any British subject (he is dealing with the claim of missionaries) has a right to hold any land or building in China away from an open port. He says that before this question can be answered in the affirmative it must be shown that such a right has been conceded to French missionaries, in which case Englishmen might claim to share it under the "favoured nation" clause. Now, in the "Convention of Peace between the Emperors of France and China," signed and sealed by their Plenipotentiaries at Peking, Oct. 25, 1860, it is said, Art. VI., according to the Chinese version, "It shall be promulgated throughout the length and breadth of the land, in the terms of the Imperial edict of Feb. 20, 1846, that it is permitted to all people in all parts of China to propagate and practice 'the teachings of the Lord of Heaven,' to meet together for the preaching of the doctrine, to build churches and to worship; further, all such as indiscriminately arrest [Christians] shall be duly punished, and such churches, schools, cemeteries, lands, and buildings, as were owned on former occasions by persecuted Christians shall be paid for, and the money handed to the French representative at Peking for transmission to the Christians in the localities concerned. It is, in addition, permitted to French missionaries to rent and purchase land in all the provinces, and to erect buildings thereon at pleasure." There is here a most ample concession to French missionaries of the right in question; but Sir Rutherford Alcock replies that this article is not in the French version of the Convention, and nothing, therefore, can be argued from it, because by Art. III. of the Treaty between France and China, signed at Tientsin, June 27, 1858, it is stipulated that the French version of that and all other engagements between the two Empires shall be the only authoritative one.

There is thus brought clearly to the notice of the public, for the first time, a very strange fact, on which I should like to address a few inquiries to Sir Rutherford Alcock.

I.—Who foisted such an important article into the Convention between the Emperors of France and China?

II.—How came the Chinese Government to accept an article which must have been so distasteful to it, and a portion of which is really oppressive and unjust?

III.—How came the French Government to allow the introduction of such an article, and thereafter to insist, as it has done, on the fulfilment of it?

IV.—How came the Ambassadors of Great Britain and the United States to be silent on a transaction of so doubtful a character? Something was whispered about it, for the member for Chelsea, in writing to The Times, about the time of the Yangchow imbroglio, affirmed that the article in question was a forgery, about which something might be learned at the Foreign Embassies in Peking. But the representatives of the nations abovementioned should have spoken out boldly on the matter. Of whom were they afraid? Let me observe, however, leaving the article in the French Convention, that what we call the "most favoured nation clause" is to the effect that "the British Government and its subjects shall be allowed free and equal participation in all privileges, immunities, and advantages that may have been, or may hereafter be, granted by his Majesty the Emperor of China to the Government or subjects of any other nation." There is no limitation to the application of this provision by the condition that "the privileges, immunities, and advantages" shall be granted by solemn treaty. Given the fact that they are actually granted by the Government of China to subjects of any other nation, and it would seem to follow from the wording of Art. 54 of our treaty that they must be granted to British subjects as well.

Sir Rutherford Alcock should not say that it is merely "on sufferance that French missionaries are permitted to exercise the right of internal residence in a limited degree." Everybody knows that that right and other privileges are conceded to them, it may be not heartily, but, actually, in an unlimited degree.

The dreadful massacre at Tientsin on the 21st ult. shows at what risks the treaty rights of foreigners in China have to be asserted even in the open ports; but it is an all but universal conviction of Europeans and Americans in this part of the world that the tragedy, which will by this time be thrilling the civilised world with horror, has been caused in a great measure by the want of boldness and decision in the representatives and Government of Great Britain, in insisting on the rights of their countrymen. There will soon, in all probability, be a readjustment of all foreign relations with the Empire of China, which will be satisfactory only by the co-operation of all Western nations in it. Let them act together in confidence and candour, and with decision, and we may hope for a new settlement, with happier issues than have resulted from the past.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

Hong Kong, July 19. Z.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA, JULY 21.—The market had been very quiet during the fortnight, and transactions had been on a small scale. Grey Shirtings were in very limited inquiry; prices were nominal. Cotton Yarn had become dull of sale, and prices were weak. Velvets and Woollens without change. The Singapore, Albatross, and John Milton had arrived from England with large supplies of general staples. Quotations were as follows:—Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, per picul, $46.50 to 47.50; 28 to 32, $49 to 50; 38 to 42, $51 to 52; Camlets BBB and S, per piece, $14 to 14.50; ditto, SS, $13.25 to 13.50; ditto, SSS, $10 to 11; Cloth, medium and broad, per yard, $1.04 to 1.60; Spanish Stripes, per yard, $0.75 to 1.0; Long Ells (Assorted), per piece, $8.0 to 8.75; Blankets, per lb., $0.30 to 0.35; Iron, nail rod, per picul, $2.50 to 3.50; Lead, $5 to 6; Coals (English), per ton, $8.50 to 9.0.

HIOGO AND OSAKA, JULY 16.—The market for Piece Goods had been quiet during the month, and quotations were, if anything, somewhat lower than those previously ruling. Grey Shirtings: A fair demand had existed, and at one period prices had a firmer tone. At the slight decline now quoted they continued saleable. Cotton Yarn was neglected during the earlier part of the month, leading to a decline of about Rios 10 per picul. A better inquiry was felt at the close, and prices had regained firmness. Chintz of good patterns was saleable. Black Velvets and Turkey Reds were asked for at quotations. Taffachelass entirely neglected. Camlets: A few sales of Black reported at about previous rates. Lustres continued in fair demand, Black and White being the favourite colours. Mousselines de Laine showed some improvement, but none but the best patterns attracted attention. Blankets saleable, but prices improved very slowly. Iron: There was a little inquiry for Hoop. The quotations at the close ruled as follow (in dollars at 106 rios per 100 dollars):—Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $136.80 per bale; 28 to 32, $141.51; 38 to 42, $146.22. Cotton Piece Goods: GE Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., per piece, $2.59; 8¼ to 8½ lbs., $2.94 to 2.97; 9 lbs., $3.18; GE White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, $2.59 to 2.83; 64 to 72, $3.18; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $2.12 to 2.47; Handkerchiefs, Assorted, per dozen, $0.57 to 0.71; Brocades and Spots, White, per piece, $2.71; ditto, Dyed, $2.83 to $3.30; Chintz, Assorted, 24 yds. 30 in., $1.80 to 3.07; ditto, Turkey Red, $2.59 to 3.18, Turkey Red Cambrics, 3 lbs., $2.83 to 3.07; Velvets, Black, $7.55 to 8.02; Victoria Lawns, $1.24; Iron, Bars, per picul, $2.36; ditto, Nail Rod, $2.36 to 2.59; ditto, Hoop, $2.83 to 3.07; Lead, $5.90 to 6.13; Tin Plate, $6.13.

SHANGHAI.—The advancing tendency which prevailed at the date of the last advices was checked by the arrival of the steamer Nanzing from Tientsin, with news that fresh disturbances were anticipated there. The dealers had, in consequence, withdrawn from the market; while some of the early speculators were endeavouring to realise at the little profit shown by the late advance in prices. Whilst the uncertainty prevailed, a re-sale of 8¼ lb. Grey Shirtings, of good chop, by silkmen, established the rate at Tls. 2.0.8 per piece. Similar goods were sold afterwards at fully 1 mace per piece advance. The quotation for them at the close was Tls. 2.2.3 to 2.2.5 per piece, and Dewhurst's best Eagles were held for Tls. 2.2.8 to 2.3.0 per piece, but the dealers seem indisposed to operate at these extreme figures. White Shirtings reported to have changed hands to the extent of 40,000 pieces. In value, however, these had receded, true 64 reed having been sold at Tls. 2.2.2½ per piece. T-Cloths: The market continued very irregular. At the same time there was a general improvement, both in demand and value. Drills: Larger settlements than at any previous period this season; demand almost exclusively for English and Dutch; some 10,000 pieces of Americans reported, at Tls. 3.2.7 to 3.3.5 per piece; and upwards of 40,000 pieces of the former makes at Tls. 2.6.8 to 3.1.5 per piece—the latter figure for best 16 lb. goods. Jeans also improved, and slowly rising in value; transactions in all kinds estimated at about 25,000 pieces, at Tls. 2.3.5 per piece for American, Tls. 2.0.2 to 2.1.5 per piece for English, and Tls. 2.2.5 per piece for Dutch 9 lb. best goods. Sheetings: Only one sale reported—700 pieces, superior quality, 15 to 16 lb. goods, 40 in. by 40 yards, at Tls. 3.7.0 per piece. Fancy Cottons: Attention directed chiefly to Velvets, Velveteens, Chintzes, Mottles, and Cotton Lastings, considerable lots of these placed at current quotations. A sale of best Gentian Shirtings at Tls. 2.50 per piece. Estimated sales during the fortnight: Velvets, 1,800 pieces; Velveteens, 7,000 pieces; Chintzes, 6,200 pieces; Mottles, 2,500 pieces; Cotton Lastings, 2,000 pieces; Brocades, white and dyed, 1,000 pieces; Spotted Shirtings, white and dyed, 600 pieces; Damasks, 600 pieces. Woollens: A better feeling had been apparent. Long Ells of favourite chop wanted, ordinary and outside chops very difficult to place, unless at about Tls. 4.3.0 to 4.6.0 per piece, for very fair quality and assortment. Spanish Stripes have likewise improved, at an advance of 2c. per yard. Figured Orleans: A speculative feeling springing up, but only a trifling business reported; quotations very low. Martaban Crapes sold as low as Tls. 2,8.0 per piece for cash. In Camlets not much doing; prices are steady. Estimated sales: Camlets, 1,820 pieces; Long Ells, 7,500 pieces; Spanish Stripes, 4,300 pieces; Martaban Crapes, 3,600 pieces; Figured Orleans, 2,800 pieces: Lastings, 800 pieces. Iron: No business done; rates nominally unchanged; stocks heavy. Lead: Foreign holders firmer in their demands; L.B. quoted fully 1 mace higher. Good common chops changed hands at Tls. 4.20 to 4.25. Quotations (duty paid in Shanghai sycee):—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.7.8 to 1.8.6 per piece; 8¼ to 8½ lbs., Tls. 2.1.8 to 2.2.8; 9 lbs., Tls. 2.2.5 to 2.3.0; G.E. White Shirtings, 1.7.5 to 2.4.5. T-Cloths, 6 lbs., Ordinary, Tls. 1.1.5 to 1.2.4; 7 lbs., Tls. 1.2.5 to 1.3.8; 6 lbs. HANKOW.—Grey Shirtings: For the season of year, sales had been on a fair scale, but in the face of declining rates, advised by each successive steamer from Shanghai, prices had given way considerably. 7 lbs. closed at Tls. 1.75 to 1.76; 8¼ lbs., Tls. 2.10 to 2.18, enquiry being chiefly directed to best goods, and 9 to 10 lbs., Tls. 2.30 to 2.55 per piece, almost nominal. HONG KONG.—The amount of business done of late had been much restricted, on account of the disturbed state of public feeling, which was participated in by Chinese fully as much as by foreigners. Quotations were nominally lower all round. Cotton Yarn: There had been little or no demand, and only two or three sales were reported. These were of a forced character, and showed a smart reduction in prices. Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs. in good supply and little inquiry; 8.4 lbs. better held, but sales of the best qualities reported at $2.84 to 2.85 per piece. Of 10 lbs. some fine makes had been moved at $3.60 per piece. White Shirtings: No change from late inactivity. Grey T-Cloths: The bulk of the business had been in this class of goods, which, however, did not show any signs of improvement. Indeed, whilst they continue to be shipped so freely from hence such a change can scarcely be expected, even by the most sanguine exporters. Grey Twills: Almost nothing doing. Woollen Cloths: Sales of medium and superfine. Spanish Stripes: Business trifling. Long Ells: No improvement. Camlets: Still but little demand, sales reported at about former rates. Lastings: Special colours and qualities taken at low prices. Metals: Nail Rod Iron without change, and firmly held in many instances. Wire: No sales reported. Lead: W. EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA, JULY 21.—A somewhat brisk demand had resulted in rather heavy settlements, amounting to about 6,000 piculs; making settlements since the last American mail fully 8,000 piculs. These consisted of good medium to choice grades, and were principally for the New York market. Prices had ruled very firm, and higher rates than those quoted had been paid, but a cessation in the demand during the few days preceding the close had caused a slightly easier tendency, and closing prices were the same as those last quoted. Supplies had more than met the demand, and the stocks were increased and of good quality. The Pacific mail steamer took a large quantity both from China and Japan. The Chloris would sail on the 22nd July for New York with 357,531 lbs.; there were several vessels offering for the same port. The closing quotations were:—Common and good common, nominal; medium, $37 to 39 per picul; good medium, $40 to 43; fine, $44 to 47 per picul; finest, $48 to 50; choice, $51 to 55.

HIOGO AND OSAKA, JULY 16.—After the departure of last mail considerable settlements were made, and prices advanced Rios 8 and upwards on last quotations. The market closed weak, and many holders were anxious to realise at reduced prices. The high opening rates had caused unusually heavy arrivals for this period of the season. Arrivals estimated at about 4,600 piculs; settlements at about 2,600 piculs; stocks at about 2,000 piculs. Quotations: Common and good common, none; medium (new leaf), Rios 36 to 42 per picul; good medium, Rios 43 to 48 per picul; fine (new leaf) Rios 49 to 55 per picul; finest, Rios 56 to 62 per picul; choice, none.

SHANGHAI.—Black: A very large business had been transacted since the departure of the last mail, at prices showing more than usual irregularity, and although many of the purchases would point to an advanced market, others (principally those ranging from Tls. 20 to 24) showed no advance in rates. Ningchow Teas possessing point, but of the doubtful keeping capacity peculiar to this class of Tea, were quality considered, decidedly higher, and few desirable parcels had been purchased at the previous quotations; natives had yielded to some extent in the price of common Teas, and these descriptions had been bought at lower rates than were before demanded. Supplies had continued to come forward freely, as evidenced by the fact that although no less than 100,000 chests had been purchased during the month, stocks still continued as large as 86,000 chests. Few parcels possessing desirable characteristics remained unsold, and the bulk of the stock consisted of dry and dusty Ningchows, slighted Oopacks, and Shantams, of almost matchless inferiority, mostly held for prices beyond their home values, judged by the telegrams from London. Settlements for the fortnight, 46,000 chests; Reshipments on owners' account, 4,600 chests; Stock, 261 chops, or 84,000 packages. Quotations, duty paid (exchange for credits, six months' sight, at 6s. 1d. per tael, and freight at £2. 10s. per ton). Hohow, common to fine, Tls. 18 to 27, equal to 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 6½d.; Oonam and Oanfaa, common to fine, Tls. 18¾ to 27, equal to 1s. 1d. to 1s. 6½d.; Ningchow, common to good, Tls. 20½ to 28, equal to 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6¾d.; Oopack, common to good, Tls. 20½ to 28½, equal to 1s. 2d. to 1s. 7d. Kienteh, good, Tls. 33, equal to 1s. 9¾d. Green: The demand for these had been very active, settlements since 30th June amounted to 14,271 half-chests new Pingsueys. An advance of Tls. 3 to 4 per picul had been established in all fine and finest Teas, caused by the competition between English and American buyers, which last had been purchasing for shipment per P. M. steamer to "New York." Several chops medium Hoochow leaf (Ningpo-packed) had been taken at extreme rates. Quotations were for whole chops Pingsuey, Tls. 36 to 43; fine lines in boxes, Tls. 44 to 52. Settlements for the fortnight, 17,418 half-chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, 533 half-chests; Stock, Pingsuey, 11 chops, or 7,141 packages, and Shanghai-packed, 11 chops, or 5,882 packages.

HANKOW—Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer and Co. report as follows, under date 9th July:—Since 25th ult. our Tea market has been very quiet.

Settlements for the fortnight are 9,268 chests and 1,800 half-chests, the greater part of these being made in the earlier part. Prices from 13¾ to 22½. During the last week little or nothing has been done, the only business being seven or eight barter operations. Stocks are now very small, and only one or two parcels having any approach to quality remain on offer. For these, Teamen are asking high prices, and they will probably soon be placed upon the Shanghai market. Some five or six musters of the second crop Tea have arrived, but being very inferior in quality have met with little favour. One settlement is reported at Tls. 17. Two or three parcels have already been sent to Shanghai. These Teas are late this year, Teamen say, owing to the high prices asked up country, the crop being inferior to last year's. It is rather difficult to determine prices in the present position of the market, but we think latest settlements show an advance of quite Tls. 1 to 2 over previous quotations:—Oonams: Tls. 13¾ to 16 have been paid for Shuntam packed, and Tls. 18 for fair Lee Ling tea; Oonfas, Tls. 17½ to 22; Oopacks, common to fair, Tls. 14 to 17½; medium, Tls. 19½ to 22½. Settlements from June 25:—6,900 packages, at Tls. 13¾ to 18, equal at exchange 6s. 2d.; freight (£2 10s.), 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 4d., Tls. 5 being added for exchange, duty, &c.; 4,300 packages, at Tls. 18 to 22½, equal at exchange, 6s. 2d.; freight (£2 10s.), 1s. 4d. to 1s. 7d., Tls. 5 being added for exchange, duty, &c. Shipments to Shanghai, on native account, 28,000 packages, and since the opening 123,000 packages, against 121,000 packages last year.

FOOCHOW.—Messrs. Silverlock and Co.'s report is as follows:—Business has again been moderate, and heavy stocks remain on offer. Settlements have been chiefly in medium and common teas for the colonies, purchases for England having been confined to the finer Congous, Oolong, and Scented Teas. Second-crop teas have been arriving freely, but have been sparingly dealt in, owing to the high prices asked for them. In make they contrast favourably with the first crop, but they are wanting in strength and flavour in the cup. Prices show little alteration during the week. Fine and finest teas have been settled at rather higher rates, taking quality into consideration. Nearly all the finest have now been cleared off the market. Some of the purchases of medium teas show a decline of 1 to 2 taels. This fall is more general and marked in the flavoury and common kinds. Sellers have submitted to a considerable reduction in the medium and common grades of Pehling Congou, for which there is little demand. The following are the current quotations, to which Tls. 2.8 must be added for duty. The cost at which Teas lay down in London is calculated at an exchange of 4s. 7½d. per dollar, and freight £3 per ton. Dust and siftings, Tls. 6 to 10, equal to 7½d. to 10d., cost in London; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 10 to 14½, equal to 10d. to 1s. 1d.; fair to good common, Tls. 15 to 16½, equal to 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 2d.; flavoury to medium, Tls. 17 to 23, equal to 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 6½d.; good medium to fine, Tls. 24 to 30, equal to 1s. 7d. to 1s. 11d.; fine to finest, Tls. 30 to nominal. Souchong: Settlements have been restricted to the fine and finest, at Tls. 25 to 32, the prices asked for the lower qualities preventing business. One chop of boxes has been settled at Tls. 42. The supply is much in excess of last year. Oolong: Large purchases have been made for America, of common to good cargo, at Tls. 17½ to 22½, equivalent to 60 to 67 cents laid down in New York, at 4s. 7½d. per dollar, and freight at $15 per ton. Scented Teas: A moderate business has been done at former prices, viz., medium to fine, Tls. 23 to 26; fine to finest, Tls. 27 to 30.25.

AMOY.—The market for both Oolong and Congou was opened on the 9th and 11th July. Congous: 5,838 half-chests settled, at rates $1¼ to $1½ under last year's. The crop will be a small one. Oolongs: Fairly dealt in for New York, at somewhat irregular prices. In some cases as much as $2 per picul over last season's rate had been paid; but this apparent advance was to a great extent balanced by the superior quality of the leaf, which is this year freer from dust than even last season. Two vessels loading would take forward the bulk of the fine Teas, which were, for the moment, entirely bought off the market. The crop, though expected to exceed last year's, would not come up to an average. The absence of dust in the leaf made the Teas compare very favourably in this respect with Foochow settlements. On the berth for New York, the Devana and Ocean Gem, the former loading at £2 7s. 6d. for forty feet; the latter's terms not reported. Quotations: Congou, good ordinary, $15½ to 16½; superior, $17 to 18; fine, $21½ to 23. Oolong, good fair to good, $22 to 24; superior, $25 to 28; fine, $27 to 32.

CANTON.—The settlements on Scented Teas had been unusually small, and in most cases a further reduction had been accepted. Some 13,000 boxes were reported to be being returned to the teamen for not being equal to the original muster—a fact which would seem to indicate the good effect the discouraging advices from home were having upon this market. No reliable information could be obtained regarding the season's supply of Country Congou. Canton settlements from 2nd to 16th July:—Country Congous and Canton District Congous, nil; Scented Orange Pekoe, 6,000 boxes, at Tls. 13 to 26; Scented Caper, 3,000 boxes, at Tls. 20 to 30; Canton Greens—Gunpowder 1,500 boxes at Tls. 16 to 28; Young Hyson and Country Greens, nil; stock of Country Congous, 1 chop or 450 chests.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA, JULY 21.—Supplies had not been so large as might have been expected, and settlements had been somewhat limited in consequence, amounting to about 400 bales during the three weeks preceding the departure of the mail. Prices were rather lower than last quoted, $780 to 830 being the current rates for average parcels of Mybash, which had formed the bulk of arrivals, no best parcels having been brought down. Of Silkworms' Eggs, some 3,000 to 4,000 cards had been received, but no settlements were reported; dealers were asking $4 to 5 per card for annuals. Silk settlements:—Hank sorts, 350 bales; other sorts, 50 bales—total, 400 bales. Stocks, new, 300 bales. Quotations:—Hanks, Mybash and Sinchu, extra and best, nominal; medium, $780 to 830 per picul, equal to 31s. 10d. to 33s. 10d; inferior, $700 to 760 per picul, equal to 28s. 10d. to 31s. 1d.

HIOGO AND OSAKA, JULY 16.—During the month an insignificant business had been done, owing to want of supplies. Only a few hand musters of new Silk had reached this port, but bulk was expected very shortly; the quantity and quality were favourably spoken of by natives, but the musters shown were too small to prove this. Settlements for the month were estimated at 50 bales of 80 catties, of old and inferior silks; consequently quotations must be considered quite nominal. Silkworms' eggs were beginning to be brought in pretty freely, but no business had resulted. The quality, so far, was not equal to those of last season. Holders asked Rios 2.25 to 2.50 per card for the best on offer. Natives alleged that the disease Uji is prevalent this year, and also that the Tsu Sho were imposing an extra duty of Rios 4 per bale of 50 catties on Silk and Rios 0.06¼ per card on Silkworms' eggs.

SHANGHAI.—We take the following from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—The business for the French mail which left here on the 8th (taking forward 814 bales to England and 1,378 to France) was done at a rather higher tael price for best chops and Kahing Taysaams, medium Tsatlees showing little alteration. Quotations as follows at exchange 6s. 2d.:—Koo-fong-sing and Choopings, 3rds, Tls. 607½; Dragon, Tls. 600; Cock and Worm, Tls. 587½; Eukefong Elephant chop, Tls. 550; Gold Lion No. 1, Tls. 565; Kukee's Chinjan, Tls. 545; Red Peacock, Tls. 530; medium and inferior Tsatlees, Tls. 515 to 485; Ting-How Kahing, Tls. 510 to 520, but for a few choice selections for the American market, such as best Eagles and Tung-yu "Chang-von," Tls. 520 to 540 was paid. Some Re-reeled Hainins of inferior description were taken at Tls. 590 to 620; Chinese Thrown Tram, 40 to 55 deniers, Tls. 500 to 520. Exchange now shows a further decline, but prices have remained much the same, notwithstanding the dealers' efforts to establish higher rates. The Silk is coming forward more slowly, and is much inferior to the earlier shipments. Many of the native merchants assert that one-half of the Tsatlee crop has already reached this market, and that the total export will certainly be under 38,000 bales. Kahings being scarce, are firmly held, and extreme quotations are wanted for all good Tsatlees, although common descriptions are somewhat easier. No. 2 Fatmow Hainins have fetched the high price of Tls. 512½. Settlements for English mail are about 1,200 bales.

SIAM, AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BANGKOK.—The following is from the Borneo Company's report:—Rice has somewhat declined in value owing to a continuance of unfavourable advices both from China and Japan. We now quote Namaun Mill cleaned Rice at $1.15 per picul, and Nasuan at $1.30 per picul, put on board in the river in mat bags. Paddy: The season for Nasuan grain is now nearly over and supplies can only be collected slowly. Namaun also comes in sparingly and prices continue firm. Until the natives are more assured as to the prospects for the next crop we are likely to have uncertain supplies, and a strong market at or above our present valuations, as our short crop makes the natives extremely unwilling to part with their stocks quickly or at any reduction in prices. White Rice of good quality is worth Tls. 55 per coyan ($1.89 per picul f.o.b.). Sugar: The supplies this season have been unusually scanty, and prices have continued high. Stocks are now comparatively light, and no shipments of consequence can be made until we have next season's crop. BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homœopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets labelled—JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

LOSS OF THE "RANGOON."—The British ship Rangoon, 1,200 tons, Congden, master, from Yokohama to Hong Kong, was lost on the N.E. corner of the Pratas Shoal on the forenoon of the 15th July, and on the afternoon of the same day signals were made to a passing ship, which proved to be the N.S. schooner Laureta, from Newcastle (N.S.W.), by which vessel all hands were saved and bought to Hong Koug. The wreckers had taken immediate possession of the ship, and were employed in stripping her before the master and crew left.

MR. N. B. DENNYS, the assistant editor of the China Mail, has, we understand, accepted an engagement in New York, and will not return to Hong Kong.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

CHINA.

(RECEIVED VIA GALLE, AUG. 30.)

SHANGHAI, AUG. 4.—Advices from Tientsin state that the foreign officials are awaiting instructions from Europe in reference to their further action. Meantime much evidence is being collected, but no decisive steps have as yet been taken to bring the perpetrators of the massacre to justice. Mr. Wade, the British Minister, has visited Tientsin. It is reported that Tseng Kwo-fan, the Governor of Chili, has written a letter to Chung-how, the superintendent of trade for the three northern ports, and the Governor of Tientsin, expressing his belief in the innocence of the missionaries, and that the magistrates were guilty of not restraining the outbreak. No further attack is reported.

HONG KONG, AUG. 18.—The negotiations with the Chinese authorities in connection with the Tientsin tragedy remain in the same position, failing instructions from Europe. A feeling of insecurity prevails at all the Treaty ports, which is increased by this inaction. The presence of the British and French Ministers and the two Admirals at Tientsin has quickened Tseng-Kwo-fan, the Governor of the province, in his inquiry regarding the complicity of the Tientsin mandarins in the massacre.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

THE details of this horrible affair are now before us, and of all the ghastly stories ever presented to us from China we must give this the foremost place. We find no difficulty in tracing out the origin of this tragedy, although some of our contemporaries are disposed to attribute it to the rash conduct of the unfortunate French Consul, M. FONTANIER. Long before this unfortunate gentleman was cut down, however, the cruel deeds were decided on, and we have no patience with the cold-blooded people, both in China and here, who always seek to show that it is the fault of the foreigner. The alleged cause of the catastrophe, the abduction of children, is not in any way borne out. That the Roman Catholic missionaries in China have made a practice of taking into their seminaries children who would have been cast either into the pond or otherwise disposed of we know full well. What more particularly concerns us is the people who bear authority in China, and who, for their own purposes, can rule them well enough. We must bring Western affairs with China into such a shape as will secure us against the rabble taking the law into their own hands. For years past our representative at Peking has been urging upon our Government the policy of having our grievances referred to the Central Government, and patiently await the issue, when, of course, any attempt at retribution would be futile, and yet here we have the inhabitants of Tientsin, a city only eighty miles from Peking, committing an atrocity like this. What other conclusion can we come to but that the local magistrates take the part of their own rabble? Never was there a clearer case. The event did not take place in the dead of night on a surprise, but in broad daylight, and the French Consul was actually before the chief authority, CHUNG HOW, pleading for protection, which, had it been promptly rendered, would have stopped the slaughter. Instead of this, we find that CHUNG HOW does not disturb himself, and that the Consul is cut down while leaving his Yamun. Will any further proof be required of the utter impossibility of treating China on a civilised and equal footing? If we were prepared to accept the position, it was quite clear that the Chinese were not prepared to do the same to us. It is a great calamity that the French are not in a position to obtain immediate satisfaction. As already stated, the least that they should insist on would be the execution of the ringleaders, the rebuilding of all the places destroyed, and an indemnity for each life destroyed to be bestowed on the friends of the deceased. It should be also stipulated that the means of defraying the latter should be levied from the inhabitants of Tientsin. We are indeed glad to observe that Mr. LAY, the acting British Consul, adopted a resolute tone in this melancholy affair.

WE understand that the Netherlands India Steam Company intend to supplement their fleet in Java by building one or two more boats here. It is to be hoped that they will be built more on the American plan, with the cabin accommodation on the fore part of the vessel. The heat and stench from the cargo in the present steamers is intolerable.

LONDON VERSUS THE FAR EAST.

IT is extraordinary how little attention is given to the rapid loading and discharge of sailing vessels and steamers in this country. In the docks in London ships may be seen lying for three to six weeks discharging a cargo of Eastern produce. Then often they have to be towed a mile up the river to be sighted in a dry dock, and back again to a fresh loading berth, where another month (and often two) is wasted while cargo comes creeping down, sometimes in a lighter covered with a miserable tarpaulin, quite insufficient to keep out a heavy rain, and sometimes in a railway truck, protected by a material of no better description. The result of all this is incalculable loss to the shipowner, whose property is eating its head off for some three months, trouble and vexation to the merchant, who never knows when he is going to receive his goods from abroad, or when his outward venture is to be started, loss to the underwriters, for we believe that in many instances they are called upon to pay for damage that has been done by the carelessness of railway officials and lightermen. Indeed, so evident is this to us, that we have often wondered that surveyors are not appointed by LLOYD'S to examine the goods going on board the various vessels in the docks. We have been astonished to see how all these evils can be remedied in ports on the other side of the world, possessed of none of the wealth or facilities ready to the hand in London, Liverpool, or Glasgow. We read, for example, that at the new harbour of Singapore (Tanjong-Pagar) a vessel of any size may be discharged and loaded within ten days, and that if she requires cleaning or repairs she can be hauled into a granite dry dock only a few yards from her berth. Again, the facilities for coaling steamers are almost unparalleled. We see a steamer—the Diomed, 1,200 tons—coming in at two hours past midnight, and leaving again at half-past nine in the morning, having taken on board 377 tons coals. Work of this kind is nothing exceptional; it is a thing of daily occurrence, and is enough to put to shame, if anything could do it, the docks in this country. To the shipowner disgusted with the delays inseparable from his business in England, Singapore must appear a marine paradise. Why so small a place should be in a position to offer advantages unknown to this country we cannot pretend to say; but we will venture to affirm that there must be in the direction of a dock that can do such work as we have described administrative ability as well as enterprise—two qualities altogether wanting, it would seem, in these "boards" that manage similar companies at home.

THE WAR AND THE POSITION.

(London and China Express, Sept. 2.)

THE lull between the encounters of the contending armies was again disturbed on the 30th August by another engagement between the KING and General MACMAHON, near Beaumont, on the left bank of the Meuse, when the French were completely routed and driven back with great loss, several miles towards the Belgian frontier. Their encampments were taken by the invaders, and the number of their prisoners was too great to be ascertained, even approximately, up to the time of our last advices. Another and a most crushing defeat has thus been added to the unvaried record of French disasters in the present war, almost at the same moment that another battle, with a like result, was being fought at Carignan, which is on the eastern side of the Meuse, between Sedan and Montmédy. From these reports from opposite sides of the river it appears almost certain that MACMAHON must have been attacked while in the act of crossing the river, in the forlorn hope of hurrying to the relief of Metz. And these defeats appear to have been almost courted by the miserable generalship of MACMAHON. Once again have vacillation, waste of time, and the apparent absence of a fixed plan thrown away the large force which, by a supreme effort, had been re-gathered under the command of the French Marshal. Eight days should have sufficed for his march the whole distance between Rheims and Metz. MACMAHON had the start of the German Prince by at least thirty-six hours; and yet, after eight days' march, he is cut off and routed about midway in the distance he ought to have accomplished! The march for Metz we have already described as a "forlorn hope," and it is essential to the conduct of such an expedition that it should be carried on with the utmost despatch. If MACMAHON had not resolved to attempt this perilous feat, he had but one alternative—to retire upon Paris, and harass and check the advance and siege operations of the Germans. He chose the former course; it has failed; and the latter is now no longer open to him. The road to Paris lies open to the invading armies; and the remnant of MACMAHON'S forces is hemmed in, within a few miles of the soil of Belgium, while BAZAINE is being starved and stormed out of Metz; the surrender of Strasbourg is only a question of hours, and fresh telegrams, arriving at the moment we are going to press, tell us that fighting is again taking place at Douzy, near Carignan and Sedan, and the Prussians keeping the advantage. At such a moment one question animates all observers—What will be the attitude taken by Paris when the truth of the continual defeat of her armies, which has been as unscrupulously concealed from her by the present, as the late, Government, shall be revealed unmistakably by the appearance of the enemy under her walls? Will she, under such circumstances, enter on a resistance which can only increase the sufferings and the humiliation of France? Or will she, by offers of peace, give a material guarantee that she will no longer submit to the creatures of the dynasty which have cheated her into the present extremity? A few days—perhaps a few hours—will answer the inquiry; and, we believe, in the way which justice demands, and Englishmen would certainly take, were the case their own. It is not likely that an awakened France will sacrifice its capital to prolong a struggle which is decided, past recal, for the sake of a dynasty under which she is almost certain to be dismembered.

ACCORDING to the advices just received from Yokohama it appears that the greatest dissatisfaction prevails at the manner in which the Japanese loan has been raised, and a special agent has been despatched by the Government to London by the American mail to look into the matter, and in a short time we shall doubtless know something more of this mysterious transaction. Mr. LAY keeps the affair as secret as possible, and nothing is yet known of how the proceeds of the loan have been applied. It was, of course, understood that the money was to be expended in rails and other material for constructing the railway, but up to the present time there is no information of such having been done. The impression consequently is, that the amount has been used for clearing off former loans made to the Japanese. The market value of the loan fluctuates, and but for purchases by interested parties to support it the price would be considerably lower. The price at present current on the Stock Exchange is 96 to 98. We believe that the Chancery suit instituted against Mr. LAY by Mr. FAIRBAIRN, Captain OSBORN, and others, for participation in the profits of this loan has not been settled yet.

IT is reported that the French fleet have captured the North German corvette Hertha. The place of capture is not reported, and the information has not been confirmed in any manner. Our correspondent at Nagasaki, whose letter appeared in the London and China Telegraph of August 22, writing on the 24th June, remarked that the movements of the French frigate Dupleix had attracted attention, and we cannot help surmising that the commander of the Dupleix must have had some premonition of France declaring war against Prussia. If so it is another proof that war was a foregone conclusion on the part of the EMPEROR, and yet what a miserable inauguration he and his generals made of it.

THE departure of the 300 to 400 marines for Japan which it was decided to send out by H.M.'s troopship Tamar has been postponed, and this vessel has proceeded on other employment. It appears to have been the intention of the Home Government to have withdrawn all the troops now at Yokohama after the arrival of these marines, but owing to representations from Sir HARRY PARKES we understand that the Government have altered this decision.

ADMIRAL KELLET, Commander-in-Chief of the China and Japan Stations, has, we understand, been requested to mediate between the Prince of SATSUMA and the Koreans, and should the result be favourable for the Japanese the Prince promises larger facilities for trade and the opening of more ports for that purpose. We are sorry to hear that the gallant Admiral is in a bad state of health.

WE have received the prospectus of a new Directory for Hong Kong and the Far East, under preparation by Messrs. STRAHAN and Co., which will be found in our advertising columns. This prospectus has been issued by Mr. C. LANGDON DAVIES, of Hong Kong, and from it we may expect the best Directory yet produced for China.

HER Majesty has been pleased to confirm the appointment of JAMES RUSSELL, Esq., as Police Magistrate at Hong Kong, and to approve of Mr. HECTOR CROSS BUCHANAN as Consul at Colombo for his Majesty the King of Sweden and Norway; and Don LEON CHECA as Consul for Spain at Singapore.

THE China and Japan papers announce a reduction in the rates of the P. and O. Company made by the local agent, but no notice has been issued by the London Office.

No less than 84 steamers are now on the berth for Straits and China via Suez Canal.

WE regret to announce that both Sir RICHARD and Lady MACDONNELL are in a bad state of health.

(THE TIMES.)

The details we published on Tuesday of the Massacre at Tientsin on the 21st of last June prove the French to have been the victims of one of the most horrible outrages ever perpetrated against foreigners by a semi-barbarian race. As many as twenty-two persons, besides natives, were savagely murdered in a brief outburst of popular fury. The French Consul and one of his assistants were cut to pieces at the very doors of the Governor of the city, if not in his very presence; the French Consulate was attacked; the building was sacked and burnt; and a French gentleman and his wife, the guests of the Consul, were murdered and mutilated. At the same moment a furious onslaught was directed against the French missionary establishment. The Priests and Sisters of Mercy were murdered with every circumstance of brutal atrocity. Their bodies were mutilated and burnt, and the Sisters, it is feared, were subjected to still more abominable outrages. The native converts were burnt; and, in the confusion, thirty or forty children from the Orphanage were suffocated. The details are too horrible for repetition. It is enough to say that all the cruelty and barbarity of which the Chinese nature is capable were wreaked on the Frenchmen and the helpless Frenchwomen who happened to be within reach of the mob.

We do not dwell upon these points merely for the sake of discussing the duty of the French, or the degree of punishment to be exacted. It is of the highest interest to ourselves to inquire whether, as some are ready to allege, this is a new instance of an inextinguishable hatred of foreigners, and of the interested connivance of the magisterial class in China, or whether it can in any degree be accounted for by exceptional considerations. The circumstances connected with the outbreak seem to favour the latter supposition. It was not directed against foreigners as such. It was entirely aimed at the Roman Catholic Mission in Tientsin and at the French, as those who promote the Mission. Three Russians, indeed, were killed, but they were mistaken for Frenchmen, and when other Russians, on being attacked, made known their nationality they were at once let alone. No attack was made on the Foreign Settlement, and Englishmen, Germans, and Swiss, who were in the Chinese quarter of Tientsin at the time of the outrage, came down next day to the Foreign Settlement unmolested. The reason of this singular concentration of animosity is not far to seek. The principal element in the Roman Catholic missionary operations was an orphanage. It was the plan of the French priests and Sisters to obtain the charge of friendless children, to bring them up as Christians, and, when they had grown up, to establish them in the country as the heads of Christian families. The plan is said to be successful, but it is obvious that questions of extreme delicacy are liable to be touched in obtaining possession of these children. Kidnapping is a regular, though infamous trade in China, and a custom also prevails for parents to sell their children when young. The missionaries, it appears, had the inconceivable rashness to intrust their native converts with money for the purpose of buying these little slaves to be turned into Christian recruits. The intention may be unexceptionable, but the process is open to the gravest suspicion; and it is believed that some of these converts pocketed the money and supplied the children by the cheaper process of kidnapping. Is it the least to be wondered at that "an ignorant, superstitious, and prejudiced people conceived the most violent suspicions of those who propagated an alien religion by proceedings so capable of abuse? Has there not been a Mortara case in Europe? Within this very year have we not had remarkable experience of the suspicions which even English gentlemen can entertain of Roman Catholic convents? According to our correspondent, the people of Tientsin, again following examples very near home, demanded a strict inquiry into the allegations of kidnapping brought against the missionaries. Now comes the point in which the conduct of the local authorities becomes of importance. They are said to have entreated the French authorities to allow this inquiry to be made and the Orphanage to be inspected. The request was refused, and it was not until after this refusal that the mob rose in fury. Now, we must say that, if all this be true—and it looks exceedingly like truth—the French authorities and the Missionaries imposed a most undue responsibility upon the Chinese magistrates. Indeed, it may be questioned whether the magistrates would have been exceeding their duty if they had insisted on inspection as a condition of allowing the establishment to remain. So long as it remained, they were bound to do their best to protect it; but they could not fairly be asked to relieve the propagators of an alien religion from all consideration for the feelings of the people. In fact, we can understand that the task might be impossible, and China is not the only country in which religious fanaticism, once roused, is savage and unreasoning. The preachers of new truths have undoubtedly as much right to be heard in China as the vendors of new wares, but they must learn to treat the ignorance and the prejudices of the people with consideration and gentleness. This massacre indicates undoubtedly a danger to foreigners in general, because they are liable to be identified with their religious pioneers. But, according to our present information, its causes are so entirely exceptional that it would be extremely unjust to make it the occasion of reviving the antagonism, which we hoped was dying out, between the Chinese and the Western Nations.

(STANDARD.)

Europe has dealt feebly and wickedly with the Chinese, and taught them to despise and to defy her. France, upon the whole, has not rendered herself liable to these suspicions; Great Britain, in fact, had taken a stand upon the letter of former conventions; but we, having tely stipulated with the provincial powers of a jealous and a barous race, find ourselves incapable of protecting, and even of pleador, the subjects of our most valuable ally. It is useless now, and d be base, to urge that our influence was not exerted because our ests were not threatened. We happen, however, to have been ex ited, principally by accident, from the butcheries and mutilations on e banks of the Peiho. We may admit that the Imperial Government s not, personally, responsible for these special outrages. Then who is responsible? What is responsible? With what or with whom do we conclude treaties, and is there a Chinese Government at all? We know that high functionaries have been concerned, and that cannon planted in the embrasures of Imperial forts have been fired upon missionaries and other unoffending strangers. Gathering the net result from the series of broken narratives, we learn in effect this—that Europe has never yet taught the Chinese to observe or respect a treaty; it may not be possible, but, if impossible, in the name of common-sense let us not boast about our Oriental diplomacy. This latest example of outburst and atrocity was, however, as we are bound to say, brought about, in fact, by peculiar circumstances. To begin with, the Roman Catholic missionaries were charged with having kidnapped children for the purpose of killing them, and employing their eyes and other parts of their bodies in medicinal uses. Public warnings, ordered for the walls of vast cities, had, indeed, been posted, But with what meaning? Simply to show that the Imperial Government was either hostile or helpless, or that Europe, in its effort to diplomatise with that, of course, still savage race, has been totally outwitted, baffled, and beaten. A very complicated question arises out of all this. It is asserted that no persons excepting those claiming a French nationality were attacked, or put in fear at all, and that if some Russians were assassinated it was in mistake. We cannot believe it in the least degree. Though our Consul at Tientsin was not assailed, his remonstrances were scouted; his flag was not held in honour; and as for our men-of-war, they were, of course, under the blessed Gladstone dispensation, nowhere. They might have been proudly idling in the Baltic; they might have been fashionably flirting with the autumnal Mediterranean breezes; but not a broadside of them was within hail when the French asked for a friend on the Peiho. We are going a long way, as it seems to us, to separate ourselves from an old and true ally. The moment has not yet arrived, perhaps, for even France to exact indemnification for the agony and the injury inflicted upon her at Tientsin, the scene of our common triumph; or for England to offer, not her alliance, but, for this is due to France, her brotherhood, when humanity has been so disgraced; but the day is not far off. Far be it from us to suggest that Europe should make permanent war upon such an empire as China—as if China ever were an empire!—to secure its trade, or its political relations, or its diplomatic favour. But the character it assumes for itself must not be ignored. Wars, bombardments, submissions, ransoms, and indemnities notwithstanding, it maintains a notion that we—the French, the English, and all the Western races—are the inferiors, and can so be treated whenever an occasion arises. Well, there is no blame to an European community if it trade with a barbaric community upon conditions synonymous with suspicion. But we cannot deal with these Governments or these nations as though the one were responsible or the other civilised. They are to us as they have ever been, and, we are afraid, for many generations must be, strangers. Says a writer:—"We must recognise the fact that the Chinese people, though well-disposed, are ignorant, superstitious, and prejudiced, and that their ignorance, superstition, and prejudices are easily worked upon, and are worked upon to subserve the exclusive ends of their rulers." The truth is that the Chinese Government in its negotiations with our and other European messengers has never been sincere, and has always relied upon the mob to overthrow them. So that the French Consulate itself has been pulled down as though it was a missionary Babel, and murder has been threatened to every British resident. Now we repeat our opinion, many a time recorded in these columns. We have a right to trade with the Chinese. It is of value to us, and it is of value to them. The same with the French. The same with the sacred men who carry the Gospel into the Chinese country. But, after our successive wars, and after our many conventions, we must, at last, give up all confidence in paper faith on the part of Imperial China.

(DAILY TELEGRAPH.)

After reading the detailed accounts of the recent massacre of Europeans at Tientsin, it is difficult to resist the conclusion, that we have as yet made no real progress in dealing with that bitterly bigoted exclusiveness which has ever been the true wall of separation between China and civilised Europe. The three leading features of that outrage—treachery in planning, savage inhumanity in perpetrating, and complicity of the lower officials—carry us back to the days of the Macartney Embassy, when all classes in the Empire regarded foreigners as objects of contemptuous toleration within certain narrow limits, to be sacrificed without hesitation if they once infringe those bounds. For the Tientsin tragedy, indeed, there does not appear to have been even the excuse of broken treaty engagements. The town is one of the northern ports of the Empire that were opened to external trade by the Elgin Treaty, and it contains what is called a foreign settlement, in which most of the Europeans reside. How are we to explain the concentration of popular wrath on the heads of members of one nationality only? Perhaps the Figaro may see the finger of Bismark in this sudden outburst; but out of Paris we suspect there will be little difficulty in understanding the causes of so sanguinary an outrage. Missionaries have always been objects of suspicion in China. They have been distrusted by the officials, who regard them as spies penetrating the country far beyond the tracks of commerce; they are hated by the native priesthood as dangerous rivals, and they are disliked by the lower orders because they are foreigners. Protestant missionaries have occasionally suffered; but, as a rule, the palm of martyrdom has been reserved for the Roman Catholics; who have always been the most aggressive and the most successful in their proselytism. Indeed, the Annals of the Propaganda remind us that they regard China less as a country to be converted than as a relapsed wanderer to be recovered. Nor has the Roman Church forgotten that centuries ago her native adherents in the Empire numbered millions, that her missionaries held places of trust and honour near the Court, and that Jesuits contributed much both of the statesmanship and the science which then flourished in Peking. Hence the modern missionaries are zealous, and a little more. They are not all so prudent as Huc and Gabet, who, besides being pious priests, were accomplished men of the world, alike tolerant and unprejudiced. Unfortunately, the very thoroughness of their devotion to duty strengthens prejudices which might in course of time have died out before a less demonstrative spirit of proselytism. The Romanist missionaries, in their eagerness to save ignorant heathens, keep all the machinery of conversion in constant work to the minutest detail. To chapels, stations, and schools are added orphanages and homes for the helpless poor—institutions which the Chinese cannot understand, and therefore credit with the most diabolical purposes. The principal cause of that hatred with which the mission work at Tientsin was regarded was the charitable zeal of the Sisters in collecting, maintaining, and educating orphan children. The ignorant rabble were told, and they believed, that the children were kidnapped for the purpose of being sacrificed in unholy rites or having parts of their bodies used for medicinal purposes. Had the missionary band been less hasty, had they qualified Christian zeal with worldly discretion, and been content to guide rather than to force local opinion, the outrage might never have occurred. But, as if all this were not enough—as if the claim that China was a mere preserve of the Church were not sufficient to keep native fanaticism in a chronic state of smouldering fury—the French Consul interferes, in his traditional capacity as protector of the Latin Christians, with an imprudence that adds fuel to the flame. It is impossible to deny that the self-asserting demeanour of our gallant neighbours is a cause of offence to many with whom they hold diplomatic intercourse. A Frenchman does not colonise, and he does not negotiate successfully either with savages or with settled communities whose civilisation is of a different type from his own, because his consciousness of ineffable superiority prevents him from seeing in the sentiments of such races anything else than prejudices which must be disregarded. Without casting undue blame on poor M. Fontanier, who has not survived to furnish the world with his own justification, it is impossible not to see in his mode of managing the Governor a repetition of the fatal mistakes that have so often made French officials revolt feelings which they ought as men of the world to have conciliated, and disregard motives which they might have enlisted in their favour. French missionary zeal, French diplomatic brusquerie—these were the direct impelling causes of the Tientsin massacres.

It is painful to record an outrage which recalls the worst episodes in our earlier intercourse with China, and the event shows how much has still to be done before our communications with that enormous Empire can be placed on a satisfactory footing. But the remedies for such a state of things are not difficult to ascertain. We may assume that, with or without the co-operation of other Powers, France will exact some kind of satisfaction for the outrage, and that the indemnity will, to a certain extent, form a guarantee for the future. We may further endorse a claim constantly made by Europeans in China, and admitted by our statesmen in theory, though not always carried out in practice, that the Imperial authorities should by public acts confer such a recognition on foreigners as shall remove the stigma of inferiority and sufferance, and convince the most ignorant natives that Europeans are not barely tolerated, but are practically equal. Again, weak as the central authority may be, we are at least entitled to claim from it such an exercise of its power as shall restrain official subordinates from pandering to the lowest passions of the populace, and shall punish them sharply if they abuse their power to plot against the foreign residents who enjoy a nominal protection from the State. But our chief ground of hope in better things for the future lies in the conduct of foreigners themselves. After all, even fanaticism has its limits, and it cannot be difficult for Europeans resident in China to study the feelings of their most ignorant neighbours, and to disarm their prejudices, however unreasonable. There is some encouragement for them to do so in the fact that enlightenment and knowledge are spreading, though slowly, in the Celestial Empire; and that each new foreign settlement becomes, after a time, a centre not only of trade, but of toleration. If missionaries choose their steps cautiously, and remember that to conciliate is the first condition of enduring success—if Consuls moderate the zeal of their countrymen as readily as they enforce demands on the Imperial authorities—there will be no repetition of the tragedy of Tientsin, and no necessity for those violent measures of reparation which so often embitter the original dispute.

(THE GLOBE.)

If this outrage had been committed in a moment of sudden excitement, a heavy responsibility would still have rested on the inhabitants and the authorities of the town, but it is impossible to acquit the mob of having premeditated, and the mandarins of having wilfully neglected every precaution to prevent, the sad catastrophe. Eight days prior to the attack placards were posted on the walls of the city announcing that on the 21st the Frenchmen and the Sisters of Charity were to be massacred, and when the fatal day arrived the mob was collected by beat of gong, and was dispersed by the same signal. Report says that the rioters were largely recruited from the local fire brigades, and the fact that the fire signals were used and obeyed by the mob seems to confirm this belief; but whoever were the actual perpetrators of the outrage, it is certain that for days beforehand its probable occurrence was a common subject of conversation, and as the day drew near there were not wanting premonitory symptoms, such as stone throwing at and open abuse of Frenchmen as they passed along the streets to warn the victims of their approaching danger. These symptoms were not disregarded by the foreign consuls, who one and all addressed urgent remonstrances to Ching How on the subject. On the 18th, 20th, and again on the 21st, the British Consul wrote to that mandarin, urging him to take steps to prevent a rising, but his letters were disregarded and left unanswered. There can be no doubt, therefore, that the Chinese officials showed most culpable negligence prior to the event, and the probability is that they were not unwilling that the hated Roman Catholic missionaries should be taught by a stone-throwing mob to limit their perhaps too successful operations. But when the storm arose they found they were quite unable to govern it, and the concern they have shown at the fatal results of their own negligence is probably genuine. On the news of the massacre reaching Peking, Tseng-kwo-fan, the Viceroy of the Province, was ordered to make a searching inquiry on the spot into the affair. By a later telegram we are informed that M. de Rochechouart, the French Chargé d'Affaires, has demanded the execution of three mandarins, two of whom, it is stated by the same authority, are to be beheaded at his request. We hope that if this is true it is only part of the penalty that will be exacted for the outrage. In a country like China, where locomotion is slow and difficult, the knowledge of any such local reprisal would probably never spread more than a few miles. It is essential to the safety of foreigners living in China that for such a glaring case of political dishonesty and popular cruelty a punishment should be inflicted which should be known and felt throughout the length and breadth of the empire.

(NEW YORK JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.)

The massacre of Europeans and native Christians at Tientsin recalls to mind the horrible barbarities of religious wars in Europe a few centuries ago. It also brings afresh to remembrance the burning of Catholic churches in Philadelphia, and the sacking of a convent in Charlestown, Massachusetts, not many years since, and the street fights between Ribbonmen and Orangemen in Eighth Avenue the other day. Wherever bitter religious antagonism exists, whether in Europe, the United States, China, or Japan, such dreadful scenes are likely at any moment to be enacted. Their occurrence should not be taken as a proof of the general want of civilisation and humanity in any nation where they take place. To foreigners as a class China and the Chinese are not unkindly disposed. When we consider the bold and revolutionary character of European and American civilisation, how audaciously it proceeds to the overturning of all the religious and social customs of any people where it enters the wedge, we are not surprised at the bloody and desperate resistance which it meets at stages of its onward course. We judge the feelings of a brutal Chinese mob towards the temples and observances of Christian settlers and converts by those of the San Francisco canaille towards the Chinamen who come to this land of boasted civilisation, religious freedom and equality under the law. We are not sure that even in New York, Boston or Philadelphia, where there is no pretence of danger from Asiatic immigration and heathen example, a Buddhist temple would be safe for twenty-four hours. There are men in every one of the great American cities capable, in a wild outburst of fanatical frenzy, of perpetrating all the outrages committed by the "Dead Rabbits" and "Blood Tubs" of Tientsin. We commend this fact—for it is a fact—to the consideration of thoughtful Americans. We ask them to look with philosophic impartiality upon the infamous treatment dealt out to the Chinese in parts of this country, San Francisco, for instance, where the laws do not suffice for the protection of Chinamen, and, worse still, where laws are passed virtually outlawing them. We ask them to read the denunciatory resolutions against Chinese labour advocated by men calling themselves statesmen and adopted by trades unions and political conventions. What are all these but the seeds from which crops of massacres may be gathered at some not very distant day? And what else can Americans expect, when they allow Chinese to be attacked and beaten in the streets, but that Americans will be assaulted, by way of reprisal, in the cities of China? At the beginning of the Chinese persecution in the United States, we declared that redress would be exacted at the expense of Americans resident in China; and had Americans formed any part of the Christian population of Tientsin, they would have fallen beneath the vengeful hands of the native rabble, as did the twenty-two Europeans and the forty Chinese children who, as representatives of the Christian religion and Christian civilisation, received the whole force of the blow. The statement, with the scanty evidence before us, is not susceptible of proof—but it is not improbable that the American wrongs upon Chinamen led to the Tientsin butcheries. If this be so, it becomes Americans to look at home and set a better example of toleration to the Chinese before demanding from our Government in connection with other foreign Powers the swift and summary chastisement of China for the supposed complicity of that nation in the outrages. If for every American persecuted in China we should demand apology and reparation, we should be prepared to make the same atonement to China for the maltreatment of her citizens dwelling here in the peaceful pursuit of a livelihood.

THE BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade returns for the month and seven months ending 31st July last show, for the first time for several months, a slight falling-off in the total of our exports, the declared value of these for July being £17,346,764, against £17,394,951 in July, 1869. The principal changes are a decrease in apparel, beer, cotton yarn, haberdashery, linen yarn, machinery, copper and brass, woollen yarn, and woollen manufactures, but an increase in coals, cotton manufactures—9 per cent.—hardwares, jute, yarn, linen manufactures, iron and steel manufactures, silk manufactures, and "unenumerated" articles. For the seven months the totals are £114,455,872 in the present year, against £108,880,216 in the corresponding period of 1869, and £100,349,426 in the first seven months of 1868. The free imports of last month were generally below the corresponding month last year, the principal falling-off being in wheat, Indian corn, and flour. Raw cotton shows a considerable increase, which is entirely due to the United States shipments, and wool seems to have diminished about 45 per cent. In the quantities of articles subject to duty entered for home consumption the changes are unimportant. Cocoa, sugar, tea, and spirits have been taken out in additional quantities, while coffee, fruit, molasses, tobacco, and wine have slightly diminished. The computed real value of the principal articles imported in the first six months of this year was £118,754,135, against £107,062,638 in the first half of 1869, and £110,857,665 in the corresponding period of 1868.

The following is a summary of those figures which relate to our Export trade with China and other countries in the Far East:—

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. W. J. and H. Thompson's Circular:—Samples ex Ajax have been placed upon the market. The Teas as a whole have been in favour, and a good business has been transacted; in some of the fine kinds, at better prices than those in the previous steamers. In inferior common Black Leaf Teas of old import the Sales during the week show a further decline. Foo Chow Congous: Siftings, dust, and broken leaf remain as last quoted; and by Public Sale common to good common has been realised at 10d. to 11d., and good common to fair 11d. to 1s. per lb.; prices being about equal to those ruling last week. Black Leaf Congous: At the last Auctions inferior common was sold at 6¼d. to 7¾d. per lb., which showed a further decline, and good common to fair at 11d. to 1s. per lb. The sales, ex-Ajax, have been for good medium to fine 1s. 6¼d. to 1s. 11d.; fine 2s. to 2s. 2d.; finest 2s. 4d. to 2s. 7d. Tayshan Congous: A few parcels of common, at public sale, realised 10¾d. to 11d. per lb. Souchongs: About 1,000 boxes of fair to good have been sold at 11¾d. to 1s. 2¾d. per lb. Oolongs are still without enquiry. Scented Teas: A few sales have been made of common Canton Scented Caper at 5¼d. to 8d. per lb., and medium Foo Chow Scented Orange Pekoe at 1s. 0¼d. to 1s. 0¾d. per lb. Green Teas: 1,836 packages New Season's Ping Sueys, ex-Ajax, are advertised for public sale "without reserve;" privately two invoices have been placed on the market, but as yet no sales have been reported. The quality is generally considered inferior to last season's. The China auctions commenced on the 30th, and concluded on the 31st ult. They comprised 16,579 packages. 13,594 packages "Without Reserve," chiefly of the commoner grades, and prices realised for black-leaf teas of inferior common quality show a further decline on former rates.

SILK.

Messrs. Durant and Co'.s Circular says:—The market is still very quiet. Some little business is doing daily, but in the smallest possible quantities. The total arrivals of new Silk have reached comparatively large figures, 7,000 bales China and 1,600 bales Canton—hitherto a very small proportion has been put forward for sale, or rather a very large proportion is entirely withheld. Hence in some few cases decidedly improved prices have been realised, chiefly in medium quality Tsatlee—but the whole quantity sold does not probably exceed 600 to 800 bales. Foreigners are not buying, so that it is only the daily requirements of the home consumers that make the little business that is doing. In Japan Silk we are without any new Silk; some few hundred bales of old Maibash have been sold at very low prices, but this has not hitherto induced any increased attention to this Silk, so we make no quotations for the other classes. In Canton Silk nothing of moment has been done, only some very few small parcels of new Silk have been sold.

COFFEE.

The supplies of Ceylon at the public sales have been larger than for some time past, and there has been some pressure to sell, while the inquiry has been less active. The sales have therefore been at somewhat lower prices, and the advance reported last mail may be said to have been lost. The following have been the latest prices paid:—Plantation Ceylon, triage and ordinary, 37s. 6d. to 56s.; small grey to coloury, 54s. 6d. to 60s.; low middling grey to middling coloury, 55s. 6d. to 65s. 6d.; bold grey, 63s. to 68s.; good middling to good bold coloury, 66s. 6d. to 78s.; peaberry, 70s. to 78s. 6d. Native Ceylon, small, 41s.; small good ordinary, 45s. 6d.; good ordinary, 46s. 6d.; fine ordinary, 47s. 6d.; bold, 48s. 6d.; good bold pale, 50s.; peaberry, 49s. 6d. to 51s.

The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation 308,112 cwt., against 275,046 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 23,140 cwt., against 44,369 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 15,018 cwt. Plantation, against 8,252 cwt., and 21,768 cwt. Native, against 19,290 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-four weeks ended Aug. 27, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 23,920 tons, against 25,060 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 39,729 tons, against 46,917 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 6,932 tons, against 7,339 tons; of all descriptions, 12,214 tons, against 12,326 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 18,262 tons, against 17,004 tons; of all descriptions, 28,946 tons, against 29,429 tons. The stock on Aug. 27 was, of Ceylon, 12,590 tons, against 11,712 tons; of all descriptions, 22,788 tons, against 24,382 tons. The weekly landings being but slighly in excess of last year's, and as the deliveries continue to show a falling off, the deficiency in the stock is now lessened to 1,600 tons. Stock, Aug. 20, 22,835 tons, against 24,949 tons. Stock, Aug. 27, 22,788 tons, against 24,382 tons.

CINNAMON.

The following report of the quarterly sales which took place on the 29th ult. is from Messrs. Brookes and Faith's Circular:—The sales comprised a total quantity of 2,178 bales, with sundry parcels and boxes. Of the above, nearly 500 bales consisted of low spurious or Sassafras kind, and were retired at 3d. to 5d. per lb. in the total absence of demand. Of the remainder, about 1,200 bales sold, prices (as compared with the rates obtained last May), showing a general decline of 3d. to 5d. per lb., noticeable more particularly upon the medium and finest qualities. The common and good sorts were better competed for. Broken Cinnamon was in excellent demand, and sold from 1s. 7d. to 1s. 9d. per lb. for good quality. Chips: The assortment was not good, but for the small lots offered, fair prices were obtained, good selling at 5d. to 5½d. per lb., and fair at 3d. to 3½d. Low flavourless bark was in superabundance, about 2,000 bags being offered, but as there were no bids for any quantity over 1½d. per lb., same were all withdrawn, 2½d. being generally asked. Prices ranged as under for sound Cinnamon, viz.:—Superior quill, 3s. 1d. to 3s. 3d.; firsts, good to fine, 3s. 1d. to 3s. 3d.: do., middling to fair, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 10d.; do, very low and ordinary, 1s. to 2s.; seconds, good to fine, 2s. 9d. to 3s. 2d.; do., middling to good middling, 2s. to 2s. 8d.; do., very low to ordinary, 1s. to 1s. 10d.; thirds, good to fine, 2s. 3d. to 2s. 11d.; do., middling to fair, 1s. 6d. to 2s. 6d.; do, coarse and inferior, 10d. to 1s. 3d.; fourths, good to fine, 1s. 5d. to 2s. 2d.; do., ordinary to middling, 8J. to 1s. 3d.; do., very low, unassorted, 3d. to 5d.; jungle, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3d.; broken good, 1s. 7d. to 1s. 9d.; chips, good to fine, 5d. to 6d.; ordinary to middling, 3d. to 4d.; bark, 1½d. to 2½d.

SUGAR.

There has been an extremely limited demand since our last report, and but little business has been done; prices are nominally the same as those last quoted. At the public sales there have been no transactions in East India kinds; an offer of 1,568 baskets Java was bought in, middling to good yellow (duty 5s. 3d.), at 29s. 6d. to 31s.; brown (duty 4s. 9d.) at 27s. 6d. to 28s. 6d.; also 2,796 bags very low dark at 17s. Privately, 3,000 bags clayed Manila have been sold at 21s. 6d., and 6,000 bags of unclayed Zebu at 18s. 6d.

The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-four weeks ended Aug. 27, 1870, was—of Penang, 2,277 tons, against 2,101 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 14,423 tons, against 23,198 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 1,588 tons, against 1,681 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 17,032 tons, against 11,560 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 95 tons, against 82 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,830 tons, against 1,035 tons. The stock on Aug. 6 was, of Penang, 2,924 tons, against 667 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 31,351 tons, against 39,168 tons. The landings for the week, consisting wholly of British West India and Mauritius, are smaller than for some time past, but almost exactly on a par with last year, and, as the deliveries in the two years also show but little difference, the position of the stock is unaltered. Stock, August 20, 105,228 tons, against 86,667 tons; stock, Aug. 27, 102,937 tons, against 84,338 tons.

COIR GOODS.—At the last sales only small quantities were offered, which were mostly sold at steady rates, especially for good qualities. 32 tons Ceylon Yarn sold, common, £19 15s.; medium, £24 10s. to £24s. 15s.; good, £28 10s. to £30; fine, £35 5s. to £38; and 50 bales low coarse red Conconada, commencing at £9 and closing at £11; 3,400 ballots Ceylon Fibre sold, fine bright, £26 to £27 5s.; common kinds, £10 5s. to £13 15s.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The enquiry for Ceylon has become less active, but prices are firmly maintained; there are buyers at £37 and sellers at £37 10s. The quantity of Ceylon afloat is estimated at 23,219 cwt., against 18,068 cwt. in 1869, and 16,339 cwt. in 1868.

CUTCH.—The demand continues good, and a considerable business has been done at previous rates; the public sales have been, 520 boxes fine Pegu, Elephant mark, at 20s. to 20s. 6d., and privately, 1,000 boxes fine Pegu have changed hands at 20s. per cwt.

CASSIA LIGNEA.—An offer amounting to 239 cases China was all sold at steady rates, good unworked at 102s. to 103s., fair to good second pile at 102s. to 105s., first pile at 108s. to 110s.

CARDAMOMS.—We note the sale of 13 bags Ceylon at 3s. 2d. for good quality, and 3s. 2d. for pickings.

CAMPHOR.—Prices of China continue to decline, and an offer of 303 cases, at public sales, was bought in at 71s., the highest offer made being 66s.; no improvement can be looked forward to at present, a large quantity being expected per Hopewell. Japan is wholly neglected, and no offers have been made.

CUBEBS.—At public sale 7 cases good, but slightly mouldy, Singapore realised 25s.

DRAGONSBLOOD.—An offer of 6 cases Singapore lump was bought in at £9 10s.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Out of an offer of 32 cases Citronelle 2 cases were sold at 2⅛d., the remainder being bought in at the same price.

GAMBIER.—The market continues very dull, and the only sale has been of 100 bales, at 16s. 3d. per cwt.

GALLS.—China have further declined; 80 cases out of 265 cases offered were sold at 42s. Of Japan there have been no offers.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Of 18 cases Sumatra seconds offered, 4 cases sold; good at £9; good fair storaxy and mixed with dark at £8, the remainder being bought in at £9, grey at £7 10s., and 24 cases good fair marbly thirds at 85s. In other gums no business has been done.

HEMP.—There is still a small business doing in Manila, at £57 for air roping, but there is no great activity.

HIDES.—Messrs. Dyster, Nalder, and Co.'s Monthly Circular is as follows:—The market for East India Hides, in the absence of any material demand for export, continues depressed. At the first sales of the month only about half the quantity offered was sold, at irregular prices ranging from ¼d. to ¾d. per lb. decline, but at the last auction, the quantity offered being very moderate, there was fair competition, and a slight recovery in prices. Present average rates are, however, fully ¼d. per lb. under those current at the end of July. The sales comprise 158,255 Kips in the hair and tanned. Singapore and Penang Cow Hides continue of difficult sale, but about former rates have been obtained for the portion sold. 4,431 Hides have been cleared—Heavy, 6d.; extra heavy, 6d. to 6½d.; small and Calf, 6½d.; fourths, 3¾d. to 4d. per lb. Singapore and Penang Buffalo Hides are in very limited demand at a further reduction of ¼d. to ½d. per lb. 2,536 Hides have been cleared—Best heavy, 4¾d. to 4½d.; seconds, 3½d.; light, 5d.; Bangkok, best heavy, 4½d.; seconds, 3½d.; light, 4½d. per lb.

MUSK.—At public sales of 25 caddies Tonquin 20 caddies good sold at 29s. to 30s., rough bally and flat mixed at 16s. 6d. to 18s., and 9 tins Nepaul flat and bally pods rather rough at 29s., more rough and bally at 24s. Of 18 tins grain 4 tins sold; good fair, 50s. to 50s. 6d.; fair, 48s. Of 7 packages skins, &c., 4 packages sold at 11d. to 5s.

PEPPER.—Black: Advanced rates have been realised; on the spot 300 bags Penang have sold at 4 13-16d. to 4¾d. cash, and 400 bags Singapore at 5d.; afloat, 2,200 bags Penang at 4¾d., including first-class sea-damaged, and 200 bags at 4 11-16d. White: The following quantities of old import have been sold publicly at about previous rates:—250 bags Singapore at 5¾d. to 6d. (chiefly 5¾d.), and 220 bags common Penang at 5¼d.

PLUMBAGO.—There has been an entire absence of business in Ceylon.

RHUBARB.—China is steady at the late decline; of 187 chests offered at auction 91 chests sold—fair smooth coated at 2s. 3d. to 2s. 6d., ordinary rough at 3d., one lot at 3½d. The present value of good root is decidedly very low, and with any revival of trade prices should improve. We may mention that root, such as has lately been sold at 2s. 9d. to 3s. per lb., was worth 5s. 6d. per lb. a few months since.

ROOTS.—Cuscus: 15 bales good fair quality realised 24s. to 24s. 6d. per cwt. China: 35 bales retired above value, 40s. asked; last price paid for quantities, 25s. Colombo: 20 bales fair quality, slightly wormy, bought in at 35s.; good sound fresh offers at this.

RICE.—Immediately following our last report two floating cargoes, arrived off coast, were sold, viz., the Princess Somawatty, 1,184 tons Necransie Arracan, at 9s. 6d., ex ship for London, and the Willamo, 742 tons do., at 9s. 4½d., for the Continent. Since then the business has been very limited, the demand having fallen off. Landed last week, 357 tons; delivered (exclusive of the quantity ex ship), 1,559 tons; stock, 37,491 tons, against 46,152 tons at this time last year.

SAGO.—There has been no business; an offer of 227 bags small pearl was bought in at 17s. to 17s. 6d.

TOBACCO, &c.—Of tobacco the last public sales included 3 bales Japan damaged and re-packed, which sold at 1¾d. Cigars: 1 case Manila 5A water damaged 8s. 3d.. and 3 cases 2A sold at 5s. 6d. to 5s. 9d., and 1 case 1A Cavites at 6s. 6d.

TAPIOCA.—There have been no sales; 272 bags Singapore were offered and bought in at 2d.

TIN.—There is a less active demand for Straits, which has receded to £126 per ton; Banca and Billiton are also lower, the former being quoted £129, and the latter £126. The deliveries of Straits during last month were 336 tons, the present stock is 885 tons, and 651 tons are afloat.

VERMILION.—China has been withdrawn at 3s. 2d. per lb. for good genuine. To effect sales a considerable decline would have to be submitted to.

WAX.—No auctions of Japan have taken place, but privately about 200 cases good have been placed at 70s., being lower.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

The prevailing features in this market since our last report have been dulness and inactivity. Producers, as a rule, are well engaged, and this prevents their being pressing sellers. Nevertheless, prices are the turn weaker, and incline in favour of buyers. The prices of most descriptions of China Shirtings and T-Cloths show a decline of 1½d. to 3d., except Eagle Chop, 8¼lbs. Shirtings, which are still quoted 10s. 3d. Cotton Yarn is ½d. to ¾d. per lb. lower.

Tin: The shipments to New York and Russia of English Tin have been fairly good the past month, but to Germany and France scarcely any has been sent. There is no speculative inquiry whatever, but for consumption the demand is steady here. Tin Plates are in fair demand, but the last month the make has rather fallen off, owing to shortness of water. The shipments in August were 167,000 boxes, against 125,000 in August, 1869. Lead: There is now very little inquiry, and prices are easier. We quote: W.B., £20 5s.; L.B., £19 10s.; other good brands, £19 5s.; Soft Spanish, £18 10s. Spelter is very quiet, the quotation is £18 5s. to £18 10s. for Silesian. NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The market cannot be called active, but there is a pretty fair inquiry for invoices, and the line trade has improved, the Canadians taking low-priced Twankay, Hyson, Young Hyson, and Imperial to some extent. Prices are supported, with little or no variation since our last. The sales are 1,761 half-chests Green, per Elizabeth Dougall, 281 per Dilspussund, 3,600 Japan, and 1,700 Green, by other vessels, 1,030 half-chests Green, per Good Hope, 858 do. do. per Surprise, 400 do., per City of Perth, 300 do., per Banian, 400 do., Japan, per Esperanza, 557 do. Oolong, per Music, 500 do. Green, 500 do. Japan, vessels not named, and 1,000 do. Oolong, from second hands.

The following are the current quotations, which show no change from those last given:—Greens (Moyune, Twanki and Fychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 70c. to 120c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 55c. to 105c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 42c. to 110c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 52c. to 88c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow Oolongs, common and good, 48c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 56c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 46c. to 53c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 65c.; finest, 67c. to 72c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 40c. to 50c.; superior and fine, 54c. to 63c.; finest, 65c to 85c.; Japans, common, 55c. to 58c.; medium, 62c. to 64c.; fine and finest, 70c. to 77c.; choice, 80c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to July 27, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 17,139,265 lbs.; Japans, 7,782,390 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,498,987 lbs; Oolongs,

8,203,853 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 35,688,909 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 45,555,076 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to July 27, 3,174,116 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 23,390,325 lbs., there remains a total of 18,990,635 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from July 13 to July 27 amounted to 2,118,285 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 1,236,351 lbs.; and the exports to 181,777 lbs.

COFFEE.—There has been a revival in the demand both for Brazil and East India kinds, but the enquiry is still restricted, being confined to immediate requirements. The current quotations are as before, viz.:—Java, 19½c. to 22c.; Singapore, 18c. to 18½c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. gold. We note sales of 1,000 mats Java and 800 bags Ceylon at these prices, and also of 1,050 mats 30 bags Java on private terms. The stock of Manila on the 1st Aug. was estimated at 1,700 bags, against 6,769 bags on Aug. 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 850 bags, against 1,995 bags; of Java mats, 49,362, against 66,691 bags; of Ceylon, 250 bags, against 1,884 bags; of Singapore, 5,171 bags, against nil.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 18c. gold (in bond).

COIR YARN.—The sale is reported of 100 bales Ceylon on private terms.

CORDAGE.—Manila at 21½c. to 22½c.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2 to 2.5; Cassia, $1 to 1.25 gold.

FIRE CRACKERS.—There is no demand, and prices are nominal.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

GUNNY CLOTH.—The market continues quiet at 31½c. for Borneo.

HEMP.—There is no change in the market for Manila; the absence of transactions continues, and the nominal quotation is still 12¾c. to 13c. gold. The City of Agra and the Panama have arrived; the former brought 4,908 bales, of which a portion had been sold afloat at 13½c., and the remainder was imported on manufacturers' account; the latter brought 3,290 bales, of which all but 998 bales had been sold previous to arrival. The stock of Manila on the 1st August was estimated at 16,934 bales, against 3,600 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 26,680 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from the 1st January to the 31st July, 1870, were 88,353 bales, against 61,235 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on the 31st July was 33,045 bales, against 60,952 bales at the same date last year.

INDIGO.—There has been more enquiry, but only for small lots, and sales have been effected amounting to about 40 cases Manila at $1.10 to $1.32½ currency, the higher prices paid showing an advance of 1½c.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $8 to 11 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1 to 2.50 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—There is more enquiry for Rangoon, which is relatively lower than the native production. The sales effected have been 2,700 bags duty paid at $7 to $7.37½ currency, and 6,550 bags in bond at $3 to $3.12½ gold.

SPICES.—The market for whole parcels remains quiet, and we have only to notice the sale of 250 bags Singapore, ex Alexandra, at a private price. In a jobbing way, there is a steady moderate demand, and sales have been made of 200 cases Nutmegs at $1.07; 25 do. Mace, $1.30; 400 to 500 bales Cassia, 47c.; 100 do. Wild Cinnamon, 45c.; 200 do. Cloves, 25½c. to 25¾c.; a few bales Clove Stems, 14½c.; 1,000 to 1,200 bags Pepper, 26½c. to 27c.

TIN.—Although a further advance on the English market has been advised, the demand continues very limited, and the sales of Straits have only reached about 50 slabs at the former quotations, 36½c. to 36¾c. gold; Banca has declined to 37c. gold.

CASUALTIES.

The Gelderland, Mulder, from Batavia, to Amsterdam, put into Mauritius July 29, leaky, and with loss of sails, and reported that she had experienced bad weather, and made five inches water per hour.

The Belle Marguerite, Dusaussay, from Cardiff to Galle, put into Grand Port July 9, partially dismasted and with decks swept, and upper bulwarks strained; she was towed round to Mauritius on the 16th, and was being repaired.

A telegram from Galle, dated Aug. 28, states that the North German vessel Henolula (? Honolulu), with coals from Newcastle to Batavia, was reported stranded in Torres Straits.

The Panama, Petingall, arrived at New York from Manila, reported that on April 15 she encountered a cyclone, which lasted forty-eight hours, and during that time she lost main topsail, and was obliged to lie under bare poles.

The Henry Grenfell, Penrose, arrived at Liverpool, from Singapore, reported that after leaving Java Head she encountered a cyclone, during which she lost port bulwarks.

The steamer Ajax while on her passage from China, damaged her machinery, and was detained, in consequence, three days in the Red Sea.

LAUNCHES.

Messrs. Aitkin and Mansel have launched from their ship-building yard, Whiteinch, Clyde, a handsome screw steam vessel, of 1,000 tons register, which has been built to the order of Mr. William Laing, of Leith. The Commissariat received her name from Mrs. Laing, and after the launch was towed to the harbour, to be fitted with machinery by Messrs. J. Howden and Co., of Glasgow. The vessel is intended for the Eastern trade, via the Suez Canal.

The Pollux, a screw steamer of 1,800 tons, has been launched from Messrs. A. and J. Inglis' yard, at Point House, Clyde. She is a sister vessel to the Castor, lately built by the same firm, is the property of the Royal Netherlands Steam Ship Company, of Amsterdam, and will be employed in the line between Holland and Java.

THE NEW STEAMER "LORD OF THE ISLES."—This steamer, which has already been noticed in our columns, left the docks on the 31st Aug., under the command of Capt. Robinson, with a full cargo, of over 3,000 tons, and several passengers, for China, by the Canal, calling at the ports in the Straits en route. She was drawing over twenty-one feet. This steamer has been built specially for the trade, and is in all respects a first-class vessel. Her length is about 330 feet, with a beam of thirty-eight feet, and engines of considerable power. Her speed round from the Clyde was, we believe, over ten knots. The saloon and cabins are first-rate in all the appointments, and, with the prospect of reaching China in sixty days, a passage in her at £70, through the Suez Canal, is certainly a great boon.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE P. AND O. STEAMER "AUSTRALIA."—The new P. and O. steamer Australia was taken to Stokes-bay for a trial at the measured mile, under the command of Captain R. Methven, previous to her being despatched to India for service on that station via the Suez Canal on the 17th inst. She made two runs on the mile, there being no wind and no tide at the time, the first of which was accomplished in 4min. 22 secs., equal to 13·748 knots per hour, and the second in 4min. 18sec., or 13·953 knots, the true mean of the two being 13·850 knots; revolutions of engines 59; pressure of steam, 40lb.; vacuum, 26. The total weight of coals, &c., on board was 325 tons, and her draught of water, 18ft. 3in. forward, and 18ft. 4in. aft. After completing her runs at the measured mile the Australia steamed round the Isle of Wight, which she did in about four hours.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
FOUR GOLD MEDALS.

Supplied to the British French, Prussian, Russian, Italian, Dutch, and other Governments. Dr. Lankester writes regarding Extract of Meat:—"But there is a difference in flavour, and here, as in all other kinds of food, it is the flavour that makes the quality." It is essentially on account of the fine meaty flavour, as distinguished from the burnt taste of other Extracts, that LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT defeated all Australian and other sorts at Paris, Havre, and Amsterdam, and is so universally preferred in all European markets.

One pint of fine-flavoured Beef-tea at 2½d. Most convenient and economic "stock."

CAUTION.—Require Baron Liebig's, the inventor's, signature on every jar, and ask distinctly for LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT.

As stated by the War Office, the assertion of an Australian Agent of solely supplying the British Government is proved to be nothing but an untrue statement.

THE MAILS, &c.

Telegrams from Hong Kong to Aug. 25 were received on 10th, and from Shanghai, 23rd, on the same day. Telegrams via San Francisco from Japan, Aug. 22, were received to-day.

AN influential meeting of merchants, bankers, and others interested in China was held at the London Tavern this afternoon, Mr. KIRKMAN HODGSON, M.P., in the chair, to consider the present unsatisfactory state of affairs in China, consequent on the Tientsin massacre. A deputation subsequently waited on Earl GRANVILLE, and laid before his lordship the object of the meeting. His lordship, in reply, stated that instructions had been sent to Her MAJESTY'S Minister in China to support the demands of the French Government. In regard to the other statements, he requested that a letter should be addressed to him, which should have a full reply.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The Japan Gazette says:—Mr. Lowder, H. B. M.'s Acting Consul for Kanagawa, leaves for Europe. He proposes availing himself of his leave of absence to study law at one of the London Inns of Court, in order to qualify himself for the highest Consular appointments in Japan, which in future are only to be held by gentlemen who have been called to the English bar. Mr. Lowder's advancement in the Consular service has been signally rapid, and he is, we believe, the youngest Consul in China and Japan. Making allowance for inexperience of the world, and occasional prejudice too palpably exhibited, he has many of the requisites of a good magistrate; and we hope that his home sojourn, and the experience he will gather in the home Courts may rub off some of the asperities of his magisterial demeanour, and that we may in future see his undoubted talents guided not only by justice but by generosity.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are down to July 22. The London mail of June 3 arrived out on July 17, and June 10 on the 21st. Telegrams via Kiachta were to June 28. The North China Herald has the following on the Tientsin affair:—

The following precis of conversations which are now current among the people in this neighbourhood will be instructive to those who may incline to think our reports exaggerated.

1. The country people say it has been conclusively proved that foreigners have been kidnapping on an extensive scale, more than 100 children having been found by authorities at Tientsin, and clearly shown to have been intended for unholy purposes. Hence the rising of the people and the massacre of the foreigners.

2. War has been declared, and one battle fought and won. The poor rustics are jubilant over the supposed victory, and say the Fung-shui has at last taken a turn in their favour.

3. The prospect of a fight with foreigners is talked of with immense delight. China's "lucky day" has come at last, and the hated intruder is doomed.

4. Some of the better informed, who know that the late massacre has a special reference to France, are hoping the other foreign Powers will remain neutral, and allow China and France to fight it out by themselves. Hitherto China has had to contend against the combined strength of the whole barbarian world; but now there is a chance of entering the lists with France alone. The event is a propitious one, and thrice welcome; for it will prove that, one by one, China could conquer all the barbarian nations.

5. Should all the foreigners, however, take part in the war; then, when the men-of-war go North to the principal scene of action, there will be a simultaneous attack from the city and country on the foreign settlement, and every foreigner exterminated.

6. Natives friendly to foreigners counsel watchfulness. They say we cannot be too careful. There is mischief brewing, and we had better prepare.

7. The subject of Russian aggression on China is also being discussed. Many fear Russia will avail of the present difficulties to get another slice from the "Flowery Land."

8. The wheelbarrow men and all their friends are wild at the action of the Municipal Council in requiring them to pay for their license. Their earnings are very small, and 600 cash a quarter is a heavy sum. They are under the impression that the license of the English Council will not enable them to pass into the French Settlement, or vice versa. But wait a while, the day of vengeance is coming, the loot from the foreign hongs may help to compensate for the loss of trade.

We have further correspondence from Tientsin, which goes to confirm the accounts already given. Messrs. Fraser and Adkins, of the British Legation, are in Tientsin investigating affairs. Tseng-kwo-fan had arrived, and had issued a proclamation declaring his intention to have a strict investigation. His first step has been to remove the Taoutai, the Prefect, and the city Magistrate. These men, the latter two especially, should be executed; but there is no chance of Tseng-kwo-fan doing this of his own will. The case against them was so clear that he could not help removing them, unless he was prepared for open war. It is rumoured, however, that he has declined to act further.

A correspondent writes:—"It is, of course, the Chinese object now to quiet the English and Americans, if they can, by showing that there is no anti-foreign feeling generally at Tientsin; but everyone here now knows that it was settled that, on the Friday after June 21, all foreigners were to be exterminated. A man was caught on the top of the Protestant Church tower in the settlement, with a heap of brushwood that had been placed there by an incendiary, going to burn the tower and the Church. An employe of the Arsenal came to Consul Lay and reported six brass guns in the Treaty Joss-house, close by Tientsin, and asked him to send men to receive them for the defence of the Europeans; but failing to get enough men to draw them, he returned to the Arsenal and found them all gone, shells, ammunition and all. They had been taken during his absence by Chung How's soldiers. What for? Not to defend Europeans nor to crush the mob, but simply lest Europeans should be able to resist the impending Friday attack. If it had not been for the Manchu, and her commander, Captain Steele, all the foreigners would have been killed."

The uneasiness prevalent in Shanghai has spread also to Ningpo, where inflammatory proclamations have been issued. There is no symptom of immediate outbreak, but it is felt that any disturbance at Shanghai would spread. H.M. gunboat Leven has gone down for the protection of the Settlement; and a Defence Committee has been organised, and watch is kept every night.

Another French man-of-war has arrived from the south; and we believe the N. G. frigate Hertha is shortly expected from Japan. The Volunteers are drilling vigorously.

We have to acknowledge a copy of the Shanghai pages of the Customs Gazette for the second quarter of 1870. The imports generally show an increase over the corresponding quarter of 1869. Grey Shirtings, 954,000 pieces, against 860,000; White Shirtings, 158,000, against 101,000. T-Cloths, 637,000, against 432,000. Drills and Camlets have fallen off; Longs Ells and Lustres show a large increase. Iron fell from 74,000 to 44,000 pieces, but Lead is much higher. The import of Opium is about the same, Malwa having slightly increased, but Patna fallen off.

The present mail brings over 1,800 bales of China and Japan silk.

The record of the celebrated case Von Gumpach v. Hart has at last we believe been completed for transmission to the final Court of Appeal, the Privy Council. The documents extend to over 800 folios, portending enormous charges to somebody.

The departure of the French Mail Steamer Dupleix has been postponed one day, by order of the French authorities, to enable her to carry the further advices which may arrive from Tientsin. Count Rochechouart was expected to meet the Admiral in Tientsin, when some line of action may be determined on.

Proclamation issued by Tseng-Kwo-fan (Viceroy of Chih-li), at Tientsin, July 10th, 1870:—"Whereas with reference to the affair of the 13th day of the 5th moon (June 21st), I have received repeated decrees commanding me equitably to investigate and take action in the matter, with the resolute design to give no opening for hostilities, it is the duty of all, whether servants of the State or simple subjects, to correspond to the intentions of his Majesty, making it their object to allay trouble and give tranquillity to the people. Accordingly, this Proclamation is issued to the resident population in general. It is your duty to pursue as before your accustomed avocations, and you are forbidden to roam about the streets and form assemblages in numbers, spreading abroad unfounded rumours, mutually alarming and disturbing each other. Equally is it forbidden to collect together in the neighbourhood of the foreign houses and foreign vessels, thereby giving rise to occasions of quarrel. As regards the measures to be taken for inquiring into and judicially dealing with the affair in question, I shall, as in duty bound, hold a stringent investigation and arrive at a decision thereupon in conformity with the principles of justice, and shall show not the slightest partiality or negligence. Let all tremblingly obey, &c."

It is reported from Peking that Chung How has resigned his appointment as ambassador to France. Two facts give confirmation to this rumour. Mr. Meadows had engaged freight in the Dragon for a large quantity of treasure that was believed to be for the use of Chung How's Embassy, but at the last moment he announced that it was not to be sent. And Mr. Novion who had been summoned from Chefoo to Peking to accompany the Embassy as an interpreter, when he arrived at Tientsin found himself stopped by the refusal of the authorities to grant him a passport to Peking.

The following is the most authentic account of the horrible torture and butchery of the Sisters of Mercy, which we consider it our duty to print, as it is necessary that the truth of this frightful atrocity should be published, for the guidance of all interested:—

The rabble went quietly to their door, and said they wished merely to look through the premises, which, of course, the Sisters were all agreeable to. In the first place, they wished to see all the Sisters, and when the nine were got together in the one room, they were seized upon, dragged out into the yard, and stripped of their clothes. The Superioress was then taken, and the others were made to look on, and told they also would have the same fate one by one. Her eyes were first scooped out, her breasts cut off, spears sufficient to bear the weight of were run up the body. She was then held up writhing on the spears for some time, then taken down, ripped up, her heart and liver cut out, and cut in small pieces and distributed amongst the crowd; the body was then cut in pieces and thrown into the burning premises.

JULY 22, 1870.

Things remain very much in statu quo, but at every port in China where there are foreigners the Chinese are on the qui vive to massacre them on the first favourable opportunity. The climax of absurdity may be found in the orders issued to the men-of-war on the station. The Barrosa, a heavy 18-gun vessel, arrived here from Japan a few days ago, and people here were foolish enough to suppose that she was sent for the protection of the settlement, threatened by Chinese armed and drilled soldiers and desperadoes of all kinds. It turns out that the captain of the Barossa has written orders from the Admiral not to land a single man, but to send his boats to the jetties to receive those who wish to embark. As any attack would be made at night, the only thing left for the brave seamen and marines would be to search for any bodies that might have heads on them, or whose bowels were not hanging out after the usual ripping process as practised by the mild Chinese. The captain of the Barrosa is senior officer, and has issued similar instructions to the captain of the Zebra, who was doing all he could to afford assistance in case of need.

I trust, however, that the community of Shanghai are in a position to defend themselves against any attack by the Chinese. The great danger is fire by the act of incendiaries. We have organised a Rifle Corps, an Artillery Corps, and Mounted Rangers, in all 500 or 600 men, who already make a very good show. At Hankow, Tientsin, Chefoo, and other ports Volunteer Corps are organising for defence, as we appear to be abandoned by our own Government.

We are in the midst of war alarms. It was announced by the Chinese that on two particular days we were to be all massacred, but the affair has not yet come off, but after the Tientsin affair such warnings are not to be despised.

The Taoutai has called on the Consul here to ascertain the numbers and objects of the Volunteers, and to request that they should be discontinued as likely to irritate the Chinese. This is an example of the cool effrontery of their dealings with foreigners. The fact is that the Chinese at Shanghai are as much afraid of our attacking them as we are of their attacking us.

Nothing has been done to punish the people of Tientsin for the foul murders they have committed on unoffending people. In addition to the foreigners slain, sixty Cantonese were killed, as they are looked upon as foreigners in the north. Major Winstanley and his drill instructors have come in from the Chinese camp, to avoid being murdered by their own men. The Sisters of Mercy have come in from Sicower also, as the Chinese threaten to kill them and burn their houses, as they did at Tientsin. The English and French Admirals are gone to Tientsin, and doubtless will wait for instructions from home. The Chinese are not idle; they are arming and manning the Taku Forts as fast as possible, moving up materiel of war from various points, and chartering vessels to carry rice to Tientsin. Had our fleet been at Chefoo they could have occupied the Taku Forts in forty-eight hours, and thus saved much trouble and loss of life. The people in Peking are in most danger, as if any retaliatory measures were adopted at Tientsin all foreigners at Peking would be tortured and murdered as the Prussians were in the last war. If the French adopt any coercive measures at Tientsin, it would be necessary to remove all foreigners from Peking, as their lives would not be worth an hour's purchase. They are virtual prisoners, as the Chinese Government refuse to issue any passports, on the ground that they could not guarantee the safety of anyone travelling between Peking and Tientsin.

The French were all under arms here last night, as a massacre was threatened, and the ladies sent on board ship for the night.

CHEFOO.

JULY 16, 1870.

The situation in North China is undoubtedly very grave. The population of Tientsin, incited to their bloody action by the anti-foreign party among the mandarins, have gained what is in their opinion a signal victory over the foreigner, and strong confirmation is thus added, so far, to the feeling which has prevailed for the last two or three years, that China need only exert herself valiantly in order to be rid for ever of the hated barbarians. The whole tone of the edicts and proclamations thus far published is plainly on the side of the people, covered merely with a thin disguise of deference to foreign pressure, and the slightest show of weakness or vacillation on the part of any among the foreign Legations may bring about a further outbreak more sanguinary and indiscriminate than the last.

Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett and the French Commander-in Chief, Admiral Dupré, arrived at Chefoo (only twenty hours' steaming distance from the Peiho) on the 16th July, having left Japan on the first receipt of the news of the massacre. Admiral Dupré carried his flag on board the frigate Venus, and was accompanied by the corvette Dupleix. Sir Henry Kellett was on board the Salamis, which was to be followed by the corvette Barossa, the Midge, Leven, and other gun-vessels. A French corvette, the Linois, was at Taku, with three French and three British gun-vessels at Tientsin. The British and French Ministers were expected to be at Tientsin (if permitted to leave Peking) in time to meet the Admirals on their arrival. They will then, it is presumed, concert measures for ensuring the safety of the foreign communities in the North, by occupying Tientsin and the Taku Forts, pending the receipt of instructions from the Home Governments.

FOOCHOW.

We have received the July number of the Chinese Recorder and Missionary Journal. We regret to see that this meritorious little magazine is not so well printed this month as its contents deserve. Our own number is, in fact, partially illegible, a defect which the conductors will do well to rectify promptly. The Rev. Mr. Edkins commences an interesting history of the Miau Tsi Tribes, and the "Overland Trip from Kiukiang to Foochow" is well continued. Dr. Dudgeon contributes a third chapter of his "Chinese Arts of Healing;" and Mr. Phillips a second instalment of "Marco Polo and Ibu Batuta in Fokien." At the present time, when the attention of foreigners is so strongly directed to China, the following analysis of the division of the Empire is peculiarly acceptable :—

HONG KONG.

Dates are down to the 28th July. The outward mail of 17th June arrived on the 27th.

Our files of Hong Kong papers are filled with accounts from Shanghai, &c., of the Tientsin tragedy. The China Mail says :—

We learn from Canton that the French have left the city and established a pro tem. office on Shamien. A mat-shed on their concession also does duty as a temporary chapel, where a funeral service was held.

The following gentlemen are gazetted as justices of the peace for this colony, and have taken the oaths of office :—Edward Arthur, Esq.; Emanuel Raphael Belilios, Esq.; James Berwick, Esq.; Samuel John Gower, Esq.; William Macaulay, Esq.; Lewis Henry Moorsom, Esq.; Richard Alfred O'Brien, Esq., M.D.; Thomas Pyke, Esq.; James Muschamp Vickers, Esq.; and James Whittall, Esq.

A public meeting of the Canton Church Society was held on the 20th July, to receive the report of the trustees of the Episcopal Chapel at Canton and the treasurer's account for the half year-ending the 30th of June, being the date after which the grant in aid heretofore allowed by Her Majesty's Government would cease to be made. These accounts show a deficit of $1,195,55, which, however, will be covered by the Government grants not yet received. There is, therefore, no present need for a call on the community, but the trustees fear that the withdrawal of the grant at the present time may necessitate the closing of the Church Establishment as a permanent institution at this port. The report was adopted unanimously, as was, also, a resolution in the name of the foreign community, expressing their high sense of the services rendered by the Venerable the Archdeacon Gray, who for a period of eighteen years has unremitingly devoted himself to the performance of his duties.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

Dates by this opportunity extend to July 29.

The most exacting rice cultivator can have no cause to complain of the amount of the rainfall. Continuous weather, like the past week, will give a good yield of paddy, so far as water is concerned. The cultivators, it is hoped, will give good heed that all the other conditions of a good crop are complied with; if so, the prospects of a diminished crop are very remote.

Foreign vessels, in the upper part of the river, are scarcely to be seen, these being mostly at the steam rice mills, or outside the bar. The daily shipping report shows that there are to-day forty-seven vessels of all rigs, sizes, and nationalities in port, and the greatest part of these getting ready for sea.

The Siamese gunboat Regent, which left Bangkok on the 25th June for Saigon, having on board Siamese Commissioners who were empowered to negotiate articles defining the mutual rights of the Siamese and the French in the great fresh water Lake, known as Talesap, returned on the 24th July, its mission being accomplished. Particulars are not yet published.

The late collision has been made the basis of a charge against the owners of the British steamer Johore, by the owners of the Siamese vessels the Meridian and Seaman's Bride. The case has been tried at the court of H.B.M.'s Consulate General, and decides against the British steamer. An appeal will doubtles be made to the Court of Singapore.

There is a rumour going the rounds that C. P. Lalla, of Singapore, has failed.

The U.S. Consul this week has notified that after August 1 no suit will be entertained in the U.S. Consular Court at Bangkok to recover money in payment, either in whole or in part, for liquor sold by the drink, at any American or foreign drinking house.

The American steamer Coety has been sold by auction to James McCormick, Esq., for the small sum of $2,900.

A total eclipse of the moon occurred on the 13th inst. at 5.16 A.M. It appears that the natives were not aware that there was to be an eclipse, or else they were somewhat unprepared for it, because the disc of the moon was about half concealed before the usual hubbub commenced with guns, gongs, conch-shells, &c., to scare the old Yak Rahoo.

We have information concerning the King of Cheangmai. It appears that he was no better when at Rahaang, that he was exceedingly anxious to get home before death, and that he was going to be carried in a hand palankeen through the woods and over the mountains, the short cut of eight or ten days to Cheangmai, as the journey by the river over the thirty-two falls would be toolong for him.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates by this mail extend to Aug. 6. The P. and O. steamer with mails of June 24 and July 1, arrived on the 2nd Aug.

In the Legislative Council the water supply has been again discussed. H.E. the Governor, having regard to the surplus in hand, and considering the amount of revenue contributed by Singapore, and chiefly by the Chinese, whom the water-works will mainly benefit, proposed that the water-works should be supplied by money taken from the general revenue, and denied the fairness of thrusting it all upon the Municipality; and the following resolution was adopted without a division :—"That the Council is of opinion that the present water-works should, if possible, be utilised, so that ample supplies of fresh water may be introduced into tanks and reservoirs, say at Campong Karbow, base of Fort Canning-hill, near Singapore River, and at such other places as may be readily accessible to the public; and this Council is prepared to vote the necessary funds for the purpose."

Notice is given that an unknown reef has been discovered by the captain of the Government steamer Hertog Barnard east of the Choondong Islands (Lampong Bay). The reef lies from the south corner of the East Choondong Islands, West, an eighth of a geographical mile distance. It has an extension of about 200 square yards, with only six feet of water.

The British barque Robert Fletcher, Capt. Pittendrich, was boarded by a native pilot outside Singapore Straits last week, thirty-six days out from Manila, bound to London; all well, and wished to be reported.

A committee of German residents has been appointed to collect from their own countrymen and others interested in the German cause subscriptions to a fund for the relief of those who may be wounded or left destitute by the war. We understand that up to the present time about $2,000 has been received in donations, and monthly subscriptions to the extent of $400.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—Grey and White Shirtings had not been so freely dealt in, but a fair business at quotations was reported. T-Cloths: Upwards of 60,000 pieces, principally of the lower and medium weights and quality, had changed hands, and an advance of 4 to 6 cents per piece had been established. Drills: Great excitement had prevailed in the market for Drills, and quotations showed an improvement of fully 3m. per piece from the lowest point. Settlements of all kinds, estimated at over 65,000 pieces. American Drills had been sold at Tls. 3.3.5 per piece, but at the close they were held for Tls. 3.50 per piece, short prompt (proportion half "dragon" and "cock," and the remainder inferior chops). Jeans also in greater inquiry, and slowly advancing in value. The Fancy Cotton Goods Market showed no noticeable change, saving for Chintzes, which were slightly dearer. Woollens: Long Ells C. P. H. assorted had been re-sold by natives at Tls. 5.5.5 per piece. For Scarlet of other known chops, Tls. 5.50 per piece had been refused. Of Lastings, some 1,200 pieces had been sold at Tls. 8½ to 9 per piece. In Camlets a small business was reported; rates unchanged. For Figured Orleans the speculative inquiry noticed in our last had been developed, and considerable sales at better prices had been effected. Spanish Stripes were higher, and the demand for them continued. Metals.—Iron: Sales had been made to the extent of some 11,000 bundles, at Tls. 2.10 to 2.25 for small sizes, and Tls. 1.90 to 2.05 per picul for fair to good assortments, showing a reduction of about 1 mace per picul on former quotations. About 1,000 piculs Bar Iron found buyers at Tls. 1.85 to 1.95 per picul, also showing a reduction of about 1 to 2 mace per picul. Lead: Market much firmer; parcels of L.B., good common chops, in inquiry at the former rates. Quotations (duty paid in Shanghai sycee):—G.E. FOOCHOW.—We note the sale of 300 pieces 6 lbs. Grey Shirtings at $2.05.

HONG KONG.—Messrs. Olyphant and Co. send the following report under date 28th July:—The market for Raw Cotton has ruled quiet during the past week, and values now appear rather lower. In Cotton Yarns, the placing of a few parcels of Nos. 16 to 24 at prices ranging from $130 to 139 per bale have been the only transactions. In Piece Goods, little or nothing has been done except in 8-4lb. Grey Shirtings, which have met with better enquiry under the influence of an increased demand at the North, and sales to the extent of about 15,000 pieces have been effected at $2.82½ to $2.87½ per piece. The active business in Drills at Shanghai has not affected this market as yet, and no transactions have taken place in these goods. In Woollens, Dutch Camlets have been fairly placed at about previous quotations; other articles have been comparatively neglected. In Metals, no business of importance has been done.

SINGAPORE.—The closing quotations were as follow:—No. 40's Mule Twist, $137; 8½ lbs. Shirtings, $2.80; 7 lbs., $2.40 to 2.37½; 5 lbs. T-Cloths, $1.50; 6 lbs., $1.82½ to 1.80; 7 lbs., $2 to 2.02½.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—Black: During the week a large business had been done, the settlements amounting to 2,200 chests; reshipments, 4,800 chests; leaving a stock of 74,000 chests. The few parcels of first crop teas possessing any quality had been taken at fully previous rates; but the most noticeable features were the purchases of Shongtams (fair common Congou) at Tls. 8½ to 8¾, say 1s. 0¾d. to 1s. 1d. per lb., and the settlement of several second crop teas, with good leaf but without character in the cup, at Tls. 24 to 26. Prices paid had been:—Hohows and Ningchows, Tls. 18 to 29, equal to 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 7⅛d. per lb.; Oonams and Oonfas, Tls. 18½ to 25, equal to 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 5d.; Oopacks, &c., Tls. 19 to 27, equal to 1s. 1d. to 1s. 6½d. In Green a small business, say 3,300 chests in Pingsuey was reported, at Tls. 35 to 40 for chops, and Tls. 43½ to 54 for finer leaves in boxes; almost entirely for America. Stock, 6,500 ½-chests Pingsuey, 4,000 ¼-chests Hoochow, and 2,600 ¼-chests old teas. The new Teenkais would soon arrive, and prices were expected to open very high.

FOOCHOW.—The following is from the Chamber of Commerce Report:—For two days after last issue heavy settlements of Congou were made, but the news from London checked purchases for England; and the requirements of vessels loading for the colonies being partially satisfied, a moderate business has since been done. The demand has been chiefly for Teas costing from Tls. 16 to 23. The prices obtained for the few fine Teas which were left show no reduction compared with previous settlements. The better chops, with distinct characters and flavour, are beingg radually selected from the stock, leaving the proportion of common Tea on offer greater than before. The decline in medium Teas which took place last week attracted more attention to them, and for a few days they were rather dearer. Latterly it has been possible to buy them at a slight reduction on former quotations. Holders of common and flavoury Teas having a large quantity of such Tea unsold have accepted about a tael less. In dust and broken leaf there have been few transactions. The following are the current quotations, to which Tls. 2.8 must be added for duty. The cost at which Teas lay down in London is calculated at an exchange of 4s. 7d. per dollar, and freight £2. 10s. per ton. Dust and siftings, Tls. 5 to 10, equal to 6¼d. to 9¾d., cost in London; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 10 to 13½, equal to 9¾d. to 11¼d.; fair to good common, Tls. 14 to 15½, equal to 11¼d. to 1s. 1½d.; flavoury to medium, Tls. 16 to 23, equal to 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 6¼d.; good medium, Tls. 23½ to 25, equal to 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 7¼d.; fine and finest, none on the market. Souchong: A steady business has been done at full prices; purchases have been chiefly of good medium to finest at Tls. 25 to 30½; the lower qualities are still neglected. Oolong: No disposition has been shown to continue business at previous rates; none of the finest teas have yet been shown. Scented Teas: Are a tael cheaper, but the market is dull, and the settlements are small; quotations are as follows:—Medium to fine, Tls. 22 to 25, equal to 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 7¼d., cost in London; fine to finest, Tls. 26 to 28, equal to 1s. 8¼d. to 1s. 9¼d.

AMOY.—Oolongs had ruled quiet, and few settlements had taken place. Congous, however, had been freely bought for London at $15.50 to 17 for tea much mixed with spurious leaf, the better kinds being held for $22 to 23 per picul.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—A large business had been done, notwithstanding the receipt of adverse advices of the home market, and this led to the supposition that buyers were placing reliance on the reports from the Chinese that fully 50 to 55 per cent. of the total yield had already arrived in Shanghai. The decline in the rate of exchange, coupled with lower tael prices, had also led to business, and the settlements for the week may be put at 2,000 bales. Prices had ruled irregularly, owing to the large native shipment business done, and some purchases showed a decline of fully Tls. 20, whilst others exhibited very little or no change. The unsold stock was estimated at 5,000 to 5,500 bales, and contained many rejected parcels of inferior and second crop silks. The present (French) mail steamer brings upwards of 1,800 bales.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

Two letters on this distressing subject appear in The Times. "Alpha," who is said to be Sir Rutherford Alcock, says that it has long been foreseen, by those most conversant with the progress of affairs in China, that unless France could be induced to modify her policy of supporting by force and menace the Roman Catholic missions with their Ultramontane doctrines, such disasters as this at Tientsin must inevitably result. The correspondence on missionary affairs which was laid before Parliament during the last Session very plainly showed a consciousness of impending danger, that the true source of the hostility manifested towards the missionaries was not to be sought in religious fanaticism. Probably there is no nation in the world so indifferent to the distinctions between different creeds and forms of religion as the Chinese. The literati as a body are rationalists—philosophers of the school of Confucius, and sceptics. For the rest, the educated classes, together with the body of the people, are Buddhists, in a very loose and vague way, and with very little earnestness or faith. The women and children are the chief votaries at the shrine of their gods, and nearly the only worshippers in the temples. The Bonzes, who form the priesthood, have fallen into great contempt, and it may fairly be doubted whether they exercise any active influence over the minds of the people. Hence it is a mistake to attribute to them any of the hostility or fanatical feelings manifested by the Chinese mobs against the missionaries. This is almost exclusively due to the Ultramontanism of the Roman Catholic missions, and the consequent jealousy and fear created in the minds of the educated and governing classes. They see in the tenets of the Roman missionaries a subversive action destructive of all native authority. No sooner are converts made than they are withdrawn from their allegiance, and cease in effect to be amenable to the native tribunals. The Chinese authorities affirm that no small number of the converts are the worst characters in the empire, and are solely influenced in their profession of Christianity by the desire to secure such protection and immunity while they carry on their depredations against their more honest neighbours. It is sufficient to assume that a small portion of this may be true to understand how wide-spread and deeply-rooted must be the hostility of the mass, to say nothing of the official hierarchy throughout the empire, and all directed against the French missions and authorities, with ever-increasing intensity.

Religion has nothing whatever to do with the feeling which dictates the denunciation of the missionaries as kidnappers, murderers, and practisers of foul rites with the scooped-out eyes or the brains of their victims. Of course, these cries and vindictive onslaughts are not always limited to the Romanists, although, as regards the official classes generally, they know there is a broad distinction between the Protestant and the Romanist missionaries. But when once a cry is raised and a mob is incited to violence it is to be expected that little distinction will be made between one class of missionaries and another. They are all propagandists of an alien faith, and they are all foreigners, and in both capacities more or less hateful to the natives. Thus the danger has a constant tendency to spread, until the whole foreign race, irrespective of religious creed or nationality, are enveloped in the same undiscriminating hostility. To France, with no material interests at stake in China, this may be a small matter; but to Great Britain and the United States, which together have a trade in the China Seas of some thirty millions sterling annually, and even to the Northern Confederation of Germany, which finds in this commerce a large employment for its shipping, it is worthy of serious consideration whether some collective steps cannot be taken to arrest the evil.

The Ultramontanism which lies at the root of the mischief is the more indefensible on the part of France, since her rulers have strenuously resisted its application within the limits of the French Empire, and firmly maintained the supremacy of the civil power. To force a totally opposite state of things as well as an alien religion on an unwilling nation like the Chinese is an abuse of power which cannot fail to be a cause of disturbance. It is difficult to say whether the pretension of the Romanist missionaries and bishops in China or that of the French Government is the more objectionable to the Chinese rulers. There can be no doubt that the greatest impediment to progress and improved relations in China lies in the determination of the French to control, intervene, and dictate where in reality France has no material interest whatever at stake, or any political ends to serve which might justify such inordinate pretensions. This has done much already to damage the free growth and value of the best graft European civilisation has ever made on China—the foreign inspectorate of Customs. By insisting upon patronage for an equal number of French subjects, although French commerce does not contribute one-twentieth of the Customs dues annually collected, they threaten to destroy its efficiency.

The fear of dictation and imperious claims for equal concessions for the French nation, and, following suit, to other Treaty Powers, makes all such schemes unworkable and abhorrent to the Chinese. The recent massacre is but a consequence of a long course of wrongdoing and aggressive action on the part of the French authorities and missionaries combined. That it would lead to a catastrophe has been predicted and clearly foreseen by many; and during the past two years a succession of minor outrages of a similar character, in different parts of the empire, has given ample warning; yet those most directly interested have been both blind and deaf. In some of these cases British and American missionaries have suffered equally—mobs seldom being discriminative. But in this instance nothing is more significant than the distinction made between the French and all other residents in the place. Other foreigners, missionaries and officials as well as merchants, were in the vicinity, and some actually residing in the Chinese city which was the scene of the riot, and yet none were molested except by mistake, as in the case of three Russians. Surely this ought to be sufficient to convince the most sceptical that certain determinate causes of hostility exist not affecting foreigners generally, but the French exclusively?

The Consuls and their superiors, no doubt, conceive it their duty so to protect the missionaries and their converts as to deter all in authority from the assertion of any injurious rights of jurisdiction, without considering that this is to exterritorialise all Chinese subjects who become, or are induced to profess themselves, Christians. What nation or Government in the world would tamely acquiesce in such an assumption? Even from a religious point of view is it not a mistaken policy? Nothing can be more inimical to religious progress that the association of a creed with political and foreign influence in a country like China. And as regards interference with the internal affairs and administration of the Empire, it is, if possible, a still more grievous mistake for any foreign Power to assert rival claims and interpose for the employment of its subjects in equal numbers with those of any other nationality, with the avowed object of maintaining a balance of influence or power in the councils of China. It is simply to render all recourse to foreign skill or science for the development of China impossible, and indefinitely to retard the employment of those means by which alone Russia and other States have advanced by rapid strides from barbarism to civilisation.

The Rev. Mr. Butcher, British chaplain at Shanghai, also writes to The Times that it is no exaggeration to say that since Cawnpore no such deed of blood has been committed. The murder of the Sisters of Mercy is an outrage, not on a nation or a Church, but on humanity itself. The massacre of Tientsin suggests three points as its most important lessons. 1. This event disproves one popular fallacy—viz., that the Chinese are free from superstition. Now, though there is much that is admirable in the writings of Confucius, it is a mistake to believe that his system has been able to preserve the mass of the people from the most abject and ignorant superstition. The people whom many delight to represent as a school of tolerant and placid philosophers are actually proved to be capable of cruelties which bear comparison with those of North American Indians. As an illustration of the fallacy of the popular view, I may say that at the very time when I received the news of the savage murder of nine Sisters of Mercy, a priest, and his converts, I was reading an article in the Saturday Review, stating that the Peking Government is "entirely exempt from religious bigotry."

2. This event blows to pieces any fragments of trust in the late Mr. Burlingame and his theories that may yet remain in men's minds. The speeches about the Chinese mandarins desiring to see the "shining cross" on every hill are now felt to have been fabrications made to serve a particular purpose. The truth is the literati hate missionaries; the common people hear them gladly.

3. The tragedy in the north shows us that the Chinese Government is absolutely untrustworthy. His Excellency Chung How knew three or four days before the massacre that an outrage was intended. He took no steps whatever to prevent it; on the contrary, he connived at it. The actual perpetrators of these crimes were the bravos of Tientsin, but it must never be lost sight of that the Sisters were murdered in the presence of disciplined troops, who protected the native shops from pillage, but did not stir a hand to defend the foreigners—i.e., they were present to keep the murderers to their fiendish work and to prevent their digressing into any other more innocent employment. This event has no parallel in the Gordon Riots or any similar disturbances when a Government has been temporarily unable to control a mob.

That the responsibility rests with the officials none can doubt who read the account, which says distinctly:—

"The whole thing was done by the bravos of Tientsin, the fighting men and brothel bullies, the streets being full of troops, who were apparently there simply to keep the rowdies from breaking into the shops. The attack was made by signal, the same as used at fires, and when the murders were completed the retreat was tom-tommed in the same way as at fires, and the crowd dispersed."

It is very important to keep this in mind, as before the assassins could have well washed the blood off their hands, an Englishman in the employ of the Chinese was engaged in writing to a Chinese newspaper an account endeavouring to throw the blame on the French Consul and the Sisters. No money and cunning will be spared to hide the truth.

And now about the future. It is the wish of all fair-minded men interested in the China question that foreigners may not attempt to atone for a culpable remissness by any unreasonable violence. To take blood-money and to procure the judicial slaughter of a number of substitutes while the real criminals escape will do more harm than good. The officials, when their complicity is thoroughly proved, may be called upon to suffer; but the real mode of turning this trial to good will be to make it the plea for insisting on the opening of the country, the laying down of railways, and the erection of telegraphs. The troops whom we had seen so ready to protect the people while they were doing evil should be compelled to protect the foreign missionary while he is doing good. This is all that the Roman Catholic Fathers and the Protestant teachers desire.

The Pall Mall Gazette says:—If it is true—and all the accounts which have come to hand combine to show that it is true—that the French missionaries gave no provocation to their murderers, it was probably their foreign rather than their religious character which was the real cause of the hostility displayed against them. In that case their cause is really the cause of every foreign resident in the Treaty Ports. The common interests of every European Government demand that the authors of the massacre should be visited with adequate punishment, and especially that a searching inquiry should be instituted into the alleged complicity in it of Chung How and his subordinate officials. We have never advocated an interpretation of the Treaty of Tientsin which should bear hardly on the Chinese, and the insertion in it of an unlimited right to travel in the interior has always appeared to us a very great mistake. But if we are to have any relations with China the lives and property of Europeans peaceably living in the Treaty Ports must be held sacred; and when one European Government is prevented from enforcing its just claims for redress, it is no mere sentiment which points to the conclusion that its cause should be taken up by those other Governments who are only one degree less concerned in seeing justice done. No foreign Power can suffer unjustly in China without every other Power being brought in the end to suffer with it.

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—We have now received full details of the massacre, and these, instead of mitigating the horrors, increase them.

This is the most serious thing that has happened in China. I think there can be no doubt in the mind of any one that knows anything of how matters move here, that this frightful massacre, if not instigated by the authorities, has at least been connived at by them. It is now an ascertained fact that for days before the outrage took place the authorities knew that it was intended, and being planned. Nay, more, close beside the scene of the slaughter stands the official residence of the most powerful mandarin in Tientsin. Why was the foul deed not prevented? Why were not measures taken for securing the life of unoffending foreigners when the capital is so near, and when there were abundant means for doing so within reach?

Simultaneously with these occurrences there were rumours of similar movements at Nanking, and had not the French authorities despatched a gunboat to that place we would have had a repetition there of these frightful scenes.

There is no doubt that if the late Mr. Gibson had not taken the stand he did in Formosa we should most certainly have had a similar wholesale massacre there. The action of our Government in condemning so faithful, so able, and so conscientious a servant, and its whole insane policy for the last two years, have precipitated matters, and been the cause of emboldening this most treacherous of Governments. That action and that policy cannot by any possibility be construed by a people like this, and a Government like this, to mean anything else than that we are weak and very much afraid of the Emperor and people of China. I need hardly ask anyone as to the danger of putting a deadly instrument like this into the hands of a Government who know full well that every step of progress made here is a standing protest against themselves and their method of administering the affairs of this vast Empire.

It will be said in Britain that this is a missionary matter; but then there is the murder of the French Consul, and of several persons besides who were not missionaries. It is a very remarkable thing that no one here takes that ground, and surely they who have long resided in China may be expected to know something of the country and of the people in their modes of thought and acting.

The pretext for the Tientsin massacre is the old one of kidnapping children, taking out their eyes, &c., and making medicine therewith. In the Formosa case such things as these were inserted by a Chinese magistrate in an official document. These magistrates know as well as you and I that such charges are utterly false, but their policy is not to deny them. In their hands and in those of the literati, a band of greedy office-seekers, such charges are a most ready and effectual means for inflaming and rousing to deeds of atrocity an ignorant and half-civilised mob; and the inference from all this is as plain as daylight. We know it, and have stated it again and again—it is enmity deadly and implacable on the part of these two classes against the hated foreigner. The crime of kidnapping children is one of daily occurrence in every city of China. And even supposing the Roman Catholic missionaries had acted unwisely (and more than this their bitterest enemies would not dare to say against them), still it is impossible for anyone not to believe that the foundation for all this lies very much deeper than anything that appears on the surface.

I see that people at home are most rightly expressing great horror at the atrocities in Greece; and it is said that Earl Clarendon spoke of that matter with great emotion. Now what will he say of the Tientsin massacre? The policy he has been pursuing, and the principles that guide that policy are a grand mistake. By them security is at an end in this country; and unless the policy be reversed our apprehensions for the future cannot be too exaggerated. There is most evidently some movement against foreigners in contemplation, and our only hope now is most vigorous action by both the French and English Governments in connection with this case. Such action will most certainly not be in the line of flattering, and talking fine and empty platitudes to a lying and corrupt Government: but it will place foreign life in security, and will be an inestimable boon to this down-trodden and oppressed people. My intense love for China and my deep interest in its people alone make me write as I do.—Yours truly,

Amoy, July 18, 1870. A TEN YEARS' RESIDENT IN CHINA.

THE JAPAN LOAN.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—Your impression of September 5 contains, in pages 589 and 601, reference to the Japanese Loan, and comments upon myself of, to say the least, an objectionable character. I have to beg that you will insert this letter in a conspicuous position, and take this opportunity of informing you and all interested in the Japanese Loan that when occasion requires it I am in a position, and shall be able and glad, to furnish a most satisfactory account of my personal conduct in connection with the Japanese Loan and the construction of the railway. In the meantime, permit me to inform you that the material for the construction of forty miles of the railway in question has already been ordered from some of the first firms in the kingdom, and that under the superintendence of George P. White, Esq., the Consulting Engineer of the British Government for India, who has been appointed by me to act in a like capacity for the Japanese Government, everything is progressing in such a way as to secure the interests alike of the Japanese Government and the bondholders.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

H. N. LAY.

THE movement to import Chinese house-servants for employment in New York received a set-back when it became known that they would ask $18 to $20 a month, gold, with board and lodging. One of our citizens, much interested in the undertaking, learns upon further correspondence with Koopmanschap and Co., that they will supply new hands, speaking very little English, at $10 to $12, gold, per month. These servants have had no experience in American cookery and housework, but they are the raw material out of which the best Chinese domestics in San Francisco are made; and after a little practice will be equally good. This puts a new face on the matter; and several householders propose to co-operate in the importation of the new hands on Koopmanschap and Co.'s terms. It will be necessary to pay the transportation expenses to New York, from $65 to $100 per man, according to the number sent, payable to Koopmanschap and Co. upon their delivery here.

STAFF COMMANDER ROBERT J. C. GRANT, of H.M.S. Captain, the loss of which is reported, served on the China station from March, 1867, until Oct., 1868, on board the Rodney, flag ship.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

THE last mail from China teems with descriptions of the awful tragedy at Tientsin, and the measures which should be adopted to prevent the extension of these atrocities to the English and other foreigners in China. We cannot refrain from expressing our opinion that had the policy of our Government been different, the Chinese officials would certainly not have countenanced this dreadful butchery. It is only by a wholesome fear of the consequences that the Chinese can be brought to respect the foreigner. The attempt at glossing over the affair by the despatch of the very man on whom lies all the odium of the massacres, was certainly the most Chinese way of atoning for the offence. Distracted as is the Government at Paris, we can promise CHUNG HOW a warm reception should he venture to come there. One of the first stipulations for redress should have been the hanging of this miscreant and his principal myrmidons, the public degradation of all minor officials, and its publication in the Peking Gazette. Most assuredly if this affair is allowed to pass over the lives of Europeans in China will not be safe in any port. We are happy to say that notwithstanding the great pressure on the daily papers throughout the country caused by the war, a full ventilation has been given to the subject. The Bishop of VICTORIA has entered the ranks and pointed out the dangerous policy of our Government for the past two years. The Rev. Mr. BUTCHER writes an admirable letter to The Times, which strangely enough appeared immediately after that of "ALPHA," which we print in another column, and which, we need hardly say, has not been well received. The letter signed "Z." in our columns also takes up the old question of our rights in the interior under the French Treaty, which are undeniable when demanded; but, unfortunately, the English Government has not demanded these privileges from the Chinese Government, and this seems to be overlooked by most writers on the subject. Now, we do not advocate the occupation of Taku or the bombardment of Tientsin for outrages committed by the Chinese, but we most distinctly want the governing classes to feel that they cannot break their engagements with us with impunity, and it is the duty of our Government, either with or without the "inevitable gunboat," to insist on the due performance of our Treaty rights. A military occupation of any port in China is fraught with so many inconveniences, and is so impracticable, owing to the climate and other conditions, that it is unnecessary to discuss the subject. We do think, however, that our fleet, especially of small craft, should be always in an efficient state, and that the expense involved should be defrayed by the Chinese Government. The telegrams on the subject, dated from Hong Kong and Shanghai, say :—"The "negotiations with the Chinese authorities in connection "with the Tientsin tragedy remain in the same condition, "failing instructions from Europe. A feeling of insecurity "prevails at all the Treaty Ports, which is increased by this "inaction. The presence of the British and French Ministers and the two Admirals at Tientsin has quickened "TSENG-KWO-FAN, the Governor of the province, in his "inquiry regarding the complicity of the Tientsin mandarins "in the massacre." The latest one is from Tientsin, Aug. 27, and states that the Chinese were massing troops, and that missionaries had been assaulted. Our friends in China must not be misled by the following paragraph which appeared in the Standard, as there is no truth in the statement :—"It is "reported, in quarters exceedingly well informed, that England "will, in conjunction with France, as soon as a stable Go-"vernment is formed across the Channel, declare war with "China to obtain that satisfaction for the Tientsin massacre "which appears to have been refused, and to secure material "guarantees against a repetition of such an outrage."

In our mail news from Shanghai we print the particulars of the diabolical atrocities committed on the Sisters. Our readers must not forget that one of these Sisters was a British subject. Under other circumstances, and, as a rule, we should decline to print such details, but it is necessary in this case to disregard ordinary rules. It is most essential that the truth should be published, and we do so, trusting that the authors of this foul butchery will be visited with such retribution as will render it unlikely that such a duty will again fall to us. To say that this demoniacal massacre makes all ordinary men shudder to the quick is indeed a mild description; and yet we find that Mr. MEADOWS—an Englishman, at the time, moreover, acting as the Consul of the United States—comes forward to defend these fiends, and declares it was the fault of the unfortunate victims! It is to be hoped that the Government of the United States will mark their sense of such an atrocious outrage on humanity, by at once discharging him from the post. Happily it is not often we have to record such cold-blooded conduct on the part of Englishmen. This man, it seems, holds an appointment in the Chinese Arsenal under CHUNG HOW, and instead of using his influence with him to save the victims, actually defends the Chinese. Such a man not only deserves the execrations of all his fellow-countrymen, but banishment from China, and the British Government will, we trust, order his expulsion forthwith. Let such a specimen of an Englishman be ostracised. It has been a matter of surprise that the English and other foreign residents made no sort of attempt to divert the attention of the mob by an attack in defence of the victims, however futile. It certainly intensifies our distress that the miscreants were allowed to work out their fiendish will uninterrupted. Any diversion, however small, might have saved them, but this was impossible. To those acquainted with the locality it is not a matter of surprise, as the French were located inside the Chinese city, while the English and other foreigners are on the river side at a considerable distance. Had the French been in the precincts of the foreign settlement undoubtedly some sort of a stand would have been made in their defence, even at the risk of being all sacrificed. Mr. MORGAN, the Consul at Tientsin, is now in this country on leave, and will be able to furnish our Government with all local information. In this horrible tragedy we make another unpleasant discovery, and that is that the Northern men can be as cruel and bloodthirsty as the Cantonese. This is opposed to our experience hitherto.

INFORMATION has been received at the Board of Trade that the export duties on sugar from Siam have been reduced. The duties hitherto imposed have been two salungs (equal in English money to 1s. 3d.) per picul of 133 lbs. for white, and one salung (equal to 7½d.) per picul for red or brown qualities, but they are now to be only half these rates. To the despatch received from Her MAJESTY'S Consul-General in Siam by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, it is added that the Siamese Government reserve to themselves the right of reverting to the old duties after the expiration of five years, if they should think proper.

EVEN in these times of war excitement, the late gallant little exploit of the Sarawak Government (reported in the London and China Telegraph) should not be allowed to pass without its meed of appreciation. The British Government can claim no credit on this account, they having declined all the responsibilities of the late Sir JAMES BROOKE, who obtained the settlement from the native rulers. Our mercantile marine is indebted solely to the Sarawak Government for the protection which it at present receives, and which has sensibly diminished the number and violence of piratical attacks in the Eastern Archipelago.

WE have received a letter from Mr. H. N. LAY, which will be found in another column, by which it will be seen that a portion of the plant for the proposed railways in Japan is now in course of construction, under the superintendence of Mr. G. P. WHITE, Consulting Engineer to the Government of India.

THE William Cory has been despatched by the Telegraph Construction Company with the remaining portion of the cable for the section to connect the Straits with Madras. It is expected that the laying of this cable will be completed before the end of the year. The cable to be laid up the China Sea from Singapore to Hong Kong is now in course of construction, and will be laid during next year. The line from Hong Kong to Shanghai will be laid in a few months, the whole of the material having been despatched by the Great Northern Company.

IT has been decided by the French postal authorities to avoid Paris for the present in the transmission of the mails to and from Marseilles, and to adopt the route by Rouen and Tours. This will cause a delay of about twenty-four hours. The mails will, however, leave London, as usual, on Fridays, and the steamers will leave Marseilles on Monday, instead of Sunday.

MR. MCLEAVY BROWN, with the Chinese Commissioners, have left for China.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, Sept. 6.

Last Saturday we here—and the world in general—were electrified by the telegram announcing that the Emperor Napoleon had surrendered his person to the King of Prussia and MacMahon and his whole army had been made prisoners of war at Sedan, and great was the joyful gratitude and enthusiasm with which it was received. The city immediately wore a festive appearance, the shops being shut up and bunting displayed on almost every house, whilst the inhabitants flocked to the Exchange, the coffee-houses, and other places of public resort to discuss and gossip over the important intelligence. Such a wonderful thing as a whole army of nearly 100,000 men, the flower of the French forces, perfectly trained, and most of them with practical experience of war, laying down their arms and being made prisoners, has never occurred in the whole history of civilised warfare, the only event approaching to it being the capitulation of Ulm on the Danube in the time of the First Napoleon, when General Mack surrendered with twenty thousand men. In the evening the illuminations were general, and the streets and promenades crowded by the inhabitants not only of Hamburg Proper, but from Altona and other places, who flocked in by thousands, and helped to swell the dense masses of human beings who almost blocked up the streets and made it extremely difficult for the police to enforce their "Move on." A large band of singers, belonging to several of the vocal clubs, turned out with banners and torches, and sang patriotic songs under the windows of the General in command of the garrison, the Prussian Ambassador, the Burgomaster of Hamburg, and other popular notabilities. Altogether, it was a very lively and amusing scene. The chief point of attraction was, of course, the Exchange, which was not only brilliantly illuminated with jets of gas, and almost hid by the numerous flags displayed from every window, but exhibited a bust of the King of Prussia crowned with a wreath of fresh laurel leaves, and surrounded by Prussian and other German flags, very tastefully draped together and ornamented with garlands of leaves thickly interspersed with the flowers of the season. The telegrams as they arrived were immediately read out to the assembled crowd, and then three cheers were given for the King and his gallant army, many voices anticipating the future were even heard to cheer for the "Emperor of Germany and Prince Bismark."

Though the war has been conducted with the most consummate strategical talent, and hitherto with such brilliant success, it is painful to contemplate the reverse of the picture, as so many thousands of families all over Germany have been plunged into mourning and distress by the deaths of sons, husbands, and brothers,—many even into abject penury by the loss of their bread-winners. Hamburg has also not escaped, and every day the columns of the local press contain many advertisements of such deaths, most of them the consequence of the great battles near Metz on the 14th, 16th, and 18th of August. Among these I may mention the son of Herr Camille Vidal (of the firm of Ross, Vidal, and Co.), a son of Herr Donna, of Altona, and a fine promising lad, the eldest son of Mr. Annesley, H.B.M. Consul here, ensign in the 2nd Regiment of Foot Guards at Berlin. A very affecting scene occurred here on 'Change a few days ago: a merchant from Berlin received a telegram, which caused him to break out in loud lamentation, "My poor boys, my poor wife!" The message announced that his two sons were killed, and that his wife had in consequence gone mad!

With reference to the notice lately published in Lloyd's List that claims for compensation for German vessels captured by the French must be sent in within a month, I may state that hitherto no official confirmation or contradiction has as yet been published in Germany.

A foolish telegram has been published in a Danish organ in Schleswig—the Flensburger Norddeutsche Zeitung, stating that the German corvette Hertha had been captured by the French ships of war "off Alexandria." Almost on the same day letters were received at Kiel from officers of the Medusa, dated Yokohama, June 24, mentioning the consolatory fact that the Hertha was then lying at anchor alongside.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 7.

The day upon which the sitting of the States General will be closed and a new one opened approaches, and this will give new life to our home politics, in which the greatest dulness still prevails, the whole attention of the public being fixed upon the war. The First Chamber will, as I told you in my last, deal with the Bill to abolish capital punishment, and our Lords seem to be preparing for a warm party fight. The Section Report is not at all so favourable as we thought it would be, but, nevertheless, there is no question but that the Bill will be outvoted. There are signs that the colonial policy will again attract a good deal of attention in Parliament. You know that the Royal decree has yet to be issued by which the Agrarian Bill comes into force. This law, as you will remember, fixes only the principal stipulations, and leaves a good deal to the executive power. The Liberal party has much complained thereabout, and its co-operation was only secured because it was thought that the Minister of the Colonial Department would be liberal in applying the law, so that it should become what the Liberals wished. News from India, however, is not very satisfactory on this point. Rumours circulate that a draft of a Royal decree, prescribing stipulations about the introduction of the Bill, has been addressed to the Council of State, and that this draft has a strong Conservative character. If this rumour agrees with the truth, then Mr. de Waal has deceived the Liberal party. I need not add that if this should be the case war will be declared, and the colonial question will become once more the topic of Parliamentary debate, for the Liberal party will not rest until the whole Cabinet is over thrown. Rumours are again in circulation that Mr. Roest will resign.

The affairs of the Oost Indische Compagnie van Administratie en Lyfrente become every day more and more a topic of conversation. Mr. L. Wandrichem van Vliet has published his plan to reconstruct the company and to save the money of the parties interested. Mr. van Vliet wishes to prevent the failure of the company, because in that case the whole capital of the shareholders would be lost, while the creditors would only obtain 64 per cent. He suggests that operations should be continued, and he thinks that if his plan is adopted the money of all the parties will be saved. The figures advanced by Mr. van Vliet, however, are very problematical, and I am of opinion that he has put them upon paper without knowing the true state of the company. His project deserves the less confidence because he offers himself as administrator to reconstruct the company at Java. Much more impartial is a pamphlet of Mr. C. Costens, a concurrent creditor. He sketches the whole history of the company, and give reasons and facts to show that nothing is better than for the failure to be declared, which is the only way to secure the interests of the creditors. I recommend both these reports to the attention of your readers, especially the last-named pamphlet, which will give some very strong facts about the management of this company. The greatest uncertainty still prevails as to whether the Court will agree with the demand for surseéance, or that the failure will be declared.

The company for the welfare of the Javanese has published a very desponding circular. It states that the number of members has decreased by 300 this year. There is little sympathy for the League, and at this we cannot wonder when we remark the very strange behaviour of the managers of late.

Her Majesty's has conferred the order of the Netherlands Lion upon Messrs. J. de Wal Hzn, and H. W. du Perron, both vice-presidents of the High Court of Netherlands India; also upon J. J. Meyer, assistant resident of Amoenthay (Borneo); G. L. Dorrepaal, at Samarang; and F. Alting Mees, at Batavia, president of the Java Bank.

The Netherlands Bank has reduced its rate of discount to 5½ per cent.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

COFFEE.—Since the Trading Company's auction there has been a rather lively demand, the communication with Germany being re-established. Holders, however, decline to operate without an advance of 1c. to 1½c. upon the last auction's prices. The transactions thus include only 2,386 b. Java, ex Anna Storey, 4,200 b. RAW SUGAR.—The Trading Company announce that on the 20th inst. 60,400 mats Java will be offered for sale. The market looks very healthy, and there is, especially for white sorts, a good demand. About 3,000 mats Java, of this quality, have been sold at prices kept secret, but which are said to be very high. Some floating lots have found buyers at f.1 above July value. The unsold stock of raw sugar in bond was, on the 1st inst., 76,508 mats; stock on warrants, 41,660 mats; private stock, 7,995 mats.

RICE.—Meets with more demand now it becomes more probable every day that the crop of potatoes will partly fail. Particulars of transactions have not transpired.

SPICES.—Inactive; only 29 cases Cloves, ex G. H. Betz, have found buyers.

TEA.—The market is very dull; 460/4 chests China Congou, ex Riding Hood, bought in at auction on the 27th July, were sold at 80c. to 81c.

JAVA TOBACCO.—Notwithstanding the political situation, prices for tobacco are very firm. Amongst the transactions I note:—363 b. Java, K P S, ex Madura, at 80c.; 619 b. Java, A J/Walter; 189 b. Java, Kawie L, ex Golden City.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

There has been rather more firmness in the market, and prices have been steadily maintained, the only exception being in the low qualities of black-leaf, which have experienced a decline. The more moderate export from China has given confidence to holders of new season's black-leaf kinds, and the recent sales show a slight improvement in prices. The Statesman, with the first supplies of Kaisow kinds, has arrived, and her samples have been placed on the market, but at present but little business has resulted; the quality is generally considered inferior. The Stock in the United Kingdom on the 31st ult. was estimated at 74,800,000 lbs., against 69,278,000 lbs.; the quantity afloat at 27,500,000 lbs., against 35,987,000 lbs. last year.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings and broken-leaf kinds have been rather more inquired for at previous prices. Fair to good common remain steady. Fair kinds of Kaisow, from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d., have been in better request. Good to fine Kaisows, of new season, have been sold in limited quantity from 1s. 6d. to 2s., a very few finest from 2s. 1d. to 2s. 6d. per lb. Pak Lins: We hear of no sales at present. Black-leaf kinds: The low qualities have sold at public sale at ½d. to 1d. per lb. reduction. Fair to good common remain firmly quoted, with a moderate demand. There have been a few sales made from 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 3d. for fair quality. In new season's there has been a better demand, and prices for good kinds, ranging from 1s. 7d. to 1s. 10d. per lb., show an improvement of ½d. to 1d. per lb. from the lowest point. In finest sales to some extent have been made from 2s. 4d. to 2s. 8d. per lb. for export. Amoy kinds have been without inquiry. In new-make Canton kinds there has not been much done at public sale; a parcel sold rather lower. Oolongs: In old season's there has been but little done; new have been sold from 1s. 9d. to 2s. per lb. Souchongs: There have been a few parcels of new offering, but at present we hear of no sales. Scented Teas: Canton Capers, of recent arrival, have sold at full prices. Orange Pekoes: Old season Canton kinds have been saleable only at low prices. Foochow kinds: Fair to good of old season continued much depressed; new have been sold from 2s. 2d. to 2s. 4d. per lb. for good to fine quality. In Uncoloured Japans common kinds remain heavy of sale at 10½d. to 11d. per lb.; good to fine are in moderate demand. Green Teas: There have been some arrivals of new season's Ping Suey, one invoice of which was sold at public auction, realising full prices; privately the prices obtained were not quite so high; the finer kinds sold comparatively well, the medium kinds going at irregular prices. In Canton Gunpowders there has been but little done.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular contains the following:—We are enabled to report a firm market during the past fortnight, the supplies to hand being moderate, and importers have not forced sales; prices have advanced a further ½d. to 1d. per lb. for fine and finest Congou. The Ajax brought a choice selection of Ningchows, a few parcels of which have been taken by shippers at 2s. 4d. to 2s. 7½d. per lb. The steamer Statesman, with the first cargo of new season's red-leaf Congou, arrived on the 4th inst., followed next day by the Achilles; both vessels have made rapid passages of 55 and 54 days respectively. The crop generally is disappointing; Teas possess fair strength, but are by no means of fine quality. Latest advices from China, to 18th ult., state business is virtually suspended in consequence of the war news; shipments, 47,000,000 lbs., against 63,000,000 lbs. last year at same date. The export trade has been quiet, as purchases for Canada have entirely ceased, and to the Continent buying has been confined to finest Congou. Deliveries show satisfactory development, and stand thus:—

Home consumption for London from 1st Jan. to 31st Aug. ...	53,592,000	51,533,000
Export do. do.	19,700,000	23,843,000
Sent coastwise do.	28,900,000	24,051,000

Messrs. Kinnear, Hawes, and Co. say:—The samples ex S.S. Craigforth and United Service are being placed on the market; these Teas are mostly of a medium to good medium quality. No business of great extent has taken place in them, but former quotations have been fully sustained. In some cases, where the character of the Teas bore a similarity to Kaisow Teas in flavour, an increased price has been obtainable. Such Teas have been taken as substitutes for U.S. Kaisows; which, judged by the cargoes ex Statesman, and the Tea parcels we have seen ex Achilles, must be pronounced as of very unsatisfactory quality, both in appearance and flavour.

BLACK.—Of the grades below common, the limited business transacted has been mostly ex-public sale, at the low quotations advised in ours of 24th ult.; inferior to good flavoury Kaisow kinds have sold at 10d. to 1s. per lb.; in other grades of old season's supplies are exhausted. The new season's were offered yesterday; a few sales have been made in medium to fine Kaisow at 1s. 6d. to 2s. 1d., and finest up to 2s 4d. per lb.; Pakling, in boxes, at 1s. 10d. to 1s. 11d. per lb. Tayshan Leaf: The Clymene, from Canton and Macao, brought supplies of low grades, but it has been impracticable to effect sales by private contract, dealers being already well stocked. Black leaf: In old season's there is nothing of interest to report; the new, ex-Ajax, has sold at 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 6½d. for flavoury mixed Ooanfa kinds and Oonams, the quality of which has not been equal to the earlier imports; 1s. 9d. to 2s. per lb. for full Pekoe-flavoured Oopacks and Ooanfa, and 1s. 9½d. to 2s. 7½d for fine to extra fine Monings and Ning Chows. Souchong and Oolong: A few new seasons have been offered, and sales have been made in Oolong at 2s. 2d. per lb. for finest. Scented Teas: Canton kinds, no change. New Foo Chow Pekoes, which are strong scented and of superior quality, have sold freely at 2s. 2d. to 2s. 4½d. per lb., and Capers at 2s. 2d. to 2s. 8d. per lb.

GREEN.—An invoice of new Ping Suey, ex Ajax, was offered at public sale without reserve on the 2nd inst., and realised satisfactory rates, 3s. 7d. for No. 1 Gunpowder, 2s. 8d. for No. 1 Imperial, and 2s. 6d per lb. for No. 1 Young Hyson, other grades in proportion; invoices have also been offered by private contract, but prices paid are lower, as the chops are inferior. The quality of the teas we make barely so good in leaf as in previous years, but superior in the cup, being quite after the Moyune character. Japan leaf: The demand has subsided.

SILK.

The following is from Messrs. Kilburn, Kershaw, and Co.'s Circular:—There has been a steady inquiry for China Silk, and within the last day or two an improved demand, the consequence of which has been to cause a recovery of from 1s. to 2s. from the lowest point in August; business has been limited, owing to the very strong view importers take of the market, and their firmness for higher rates; the quotations of the day, at which there are buyers, are 25s. 6d. for Red Peacock, 26s. to 26s. 6d. for Silk a shade better in quality, and 28s. 6d. to 29s. 6d. for best chop 3rds; 24s. 6d. to 25s. 6d. for best No. 1 Kahing Taysaams, and 20s. to 23s. for common to medium; the market is now very firm at these rates. Japan and Bengal Silks have also shared somewhat in the improvement, and are fully 1s. to 1s. 6d. better than a month ago for the best qualities. Canton Silk is overweighted, owing to the enormous stocks and continued arrivals, and it makes but a poor show in the business doing; still some few parcels have of late changed hands at 20s. to 21s. 6d. for good to best Loong Kong, and 19s. to 20s. for fair to good Tsatlee reel. It is pretty evident that in the event of an early termination of the war between France and Germany there would be an immediate general inquiry for Silk, and a rebound in the prices of all classes for the moment, but whether rates higher than those at present ruling could be maintained for any length of time seems to us very doubtful. Deliveries are wonderfully good, considering the cessation of all shipments to the Continent, and prove that the mills in neutral countries are fully employed. Deliveries from 1st to 7th inst. were: 576 China, 94 Canton, 171 Japan, and 60 Bengal; total, 901 bales.

COFFEE.

The offers of Ceylon at the public sales have been extensive, and there being a rather inactive demand, except for coloury qualities, common and medium kinds have only been saleable at a decline upon our last quoted prices. The latest rates paid have been:—Plantation, triage and ordinary, 40s. to 54s.; small grey, 54s. to 56s.; low middling to middling ditto, 58s. to 60s. 6d.; bold, 64s. 6d. to 67s.; small coloury, 57s. to 63s.; middling to good middling coloury, 61s. to 70s.; good bold, 71s. to 77s.; peaberry, 72s. 6d. to 79s. Native, small, 40s. 6d.; good ordinary, 47s.; good to fine bold, 50s. to 52s.; peaberry, 50s. 6d. In other East India no business has been done.

The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation 298,108 cwt., against 208,707 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 17,152 cwt., against 38,276 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 10,615 cwt. Plantation, against 8,252 cwt., and 17,540 cwt. Native, against 19,290 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-five weeks ended Sept. 3, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 24,890 tons, against 25,220 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 42,518 tons, against 47,423 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 7,109 tons, against 7,581 tons; of all descriptions, 12,570 tons, against 12,725 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 18,915 tons, against 17,763 tons; of all descriptions, 30,118 tons, against 30,821 tons. The stock on Sept. 3 was, of Ceylon, 12,730 tons, against 11,921 tons; of all descriptions, 24,049 tons, against 23,107 tons. The landings for the week are heavy, and are 2,280 tons larger than last year; the deliveries show an important increase, compared to several weeks past, but are still 260 tons under last year's; these movements have caused a surplus in the stock of 900 tons. Stock, Aug. 27, 22,788 tons, against 24,382 tons; Sept. 3, 24,049 tons, against 23,107 tons.

SUGAR.

The demand has again been very inactive; there have been no public sales of East India, and the only private transactions reported consist of the sale of 50 tons unclayed Taal Manila at 17s. 6d. per cwt., and 100 bags Penang at 23s.

The deliveries for the week include fully 3,000 tons of British West India and 700 tons Manila and Java, and are 200 tons larger than at the same time last year, but the landings being 4,000 tons in excess the surplus in the stock is increased to 22,400 tons. Stock, Aug. 27, 102,937 tons, against 84,338 tons; Sept. 3, 103,117 tons, against 80,782 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-five weeks ended Sept. 3, 1870, was—of Penang, 2,277 tons, against 2,101 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 15,069 tons, against 23,199 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 1,589 tons, against 1,800 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 17,737 tons, against 12,074 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 95 tons, against 83 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,877 tons, against 1,035 tons. The stock on Sept. 3 was, of Penang, 2,923 tons, against 547 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 31,245 tons, against 38,654 tons.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The enquiry has shown more activity, and prices have advanced; Ceylon in pipes sells at £37 15s. to £38, and in hogsheads at £38 10s. per ton. The quantity of Ceylon afloat is estimated at 23,327 cwt., against 19,402 cwt. in 1869, and 17,272 cwt. in 1868.

COIR GOODS.—At the last sales moderate quantities of Yarn brought to auction were nearly all disposed of, medium to good qualities again sold with competition at firm rates, whilst common remained neglected; 43 tons Ceylon Yarn sold, low, £18 to 18 10s.; good common to medium, £21 to £22 15s.; fair, £25 to £26 5s.; very fine, £49.

CAMPHOR.—No offers have been made at public sale, and privately the business is limited at low rates; a further decline is anticipated, the parcels afloat from China and Japan being estimated to amount to the enormous quantity of 18,000 packages.

CARDAMOMS.—At Auction 20 bags ordinary mouldy Ceylon were offered and bought in at 2s. 7d.

HEMP.—The market continues dull, and there have been no public sales; private transactions, amounting to about 200 bales, are reported at £50 for common brown, and £55 for good fair roping.

HIDES.—At the last sales, although the demand for East India Hides was far from active, the greater part found buyers at about former prices. 17,097 Dry Singapore and Penang Ox and Cow Hides offered, 5,483 sold—light, 6¾d. to 7d.; heavy, 5¾d. to 6d.; extra heavy, 6d.; small and Calf, 5¼d. to 7¼d.; thirds, 5d.; fourths, 3¾d. to 4d. per lb. 755 Ceylon Hides offered and sold—light, 4¾d.; heavy, 4¼d.; fourths, 3¼d.; Buffalo, 4d. per lb, 1,425 Singapore and Penang Buffalo Hides offered and sold—best heavy, 4¼d. to 5¼d.; seconds, 4¼d.; light, 6¾d. per lb.

Afloat 2,000 bags Penang, June sailing, have been sold at 4¾d. to 4 13-16d., including first-class sea-damaged. Privately 200 bags Singapore have been sold at 5d., and for arrival 500 bags Penang at 4 13-16d., including first-class sea-damaged. White: No business is reported.

The price is steady here; Banca, £127; Straits, £125 to £126.

TEA.

The trade and dealers are buying rather sparingly, and rarely beyond their immediate requirements, the reduction of 10 cents per lb., gold, in the duty January 1 next inducing caution on their part. It is thought, however, that with the reduction of duty will come a lower range of values, and that an increase of consumption may reasonably be expected. A portion of this decline has already taken place, and no further variation of importance is looked for. The provision in the last Tariff Act, by which goods can be held in bond in the interior, is calculated to exert a healthy influence upon trade, as invoices may now be placed at leading points in the country and disposed of as the consumptive demand may require. Samples of new crop Pingsuey Green have been received by rail, and the Aspinwall steamer, with her cargo of new Green Japan, &c., is expected. There have been a few transactions in the new Teas on private terms, including a sale of 2,050 boxes Pingsuey Greens. Of old teas the sales have been 600 half-chests per Harlaw, 500 per Etha Rickmers, 1,300 per Elizabeth Nicholson, 560 per Surprise, 350 per Banian, 700 Souchong, 2,800 Oolong, 500 Japan, and 400 Green by other recent arrivals. At a small peremptory sale by auction low prices were accepted; 459 half-chests Uncoloured Japan sold at 78c. to 80c., 4 mos., currency, and 147 do. Oolong, 59½c. to 61c., cash.

The following are the current quotations:—Greens (Moyune, Twankl and Fychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 70c. to 115c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 55c. to 100c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 43c. to 105c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 52c. to 85c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow Oolongs, common and good, 48c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 56c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 47c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 65c.; finest, 67c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 40c. to 50c.; superior and fine, 54c. to 63c.; finest, 65c. to 85c.; Japans, common, 55c. to 58c.; medium, 62c. to 63c.; fine and finest, 68c. to 75c.; choice, 80c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Aug. 24, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 18,035,216 lbs.; Japans, 8,580,709 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,655,202 lbs.; Oolongs, 8,469,633 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 37,895,224 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 47,761,391 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Aug. 24, 3,602,066 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 25,812,866 lbs., there remains a total of 18,346,459 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Aug. 10 to Aug 24 amounted to 883,075 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 1,268,192 lbs.; and the exports to 154,219 lbs.

SILK.

The following is from Messrs. O'Donoghue and Howell's report, dated 20th August:—In our Circular of the 20th ult. we reported an almost complete stagnation of our market, consequent upon the receipt of the European war news; since then, the great excitement having in some degree abated, business has shown symptoms of activity, but the situation is still one of too great uncertainty to warrant us in expecting to hear of any large transactions for some time. Buyers move with extreme caution, purchasing sufficient to replenish depleted stocks, but declining to negotiate for much beyond their immediate requirements. Usual reel Tsatlees and Taysaams are in small supply, and the higher grades are wanted. Re-reeled Tsatlees and Haincens: These favourite classes of silk have been quite active for the past two weeks; the stock is now very small. Japans have received some attention, especially Atchezan. Cantons are quiet.

Prices current for China and Japan Silks: Tsatlees, No. 2, $10.25 to 10.50; No. 3, $10.1-8; Nos. 4 and 5, $9 to 9.25. Taysaam, Nos. 2 and 3, $8.25 to 8.3-8; Nos. 4 and 5, $7.3-8 to 7.50; Canton, re-reeled, good, $7.1-8 to 7.25; fair, $6.3-4 to 6.7-8; medium, $6.5-8; Tsatlee, re-reeled, good, $10.25; fair and medium, $9.75 to 10. Haineen, do. good, $10; fair, $9.5-8 to 9.75. Canton, re-reeled, extra fine, $8.50. Japans: Maibash, nominal. Koshio, good and fair medium, $8.50. Atchezan, good, $8.75; fair, $8.5 8. Tamba, $8.50. Ida, good, $10. Sodai, good and fair to medium, $9.75. Imports: For the past month, 124 packages, value $77,286; corresponding period last year, 331 packages, value $156,881. Total Imports: Since the 1st of January to the 31st of July, 2,715 packages, value, $1,311,937; corresponding period last year, 3,579 packages, value, $1,732,601.

COFFEE.—The market generally has become dull, the supply being full, and inquiry limited. The current quotations are:—Java, 19½c. to 22c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. gold. The only business done in East India is comprised in the sale of about 5,000 mats Java, in small lots, at the current rates. The arrival is reported at Boston of the Cyclone, with 17,441 mats Java, no part of which has been sold afloat; this cargo being thrown upon the market will probably lead to further depression. The stock of Manila on the 1st Aug. was estimated at 1,700 bags, against 6,769 bags on Aug. 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 850 bags, against 1,995 bags; of Java mats, 49,362, against 66,691 bags; of Ceylon, 250 bags, against 1,884 bags; of Singapore, 5,171 bags, against nil.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 16c. to 18c. gold (in bond).

CORDAGE.—The market for Manila continues dull; the ruling rates are 21½c. to 22½c., with a downward tendency.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $1.95 to 2; Cassia, $1.5 to 1.67½ gold.

FIRE CRACKERS.—There is no demand, and prices are nominal.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—Manila still maintains the nominal quotation previously ruling, 12¾c. to 13c. gold, but lower prices would be accepted were there any demand; the only sale reported is of 690 bales upon private terms. The stock of Manila on the 1st August was estimated at 16,934 bales, against 3,600 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 26,680 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from the 1st January to the 31st July, 1870, were 88,358 bales, against 61,235 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on the 31st July was 33,045 bales, against 60,952 bales at the same date last year.

INDIGO.—There is still a steady demand for Manila, and sales have been effected amounting to about 55 cases at $1.10 to $1.30 currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $10.50 to 11 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1 to 2.50 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—The enquiry both for home consumption and export continues fairly active at steady rates. The sales of Rangoon comprise 2,950 bags, for home consumption, at $7 to 7.25; 2,200 bags, in bond for export, at $3.12½; and 100 bags, superior quality, at $3.37½, gold.

SPICES.—The market is inactive, though we notice rather more inquiry for Cassia and Pepper. There are no whole parcels changing hands, and the business is confined to the jobbing demand at former quotations. A lot of 450 bags Singapore Pepper sold from second hands on terms we did not learn. The quotation for Cassia in cases and mats is 46½c. to 47c., gold.

TIN.—There is still a lack of response to the continuous advance in the English market; 200 pigs Straits have been sold at 36c. gold, and 500 pigs on private terms. Holders of Banca are firm at 37½c. to 37½c. gold, showing a slight advance.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
FOUR GOLD MEDALS.

Supplied to the British, French, Prussian, Russian, Italian, Dutch, and other Governments. Dr. Lankester writes regarding Extract of Meat:—"But there is a difference in flavour, and here, as in all other kinds of food, it is the flavour that makes the quality." It is essentially on account of the fine meaty flavour, as distinguished from the burnt taste of other Extracts, that LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT defeated all Australian and other sorts at Paris, Havre, and Amsterdam, and is so universally preferred in all European markets.

One pint of fine-flavoured Beef-tea at 2½d. Most convenient and economic "stock."

CAUTION.—Require Baron Liebig's, the inventor's, signature on every jar, and ask distinctly for LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT.

As stated by the War Office, the assertion of an Australian Agent of solely supplying the British Government is proved to be nothing but an untrue statement.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

SPASMS, FLATULENCY, CONSTIPATION.—So many persons suffer from these disorders that a description of them is unnecessary; but the recommendation to take Holloway's Pills for the cure of disordered digestion will be repaid with gratitude by all who give them a single trial. No medicine will so safely and speedily restore a deranged stomach, torpid liver, or obstinate bowels to order, as these famous Pills. No other preparation will so effectually and healthily conduct the process of digest on that spasms, flatulency, and other torments of dyspepsia, cannot by any possibility arise, or if present will be soon cured. The power of these Pills in removing biliousness, diarrhœa, dysentery, and debility is truly wonderful.

Summary of News from the Far East.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

From Tientsin we hear that the French Minister, Count de Rochechouart, arrived on the 17th July, from Peking, and took up his quarters on board the French gun-vessel Flamme, Commander Méquet. He called on his Excellency Chung How during the course of the afternoon, accompanied by Mr. Lay, acting French Consul; and Chung How has returned the visit on board the Flamme. Tseng-kwo-fan has sent for a body of troops from Paoutingfoo, the capital of the province, for the ostensible purpose of keeping the disorderly characters of Tientsin in check, while the new authorities are engaged in arresting the men implicated in the massacre. He says he did not think it advisable to bring troops with him, in the first instance, fearing that false reports might be spread as to his object. There is doubt, however, as to the sincerity of this statement; and there may also be room for doubt, after previous news, whether the troops will readily yield the desired service, and whether the object of bringing them down may not be quite other than that alleged. Our own information is, that very large bodies of troops are massed in the neighbourhood of the port; and their presence forebodes no peaceful settlement of affairs, as both they and their chief are well known for their anti-foreign sentiments. Chung How's successor, Ching-ling, has not yet arrived from Peking.

Various rumours have been afloat as to the attitude of Count Rochechouart, and as to the progress of his negotiations with the Chinese. We believe we may state that nothing has yet been settled. The situation of affairs is, probably, that the Chinese have made certain proposals to M. de Rochechouart, to rebuild the Cathedral, Sister of Charity Hospital, Orphanage, and the Consulate, and to degrade the chief mandarins of Tientsin, with the exception of Chung How; but that these proposals have not been accepted, further than having been put on record. The French Chargé d'Affaires will hardly be able to do anything before receiving instructions from home, and these are not expected to arrive before Aug. 6. It is said that the two mandarins who were mostly implicated in the Tientsin massacre have been allowed to return to their homes—in other words, to escape; and that the only punishment that Tseng-kwo-fan is inclined to inflict on them, is loss of their official rank. The city of Tientsin is still agitated; but business has recommenced.

The Chinese Government protest against their complicity in the Tientsin massacre, and declare that it was the work of the people of that town. But we have sufficient evidence to know how much the latter portion of the statement, at least, is worth. The native Christians, who were thrown into prison on the charge of sorcery, are still detained in custody, although their release has been demanded by the French authorities.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Wade will not allow the French Minister to negotiate about what is due for the murder of a British subject, but that he will take the case up himself. The national honour and prestige of England in China demand that this case of Sister Louise be made a question between the British Chargé d'Affaires and the Chinese Government, and that it should not be left in the hands of even a friendly power.

The correspondent of the Evening Courier writes on 20 July:—Comte Rochechouart's first demand seems to have been that certain native Christian converts, who were known to be imprisoned in or near the city of Tientsin, should be brought alongside the Flamme within a given hour. He then demanded that Tseng-kwo-fan should visit him on board the Flamme, and finally, he demanded that the head of the Chefu, the Chehsien and Tseng-kwo-fan's Lieutenant-General (Cheng-kwo-jui ?) should be brought to him by a certain time. The alternative in each case was the bombardment of the city.

In compliance with the first demand, the native converts were brought alongside the Flamme half-an-hour before the appointed time had expired. The gentleman who told our informant alleged that he was an eyewitness of the ghastly spectacle which these poor persecuted wretches presented. Their ears squeezed to pieces between slips of bamboo; their eyelashes cut off; their knees dislocated; their whole body bearing evidence of the fiendish ingenuity and cruelty that had been used to wring from them something to support the anti-foreign mania of their persecutors. It will be remembered that this representation is corroborated by the statement of one of our recent letters from Tientsin, that it was known that a number of Christian converts were being tortured in prison.

Tseng-kwo-fan visited Rochechouart on board the Flamme with remarkable punctuality to the time mentioned. He was willing to deliver up the heads of the Che-fu and Cheh-sien; but he refused to allow his lieutenant to suffer. Whether he will persist in this refusal to the extent of subjecting the city to the dreadful ordeal of a bombardment, or whether Rochechouart will persevere in carrying out his ultimatum to the letter, remains to be seen. An unexplained point is whether this action of Rochechouart implies that he has been fortified and guided by telegraphic instructions from France, or consultation with the Admiral at Chefoo. It was thought not unlikely at Tientsin that the Chinese would man the Taku forts and shut in the French who are already up the river.

Mr. Lay, British and French Consul here, applied to the Chinese Government for a guard to send to Tsi-nan-foo for Mr. Sandrie, a French subject. A guard of forty-five men and a colonel was granted, with a letter to the Governor-General of Shantung for permission to convey Mr. Sandrie back. He is the gentleman whose servants ran away from him, and who was threatened with death.

The Russian authorities are said to be convinced that the murder of their three subjects was an accident, they having been mistaken for French. They are therefore said to intend no action in the matter.

I hear on good authority that since Mr. Wade has learned that Sister Louise was a British subject he has taken up the question warmly, and has written home about it. When the Chinese notice this fact it may serve as a hint to them, if they want a fight, as some say, to commence next time at one of the larger Legations; then possibly the Governments may be tempted to take some action in the matter.

Mr. Lay, the acting Consul, has addressed a note to Messrs. Lees and Hall the Protestant Missionaries, enquiring the loss sustained. They reply, expressing their surprise, not only that they should be required thus early to state the amount of those losses, but also that, prior to the settlement of more important questions pending, the subject of monetary compensation should be entertained at all. In the uncertainty as to the action that will be taken at the present crisis by France and England, such is the disorganisation of this city and neighbourhood that all mission work must, in all likelihood, be suspended for months to come. The mission-staffs are, consequently, thrown upon their hands, and their converts exposed to injury; at such a moment it is impossible to visit the chapels in safety, far less to obtain builders' estimates for their restoration. The English missionaries express their anxious desire not to be separated from their French brethren in any settlement of these unhappy troubles. This is not a mere question of sentiment. They are British subjects residing in China under the protection of treaties, and engaged in the prudent prosecution of their lawful calling, at least one of the murdered sisters was a British subject, and there cannot be the slightest doubt that the original design was to treat all nationalities alike. Disavowing all desire for war or vengeance, the reverend gentlemen claim justice, and hold most firmly to the belief that the path of safety and of honour, no less for individual Englishman than for our Government, is to stand by their fellow-sufferers in the hour of trial.

SHANGHAI.

Latest dates of this mail are to the 28th July. The outward mail of 10th June was to hand with telegrams to 2nd July.

The following summary is from the North China Herald of July 28:—

When we closed our last week's summary the Volunteers were preparing to mount guard over the chief approaches to the foreign settlement for the night. The day was sacred to the God of Thunder, and large numbers of people were flocking into the city to worship at his shrine. A proclamation, directed against foreigners, had been found posted in the temple, and it was feared the opportunity might be taken by the ill-disposed to get up a disturbance. Distinct rumours of attack did gain currency. The Catholic establishments at Tun-ka-doo and Sikaway and a Catholic church situated a short distance inland on the Hong-kew side were sentenced, and an attack on the settlement was talked of. The shop of a man who is making braid for the Volunteers was attacked and the owner beaten in the course of the day. The French residents therefore determined to patrol their portion of the settlement during the night, and invited us to follow their example. Detachments of volunteers were accordingly posted at several inlets into the settlement; Nos. 1 and 3 Rifle Companies, the Mi-ho-loongs, No. 2 Fire Company, and the Mounted Rangers being told off for the purpose. One set of guards served from 8 till 12, a second from midnight till 4 A.M. The night however passed off quietly; and the display had a good effect on the Chinese, whom it showed that we were thoroughly prepared to meet any attack.

A correspondent writes that some genius has started the report that the Taoutai has been caught, and locked up in the Municipal gaol. Another rumour, widely circulated in the country, is that he and all his family have been murdered by the French, in retaliation for the Tientsin massacre. Another story goes that the French had applied to the English for the "loan" of some soldiers, and had been refused; hence the delay in commencing fighting. Several families have left the city, I am told, fearing lest, when war has been declared, the French should attack the city. Others are debating about coming over to the English settlement, which they look upon as much the safest place in the event of war. I do not think there is any fear of local outbreak. The people, in the city especially, appear to long for peace. They are hoping that, even should war be declared, things will go on in Shanghai as usual. I observe, however, that children and rowdies are somewhat more abusive than formerly.

We have to acknowledge a copy of a pamphlet by Mr. H. Lang, entitled "Shanghai Considered Socially." It is, as those of our readers who heard Mr. Lang's lecture are aware, more comprehensive than its title implies, being more of a history than a social sketch. A table of the recent census is very appropriately added. It is interesting just now to learn that there are 75,000 Chinese in the English and Hong-kew settlements—of whom nearly 7,000 are boatmen and 2,000 vagrants. To these may probably be added 150,000 in the native city and suburbs. The foreign population, including 650 merchant sailors, but excluding ships of war, is 2,318.

A Hankow correspondent writes that a hostile placard was found on the walls of the Canton Guild Hong, in the city, praising the action of the Tientsin rioters, and suggesting that there were like establishments in Hankow. The Protestant missionaries at this port have addressed a letter of condolence to the Roman Catholic missionaries, which has been acknowledged on behalf of the latter by M. Filippi, the Pro-vicar of Hupeh. The danger foreshadowed by us a few days ago has happened. The settlement is again submerged, and the water is rising rapidly. The result has been almost to stop trade.

The letter to Mr. Wade from Tseng-kwo-fan is now announced to be a forgery.

A correspondent writes that all is quiet at Chefoo. The French Admiral left on the 20th, in the Linois, which came down for him; and the English Admiral on the 21st in the Salamis, for Tientsin. H.M. gunboat Midge arrived from Kobé on the 19th.

A Newchwang correspondent says there is not a single foreign ship in port; and the pilot schooner is detained, to guard over and receive foreigners, in case of emergency. The first news of the Tientsin outbreak had occasioned great uneasiness; but a junk-master, since arrived, had given his opinion that there would not be war; and the native mind was influenced accordingly. Still, any quantity of rumours were afloat, and people were excited. A gunboat was anxiously looked for. The Grasshopper will have arrived ere this.

A meeting, attended by nearly all the foreign community, has been held at Ningpo, to devise measures for the general safety, in the event of an attack. It was agreed unanimously that a watch should be kept each night, and a roster was arranged. Mr. Fittock, H.M.'s Consul at Ningpo, sent round a circular stating that, in consequence of threatening rumours, he has obtained from the senior naval officer at Shanghai the protection of H.M.'s gunboat Leven, and that during the stay of that vessel, and with the assurance of the asserted intention of the local authorities to do their duty, and the protection of Colonel Cooke and Major Watson, the officers commanding the garrison, he sees no reason to apprehend any attack, at least for the present. Nevertheless, he recommends the formation of a Municipal Council and Police, similar to that of 1862, and the formation of a Vigilance Committee to assist the existing small police force to patrol the streets at night. It is rumoured that H.M.S. Leven may be ordered from this port; if so, the little community of forty persons will be left entirely to their own defence in case of an outbreak occurring. All was quiet when last advised, though some more objectionable placards had appeared. One of these, headed, "Beware of the kidnappers!" has evidently been written at Soochow, and its appearance at Ningpo is another straw, showing the existence of concerted action. It is not a spontaneous expression of Ningpo alarm; but is sent down from Soochow, to cause excitement. It differs from other placards which have appeared, in this respect. Children only have been hitherto spoken of. Now old and young are being kidnapped. The foot-note, exhorting people to reverence written paper (or paper having written characters on it), is intended, apparently, as a sort of well-drawn amen, imparting a solemn and religious air to the whole effusion. Defensive precautions of a permanent kind should be taken at every port in China.

A meeting of shareholders in the Racket Club was held on the 16th, to receive the half-yearly report and accounts, and to discuss various matters connected with the club. We are glad to hear that the profits realised during the past half-year suffice to pay off the remainder of the debentures, amounting to Tls. 800; so that the club is now free from debt, and shareholders may hope for a dividend at the expiration of another six months. There are still one or two calls on the current half-year's income. The Courts need repair, and an outstanding claim for balls has to be paid; but the income will amply suffice to meet these, and to leave a margin.

There has been some excitement among the wheelbarrowmen here lately, in consequence of an attempt by the Council to impose on them a tax of $2 a-year per barrow. A large deputation waited on the City Magistrate on the 17th, to enlist his influence in their favour.

A somewhat serious collision happened as the steamer Venus was starting for Hong Kong; she had not sufficient steerage way, and the strong wind and tide rendered her unmanageable, and she drifted over Trautmann and Co.'s upper buoy, where the steamer Leith lay moored. The Venus swung across the Leith's bows and her head whirled round with such force against the cat-head of the ship Northampton, lying at Olyphant's Wharf, that her own bowsprit broke short off, and her other head gear got considerably broken. The cat head of the Northampton was broken, and her whole length facing the river heavily rubbed and strained by the steamer sliding past her. The Leith sustained little, if any damage. The damage sustained by the Venus was confined to her upper works, and after a short delay she proceeded on her voyage. Some Chinese boats were smashed and lost, and one or two children are believed to have gone down in them. The total damage has been roughly estimated at Taels 3,000.

The steamer Hipparchus has made by far the fastest passage yet made via the Suez Canal to Shanghai. She did the entire distance from Liverpool in fifty-three days, including all stoppages, being only forty-three days under steam.

We (Courier) learn that some bets have been made in shipping circles in the matter of the run home of the ship Duke of Abercorn, commanded by Captain Dalrymple, which vessel cleared for London July 18, with a cargo of 1,750 tons—the largest of the season at £210. The Duke of Abercorn is a new ship, (this being her first voyage) of 1,050 tons register, and was built on the Clyde by Connell the builder of the Spindrift and Windhover, and her lines are something between these two vessels. Some time back challenges on behalf of the commander and crew to run their vessel to the extent of a month's pay were sent to the well-known Serica and Ethiopian, and also to the tried ships John R. Worcester, Forward Ho! and Argonaut, and the untried Cutty Sark, but none of these ships were inclined to take it up. There is a great deal of uncertainty about a run home from Shanghai at this season of the year, but if the Duke made a fair run down to Anjer her great size and power will give her a great advantage over her rivals; we hear that the Argonaut, Forward Ho! John R. Worcester, Cutty Sark, Ethiopian and Serica have been backed to a limited amount, and as several of them left with a very favourable wind, and have already been spoken a long distance down the China sea, the result of this race is looked forward to with considerable interest.

AMOY.

The following letter, dated July 28, shows most conclusively the tendencies of the Tientsin outbreak, which the deputation to Lord Granville urged:—

AMOY, July 28, 1870.

You will by this mail have the Hong Kong papers with more full details of the Tientsin massacre, and with the constantly accumulating proofs of the complicity of the Mandarins. On this last point I would specially direct your attention to the admirable letters of the Rev. Messrs. Lees and Hall, to Mr. Lay, the British Consul.

This terrible outbreak is just the old story with which we were familiar in Southern and Central China, with but slight alterations in the plot, only with a more tragic denoument, and the last act not yet played out.

Very instructive is the attempt which is being made to represent the whole affair as a seperate quarrel with the French. But the murder of the Russians, the destruction of the Chapels and Hospitals, and the search in the City for the missionaries of all nationalities, along with the original intention to attack the foreign settlement, clearly show that the blow was aimed at all.

And if there was a special animus against the French, it must have been from some such tone of thought as this:—"The Americans, the British, and the other Western barbarians have now been terrified into submission, and will no more dare to disobey the supreme Emperor; the Imperial Commissioners sent to those far-off dependencies have so reported to the Throne; and we shall soon be able, by a gradual and gentle pressure, to expel them from the Empire, or confine them, as of old, to one or two distant ports; they have already abandoned Hai-nan, and are just going to abandon Formosa; with them our action is easy and sure. The only Western State that shows any rebellious spirit is France. We must teach her her place; and in doing so we shall have at least the moral support, perhaps even the direct assistance, of the now obedient vassal States of Europe and America."

For the encouraging of that spirit, and so far the heart-rending tragedy which has ensued, no one out of China is more responsible than Lord Clarendon. There was one man on whom the responsibility would have pressed still more heavily, but he is now beyond the reach of human censure.

It is the extraordinary and infatuated policy of the British Government, in censuring and degrading its faithful officers, in sending humble apologies, which, though perhaps never formally presented, were made fully known all over China by the newspapers and their Chinese translations, and by the correspondence of the Customs service and the "Chinese Embassy," in making promises of strict obedience for the future, and in proposing to abandon Formosa for the express reason of the repeated troubles (for everything relative to China in Blue-books, parliamentary debates, &c, is immediately translated and communicated to the Chinese Government by the persons in their service, and the other reason assigned—namely, the expense being too great in comparison with the trade, will certainly be interpreted by the Chinese in accordance with their own customs as a mere specious pretence to cover the shame of defeat, especially as the statement of the trade is by a singular mistake at variance with the facts), it is, I repeat, this new and strange policy on the part of the Power that in two successive wars dictated the terms of peace, this policy utterly inexplicable to the Chinese except as an index of the growing weakness of foreigners, and the increasing power of China that has made it possible for the Chinese to attempt what has now been so cruelly accomplished.

Perhaps it may be said that the American Government is more to blame, from their having set the example, and especially from their having promised to assist the Chinese in certain cases against other foreign nations. But, as their power has never yet been felt in China, their action would have had little effect, unless Britain had followed the example.

Perhaps it may be said that this also is a mere "missionary trouble." But it is clear that the missionary question was a mere pretext; and it was not the doctrines or the religious practices that were used as the pretext, but the usual accusations of the scooping out of eyes, the violation of corpses, &c. And it would be nothing remarkable if missionaries were now to be selected as the special objects of attack, after the profuse professions made by leading statesmen that missionaries would not be protected, professions which even such papers as The Times admitted would not be carried out in the last resort, but which would be amply sufficient to make the Chinese suppose that they might commit any cruelty with impunity if only missionaries were the objects.

What is now most urgently needful, now that the "tragedy of surpassing horror," which I predicted in my letter to The Times, has taken place, is that all the Western Powers should show one undivided front, and that such action be taken as shall render it impossible in future for any graduate or mandarin to dare the instigation or planning of such atrocities; for without such leading the people are quite willing to live at peace with us.

It is not for me to suggest what measures would be sufficient for this purpose; but in addition to the other vigorous measures which are certainly necessary, I would venture to say that this seems an excellent opportunity for insisting on the ambassadors having from time to time audiences of the Emperor, in the first of which he should personally make an apology to the civilised world for the unspeakably barbarous atrocity that has stained the front of his metropolis.

HONG KONG.

The dates are down to the 4th Aug. The London mail of 17th June arrived out on the 27th July, with telegrams to 11th.

The local papers are chiefly occupied with the Tientsin tragedy. A meeting of the Legislative Council was held on the 28th July; present, his Excellency Lieutenant-General Whitfeild, Hons. Chief Justice, Colonial Secretary, Attorney-General, Colonial Treasurer, H. B. Gibb, P. Ryrie, and R. Rowett, at which the estimates were brought forward. His Excellency said:—

"As regards the estimates of 1870, they are in very many respects but a reprint of those which met your approval in September last. There are, however, some notable variations to which your attention should be drawn. Thus you will see that in the financial estimate, fol. 3, the assets on the 1st January are declared to be $123,031.88, as against $120,176.58 assumed last year, and that the revenue for 1870 is estimated at $841,535, in lieu of $781,665; as also that the expenditure is now apparently increased to $916,568.45 from $790,720.45. The increased revenue is accounted for as follows:—1. By receipt of the instalment for the sale of the Mint, which yielded $40,000. 2. By the contribution of $50,000 from the special fund, as authorised by the Secretary of State. 3. By an increased allowance of $11,000 for stamps and the opium monopoly. 4. By a rectification of the previous omission of $4,000 for medical fees on examination of emigrants. 5. By an allowance of $9,000 for departmental savings—that is, for charges placed on the Civil List and estimates which cannot well be withdrawn, and which nevertheless will remain unpaid. You will observe that by reason of the transfer to the Special Fund of the interest arising from those deposits, the credit taken for interest in the preceding Estimates has been reduced by $5,000 in these. The increased expenditure provided for in the present Estimates in seeming excess of that contemplated by the Estimates of September last has been caused by the credits then taken for aid from the Special Fund, by which it was proposed to reduce departmental charges to the extent of $96,460, say—Harbourmaster's Department $10,000, Educational Department, $4,418, police, $82,012. Had these sums been added to the Estimates laid before you in Sep tember last, the present increase would have amounted but to $29,388, which, considering the provision of $40,000 made for the purchase of Mr. Duddell's lots, would not appear to be in any way excessive. On the whole, I think you may safely congratulate yourselves on the sound financial position of the colony, as independent of the Special Fund and other liabilities, which are amply covered by Bank Deposits amounting at this date to $430,000, you had available assets on the 1st of January amounting to $123,031.88. It is much to be regretted that you are not at present at liberty to employ a portion of these great resources in works of pressing public necessity, such as the erection of a new Civil Hospital, and sanitary improvements in the Chinese portion of the town.

A meeting of the Union Insurance Society of Canton was held on the 1st August, for the purpose of forming a new office. The chairman having stated that the capital consisted of $1,250,000, in $5,000 shares; and suggested that the shares should be reduced to $2,500 in amount, and increased in number, proposed, "That the capital of $1,250,000 shall be divided into 500 shares of $2,500 each, of which $500 shall be paid up on each share." This was lost, the following amendment being proposed and carried by 23 to 7, "That a Society be formed bearing the same title as the present one, to commence business on the 1st January, 1871, and terminating on the 31st December, 1873; the capital amount to be paid up, and the number of shares, to be the same as the present Society, and the Articles of Association to be similar, so far as regards the more important clauses." The chairman then proposed, "That the present Board of Directors shall act as a Provisional Committee for the purpose of organising the New Office, registering the Articles of Association, and allotting the shares; and that when a sufficient number of shares are allotted, the then shareholders shall be asked to elect their own directors, who will also take over the affairs of the present Society for the purpose of winding up its business." Against which, after some discussion, was placed the following amendment, "That a provisional Committee be elected which shall have nothing else to do than allot the shares of the new company, 1871-73." This amendment was lost by a majority of 25 to 8. A proposal, that "the reserve thirds of profits be distributed with the dividends," was negatived.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of and subscribers to the City Hall was held on the 29th July. The chairman explained that the arrangements for the reception of the Duke of Edinburgh had given great satisfaction, but had been attended with considerable expense, and had not the Government come forward and paid $10,000 towards the finishing of the building, it would possibly not have been finished now. How they were to meet the excess he scarcely knew. The building cost nearly £100,000. He still entertained a slight hope of Government support; and they were greatly indebted to Mr. Jardine. They might by their receipts be able to keep it going; and he did not presume that the shareholders expected any dividend. Altogether, the Hall was not in a desperate condition. The Museum was progressing slowly, and he hoped the community would support it. The report was then passed and the committee of management for the year elected.

The Protestant missionaries, headed by the Rev. Canon Gray, addressed a letter of condolence to the Catholics at Canton on the Tientsin tragedy.

From Amoy we learn that the ship Devana, Captain Thompson, had arrived there from Hong Kong, after a passage of three days. That vessel had been chartered to load there for New York with the first teas, at £2 7s. 6d. per ton of 40 feet. The Devana would be away in about three weeks from the date of our advices—viz., 17th inst.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 12th August. The English mail of the 1st July arrived on the 2nd August, and the French mail arrived on the 8th August, with London letters to 8th July.

The fortnight has been an unusually dull one. The Legislative Council has held no sitting, his Excellency the Governor being absent in Malacca.

The news of the war has paralysed commercial transactions here, and business has been almost at a standstill since the 29th July, the day when the news first reached here. The North German Consul at this port, fearing lest the French authorities at Saigon might receive official instructions to seize the North German merchant vessels there, very shrewdly managed to convey to them information of the war before the authorities there were aware of it. A trustworthy agent was despatched by a private steamer (the Waverley, we believe), bound to China, which left him off the mouth of the river, and then proceeded on her voyage, the agent obtaining passage in a boat up the river to Saigon, and, having accomplished his purpose, returned to Singapore by the homeward French mail. The French authorities at Saigon had no knowledge of the war until two days after the arrival of this agent, when the French transport Sarthe, from Toulon, having learned the fact at Galle, arrived there with telegrams containing war information. The Germans are getting up a fund for the wounded.

PENANG.

Dates by this mail extend to the 13th August. The London mail of 1st July arrived out on the 30th with London telegrams to the 19th July.

The eighty-fourth anniversary of Penang occurred on the 12th August. The present season was exceptionally dry at the commencement. Hardly any rain fell in June, July, or the first week in August. But the hearts of the planters must have been gladdened by the not unfrequent showers we have had lately. Enough rain has fallen, we should think, to do the crops some good, and as there is every probability of our having more, it is hoped the anticipated short crop will not turn out a fact.

The third Criminal Sessions of the Supreme Court for the present year commenced on the 8th August, before Sir P. B. Maxwell, Chief Justice of the colony. The most important case yet tried has been that of Donald Glasse, an officer of the steamer Glenartney, who was found guilty of manslaughter, in killing a native boatman, and sentenced to four years' penal servitude.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—Black: A large and steady business had been transacted. Common and low medium Teas showed slightly better value; good medium and preferable grades a decided advance, say from Tls. 2 to 3 per picul (or about 10 per cent.) over the opening quotations. Supplies had been large, and, notwithstanding the steady daily purchases, the stock remaining was considerable. Second crop Teas had been purchased at unduly high prices for so unreliable a class of produce, some parcels having been settled at fully twenty per cent. over last home values. Settlements for the fortnight, 36,000 chests; reshipments on owners' account, 6,600. Quotations (duty paid, exchange at 6s. per tael, freight at £1 10s. per ton):—Hohow, common to fair, Tls. 18 to 24, equal to 1s. 0¼d. to 1s. 3⅞d. per lb.; Oonam and Oonfa, common to good, Tls. 18½ to 26¼, equal to 1s. 0¼d. to 1s. 5¼d.; Ningchow, common to fine, Tls. 18½ to 32, equal to 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 8¾d. Oopack, fair to good, Tls. 20 to 29, equal to 1s. 1¼d. to 1s. 7d. Green: Good business in Pingsueys (principally for the American market) at firm rates for all fine chops; settlements for the fortnight 7,300 half-chests. About eleven chops of new crop Fychow and Teenkai had been shown on the market, but elicited no true offers. None of the favourite chops had come to hand; but in style those on the market were certainly inferior to the best of last year's. There was a great improvement noticeable by the comparative absence of dust from the common lines of many chops. Settlements for the fortnight; 7,799 half-chests. Stock, 24 chops, or 13,517 packages of Pingsuey and Shanghai-packed, and 11 chops, or 9,110 packages of new Teenkai and Fychow Teas.

HANKOW.—Second crop Teas had arrived in greater quantity, and there was more willingness to show them. Settlements, however, had been mostly in barter, and prices, considering the quality, were very high. A few chops common Oonam had been taken at former rates. Transactions for the fortnight:—Settlement, 3,960 chests. Contracts, 1,325 chests, and shipments to Shanghai on native account, 18,108 chests. Prices paid: Oopacks, Common to Fair, Tls. 16.10 to 22.50 per picul, equal to 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6¼d. per lb. Oonams, Common, Tls, 13.50 to 14.00 per picul, equal to 1s. 0¾d. to 1s. 1d. per lb.

FOOCHOW.—The news from England did not appear to have affected this market. There had been a steadily active business in Congous, both for England and Australia, and moderate transactions in other descriptions. The demand had been chiefly for flavoury and medium teas, which had maintained their previous value. The better kinds were not relatively cheaper than they were a fortnight before, when the inferior quality of recent purchases is taken into consideration. The common kinds had been bought on more favourable terms, showing a general reduction of a tael on last quotations, and even more in some instances. Common Saryunes had been sold at Tls. 13 to 15. Dust and broken leaf remained neglected, on account of the prices asked for them. The following were the current quotations; the cost laid down in London calculated at exchange of 4s. 6¾d., freight £2 10s. per ton. Dust and siftings, Tls. 5 to 10, equal to 6½d. to 9¾d.; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 10 to 13, equal to 9¾d. to 11⅛d.; fair to good common, Tls. 13½ to 14½, equal to 1s. to 1s. 0⅛d.; flavoury to medium, Tls. 15 to 23, equal to 1s. 1d. to 1s. 6d.; good medium, Tls. 23½ to 25, equal to 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 7½d.; fine and finest, none on the market. Souchong: The finer chops had continued in request; steady business at a slight advance; purchases confined to medium and fine grades, as the teamen still asked too much for common. Quotations: Fine to finest, Tls. 25 to 29½, equal to 1s. 7½d. to 1s. 10d.; medium to fine, Tls. 21 to 25, equal to 1s. 4¾d. to 1s. 7½d.; common, Tls. 15 to 20, equal to 1s. 1d. to 1s. 4¼d. Oolongs had again been slightly operated in, at previous rates. Scented Orange Pekoes neglected, and might be bought on easier terms. A few purchases of Scented Capor at considerably higher prices—medium to fine, Tls. 22 to 25, equal to 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 7½d.; fine to finest, Tls. 26 to 28, equal to 1s. 8½d. to 1s. 9½d. Flowery Pekoe: 969 chests found buyers at Tls. 40 to 70, for fine to finest.

AMOY.—In Congou buying had continued steadily, and about 14,000 packages had been taken during the fortnight. Prices were $15 to 17.50 for low common, and $18 to 22 for ordinary to good, but there were very few of the latter remaining. Oolongs were eagerly purchased as they arrived, and rates had advanced $3 to 4 since the opening of the market. Quotations were: Common cargo, $20 to 23; fair, $23 to 25; good, $25 to 27; superior, $27 to 29; fine, $29 to 31; and finest, $33 to 35.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular, dated 28th July:—During the early part of the fortnight much eagerness was displayed on the part of buyers to obtain the Red Peacock chop, for which Tls. 530 to 535, equal to 27s. 9d. to 28s., was paid, ordinary 4 to 4½ Tsatlees were bought at Tls. 510 to 520, but the arrival of telegrams reporting "Silk difficult of sale," checked purchasers, and towards the close of the French mail prices were a trifle easier, Choping and Koo-fong-sing chop 3rd selling at Tls. 602½ to 605, equal to 31s. 4d. to 31s. 6d.; Dragon, Tls. 590, equal to 30s. 9d.; Cock and Worm, Tls. 587½, equal to 30s. 7d.; Stag Chop, Tls. 555, equal to 29s; Qui Sute-fee, Tls. 535, equal to 28s .0d.; Kukee Chin Jan, Tls. 535, equal to 28s. 0d.; Gold Lion, No. 1, Tls. 555, equal to 29s. 0d.; Blue Elephant, Tls. 537½, equal to 28s. 1d.; Green Elephant, Tls. 500, equal to 26s. 2d.; Fatmow Hainin, No. 2, Tls. 505, equal to 26s. 5d.; Ching Yuen Sing Guan-ling Kaling, Tls. 500, equal to 26s. 2d.; Hangchows, Tls. 450 to 455, equal to 23s. 8d. to 23s. 11d.; Good Long reel, Tls. 402½, equal to 21s. 3d.; Pang-E-Tah Re-reeled Haining, No. 1, Tls. 647½, equal to 33s. 9d., with Tls. 20 reduction on the twos and threes; Chinese Thrown Tram, 40 to 55 deniers, Tls. 500 to 520, equal to 26s. 2d. to 27s. 2d. Since the departure of the French mail we have had a very quiet week, buyers generally waiting for telegraphic advices (via Kiachta, which are now some days overdue) before going on, in the face of such an enormous export and high prices. This, it was thought, would tend to weaken holders, but the drop in exchange to 6s., coupled with the fact that 60 to 70 per cent. of the Tsatlee crop has already gone forward, and the difficulty experienced by Chinese in collecting Silk in the interior, with the moderately small stock of desirable Silk on the market, has combined to make them very firm, and dealers are asking for Chop Silks Tls. 10 to 20 advance, Tls. 600, equal to 31s. 3d., having been paid for very inferior King John chop; medium Tsatlees remain much the same, with less desire to sell; much of this latter description is very coarse, cased, and foul, being mixed with second crop Silk, and is most decidedly Tls. 30 to 40 inferior to the early shipments of the season. Best Ting How Kahing Tuysaam is extremely scarce, while the medium qualities seem in pretty good supply.

JAVA AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BATAVIA.—Coffee, Java: Sales at f.30 per picul, but planters generally unwilling to sell much at this figure. Heavy rains had taken place in the country, delaying the plucking of the crop, which, however, would be a very fair one. Padang: None in the market. Cubebs lower, sales of Samarang at f.13 per picul. Gum Damar: Sales at f.32 to f.33 per picul. Tin, Billiton: An auction of 6,000 piculs advertised for 10th August. Pepper, Black: Sales at f.23.50 per picul; White: None in the market. Sugar: No. 14, f.13½ to f.14 per picul. For high numbers a price on the basis of f.15¼ to f.15½ per picul for No. 14 would have to be paid. All the above remarks regarding produce apply to transactions entered into prior to the arrival of a telegram bringing intelligence of war having been declared between France and Prussia.

PENANG.—Pepper, Black: West Coast crops exhausted; East Coast and Acheen scarce; arrivals taken at $8.15 to $7.95 per picul. White offering on the market at $11 and 11.10 per picul; no purchase registered. Tin very scarce; operations ranged between $28.45 and $28.55 per picul for the European market. Hides, Buffalo, taken at $10 to 9¼; Cow, $14 per picul. Nutmegs declined; purchases of 66 Nuts per lb. at $82½; 110 per lb. at $50, $49, and $49½ per picul.

SINGAPORE.—The principal staples of export had not been affected to any great extent by the news of war in Europe; there was still a very fair demand, and a considerable business had been done. Gambier was coming in more freely, and was bought at the commencement of the fortnight at $3.07½, but afterwards declined to $3.02½ per picul, at which rate the market closed firm; about 1,300 tons had been contracted for. Black Pepper was lower in value; engagements had been made for the second crop to the extent of about 11,000 piculs at $8.25 to 8.30 per picul, and the price was firm at the latter quotation.

THE SINGAPORE WATER WORKS.

THE recent debate in the Legislative Council fully clears up this vexed question, and the resolution come to makes an end of it, we hope, for ever. To those unacquainted with the subject, the GOVERNOR'S remarks during the debate on the Estimates for 1870 appear not without force and reason. "I do not think we have any right, and I am cer-"tainly not prepared to convert and to appropriate a large "sum of the public money, raised on the whole of the Set-"tlements, in introducing water into one of them—Singa-"pore;" but this plausible statement very soon fell under the criticism of the Straits Association, who put figures before the Colonial-office showing that, while the actual revenue derived from Singapore is three times that of Penang and eight times that of Malacca, it had become Governor ORD'S practice to expend the public money on the respective settlements in an inverse ratio to their contributions to the public purse. Thus for the three years ending 1870 there had been apportioned to Singapore $26,487; Penang, $90,371; Malacca, $51,237.

But it has been reserved for Mr. READ to expose thoroughly the fallacy in the GOVERNOR'S argument, and which consists in little more or less than the suppressio veri. He traces the history of the Waterworks from the offer made by Mr. KIM SENG of $13,000 towards the improvements down to the present time, and shows convincingly that the Government under the Indian administration made a distinct agreement to supplement this amount by what should be found necessary to render the water supply efficient in the town. Should this agreement be held as binding on the new Colonial Government, or should it be shirked?—was the question which Mr. READ pressed upon the Committee, and we are glad to say that after the debate no one ventured to support the GOVERNOR'S repudiating policy. It was felt that neither the blunders of former Colonial engineers, nor even the able special pleading of the late acting Attorney-General could free the Government from a responsibility voluntarily and thankfully undertaken by their predecessors.

But Mr. READ put the case in another light, and here it becomes more generally interesting. The AUDITOR GENERAL has, or thinks he has, an available surplus of $123,000, and at the bottom of all this controversy about the Waterworks are two very different views as to the spending of this money. Governor ORD says, "appropriate $117,000 to my steam "yacht, and carry forward the balance." Mr. READ and the other Europeans answer, "the Waterworks will cost very "little more than your proposed vessel, and will be of incalcu-"lable service to the native population of the settlement." Could there be a more bitter comment than this argument of theirs on the GOVERNOR'S shameless charge, that no consideration for the health of the natives was of the smallest weight in the eyes of the Europeans in the colony and their representatives here?

THE MEETING ON CHINA.

LETTER OF THE DEPUTATION TO EARL GRANVILLE.

3, Lombard-street, September 15, 1870.

MY LORD,—As requested by your Lordship at the interview which you kindly granted us yesterday, I have the honour to state in writing the substance of the representations we made in the name of an influential meeting which had just been held in the City of persons interested in China and its trade.

We informed your Lordship of the melancholy particulars which had reached us, relating to the massacre of foreigners at Tientsin, perpetrated by the Chinese on the 21st June last.

From the information which has reached us from British merchants resident at the port of Tientsin, with the most ample opportunities of verifying the statements they make, we are firmly convinced that the attack upon the French Consulate, Cathedral, and Mission premises was only part of a preconcerted plan, having larger objects, and originating in a strong anti-foreign feeling prompted by Mandarins high in office and power. The circumstances of atrocious barbarity which attended the murder of the Sisters of Charity, and which we communicated to your Lordship, have never been surpassed in the records of this sort of crime. It is worthy of particular notice that the establishment to which they belonged, and in connection with which they carried on their beneficent labours, has been in existence for three hundred years, and it is believed that in all that time no charge of any kind has ever been made against the Sisters, whose methods of working were perfectly well-known. It is emphatically denied that they even committed the indiscretion of giving money to those who brought cast-away female children to their doors; and the accusation made against them on this score is declared to be the purest invention, got up in order to inflame the popular mind, and it has been repeated in order to palliate the dreadful crime we all deplore. Two of the Sisters were Italians, and one of them was a British subject. Sister Louise was an Irish lady, and, I believe, her brother is a respected parish priest in Ireland. On the trustworthy information of Chinese, some of whom had learned the fact at considerable distances from Tientsin, it has been stated that it was deliberately intended to make an attack two days later upon the British Settlement, situated about two miles from the city. And in several other Treaty Ports the most inflammatory placards have been issued, directed against foreigners generally.

In presence of such grave events, and in the knowledge that a spirit of hostility to foreigners is being industriously propagated, the greatest apprehension and alarm is felt by British subjects, and the object of the deputation was respectfully to represent the facts, and to enquire whether your Lordship has taken, or means to take, any steps for the more effectual protection of the lives and property of British subjects in China, prosecuting their lawful callings under the Treaty between Great Britain and that Empire.

We cannot conceal from your Lordship that the anxiety of our friends, in which we share, has been largely increased by a regard to the policy which in recent years Her Majesty's Government has adopted in its dealing with the Government of China, a yielding or complacent policy, as opposed to a policy of firmness which should exact the due fulfilment of Treaty obligations and be prepared to demand reparation for injustice and injury. The instance of the able settlement effected two years ago in the island of Formosa, by the prompt action of the late Mr. Consul Gibson, cannot be forgotten by us. That officer was severely blamed and degraded, instead of being thanked and rewarded for his services. Desirous as we are, and have ever been that all grounds and causes for a rupture with China may be avoided, as being most detrimental to every interest concerned, we would earnestly press upon your Lordship's attention the desirableness of a firm policy, rather than one of yielding and concession, of which the Chinese invariably take an unworthy advantage, and which, as they uniformly attribute it to weakness on our part, is calculated in our opinion to lead to aggressions which Her Majesty's Government would be unable to overlook. And it is with no small concern we have heard, on what appears to be undoubted authority, and which is confirmed in a remarkable letter from The Times correspondent at Shanghai, published in to-day's issue of that journal, that the naval officers on the China stations are forbidden by instructions from the Admiralty to land their men under any circumstances even to protect life when it is threatened, and are to confine the assistance they may afford to British subjects to simply receiving on board their vessels such as may be compelled to seek an asylum when they are attacked. We most earnestly entreat that Her Majesty's Government will reconsider this determination, and will not lose a day in authorising the naval and military officers, in the exercise of their discretion, or under the orders of Her Majesty's representative, to afford the most ample protection to British subjects, and to use all measures that may be required to prevent the commission of outrages which may, at any time, be threatened.

The deputation abstained from expressing to your Lordship any views of theirs in regard to the reparation which should be sought from the Chinese Government for the recent terrible outrage. But it is with satisfaction we learned from your Lordship that Her Majesty's Government has instructed their representative at Peking to support the representations which may be made by the French Minister in reference to the massacre.

Heartily thanking your Lordship for the patient attention with which you listened to us, and commending this whole matter to your earnest consideration, I have the honour to be, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient humble servant, ALEXANDER MATHESON.

To the Right Hon. the Earl Granvile, K.G., &c., H.M.'s Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

EARL GRANVILLE'S REPLY.

Foreign-office, Sept. 16, 1870.

SIR,—I am directed by Earl Granville to acknowledge the receipt of the letter of yesterday's date, on the subject of the recent massacre at Tientsin, which was signed by you on behalf of the members of the deputation who had an interview with his Lordship on the previous day; and I am to acquaint you that it appears from a despatch, dated the 9th of July, from Vice-Admiral Sir H. Kellett to the Lords of the Admiralty, that Her Majesty's naval forces in China had been stationed as follows:—

At Hong Kong, the Princess Charlotte, Banterer, Starling, and Bouncer.

At Amoy, the Hornet and the Cockchafer.

At Foochow, the Severn.

At Shanghai, the Barrosa, Zebra, Dove, and Firm.

At Tientsin, the Dwarf, Avon, Opposum, and Grasshopper.

The Admiral, in the Salamis, was to proceed the same day to Chefoo.

Commodore Price has since reported, in a despatch dated July 21, that the Banterer had been sent to Foochow.

There are also in the Japanese waters Her Majesty's ships Ocean, Rinaldo, Sylvia, Elk, Midge, and the Adventure troop ship.

I am further to acquaint you that on the 30th ult. Mr. Wade was instructed to co-operate with the French Legation, in order to obtain the punishment of the parties who were concerned in the late outrage, and Her Majesty's Government trust that the communications about to be made to the authorities in China will have the effect, not only of procuring the punishment of the offenders, but also of deterring the Chinese from acts calculated to excite grave apprehensions on the part of British subjects in and connected with China.

I am to remark further that the standing instructions to Her Majesty's Consuls and naval officers in China, as to the employment of Her Majesty's ships of war, are, in cases of great emergency, to protect the lives and property of British subjects if placed in peril by wanton attacks directed against them, either on the part of the local authorities, or by an uncontrolled popular movement.—I am, Sir, your most obedient, humble servant, (Signed) ARTHUR OTWAY.

Alexander Matheson, Esq.

(FROM OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENT.)

It is unfortunate that circumstances should have delayed the appointment, or rather the departure, of a representative of France for Peking; and there seems little chance for the moment that such departure will take place. M. Geoffroy, who after some hesitation accepted the appointment, is now going to Tours, if not already there, with the new Minister of Justice, M. Cremieux, as representative of the Foreign-office, and therefore his voyage to China is, to say the least of it, postponed for some time. M. Geoffrey was formerly Secretary of Legation at Washington, and speaks English, a great advantage in his co-operation with our representatives and those of the United States in China; in addition to this he has been for some time sub-director of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Paris, especially charged with the conduct of Oriental matters, so that he has many qualifications for the post of Minister of France at Peking; still he has never been in China, and we could name two gentlemen who have, and who are well known to Anglo-Chinese, who certainly would represent France well. We have heard it whispered that one of these gentleman would certainly have been appointed by the late Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count Daru, but that red tape barred the way, because they belonged to the Consular body only, and not to the high and mighty conclave of the Foreign-office. You think, at home, that red tape is a native of England only; never was such a mistake, the tapeism of the late Imperial Government was prodigious, and if it was often stretched and snapped by necessity, as regards the front ranks, it held firm enough elsewhere. M. Jules Favre is, we should think, the last man in the world to continue such absurd bureaucratic traditions, and considering how important it is at the present moment that France should be well represented in China, and thus feel that she is relieved from much anxiety on that head, at home, until fairer weather arrives in the political sky, we trust he will take council with those who are acquainted with the Far East, and send out some gentleman at once who already knows the Chinese, and can act with decision in concert with the representatives of the other Powers. The subject of the Tientsin massacres and the position of the missionaries in China was discussed with the members of the Chinese Embassy when in Paris, and the result arrived at was, that it was the duty of the Chinese Government to protect the religion and places of worship of all foreigners, but it was equally the duty of missionaries not to interfere with the religion, the habits, and the customs of the Chinese. We fear the opinion or arguments of the Embassy in question will have very little weight; but their view of the position is undoubtedly the correct one. But supposing the Peking Government to take the same view, how are Europeans to bind over the local authorities to decent behaviour? There is but one method that we are aware of—namely, to send representatives to Peking and elsewhere who know the Chinese, and not to leave them unsupported.

The London & China Telegraph.

MEETING OF CHINA MERCHANTS.

THE meeting of merchants at the London Tavern, which we report in another column, will, doubtless, be received with great satisfaction by our readers in China. It may be considered by some that the speakers did not go far enough in denouncing the fearful catastrophe at Tientsin, but in passing judgment on this, it must not be forgotten that the object of the meeting was to bring a temperate pressure to bear on our Government, for the protection of life and property at all the ports, by restoring to the Consuls the powers of which they have been deprived during the past few years. The utter futility of claiming redress from the Government at Peking for outrages committed at the ports is now demonstrated beyond all doubt, by the occurrences at Tientsin, a port only eighty miles distant from the seat of Government. It is indispensable, therefore, that we take measures to protect ourselves, and that our Government should firmly insist on treaty obligations. We think that the meeting and subsequent deputation to Earl GRANVILLE will have a very beneficial influence on the policy of our Government. Knowing, as the residents in China do so well, the great difficulties in moving people at home to a demonstration, they will fully appreciate this active sympathy on the part of their friends and relatives. Certainly it would not have been generous for our merchants and bankers to quietly read the letters of their correspondents, describing the state of danger in which they found themselves, and make no effort to influence the Government in their policy. The pressure on the few heads of establishments in the City who are expected to take the lead in such matters is the chief difficulty. There are many other difficulties in the way of getting up a meeting in the City of London which make it a vastly different matter to calling a meeting in one of the China ports. Fortunately a larger number of heads of establishments were in the City this week than is usual at this season of the year, and the meeting was in every way successful; the efforts made to obtain an interview with Lord GRANVILLE on the same afternoon particularly so. We are glad to notice that The Times publishes letters from its correspondents at Shanghai, dated 14th and 22nd July, giving a valuable summary of events since the catastrophe of the 21st June. These letters give very clear proofs that the dreadful business was instigated by the Chinese officials. The following extract also indicates to what use thee arsenals of China, raised by the aid of foreigners, are to be put:—

"In the beautiful jargon, called 'pidgin' English, which serves as a medium of communication between Anglo-Saxon and Mongol, they say, 'Must payee that Hwangti, that Mandarin, largee fear.' And no doubt their view is correct. Any symptom of hesitation will be interpreted as fear; nothing but a strong military demonstration and severe retaliation will be recognised as proof of our power and will to revenge wrong done to us. The Chinese have been acquiring stores of foreign arms lately; the only shape in which they would admit steam into the country has been in the construction of arsenals. They have had a number of soldiers instructed in foreign drill, and they think they are able to cope with us. We must show them that they are not, or the dislike to foreign intrusion which characterises, more or less, every official in the Empire will soon find practical expression. I look upon this as a very critical period of our relations. Any weakness will be fraught with imminent danger to our interests, and even to the lives of settlers, in China; while the opportunity may be seized to settle many pending questions, and to place our relations with the Empire on a sounder footing."

The letter which was drawn up by Mr. MATHESON on behalf of the deputation, in accordance with the request of Lord GRANVILLE, and which will be found in another column, is a very able one. It enters very fully into the position of the residents at the various Treaty Ports and also indicates the danger of pursuing the policy which has curtailed so injuriously the power of the Consuls in times of danger and emergency. Mr. MATHESON does not hesitate to stigmatise the conduct of the Government towards Mr. Consul GIBSON, when, by his promptness at Formosa, he assuredly saved us from a graver calamity. No one can feel more than the merchants do the losses and inconveniences connected with a war, but they feel assured, from a long acquaintance with the Chinese, that a firm policy is the only one which will preserve us from it. Mr. MATHESON says:—"We cannot conceal from "your Lordship that the anxiety of our friends, in which "we share, has been largely increased by a regard to the "policy which in recent years Her MAJESTY'S Government "has adopted. We earnestly press the desirableness of a "firm policy rather than one of yielding and concession, of "which the Chinese take an unworthy advantage, and "which, as they uniformly attribute it to weakness on our "part, is calculated, in our opinion, to lead to aggressions "which Her MAJESTY'S Government would be unable to "overlook."

It is satisfactory to find that our Government have pledged themselves to instruct Mr. WADE to support the French Minister in obtaining satisfaction for the Tientsin outrage, but the answer in regard to the instructions to the naval officers in China is not satisfactory. It will be seen by the reply that Mr. OTWAY, the Under Secretary, on the part of Lord GRANVILLE, does not deny the allegations made in Mr. MATHESON'S letter, and which we may say were first brought to the notice of the meeting by a letter from our correspondent at Shanghai, published in the London and China Telegraph of 14th inst., the day on which the meeting was held. The letter of The Times was not published until the 15th. Instead of answering this most vital point, Mr. OTWAY states that Consuls and naval officers are instructed, in cases of great emergency, to protect life and property if placed in peril. Now this, to say the least of it, is equivocal; it does not touch the fact which we are so anxious to know—viz., whether the naval commanders are empowered to give that protection, either by landing their men or otherwise, or if they are to be anchored off the various towns, spectators of fire, murder, and pillage, and simply give an asylum to any refugees who can find their way out of the scene. As an American naval captain said at Taku, when Admiral HOPE was repulsed, blood is thicker than water, and we fancy no English commander can obey such orders, be the consequences what they may. The latest telegrams to hand from Shanghai to 30th Aug. state that the Governor of Nanking has been assassinated, owing to supposed leaning to foreigners. Dangers are certainly thickening.

To those who are disposed to cavil at the expense of our Consular establishments in China and Japan we recommend a perusal of the Blue-book just published, and which we give a summary of in another column. In the opinion of some M.P.s and others, who make a noise about our expenditure, our Consuls are drawn from the "bloated aristocrat" class, and do little else than live like princes in eastern palaces found by Government. We venture to say that the laborious details drawn up in these reports are not likely to be produced from the brains of other than hardworking, at the same time educated men.

IN consequence of the conduct of Mr. MEADOWS, to which we alluded in our article on the 14th inst., the community at Tientsin have requested him to resign his post of Chairman to the Municipal Council.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

A meeting convened for the purpose of considering the circumstances connected with the massacre of foreign residents at Tientsin in June last, and the desirability of urging upon the British Government the necessity of providing more adequate protection than at present for British subjects in China, was held at the London Tavern on the 14th inst. On the motion of Mr. HUGH MATHESON, M.P., Mr. KIRKMAN HODGSON, M.P., was voted to the chair. There were also present on the platform Messrs. R. J. Gilman, W. R. Adamson, Alex. Matheson, M.P., W. Walkinshaw, Arthur Smith, T. Jones Gibb, and Charles Magniac, M.P.

The CHAIRMAN, in opening the proceedings, said:—There is no one present who is not fully aware of the circumstances under which we are called together to-day. The massacres perpetrated at Tientsin were of such a nature that, if we had not been so entirely occupied as we have lately been at home by greater massacres of another description which have been going on in Europe for the last six weeks, they could not have failed to excite the greatest possible interest and commiseration. Even as it is, we have all felt how important it is, in the interests of humanity as well as of our trade with China, that measures should be taken to ascertain who are the real criminals in this matter, and still more that steps should be taken to protect ourselves, our friends, and our property from the repetition of such outrages. We have not as yet had the opportunity of communicating with Her Majesty's Government, but we have received from them very friendly intimations that they will look most attentively at what we have to say, and I have great hope that in what we have to ask of them they will receive us in such a way as will be satisfactory to us. I wish it to be understood that this is by no means to be regarded as a grievance meeting, or as a meeting got up for the purpose of putting pressure upon the Government. Its object is simply to lay before the Government what has taken place at Tientsin—to tell them what are our fears and also what are our hopes of the support we shall receive from them. Having done this, we shall leave it with confidence to Her Majesty's Government to take such measures as they may deem necessary. I will now, with your permission, read some extracts from statements I have received as to what has taken place in Tientsin. The horrors connected with the murder of the Sisters are such that I should not like to pollute your ears by reading the details here set forth—they are of a character not to be mentioned before civilised men. The writer adds, "Sister Louise was the only British Subject," &c. The Chairman having also read a confirmatory extract from a letter written by a gentleman whom he described as of the highest credence, concluded as follows:—I think these letters, which, considering the circumstances they detail, are written with the greatest calmness and with much less feeling than we could have expected, seeing that they come from persons who have been almost eye witnesses of the frightful occurrences they describe, will show the necessity that exists for some steps to be taken to provide adequate protection for our countrymen in China. It is with this view that the present meeting has been called. We propose to have an interview with Her Majesty's Ministers as soon as they can give us one. I cannot say exactly when that will be, because at the present moment they are immensely occupied, but they have told us they will see us at the first opportunity, and I have only to add that when we do see them and have got their answer we will call you together again and state to you what measures may be proposed to be taken for the future protection of British subjects in China.

Mr. R. J. GILMAN, in moving the first resolution, said—You have been spared the most harrowing details of the awful atrocity that has been the means of calling us together. They have already in part been published in the journals, and I assure you they are worse than the most horrible acts the imagination can conceive. Perhaps it was judicious that such details should not be read in a public meeting, but if you will tax your imagination to conceive anything that would be disgraceful and atrocious among the wildest set of savages, you will, even then, fail to realise what was done to those unfortunate French ladies who devoted themselves solely to works of mercy and Christian charity. Fortunately, it is not necessary for us to go into the details of those atrocities, it is not necessary for us to say to what extent or in what way the righteous retribution that will always overtake the doers of such deeds is to be brought about. Suffice it to say that we all know it must come, and, although the nation that has been most grievously outraged is now down-trodden, and, possibly, not in a position adequately to defend her interests abroad, yet still the time will come when this matter will be taken into their hands, and will be properly dealt with. We, however, have nothing to do with the general aspect of this question; but we have to do with the important interests that are committed to our care, our own valuable property, and the still more valuable lives of our friends and relatives in China. In urging their protection, we are bound to speak, and to speak plainly and boldly. We desire to use no strong language, but it is certainly necessary that we should tell the Government that the property and still more the lives of foreigners in China are most insecure and that this is a condition of things that must not be permitted to continue. Whether the Chinese Government instigated or simply connived at the act or not this we do know, that it was undertaken without their armed forces, which were then and there present, stirring a hand to prevent it. We know that the Chinese soldiers, well armed, stood by and saw these deeds committed, and whether this be owing to the weakness of the Government or to their wickedness, we have still the same right to complain of such a condition of things. Moreover, it is quite certain that on this lamentable occasion there was nothing in the shape of protection afforded to the British or to any other of the foreign subjects resident in Tientsin. It is also certain that if a British gunboat had been present on the occasion these atrocities never could have been perpetrated, and it is likewise certain that unless due protection be afforded not only at Tientsin, but to the other ports, similar atrocities will take place in those places. The Chinese will hear of what is going on in Europe, and they will think that wherever there is a Frenchman he is fair game, nor will they necessarily separate one foreigner from another. Consequently this is not a case in which the French nation alone is concerned; it is a matter which concerns every nation which relates to humanity and Christianity at large. Perhaps I may have said more than I ought, but it is difficult to think of this subject, and I should be ashamed of myself if I could think of it and speak of it with calmness. I will not, however, detain you further It is not in our province to say what should or should not be done in respect of the retribution to be exacted for the atrocities perpetrated; but it is our duty to claim protection for our countrymen and our interests in China, and with this view, and in the fullest confidence that our representations will be listened to with the attention they deserve, we desire to address Her Majesty's Government. I have now to move the following RESOLUTION.

"That the lamentable massacre of foreigners at Tientsin on June 21 last has led to anxiety and alarm on the part of the British communities at the several open ports. That it appears the calamity occurred during the absence from Tientsin of any vessel of war. That this meeting deems it desirable to represent the facts to Her Majesty's Government, and to inquire whether, in view of the serious events which have occurred, they have taken, or intend to take, any and what further precautions for the protection of British life and property in China."

Mr. MAGNIAC, M.P., in seconding the resolution, said: I believe it is generally understood that it is not desirable on the present occasion to go much into detail. It is felt that, although the time of the Government is so fully occupied at the present moment, there can be no doubt that in a matter of such great and urgent interest as that we are met to consider, nothing more will be required than a representation of the facts by those who are most interested in the matter to ensure the earnest attention of Her Majesty's Government. We have all heard the harrowing account that has been read to us of the atrocities perpetrated at Tientsin. I have myself endeavoured on two occasions to bring the facts to the notice of the Government, at a time when the Government were apparently in ignorance of such an outrage having occurred. In fact, I may say that the first accounts received by telegraph from Shanghai were disbelieved by the Government; and I think that this alone would be a sufficient reason for our bringing the matter to the notice of the Government in an official way. I think it will be found sufficient if we make a formal representation of the facts which have occurred. We can place before Her Majesty's Government the statement of the facts which Mr. Hodgson has read, and this will put them in possession of circumstances such as can hardly have been conceived, and which, had they been fully detailed, could not have failed to excite the deepest sympathy and sorrow in the breasts of all now present. I believe there are many persons around me who will feel much sorrow for China itself, for numbers of them have friends among the natives in that country, and are able to draw a strong line of demarcation between the governors and the governed, and still have hopes of that country. By making a brief but plain representation of the facts to the English Government we shall be throwing upon them the responsibility that ought to attach to them as regards the protection of the lives of those who are near and dear to us—our friends and relations in China. In doing this I think we shall effect the immediate purpose we have in view. It is certainly necessary that something should be done. A paper* has been put into my hands containing the instructions said to have been issued to our naval officers in China. It is stated that they are told on no account to put their men on shore; they are only to afford protection to those who come to them for safeguard, which means that they are to receive on board those who are fleeing from murder, but that they may not land to protect them from it. I do not know whether this is true or not; but, if it be so, I think that these instructions fail to meet the present state of things in China. I believe that these instructions were sent out during the time the late lamented Lord Clarendon was at the Foreign-office. I see here gentlemen who had the honour and pleasure of representing certain circumstances to Lord Clarendon not many months ago, and they will concur with me when I allude to the deep appreciation and the patient consideration given by that nobleman to the statements put before him. And not only was this the case, but I believe he fully met the views we then felt it right to express to him. I do not believe it will be found that the noble lord—Earl Granville—who at present presides over the Foreign-office will be found less willing to consider the enormous interests connected with this country which are at stake in China. I believe he will be found to give those interests every consideration, and that if we make a calm and proper representation to him, he will regard our views as well worthy of his most careful attention. Most of us here have had experience of China, and are deeply interested in that country, having no other desire than that justice should be fairly done between us and the Chinese; for, whatever may have been said to the contrary, I am sure I am right in affirming that if there is anything which is more against our wishes, and likely to be more detrimental to our interests in China than another it is war. I believe that very mistaken ideas of the views and wishes of the merchants in China have arisen, I do not know how nor under what circumstances, but they are in many instances diametrically opposed to the facts. Our interests must be destroyed by war, and I say that what we have to do is to make such representations to the Government as will avoid that grave responsibility; but if occurrences such as we know have recently occurred should continue, if indeed such another outrage should be allowed to take place, I believe that no means will be found for putting a stop to these outbreaks short of recourse to our army. It is stated in the papers to-day that certain batteries are held in readiness for transport to China.† If this be true it shows an appreciation of the difficulties and dangers that exists in that country, and I believe we shall be doing good service in placing the Government in possession of the facts which are known to us. I will not detain you further, except to say that in consequence of a communication just received from the Foreign-office, it is proposed this very afternoon to make a representation of the facts to the Foreign Minister by appointing three or four gentlemen to act as a deputation. We shall thus be aware of the views of the Government. Of course we cannot expect that they will be given in detail, but I hope the deputation will receive some satisfactory assurance to the effect that the lives and property of our countrymen in China will be duly cared for by the Government.

The resolution was unanimously agreed to.

Mr. JONES GIBB then moved—"That the following gentlemen be appointed a deputation to wait upon the Foreign Secretary—Mr. Hodgson, M.P., Mr. Matheson, M.P., Mr. Magniac, M.P., Mr. White, M.P., Mr. Gilman, and Mr. Jones Gibb."

Mr. ARTHUR SMITH seconded the motion.

Mr. DONALD MATHESON said there was one point that had not been fully brought out, and as he thought it added to the gravity of the occasion he would refer to it. There was a letter in the London and China Express, written by a resident in Amoy, signed "A Ten Years' Resident," in which this sentence occurred:—"There is most evidently some movement against foreigners in contemplation." If this were so the matter went beyond Tientsin; it extended to the whole of China, and if there were such a feeling in the south of China as well as in the north it became incumbent on the Government to take steps not only for protecting British subjects in Tientsin, but for affording some protection in all the Chinese ports.

The CHAIRMAN said the remark just made was exceedingly pertinent to the matter they had in hand, and he had no doubt that the deputation would take care to get from the Government, as far as they could, an assurance that not only Tientsin, but the whole of the ports, should be looked after. There could be no doubt that the interests of every Englishman in China, both as regarded life and property, should have the best care and the best assurance of protection that could be obtained from the Government.

In reply to a question,

The CHAIRMAN said the meeting might rest assured that the deputation would not lose a moment in letting the public, and especially all who were connected with China either by ties of family or friendship, or by those of commercial interest, know the answer they might receive from the Government. On the motion of Mr. HUGH MATHESON, a vote of thanks was given to the chairman for presiding, and the proceedings terminated.

DEPUTATION TO LORD GRANVILLE.

☞ In accordance with the resolution of the meeting, the deputation had an interview with Lord Granville, at the Foreign-office.

The deputation reported to his lordship the proceedings at the public meeting held that afternoon at the London Tavern, and read a letter from a merchant at Tientsin, detailing the horrible outrages which had been perpetrated in that city at the time of the massacre, and which entered into a minute description of the horrible way in which the nine Sisters of Mercy were treated by the Chinese rabble,* one of the Sisters being English, two Italians, and six French. They then, in accordance with the terms of the resolution adopted by the meeting, respectfully inquired what precautions had been taken, or were intended to be taken, by Her Majesty's Government to protect the lives and properties of British subjects in China.

Lord GRANVILLE, having expressed his horror at the scenes which had attended the massacre, said that he had sent out instructions to China to support the representations which had been made upon the subject by the French Government to the Chinese authorities. In regard to what had been urged by the deputation, he must request them to embody their views in a letter, which he would take into his immediate consideration.

"Philo-Sinensis" writes to The Times in controversion of the letter signed "Alpha," which we gave in our last. "Philo-Sinensis" believes the massacre to be symptomatic of a wide spread determination to extirpate all foreigners from China, and, in that case, he urges the duty of immediate action. One great characteristic of the present Manchu dynasty has been the exclusion of foreigners from China. They have fought for it over and over again, and when an appeal to arms failed they have schemed and diplomatised, and lied and cajoled. There was no Frenchmen involved in the Yang-chow riot; the hostility in Formosa was directed primarily and mainly against British subjects. An American gentleman was the object of an attack two years ago by the assembled literati. The missionary who fell last year was one of our own countrymen. Natives of late have been repeatedly imprisoned and beaten to the point of death for letting houses in the interior to foreigners. Indignity has been thrown upon officials and private gentlemen of almost all nationalities. Let two instances suffice. The Hon. Ross C. Browne, Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States, and his Royal Highness Prince Alfred, were utterly ignored, and treated with perfect neglect. I may also mention that foreign Ambassadors have never yet been permitted even to see the Emperor. It is said that he is not of age. This is nonsense. The Emperor is of age when he or his guardians choose; and already, to my knowledge, he has been receiving Ambassadors from Thibet and Corea. But the particulars of this horrible massacre itself afford abundant evidence of the general hatred of foreigners. Every one of the Protestant chapels, eight in number, including the extensive premises of the American Board, were deliberately and consecutively destroyed. The ruffians who destroyed these places made most careful inquiry for the Protestant missionaries, who fortunately were safe in the settlement. Many of the Protestant converts were caught, and beaten and plundered by the mob; eight or ten had their houses pulled down. The country people at distant places in the interior knew of the contemplated murder, and expected to hear of the destruction of all nationalities, with this difference, that the French were to be butchered on the 20th of June, and the others in the settlement on the 23rd of June; and on that day a Chinaman was actually found in the tower of the Protestant church, which stands in the foreign settlement, with balls of combustible materials, evidently for the purpose of setting fire to the church; and another was caught in most suspicious quarters with a revolver. But here comes in the most serious question of all. If the Chinese authorities really desire our expulsion, and if they are implicated in these acts and crimes, we must interfere. The French are not in a position to do so; and very likely when the news of the French disasters reaches China the mandarins will snap their fingers, and refuse anything like satisfactory redress. But, in sooth, this cannot be looked upon as a mere French quarrel.

* Published in London and China Telegraph.

(STANDARD.)

The outrage is therefore not to be regarded as an outrage upon France only but upon all civilised Europe; and as France can hardly be expected, in her present circumstances, to take any vigorous action in the matter, it would be not more than just to her were England to relieve her of the duty of exacting a fitting atonement from the Tientsin murderers. It is perhaps even more incumbent upon England than upon France to punish the authors of this frightful crime, seeing the much larger stake which we have in the country. It is not too much to say that the life of every Englishman and Englishwoman in a Chinese port is in danger should there be any hesitation on the part of our Government in insisting upon a due reparation for the Tientsin massacre. In spite of all the attempts to credit the Chinese with the character of a civilised people there is and ever has been a rooted prejudice in the minds of the mandarin class, and, through their agency, in the minds of the ignorant rabble of the large towns, against all foreigners. They have never ceased to hold, as the prime article of their faith, that all European civilisation should be barred out. They hate because they fear the Europeans. They would extirpate them if they could. They fulfil their treaty obligations only through terror, and they never lose any opportunity of violating them, and of showing their hatred and contempt for the foreigners. This is notorious to the entire European community in China, and is not denied except by a few ignorant and sentimental fanatics among ourselves. The Burlingame mission, with its farcical accompaniments, was a mere Chinese trick to impose upon the world with a show of civilisation. The Chinese policy never varies, and has not varied for many hundred years. It is a good deal like the policy of England in these latter years. It is based upon the absolute exclusion of any sentiment for those who dwell outside the bounds of China. There is but one civilisation which the Chinese admit, and that is their own. As for any progress in what are called liberal ideas, they will not even admit that any such progress is possible. It is a sham and a delusion altogether—an invention of certain romantic philanthropists outside of China—a childish attempt to propagate the principles of peace and non-intervention. But whether China is a civilised power or not, we are equally bound to require some redress for the outrage at Tientsin. It must be determined whether Europeans may reside in safety in the Chinese Treaty Ports. That is a matter of the first importance to several thousands of our countrymen who, on the faith of the British safeguard, are pursuing their peaceful callings within the Chinese territory. If China is a civilised nation we are bound to proceed against her Government as we should against any other civilised Government, for the massacre at Tientsin, perpetrated, as all the evidence goes to show, under the eyes of the local authorities. If China is not a civilised power she must be dealt with in a more summary way, as we should deal with barbarians who commit murder.

(GLOBE.)

We have as yet only spoken of the urgent necessity that exists for providing immediate protection for British lives and property at Peking and the ports, but there is the still more important question to be settled of what reparation we are to demand from the Chinese Government for the massacre at Tientsin, and what steps we are to take to secure ourselves against the recurrence of such a catastrophe. And to this end, in the first place, the guilt of the massacre should unhesitatingly be fastened upon the Peking Government. To this it will be objected by many that the Government should not be held responsible for a mere popular tumult. To such people we would reply that the riot at Tientsin does not at all answer that description. It has already been clearly proved that the local mandarins, high and low, were, to say the least, fully cognisant of the approaching outbreak days and even weeks before it occurred; that, instead of attempting to suppress the popular excitement, they indirectly did all they could to foment it; and that General Chen, who took an active part in instigating the rioters, and who is said to have led them in person, has since been received with distinction by the Emperor, and has returned through Tientsin on the way to his post laden with Imperial favours. Further, it does not require any deep knowledge of China and the Chinese to be aware that, under the paternal Government in force, such an organised outbreak as that which took place at Tientsin could never have occurred unless with the sanction of the Government. Riots are made to order in China, and the same people who would one day rise against foreigners at a nod from the authorities, would on the next, at a hint from the same potentates, be on the most friendly terms with them. We have only to look back to the past few years to know the truth of this assertion. Before the capture of Canton, when the Government was accustomed to treat us with haughty contempt, and to lavish its insults upon us, no foreigner dare enter the city, and even in the villages in its neighbourhood and in the foreign settlement itself there was no immunity for the foreigner from the overbearing insolence of the people. But when Canton was taken and the authorities found it necessary to submit, the people were as civil as they had formerly been insolent, and as friendly as they had been hostile. Again, for a year or two after the expedition to Peking, when the Government was overawed by the presence of our soldiers, the whole empire was peace.. But as our troops were withdrawn from the neighbourhood of Peking and the Government began to feel that the reins were again in its hands, disturbances broke out in other parts of the country, in parts quite remote from the immediate effects of the campaign, and far beyond the range of any but native influence. The plea then that the people of Tientsin, a city in the Imperial province, and but eighty miles from the Imperial city, should take it upon themselves to commit such a pronounced act as the massacre without an implied sanction on the part of the authorities, cannot for an instant stand.

We are told that the news of the massacre has spread throughout the length and breadth of the Empire, that it has everywhere been received with rejoicings, and that it has produced among the natives at the Treaty Ports a keen desire to emulate the atrocities of their Tientsin brethren. All this should be borne in mind in fixing the just penalties that the Peking Government must pay for this wanton attack upon foreigners. And above all things it should be demanded that the full knowledge of the reparation exacted should be as widely spread as is the news of the massacre. The local offenders must of course be punished; but above and beyond this let us now once and for all refuse longer to submit to be ranked by the Chinese as an inferior race. Let us insist on the Emperor receiving our Ambassador, and let a decree be published announcing the change of policy in the Peking Gazette. To confine ourselves to punishing the Tientsin mandarins and local rioters would be an egregious blunder. The Emperor's advisers are the real offenders, and should be looked upon as the principal culprits.

The Post says that the whole foreign community in China appears to be face to face with a highly menacing danger. The respective home Governments must evidently sooner or later recognise the fact that the outbreak at Tientsin was but a symptom of a deeply-seated disease—dislike to foreigners; and they will have to admit that the selfish policy of standing aloof, to let France settle this affair as her own, will not pay. Had France been free and able to enforce respect to her subjects, and to exact reparation for the gross injuries inflicted upon them, even then we should have been morally bound to co-operate with her. We are still so bound; but, in addition, we ought now to move prominently in the matter for our own sakes. It is extremely unpleasant to have to send a force to so distant a part of the world; to have to tax the country in respect of the half-civilised and anomalous people of China. But duties and obligations, however unpleasant, are not to be shirked with impunity. Not to spend a moderate amount now in precautionary measures and in timely demonstration of force would be but to incur an almost certain liability of future and much greater outlay, to say nothing of very possible imitations of the Tientsin tragedy to be exercised upon our fellow-subjects engaged in the peaceful vocations of trade in China. The more the French reverses are calculated to add to the obstinacy and pretensions of the Chinese, the more it will be imperative upon other foreigners to come forward in an unmistakable manner.

In the new Kaisows very little has been done, as only the finest grades have been cared for. The small public sales have not attracted much attention. Foochow Congous: The quotations for siftings, dust, and broken-leaf are unchanged. Common has been sold at 10d. to 10½d., and good common to fair at 11d. to 1s. per lb.; but only a limited business has been transacted in these grades. Medium, of new import, has realised at public sale 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 6½d., and a few boxes of Pakling 1s. 8½d. per lb. Fine, 1s. 10d. to 2s. per lb.; and finest is quoted at 2s. 2d. to 2s. 6d., but at present there is not any on the market. Black-leaf Congous: A few small sales have been made by auction of good common to fair at 11d. to 1s. per lb., and also of new Teas, ex Nile and Craigforth, which realised for medium to good medium 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 8½d. per lb., prices being considered rather easier. In the finer grades there is not any alteration to report, and they may still be quoted at 2s. to 2s. 2d. for fine, and 2s. 4d. to 2s. 8d. for finest. Souchongs: Fine has been sold at 2s. per lb., and a parcel of finest at 2s. 10d. per lb. Oolongs: The sales made confirm last quotations. Scented Teas: Foochow Scented Orange Pekoes have been sold at a slight decline on former rates. Capers remain the same as last quoted. Green Teas: Two parcels, ex Nile, have been placed on the market, and prices realised show no alteration.

The public sale of China Teas, on the 12th inst., comprised 1,958 packages, "Without Reserve," which realised about current rates. On the 13th, 4,980 packages Indian Teas were passed, and on the 14th, 1,526 packages China Teas were sold, at prices considered rather easier than those ruling by private contract. The next sale is advertised for the 20th inst.

SILK.

There is no alteration in the position of the Silk market since our last report: there is rather less business doing, but entirely owing to the limited supply of new Chinas offering at anything like market rates, 26s. has been paid for Red Peacocks, and 29s. to 29s. 6d. for best Chop thirds, but even these prices do not tempt the majority of importers to sell. All other Silks but Chinas continue very dull, and but little inquired for. Deliveries are good, considering the general position of things—say from 1st to 15th inst., China, 1,184, against 833 from 1st to 15th August; Canton, 201 against 190; Japan, 294 against 176; Bengal, 124, against 134; total, 1,803 bales, against 1,342.

COFFEE.

Although the offers of Plantation Ceylon at the public sales have not been extensive, sales have been effected with difficulty, the demand having been very limited, especially for the commoner sorts, of which the larger portion of the parcels brought forward have consisted. The small quantity which found purchasers has only been quitted at a decline of 1s. per cwt. on our last quoted rates, the prices paid having been—triage and ordinary, 34s. to 52s. 6d.; small grey to coloury, 50s. to 60s.; middling grey to coloury, 58s. to 64s. 6d.; good middling to good bold, 66s. to 76s.; peaberry, 75s. to 79s. 6d. Of Native no sales have been effected; supplies have been withheld in view of the dullness displayed. In other East India the business has been confined to Singapore; out of 447 bags offered 200 bags good Campar description were taken at 45s. 6d. to 46s.; a subsequent offer of 477 bags was bought in, fine yellow at 65s., Pari Pari kind at 49s, Benthyne at 55s. to 56s.

The landings continue heavy, and exceed last year's by 400 tons; the deliveries have again improved, and are 230 tons more, so that the position of the stock is not importantly altered. Stock, Sept. 3, 24,049 tons, against 23,107 tons; Sept. 10, 24,273 tons, against 23,163 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation 298,108 cwt., against 208,707 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 17,152 cwt., against 38,276 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 10,615 cwt. Plantation, against 8,252 cwt., and 17,540 cwt. Native, against 19,290 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-six weeks ended Sept. 10, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 26,158 tons, against 25,849 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 44,480 tons, against 48,980 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 7,305 tons, against 7,720 tons; of all descriptions, 12,947 tons, against 13,130 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 19,720 tons, against 18,332 tons; of all descriptions, 31,479 tons, against 31,907 tons. The stock on Sept. 10 was, of Ceylon, 12,997 tons, against 10,792 tons; of all descriptions, 24,273 tons, against 23,168 tons.

SUGAR.

The market for East India kinds continues inactive, and since our last report the parcels brought forward at the public sales have consisted of 1,725 mats Java, duty 4s., which realised 18s. for low soft brown, and 17s. to 17s. 6d. for low dark quality; and subsequently 3,650 bags, which sold at some decline from these prices, low soft at 16s. 6d. to 16s. 9d., a few lots 17s. 6d., washed at 16s.; by private contract, 100 tons unclayed Zebu Manila have been sold at 18s

The landings consisting almost wholly of British West India are 1,100 tons less than the corresponding week last year, and as deliveries are 400 tons more, the surplus in the stock is reduced to 20,800 tons. Stock, Sept. 3, 103,117 tons, against 80,782 tons; Sept. 10, 102,842 tons, against 81,998 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-six weeks ended Sept. 10, 1870, was—of Penang, 2,277 tons, against 2,201 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 15,173 tons, against 23,199 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 1,600 tons, against 1,910 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 18,340 tons, against 12.512 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 95 tons, against 129 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,930 tons, against 1,035 tons. The stock on Sept. 10 was, of Penang, 2,912 tons, against 527 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 30,693 tons, against 38,140 tons.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

There has been some improvement in the demand, especially for the good and fine qualities of Green Teas; Black has also been in more request, but Japans are dull. Prices are without change. The expected cargo of new crop, per steamer, continues to attract attention, and we notice further sales of 4,600 boxes Pingsuey Green. The sales besides are 3,150 half-chests Oolong, per Raleigh; 2,400 do., vessels not named; 1,854 do. Japan, per Cœur de Lion; and 9.348 half-chests Green, per Banian, J. S. Stone, Etha Rickmers, Eliz. Dougall, City of Perth, N. B. Palmer, Sarah Nicholson, Yokohama, &c.; also 110 Oolong and 1,300 do., new crop, to arrive per steamer.

The following are the current quotations:—Greens (Moyune, Twankl and Fychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 70c. to 115c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 55c. to 100c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 43c. to 105c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 52c. to 85c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow Oolongs, common and good, 48c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 56c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 47c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 65c.; finest, 67c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 40c. to 50c.; superior and fine, 54c. to 63c.; finest, 65c. to 85c.; Japans, common, 55c. to 58c.; medium, 62c. to 63c.; fine and finest, 68c. to 75c.; choice, 80c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Aug. 24, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 18,035,216 lbs.; Japans, 8,580,709 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,655,202 lbs.; Oolongs, 8,469,633 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 37,895,224 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 47,761,391 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Aug. 24, 3,602,066 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 25,812,866 lbs., there remains a total of 18,346,459 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Aug. 10 to Aug 24 amounted to 883,075 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 1,268,192 lbs.; and the exports to 154,219 lbs.

COFFEE.—There is a fairly active market for Brazil, but East India kinds continue out of inquiry; the only sale to report is of 150 bags Java at 19½c. gold; the current rates rule as before, viz.:—Java, 19½c. to 22c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. gold. GUNNY CLOTH.—The market for Borneo is quiet at 31½c.

HEMP.—Manila nominally maintains the prices last quoted, viz., 12¾c. to 13c. gold, but no transactions have been effected. The stock of Manila on the 1st September was estimated at 18,829 bales, against 14,591 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 19,036 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from the 1st January to the 31st August, 1870, were 102,276 bales, against 81,679 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on the 31st August was 30,962 bales, against 47,560 bales at the same date last year.

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1 to 2.50 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—Rangoon is in active demand for export to Cuba, from whence advices have been received announcing an increase in the import duties after the 1st proximo; nearly the whole of the available supply has been exhausted, and, in addition, all cargoes afloat expected to arrive before the 10th inst. have been bought up. The sales amount to 13,325 bags for export, at $3.25 to 3.37½ gold in bond; and 1,500 bags, for home consumption, at $7 to 7.37½ currency (duty paid).

THE TRADE OF JAPAN.

The Commercial Reports of Her Majesty's Consuls in Japan for 1869-70 have just been issued by the Foreign-office. A comparison of the total trade in 1869 and 1868 gives the following results :—

IMPORTS.

	1869.	1868.
Cotton manufactures	$5,251,324	$4,722,583
Woollen ditto	2,010,553	2,610,838
Metals	632,255	693,780
Arms and ammunition	1,857,625	2,730,651
Miscellaneous	1,776,690	1,491,043
Eastern produce, as rice, cotton, &c.	5,828,485	2,751,476
	$17,356,932	$15,000,371

EXPORTS.

	1869.	1868.
Raw silk	$4,864,990	$10,638,041
Cocoons	177,805	123,040
Silkworms' eggs	2,728,500	4,199,138
Miscellaneous	1,685,220	2,390,334

Decrease in 1869, $8,959,488.

Thus in cotton and woollen manufactures and metals, being the staples of the import trade in which Great Britain is chiefly interested, the estimated value of the operations of 1869 is nearly the same as that of 1868. The decline observable in arms and ammunition is scarcely open to objection, as this may be attributed to the cessation of the civil war; but the notable increase in the importations of eastern produce, such as rice, peas, cotton, oil, &c., which have been more than doubled in 1869, may be regarded as unfavourable to the interests of the general trade, and explains the causes of the apparent check in the consumption of manufactures. It shows that, in consequence of two bad harvests, Japan has had to import large supplies of food from China, Saigon, and the Straits, and thus her means of purchasing foreign fabrics have been proportionately restricted.

In exports the trade in silk is less than half of that of the previous year. This is partly ascribable to the carelessness of Japanese manipulators, which is at last beginning to affect prices, and also to the large shipment of silkworms' eggs from Japan to Europe, by which the productive power of the latter is increased, while that of the former is diminished. It may be considered as a satisfactory sign for the silk industry both of Europe and of Japan that the demand for silkworms' eggs was not so large in 1869 as in 1868. The export of tea also shows a considerable falling-off. Altogether, a material decline is observable in the export trade of 1869, the total being $11,485,645 as against $20,435,333 in 1868, and the difference between imports and exports being $5,871,287 as against the latter. In 1868 the reverse was the case, as the exports of that year exceeded the imports by $5,434,762.

This balance against Japan of 1869 was met by large shipments of native coin, which was exported to India and San Francisco, simply as bullion to the extent, it is estimated, of $10,000,000. The money thus parted with has been replaced by paper. It is to be hoped that a position so prejudicial to the interests of Japan, as well as to those of foreign trade, will speedily be remedied by the currency reform, which is engaging the attention of the Government.

The foreign trade with Japan, direct and local, may roundly be estimated at ten millions sterling, more than half of which is in British hands. It afforded employment in 1869 to 1,043,405 tons of foreign shipping, 398,264 tons of which were British. Such are the results of the first ten years of our dealings with this country, during which period very considerable difficulties have had to be overcome by reconciling a large national majority and adverse political party to an intercourse which was alien to all their previous feelings. The commerce is already growing more rapidly in Japan, in proportion to its area and population, than it is in China. The diffusion of commercial intelligence among the Japanese is remarkable and encouraging. Their desire to obtain machinery and to establish industrial works at the various open ports, noticed in these reports, is one tangible proof of increasing enterprise; and other interesting evidence of an intelligent appreciation of the benefits of trade may be found in two native pamphlets, respectively entitled "Scattered Remarks on Commerce," and "Conversations on Commerce," which have been recently published, and translations of which, one by Mr. Aston and the other by Mr. O'Driscoll, are given in the book before us.

This is sufficiently encouraging; but there is something more than encouragement; there is warning—peculiarly and mournfully interesting at the present moment—in the concluding passages of the imaginary conversation of the Japanese political economist. As is usual in such productions, the advocate of the author's principles—liberality and free trade—converts his opponent to his ideas, so far as regards commerce. When, however, the "Protectionist" finds himself completely worsted on this point, he suddenly changes his ground of objection against foreigners by inquiring what is the Reformer's opinion regarding Christianity. The author (through his mouthpiece) replies thus significantly :—"I entirely share your apprehensions on this subject. This religion of Jesus is a hateful thing, and I have always heard from learned men that it is fraught with mischief to our country. It is expressly stipulated in the Treaties that no foreigner must attempt to pervert Japanese. If, then, in the face of this stipulation, these fellows should be so base as to attempt perversion, they would by so doing be guilty of a violation of truth and justice, than which there is no greater crime in the sight of Heaven; and in that case I maintain that every man in Japan, both high and low, should be prepared to sacrifice his life in order to exterminate the rascals, and thus afford an example of the might of our country's gods."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.—The disorders peculiar to women are the most delicate and difficult to conduct to a favourable termination, unless they receive prompt relief from well accredited sources. Upon their early and judicious treatment hangs the momentous question whether woman enjoy strength, soundness, and cheerfulness, or pine away in weakness, disease, and misery. Holloway's inestimable preparations are the most reliable remedies for restoring weakened or suspended functions. The Ointment should be rubbed on the back and stomach for at least ten minutes every night and morning till restoration takes place and perfect functional regularity is induced. While thus using the Ointment Holloway's Pills should be freely taken, in order to purify the blood, and cleanse the system.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.

FOUR GOLD MEDALS.

Supplied to the British, French, Prussian, Russian, Italian, Dutch, and other Governments. Dr. Lankester writes regarding Extract of Meat:—"But there is a difference in flavour, and here, as in all other kinds of food, it is the flavour that makes the quality." It is essentially on account of the fine meaty flavour, as distinguished from the burnt taste of other Extracts, that LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT defeated all Australian and other sorts at Paris, Havre, and Amsterdam, and is so universally preferred in all European markets.

One pint of fine-flavoured Beef-tea at 2½d. Most convenient and economic "stock."

CAUTION.—Require Baron Liebig's, the inventor's, signature on every jar, and ask distinctly for LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT.

As stated by the War Office, the assertion of an Australian Agent of solely supplying the British Government is proved to be nothing but an untrue statement.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The present French mail brings advices to the 2nd August, but, via San Francisco, by the Pacific mail steamer America we have twenty days' later news, namely to the 22nd August, of which the following summary has been telegraphed to the New York papers.

The intelligence of the European war has proved detrimental to business here. The Silk Market is lifeless. Parliament is in session. Its proceedings are unimportant. The steamer City of Yedo exploded her boiler at Yedo August 1, killing Rev. Edward Barnes, Mrs. Olida Barnes, Edward D. Barnes, Mary Simmons, Mr. Cassidy, and a number of Japanese, and injuring many others. The Coroner's jury found gross carelessness on the part of the engineer. The steamer Hiogo also exploded her boiler at Osaka, and four Japanese were killed and fifteen or twenty wounded.

There is a moderate business doing, chiefly in cotton staples, other descriptions of goods being neglected. There had been considerable sales of grey shirtings, but the demand had subsided. Cotton yarns are in fair request, and the former rates maintained. Fancy goods and woollens are without change. The total settlements of silk for the season reach 900 bales. Prices are nominally as last quoted, though dealers would sell at much lower rates. Stock on hand, 1,000 bales. A large business in tea has been doing since the sailing of the last steamer, exclusively for America, with settlements to the amount of 13,000 piculs. The tendency of prices is in favour of the buyers. Quotations unchanged. Exchange on London, 4s. 6d.; on Paris, f.5.67c.

NAGASAKI.

A new iron gunboat, built by order for one of the native princes by Messrs. Glover and Co., arrived on the 18th July, having left Aberdeen on the 15th March; she is named Wun-yo-Maro. There has been some business done in charters for Hakodadi, business otherwise very dull. Exchange remains at a ruinous rate, viz., Bous 440 per $100, while the Chinese have been shipping every silver bou and dollar they can get out of the port.

CHINA.

PEKING.

A correspondent writes that Mr. Edkins and Mr. Wade are the only persons in Peking who are not convinced that Europeans there are in imminent danger. The Emperor has issued an edict to the Viceroys and Governors of provinces, desiring them to keep a tight hand on their people, so that other outbreaks may not occur similar to that at Tientsin. The edict was not intended for communication to foreigners, and there is a good deal in the document that is suggestive; but most remarkable is the apprehension expressed in the last sentence—"That the local authorities in other provinces may be induced in consequence (of Tientsin) to harbour suspicions and get up occasions of quarrel." It would seem, then, that even the Emperor sees traces of official action at Tientsin. He has also issued a decree depriving the Prefect and magistrate of Tientsin of their rank, and handing them over to the Board of Punishment for further decision on their offence. The accusation so far is neglect of precaution, and neglect to punish offenders after the outbreak. No mention is made of their active complicity.

TIENTSIN.

The position of affairs at this port was practically unchanged. Tseng-kwo-Fan was understood to have positively refused to deliver up his Lieutenant, Tsen-kwo-Jui, and at the French Minister's suggestion the gunboats had moved further up the river, so that the shot and shell might have better effect on the city should a bombardment have to be commenced. A fracas took place, we hear, between an officer of the Flamme and Mr. Meadows, the former having called the latter some hard names, which he had refused to withdraw, intimating that he would back his opinion in a more forcible manner if Mr. Meadows desired it. His invitation to a settlement had not, however, been accepted. The Chinese have a report that in order to escape the mission to France, which he dreads immensely, Chung How has poisoned himself.

None of the ringleaders in the recent outbreak have yet been seized, Tseng-kwo-Jui, the Lieutenant General of Tseng-kwo-Fan, and chief instigator of the affair, is at Peking with 100 of his Braves, as body guard. The British Consul at Tientsin has notified to the English residents that the city is now quiet, and intercourse may be resumed, but foreigners fail to see it, and the general belief is that notwithstanding the assurances of the English and French Legations, matters are still in a very critical situation, and unless some definite movement is made to inflict punishment for the massacres, neither Tientsin nor Peking will be safe residences for foreigners, when the winter once more leaves them to the mercy of the Chinese.

The Acting British Consul, Mr. Lay, issued the following notice on the 19th July :—"The undersigned thinks, the city of Tientsin being to all appearance now quite quiet, merchants may resort thither as before, and carry on their business without fear of molestation. At the same time he would warn all those proceeding to the city to be very careful in their demeanor towards the natives, and to avoid either expressing or exhibiting any ill-feeling to them for their late most barbarous outrage. In the interests of trade the undersigned issues this notification, and while he cannot, with due regard to these interests, ask British merchants to still refrain from going to Tientsin—seeing that all is at present quiet—yet he cannot too strongly impress upon those who intend visiting the city the greatest caution in their manner and conduct towards the Chinese." In republishing the above the Hong Kong Daily Press observes :—"This document is startlingly indicative of the change which has come over our relations with the Chinese. It might be imagined as just possible, under the circumstances existing, that a notification would have been issued to the Chinese to treat foreigners respectfully, instead of the latter being warned against offending the delicate susceptibilities of those concerned in butchering the Sisters of Mercy."

It appears that the name of the Irish Sister, one of the sufferers in the massacre, was Alice O'Sullivan, a cousin of Capt. O'Sullivan, many years in the employ of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson, and Co.

HANKOW.

Dates from this port are to July 30. A correspondent writes as follows :—The flood of 1870 will, it is feared, equal, if not surpass, that of last year. The settlement is once more submerged, and the water has risen with amazing rapidity. This may or may not be an advantage in case of an outbreak. It would be so if the assailants were a disorganised mob bent on plunder only, for the means of transit are again reduced to small sampans, and rioters coming in them could easily be checked. In the event of authorised action, as was the case at Tientsin, the fact of our means of locomotion being to a very considerable degree impeded by the flood, might enable the attacking party to assault several isolated places at once, the Foundling Hospital (Yu-yin-tang) being one in the category. And much as individual bravery might effect, the result would possibly prove the truth of the adage, "united we stand, divided we fall." The flooding of the settlement and native city has nearly stopped trade in imports, the dealers being quite unprepared for a repetition of the disasters of last year.

On the 30th of August the water was several inches higher than the highest of last season, and was still rising. Fears were entertained for the safety of many of the houses.

SHANGHAI.

The present mail brings dates to the 5th August; the London mail of June 17, with telegrams to July 13, was received on the 1st of August, and telegrams, via Kiachta, to the 16th July came in on the 3rd. The Pacific mail steamer of the 1st July, from San Francisco, arrived the same day.

AUG. 4, 1870.

The only change in the aspect of affairs since last mail is the arrival at Tientsin of the French and American Ministers, and French and English Admirals, with some more gunboats. The attitude of the French Minister has been bolder since the arrival of the Admiral with additional forces; he has demanded the heads of three mandarins, the instigators and leaders of the massacre. Tseng-kwo-Fan, the Governor, has agreed to give up two, but refuses the other, who is his lieutenant and most guilty. He has given up, on the requisition of the French Minister, the native converts, who have been tortured daily at the "Chi-Hsien's" yamun since the massacre. This clearly proves the complicity of the mandarins in the plot. Those delivered up were tortured in the most cruel manner on the rack, their knee-joints dislocated, their eyelids cut off, and other barbarities practised upon them, with the hope of extorting some confession of crimes committed by foreigners, so as to justify the massacre. No telegrams have arrived from home yet, and no action taken, owing to the insane policy of the Home Government, who send Ministers and Admirals here without power to act in any emergency. Better not have them here at all. I look upon this dodge of attacking the French as a deep stroke of policy on the part of the Chinese, on the principle of dividi et impera. The French this time, the Germans or English next, a cunning move. This torturing business brings the murders home to the mandarins, as no man in China doubted their complicity from the beginning. If the mandarins and people of Tientsin are not punished as they deserve, no foreigner's life would be safe in China in future.

Our Volunteer Corps is in a high state of efficiency, and numbers 400 men—horse artillery, cavalry, and infantry. We are fortunately in a position to defend ourselves against the Chinese, for, although we have two men-of-war in the harbour, to the lasting disgrace of the English Government, they have written orders not to land a man for the defence of Shanghai, but to let the Chinese burn down the town and kill as many as they could, and then they would come and take off the survivors, and run away from the cowardly Chinese. Alas! has the English Government and people come so low as this? Will the Parliament and people of England consent to be ruled in this fashion? We want a Minister of character with full powers out here, and not a wasteful panderer to the Chinese like Wade, who has had the impertinence to request the missionaries to send in their little bill; however, he got his answer, which is a credit to the English missionaries, refusing to send in any bill till murder was punished.

News has just come in from Tientsin that the demand of the French Minister for the punishment by death of the three mandarins concerned in the murders has been refused by Tseng kwo-Fan, and that the Chinese are preparing for war. This seems most likely, as they are and have been for some time chartering foreign vessels to take rice to Tientsin, and munitions of war and arms are going up to Tientsin by every steamer. The foreign Governments and Ministers seem struck with a fatal blindness, and will not see wha tis coming. The delay in avenging the massacre at Tientsin is fraught with extreme danger to foreigners everywhere in China, as fear alone now prevents a general onslaught, and wiping out the foreign element. Good policy requires a speedy retribution for this outrage on humanity. There has been a general conference between all the Ministers and admirals at Tientsin, but they are bound hand and foot by their respective Home Governments. The effects of the Burlingame Embassy are now beginning to tell. Massacres, murders, outrages, insults, treacheries, poisonings, torturings, burnings, mutilations, ravishings must go on unchecked. Men-of-war keep aloof and look on apothetically. Telegrams interrupted, couriers murdered, as dead men tell no tales. Accusations of kidnapping against foreigners are spread all over the country, and even the Peking Gazette contains them, and repeats the lie that the massacre at Tientsin was caused by the Consul firing at Chung How, thus making the Government a party to the plot. The disgrace brought upon our country makes our blood boil. Two more gunboats have arrived from Saigon, but no troops. Tientsin and the Taku Forts must be occupied, and the sooner the Government becomes alive to that necessity the better, otherwise worse will follow.

The Burlingame swindle has done an infinity of harm in inducing the Home Governments to take all power of action from the authorities here. If Ministers and admirals are sent here with orders not to act in any emergency better not have them at all. This kidnapping humbug and boiling down eyes is reproduced on all convenient occasions when a new row is wanted; but, as kidnapping among the Chinese themselves is always going on, there is nothing new about it. Children or infants can be bought in most parts of China at sixpence each, or half the price of fowls, and even at six or seven years of age they can be had for two dollars, or nine shillings each. Besides the Europeans massacred at Tientsin, about sixty Cantonese were killed. Only some of those native Christians who were tortured have been given up, as others were too ill to bear removal. Are all these outrages to be condoned by our Minister? It remains to be proved yet whether the sufferers belonged to the French or English missions. The Chinese are in a state of excitement everywhere, and only wait for the signal to make a general onslaught on foreigners. A respect for their own skins has held them back; but once let them imagine that killing a foreigner is not a punishable offence, and where would be our security from day to day, or night to night rather? The Shanghai Volunteers will give them a little trouble before all our throats are cut.

There was a grand review of the volunteers on the 23rd July, when they paraded on the Racecourse, and looked very well; all the companies were present. An address was made by the Chairman of the Municipal Council.

HONG KONG.

Dates by this opportunity extend to August 11th. The English mails of 24th June (extra) and 1st July arrived on the 9th August.

Probate has been granted in the Supreme Court, on power of attorney, to Mr. D. R. Crawford, in the estate of Mr. Thomas Ash Lane, deceased. Real estate and personalty were sworn under $160,000.

An index to the Ordinances of Hong Kong has been published by Noronha and Sons, by authority. It is neatly got up, and will doubtless prove a valuable assistance in consulting the local Statute Book.

The China Mail mentions a strange report concerning the steamer Fair Singapore, which has been trading between Hong Kong, Malacca and Penang for some time past. This vessel, according to the shipping reports, left Hong Kong on the 31st July, having cleared under British colours for Malacca and Penang as usual; but it is asserted that she is no longer a British owned ship—in fact, that she has been purchased by the Rajah of Quedah, manned by European sailors, and armed expressly to enable this Rajah to carry on the war with the Rajah of Klang,—the result of a family quarrel.

There is a rumour current both in this colony and Macao that the Portuguese Government have determined on despatching a large detachment of their European soldiery to the East, to reinforce their garrisons at Goa, Timor, and Macao, and that a steamer called the Scythia has been chartered to proceed eastwardly via the Suez Canal. The late revolt at Goa has, we are informed, shaken the confidence of the Government in the native troops, and hence the presence of European forces is considered a necessary precautionary measure.

A deputation from the leading Chinese of the colony waited upon Mr. H. C. Caldwell, solicitor, at his office, and presented him with a complimentary address written on white satin with a blue embossed border, which was accompanied by a handsome tablet, as a testimonial in recognition of the professional services rendered by Mr. Caldwell in obtaining the release of the four unfortunate Chinese who were sentenced to death a few months ago for the murder of Constable Mahoney at Sow-kee-wan in April last year, upon the evidence of one Tang Pak-foo and two alleged accomplices.

THE COUNCIL MEETING.

After the financial statement had been made, H.E. remarked that twelve new ordinances would be laid on the table, which would be explained by the Attorney-General. The Attorney-General said that the first measure was an ordinance to modify the restrictions and regulations of the Chinese Passengers' Act, 1855, in respect of short voyages within the China seas, which pressed very heavily on British vessels. The second was an ordinance for the punishment of deported criminals, who would in future be tried by a jury instead of being summarily heard before a magistrate as heretofore. If a criminal who had been deported returned for the second time, a flogging was provided for by the ordinance. The 3rd was an ordinance "to make provision for the enforcement of rights of re-entry by the Crown." An advertisement in the Gazette and a memorial in the Land Office was regarded by the stipulations of this ordinance as sufficient notice of resumption on the part of the Crown. The fourth was an ordinance "to amend the law respecting pawnbrokers." This ordinance increased the time from three to six months before the article pledged became forfeited. Another clause provided for a fuller and more particular description of articles pawned, which description would have to be carefully noted upon the ticket supplied to the pledger. The fifth was an ordinance "for enabling the Governor in Council to make regulations for the maintenance of good order and the protection of property in public buildings, gardens and other places." The sixth was one of the very greatest importance. Its object was "to extend the jurisdiction and powers of the Court of Summary Jurisdiction." At present the jurisdiction was limited to $500; but there was a great deal of litigation now going on in a small way (say for $700 or $800), and they were cases which did not justify the parties in incurring the great expense of proceedings in the Supreme Court. One of the advantages of the Small Court also was that there was none of that delay of process and hearing which was inseparable from the higher Court; a person came in on a Tuesday, and he got his judgment in half an hour, and nothing more was necessary. Parties in such cases preferred to sacrifice the balance of their claims, over $500, rather than incur the great expense of Supreme Court proceedings, and endure the delay caused by a case dragging through the higher Court. It was proposed to extend the limit to $1,000, and he thought it would be a great convenience to the public were such extension effected. There were also other powers, such as power to issue writs of foreign attachment and power given by the garnishee clauses, which it would be well for the Summary Court to possess to facilitate the disposal of business.

The 7th was an ordinance "to amend Ordinance No. 8 of 1860, and to make further provision in relation to the administration of the estates and effects of deceased persons." It often happened that Chinese fell sick and went away to Macao, Canton, and other places on the mainland, where they died, leaving their property behind; and the manager or accountant of the shop would frequently collect and clear out the whole of the property, leaving creditors unpaid. Unless the shop were taken charge of, this could not be prevented. It is proposed to give the Official Administrator power to take charge and keep in safety, all property belonging to any person as soon as he hears of the death of the said person, until probate be obtained or the property be otherwise arranged. One clause placed debts under seal, specialty or bond debts, in the same category as common debts; while another section sought to relieve executors from the possibility of annoyance after an estate is wound up. The eighth, an ordinance "to amend the law respecting the liabilities of innkeepers," was the next measure referred to. The A. G. remarked that, as the place was increasing in population, and we were getting large hotels, &c., it would be only keeping pace with the times to adapt the law of 1863 to this colony. By that Act it was provided that the liability of innkeepers should not exceed £30; and two sections of this Act might be seen, framed and glazed, standing in the office of every hotel at home. It was now proposed to apply the same remedy here; the sum being fixed at $100. The ninth was an ordinance "for compensating the families of persons killed by accidents arising from negligence." It was based upon Lord Campbell's Act, which provided that damages be claimed from stage coach proprietors, railway companies, &c., for deaths by negligence. The tenth was an ordinance "for the reciprocal surrender by the Governments of Hong Kong and Macao of certain fugitives from justice." The eleventh was "for the recovery of costs in civil proceedings by or against the Crown." Crown costs are made the same as those between party and party, and the law is assimilated to the law of England. The last ordinance was a measure "to make further provision in relation to criminal law and procedure."

SAIGON.

Advices extend to August 17; the London mail of July 7, with telegrams to the 29th, was received on August 5. By this mail the news was received of the declaration of war between France and Prussia. The Governor of the colony had acted most handsomely under the circumstances, and with the greatest consideration for the interests of trade, as will be seen by the following translation of an official notification relative to German vessels, dated August 6:—"Prussian vessels coming in without having had notice of the war will be permitted to avail of the grace granted to those vessels already in port. All Prussian vessels leaving Hong Kong before August 6 will be considered as not having notice of the war. The grace granted to Prussian vessels now in port, and also to those arriving without having knowledge of the war, is fixed at fifteen days from the date of this notification. Prussian vessels leaving Saigon will receive a 'Sauf conduit,' valid for six days. It is perfectly understood that these tolerations will cease if the crews of the said vessels commit any offence against the safety of the colony, or if Prussian cruisers appear at Cape St. James."

We have received a synoposis of the export of rice from Saigon in square-rigged vessels, from which we learn that, from the 1st of January, the exports have been:—

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—A considerable business in all kinds of Grey Cotton goods had been transacted since the departure of the English mail; 7 lb. Shirtings and 6 and 7 lb. T-Cloths of the lower counts had commanded most attention, and sellers had succeeded in establishing a slight advance in the value of these. The demand for them continued. Sales of Drills were reported at rather better rates for American goods, and Jeans were still inquired for at an improvement on last quotations. Chintzes were still wanted, but the dealers were slow to respond to the demands of holders, and there had not been much done in consequence. In other kinds of Cotton manufactures there was little noticeable change. Woollens: Camlets and Long Ells had been settled in small lots at about previous quotations. Spanish Stripes were 1c. per yard higher—C.P.H. being quoted Tls. 0.5.1 to 0.5.1½ per yard. The transactions were few. Figured Orleans: Only small sales reported; no change in value. Quotations (duty paid):—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.7.8 to 1.8.5 per piece; 8¼ to 8½ lbs., Tls. 2.1.8 to 2.2.7; ; G.E. White Shirtings, Tls. 1.7.5 to 2.4.0; American Drills, Tls. 3.2.8 to 3.4.7; Jeans, Tls. 2.5.0 to 2.6.0; English Drills, Tls. 3.1.0 to 3.2.0; Jeans, Tls. 2.2.5 to 2.3.5; Dutch Drills, Tls. 2.9.8 to 3.0.5; Jeans, Tls. 2.2.0 to 2.3.0.

HONG KONG.—Messrs. Olyphant and Co. report as follows:—Since the despatch of the English mail no sales of English Yarns have been reported, and as there are few or no inquiries rates are nominally quoted $1 lower. Grey Shirtings of 7 lbs. and 8.4 lbs. weights are in better demand, and are more firmly held; sales, however, have been small. Values of T-Cloths are supported, but transactions have been limited. Drills are still neglected. Holders of Quicksilver are very firm in demanding $70 on the spot.

SAIGON.—There had been no improvement in the demand for Piece Goods, the market remaining overstocked; the nominal quotations were:—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.90 to 2.95; do., 7lbs., $2.55 to 2.60; Irish Linen, No. 120, $2.05; do., No. 150, $2.10; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., $1.80 to 1.85; do., 5 lbs., $1.60; do., 4½ lbs., $1.50 per piece.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Settlements since the English mail amounted to 14,871 chests, and re-shipments to 887 chests. Further supplies had come forward from Hankow, and the stock stood at 77,500 chests. Inferior Hohows had been settled at Tls 16.3.0, and good common Oonams were obtainable at Tls. 18.5.0. The market closed quiet, with an easier tendency. Green Teas: The Market for new Fychows was opened on the 30th July at Tls. 43, and an active demand from American buyers had since prevailed. Settlements of 15,000 half-chests were reported, and we hear of further transactions which had not been made public. Medium Foochows had realised Tls. 37, good medium Tls. 40, and for fine Twanki (or Foochow) as high as Tls. 46.5.0 had been paid. The Teas were very disappointing in quality; in make they were rough and open; dull in colour, and, in some instances, dusty; on the whole, however, there was some improvement upon last year's tea in the latter respect. The cup quality too fell short of fine, and altogether the season's yield, as represented by the parcels at hand, was pronounced very inferior. Settlements of other kinds of Tea comprised about 5,000 half-chests at Tls. 34 to 38 for Shanghai-packed, and Tls. 34 to 51 for Pingsueys. Stocks 28,200 half-chests Twanki and Foochow; 4,600 half-chests Pingsueys; 5,000 half-chests Shanghai-packed, and 1,470 half-chests old Tea.

FOOCHOW.—The following is from Messrs. Westall, Galton, and Co.'s Weekly Letter:—Although prices are again easier, and a demand for the Continent and United States has been added to the current business for England and the Colonies, the settlements of Congou during the week barely exceed 20,000 chests. Buyers have no confidence in operating at the ruling prices. The poor prospects at home, confirmed by each succeeding mail that reaches us, are rendered more discouraging by the hurried manner in which shipments are being sent away from Shanghai; and the favourable position of the Foochow export ceases to offer any encouragement when the heaviness of the stock is taken into consideration. Then there is no present prospect of a falling off in supplies; the deficiency in the arrivals, which at the beginning of last month stood at 60,000 chests, is now reduced to 30,000 chests, and this will probably be made up very shortly, as it is understood that there is plenty of Tea in the country. Of Souchong, 2,179 chests have been settled at last quotations, part of which quantity is for France. A small business has been done in Oolong for the States at Tls. 18 to 25 short for common cargo to superior; 2,774 half-chests are reported. The settlements of Pekoe have been limited to 204 chests at Tls. 54 short, which shows an advance on last prices. Only 2,591 boxes Scented Teas have been settled; business having been checked by the firmness with which stocks are held. Quotations are:—Congou, good medium to fine, $22 to 25; flavoury to medium, $18 to 21; ordinary to common, $15 to 17; dust and broken leaf, $8 to 14. Souchong, medium to fine, $23 to 29; common to fair, $16 to 22. Oolong, common cargo to superior, $21 to 27. Pekoe, finest, $57. Scented Teas, fine, $23 to 29. The export to Great Britain to August 6 is 11,247,772 lbs., against 19,433,650 lbs. at the same date last year. To the colonies it stands at 3,670,073 lbs., against 6,420,581 lbs. Exchange on London, 4s. 6¼d. for six months' sight credits. Freights have declined to £2 for sailing ships. The s.s. Vine is full at £4 for forty cubic feet. Sailed for London, August 2, s.s. Niger (1,404,500 lbs.); 5th, Norman Court (1,112,000 lbs.); 5th, Sir Lancelot (1,211,700 lbs.); 6th, Eme (1,063,326 lbs.).

AMOY.—Congou Teas had been but slightly dealt in during the week. Oolongs had continued in steady demand, and a fair business had been transacted at firm rates. Departures for New York: Aug. 2, Ceres, taking 281,135 lbs. Oolong; Aug. 5, Devana, taking 595,865 lbs. Oolong and 269,880 lbs. Congou.

CANTON.—A moderate business had been transacted in Scented Capers, principally of the commoner descriptions, at again rather easier rates. The settlements of the week were estimated as follows; of Caper 5,000 to 6,000 boxes, and of Pekoe 1,000 to 1,500 boxes. The Burdwan cleared on Aug. 3 for London, via Macao.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—In consequence of the arrival of telegraphic advices of a possible rupture between France and Prussia, buying had been much restricted, and the transactions of the week were of a comparatively trifling character. Only about 500 bales had been settled at irregular values. Chop Silks were nominally unchanged, and, although actual figures could hardly be ascertained, the tendency of the market was towards lower prices.

CANTON.—The advices from Europe had caused an entire suspension of operations; prices were nominally without alteration.

SAIGON PRODUCE.

The following report upon the Rice market is forwarded by Messrs. Hale and Co.:—As we anticipated by last mail, the high prices then ruling induced the natives to bring forward more liberal supplies, and the article once again commenced to recede in value, its downward tendency being considerably accelerated by the effects consequent upon the news of the war. Prices a few days ago were as follows: for Gocong or round grain $1.60 per picul; and for Vhinlong or long grain $1.50, but have again advanced a few cents, and tend upwards in consequence of the telegraphic news by last mail, to the effect that French vessels were to be free from capture during the war. The demand for Japan has completely subsided, but shipments to China are still taking place. The total exports since January 1st have been 2,657,168 piculs.

Messrs. Kaltenbach, Engler, and Co. report upon other articles of produce as follows:—Hides: In consequence of an increased demand, prices have reached $9 for Buffalo and $12.50 for Cow Hides. Stocks continue very small. Horns: There is no change to report, quotations remain at $8.75 per picul. Pepper: No more transactions have taken place either here or in the interior, and the season may be considered at an end. Cocoa-nut Oil was for a short time only obtainable at $6.50 per picul, but some heavy shipments to Singapore for Chinese account brought prices again as high as $7.50.60 per picul. Gamboge: No great quantities have reached our market; a few lots have been contracted for at $58, but since then somewhat higher prices have again been current, and the closing prices are $58½ to 59.

KIUKIANG AND ITS VICINITY.

(Concluded from No. 365.)

Just above the waterfall there is a tiny, rubble-built, tile-roofed cot, containing a stone altar and a painted image of the Dragon God, a sort of Chinese Neptune, who is supposed to be supreme in pools, rivers, and the sea. Incense sticks were burning before the image, and a mat was provided for its devotees to kneel on. The question suggests itself—may not some of the practices of the Romish Church have been borrowed from the traditions of such remote and sequestered shrines as this, which abound in the Far East? At the confluence of three streams in the valley we came upon a square mass, like solid masonry, blocking the way with architrave and a pediment, bulging and rounded, to the thickness of a ship's mast. Above the rocks are castellated natural ramparts, as sharp as needles, reminding us of the Aiguilles of the Swiss Alps. Still ascending, we reach the imposing Solomon's Seat, with large ovate parallel-veined leaves, and axillary drooping white flowers—the Clematis, or Traveller's Joy, and the Royal Fern; the pretty little Lapsana Communis, or Nipple-wort; a species of Smilax, or Sarsaparilla plant; a splendid Saxifrage, with extravagantly elongated inferior petals; a species of Mallow; the Comaram Palustre, or marsh Cinque-foil; a rosaceous plant with heath-like pinkish-white flowers; the Gladiolus, or Cornflag; and Wistaria, a shrub cultivated in all the Botanic gardens of Europe, being admirably adapted for training along walls, and producing an amazing display of crimson flowers.

At the height of 2,000 feet the character of the rock was entirely changed, being composed of micaceous shale and friable sand-stone grit. Here I seemed to be just within a few steps of the summit, when lo! following the path, and reaching the shoulder of the hill, height on height, like Alp on Alp, became apparent; their lofty peaks seemed as high above me as ever, with the cloud-rack resting on the grass. Here I found a specimen of the Stop-awhile Acacia, bristling with spines, which, however, are really abortive branches, like a hawthorn bush, and much more formidable, the spines being upwards of three inches in length and conical, thick and pointed, like Minie bullets. The branches have a curious tendency to convolution, or twisting inwards, upon themselves, and woe to the twig or brig that once gets within its stealthy coil! The shrub is as full of dead wood and withered branches as if it were the counterpart of Saturn, devouring its own children; while the graceful and delicate foliage above, contrasting with the contorted thorns below, suggest recollections of the Laocoon.

We observed a creeper with large cordate leaves, with no other means of attachment to the flint-faced rock than minute sucker-like fleshy bodies, which agglutinate themselves (so to speak) with the fibres of moss, gangermannia, and lichen growing beneath, and so float and grow, and grow and float, bound down, as it were, rather than rooted to the spot.

Here I found a variety of Alocasia of the Arum and Taro family, with a crown of thirteen ovate-lanceolate leaves, having long thread-like points, beautifully chequered culm and scape containing the inflorescence—the maturing pollen evolving palenpable heat at the time—the whole plant being about three feet high. Here, too, was a centiped, three inches long, marked with sixty-four pretty yellow bands, and as many articulations, each with two pairs of hooked feet on either side, the total number being 256. The native name corresponds with ours, "Peh choh tsung," or hundred-footed insect. A number of boys, out for a holiday, accompanied me in a search for the eggs of certain Gasterapodons Mollusca, and we collected about a dozen perfect miniatures of the egg of the common fowl, somewhat less than a garden pea in size.

Several inscriptions on the different Temples of the Dragon King are decipherable, though not very instructive. They run thus: "When the clouds gather, it will rain" (a very Delphic prediction); "the majestic spirit of the Dragon Deity will certainly influence the elements as you desire;" "may the rain spirit go abroad over the earth;" "may favouring gales blow under the whole Heavens;" "The mountain stream has a pleasant sound;" "The Dragon Grotto is the haunt of Genii," &c., &c. The Ribbon-grass, and Redmace grow luxuriantly up here; and we passed a delightful thicket of Chesnut copse, with Woodbine-box, and Barberry, and the lustrous Silver Birch. Among the plants we noticed the Enchanters Nightshade, the Nastertium or Indian Cress, the Mountain Fern, the Hymenophyllum, or Filmy Fern, and the Verbascum, or Flannel-plant. Two distinct species of Bamboo grow here; one, the woody branch species, which throws out a succession of leafy branches from opposite sides of the trunk at intervals of a foot, looks very graceful and feathery at a distance; the other, at present leafless, running up to a height of thirty feet, and as flexible as a fishing rod, with nothing but its beautiful green bark to indicate that it is living, produces the edible sprouts gathered at this season. The young shoots, growing in pairs above the rings of the trunk, are just beginning to show themselves, bursting their protective sheathes, the lowermost first. These sheathes are about a foot long, and adhere closely to the upper margin of the internode; when they have served their purpose they are forced off by the growing shoots.

In the green retreats of this bamboo grove I came upon a woodman's hut, formed of sticks and dry grass. His bed consisted of a layer of straw, laid upon some stones, and his only furniture was a flint and steel and some ignitable paper. Just outside the door, on the face of the cliffs, were three rough unhewn stones, erected tablet fashion, but without any inscription or image. A horizontal slab lay between, and, in front, were the remains of numerous incense sticks and the ashes of paper-money, burnt in honour of the Deity. Were these the offerings of some devout adorer of the Great Spirit, or was the worshipper merely chin-chinning the stones, or the hill where they are laid? The ancient Egyptians worshipped the garlic and the leek, and the Chinese worship the melon to this day. After sunset we observed some glowworms, which the natives at first took for the ghosts of the departed.

At eight next morning I started for the Loo San mountain, the highest point being 5,000 feet above the level of the river. I think there is no better travelling provision for pedestrians than cheese and bread, or biscuit and tea; it answered our purpose uncommonly well. We saw two varieties of the Chesnut, the Alder, Oak, Laburnum, Hawthorn, Hazel, Vaccinium, Wild Rose, and Portugal Laurel, and heard the flute-like note of the Hwang-choh, which may possibly be some variety of the canary. A fresh cool breeze blows on these heights, and we obtain a magnificent view of the narrow valley, from which we have ascended, and the great plain beyond, diversified by clusters of little mound-like green hills, and watered by innumerable rivulets, flowing on to the lakes below, and intersecting in their progress broad tracts of standing corn. At intervals, in the cloud-rack, we could trace the line of shore—Kiukiang with its foreign hongs, and, to the right, the fine seven-storied Pagoda. Like a great gleaming girdle, the river encloses the view and meets the distant horizon. Some of the peaks and heights beyond us are rugged and bare, but most of them are smoothly enamelled with herbage and shrubs; the projecting points of rock are formed of flint-stone and hard mica-schist. In a cave or hollow underneath an immense slab of gneiss we found four images carved in sandstone, but mutilated and overgrown with lichen. Two of them looked like helmeted warriors, with girdles and flowing robes. The features were long and oval, of an Indian rather than a Chinese type. A new head had been cut for one of these, and the new material contrasted badly with the old. The largest of the four was an image of Fuh or Buddha, about two feet in height. The features are long and oval, the ears large, and the hair long. He sits with one leg crossed over the other, and wearing a loose priest's robe with wide sleeves and open bosom, pantaloons, shoes, and a foliated crown with a miniature of the coming Buddha in the crest. Before him there are a stone trough, for incense sticks, and slips of stone bearing the inscription "When the rain does not come opportunely pray to Buddha."

We reached the bare summit of Cock's Head Mountain, so named from a peculiarly-shaped mass of rock, poised on a very narrow base, three hours and a half after we left the bungalow. There was no higher point within view, but we afterwards learned that we were still 1,000 feet below the highest point; across the farther valley, hidden in mist, lay the triple peak of Loo Shan.

We commenced the descent at noon, and, after some 500 feet we rashly forsook the beaten track for the course of the torrent, which we resolved to follow, hoping thus to make a short cut to the bungalow. But, like many other "short cuts," it proved a long one in the end and perilous in the extreme. The gorge presented the appearance of a miniature grove of shrubby Oak, Birch, and Chesnut, with Elder and Azalia bushes, Wild Rose, and Bramble, and a profusion of wild flowers. We noticed the Wistaria and Laburnum shrubs, the Senecio Speciosus, Corydalis or Yellow Fumitory, Ornithogallum or Star of Bethlehem, Greater Snapdragon, Potentilla Graticosa, Stellaria Graminea, Phaseolius Radiatus, and Actea Racemosa. Here we swung down a ledge of rocks, by the aid of some overhanging boughs, and quenched our thirst at a spring, from which, perhaps, mortal man never drank before. Here we found a four-square basin, into which pours water, as clear as crystal, over a natural breast-work of pure white marble. And here was a spotted snake, ten or twelve feet long, fondling and trying to rouse again to life the exanimate form of one of her young serpent brood. The water pours down a precipice of forty feet here, and we had to reclimb the hill, and descend again at a lower point with infinite labour and pains. At length we struck into the mountain path, and soon overtook some woodmen returning with their daily load, whom we followed to the bungalow, which we reached at 3.15 P.M., thoroughly used up with our exertions. In spite of our fatigue, however, we managed to return to Kiukiang the same evening, having thoroughly enjoyed our excursion, which is a delightful and inspiriting change from the monotony of Shanghai or Hankow in the spring or autumn of the year. The temperature is at all times eight or nine degrees lower than at those cities of the plain, and the district offers a field of exploration and observation to the botanist and the geologist which is probably unsurpassed in China.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

(DAILY NEWS.)

Accounts from China continue to inform us that a feeling of the greatest insecurity exists and is spreading among the Europeans in all parts of the country. It is reported that the natives are everywhere assuming an insolent and menacing attitude towards them. The hostility of the populace is easily traceable to the machinations of the Mandarins. Those who are most competent to form an opinion on the subject do not hesitate to regard these facts as the premonitory symptoms of approaching violence on a large scale. In some quarters, indeed, serious apprehensions are expressed that the Chinese are meditating a general rising against the foreign communities in their midst. It is said that the Government, elated at the progress recently made by its troops, under European instruction, in the arts of war, imagines itself now to be quite a match for the "Outside Barbarians.' It is, consequently, no longer at any pains to conceal its hatred and contempt for them, and does not consider it worth while to take the simplest steps to protect them from insult, and even outrage, on the part of its subjects. At the various settlements and Treaty Ports, the British and other European residents are busily preparing for their defence. After the massacre at Tientsin it is only prudent that they should hold themselves in readiness for the worst. They know not when or on what excuse a similar crime may be attempted against themselves. At Shanghai, Hankow, and other centres of trade they are arming and forming themselves into regiments, and a portion of our squadron in the China seas has been ordered up the river Peiho.

At the same time it is possible that in the end all this alarm may turn out to be groundless. Communications from Peking tend more and more to prove that the murder of the French Consul, Priests, and Sisters of Mercy at Tientsin was the result of special hostility towards them, and not of any general hostility towards foreigners and foreign intervention. It has been the policy of the French in China to isolate themselves as much as practicable in their intercourse with the native authorities from the other nations officially represented in the Empire. Even at Shanghai they have refused to unite with the rest of the foreign community, and have established a settlement of their own with a distinct municipal organisation. They have always been careful to impress their national individuality on the Chinese, and the perpetrators of the Tientsin massacre seem fully to have recognised it. After the tragedy had been concluded, we hear that bands of ruffians went round the city seizing all the foreigners and Christians they could meet with, and carrying them before the local magistrates. As soon as it was ascertained that they were neither French nor connected with the French mission, they were released without further molestation. But even with regard to the French, the Imperial Government has indicated, we are told, extreme anxiety to avoid a collision. Officials of eminence have been sent to the missionaries belonging to the Peitang, or North Cathedral, to assure them of their security. The resolution to despatch Chung How, the Superintendent of Trade, who is supposed to have been implicated in the Tientsin riot, on the projected embassy of apology to France, has been adopted for the purpose of punishing him. Instead of accepting his appointment as a compliment, he is rumoured to have been so unwilling to take it as to have committed suicide in preference. In the capital itself extraordinary measures have been adopted to maintain order. The foreign Ministers have been given to understand that a large force has been summoned to the city for their protection and that of their countrymen; and sufficient confidence is placed in these representations to have induced them to remain there, at all events for the present. But beyond its own immediate vicinity the Government at Peking has little practical authority. As far as the remoter portions of his dominions are concerned, the "Brother of the Moon" might just as well be residing on the surface of his celestial relative as where he now resides. At Tientsin the Prefect did not scruple to issue a proclamation which he knew would be displeasing to the Imperial Government, and which served as a direct incentive to the calamitous outbreak which followed. The kidnapping of children is one of the commonest of Chinese offences. Either to entice or carry away girls and boys with the object of selling them as slaves, or worse, if not a recognised, is at least a lucrative trade in China. Besides this, it is said the hearts, eyes, and other parts of children are the bases of some of the most valuable and efficacious preparations in the Chinese Pharmacopœia. It cannot be doubted that the French Sisters of Mercy were, with the connivance of the French Consul, in the habit, not indeed of stealing, but of purchasing children, and, not improbably, from persons who had stolen them. One great secret of the success of the Catholic propagandists in China has invariably been the facility with which they have conformed to the native customs, and the ingenuity with which they have incorporated Chinese superstitions, and sanctified them by a union, with their own. "The wise and broad views of the Jesuits," we are reminded by no mean authority, "permitted the worship of Heaven, the worship of Confucius, and the worship of the dead as pardonable, nay, as salutary appendages to Christian doctrine." It is not, therefore, surprising if the Chinese should have drawn the inference that in other things, including medicine, Catholic usage was not wholly dissimilar to their own. This suspicion gained ground, and gradually became a conviction when it was discovered that the missionaries were particularly desirous of obtaining possession of children who were on the point of death. We know that they were zealous to bring their souls formally within the fold of the Church. The Chinese, however, thought that they procured their bodies for chemical manipulation in the laboratory. This injurious prejudice led to the catastrophe which we all deplore. But under the circumstances it is difficult to perceive how it could have been avoided.

If it could be reasonably supposed that there is any real danger of an effort by the Chinese to expel or extirpate Europeans from amongst them, the duty of Great Britain and the other civilised Powers interested would be plain, and distinct enough. As for missionaries, whether Catholic or Protestant, they go out among the heathen on their own responsibility, with their lives in their hands, and if their pious labours should be rewarded with the crown of martyrdom, it is no more than they expect, or perhaps desire. Of course, as preachers of the Gospel of peace, they would be the last to wish that their fate should be made the pretext for further bloodshed. But ministers and merchants stand on a wholly different footing. They are in China from less exalted but, by the worldly, much more easily appreciated motives. Their safety is guaranteed by the Governments they represent, or to which they still owe allegiance. Their security is stipulated by treaties which we are bound to support—by diplomacy if it may be—but if not by diplomacy, then with the strong arm.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

The proceedings of the British Association at Liverpool have attracted to that great centre of commerce an unusual gathering of savans. On the 17th instant there was a soiree in connection with the meeting of the Association, given by the Mayor of Liverpool, at which about 1,500 persons attended. Fine pictures, choice china, antique gems were exhibited in absolute profusion on the occasion; but the great attraction was a display of Japanese enamels, kindly lent and arranged for the occasion by Mr. J. L. Bowes, and that are without parallel. The genuine Japanese work seems to be not only unknown to European collectors, but to be unknown even to those who have lived in the country and studied its art. There are but three specimens in the South Kensington Museum, and the manufacture is not even referred to in Siebold's great work on Japan. The collection consists of sixty-two pieces, and comprises a great variety of articles, large and small. There are vases, dishes, cups, plates, teapots, a kettle, and many other things, nearly every one of which must have been the result of a life of labour. The basis is in all cases of copper, and on this a pattern of exquisite fineness, and generally of much elegance, has been formed by soldering gold wire to the surface. Into the little cups or hollows thus made the enamel pastes have been deposited, and then burnt in, and the surface finally polished to perfect smoothness.

BISHOPS IN CHINA.

A disagreement has taken place between the Bishop of Victoria (Hong Kong), who is now in England, and the Church Missionary Society, the latter of whom have been seeking powers to bring about a division of episcopal jurisdiction in China, whereby it was proposed to place clergymen unconnected with the Church Missionary Society under the episcopal rule of one of their missionaries, to be consecrated for the purpose. Such a course the Bishop of Victoria thinks would be so objectionable to chaplains, and to many influential laymen in North China, that he could not be a party to the measure. The matter is to be referred to the Primate. The gentleman selected for the proposed new bishopric is the Rev. W. A. Russell, M.A., who has been stationed at Ningpo. We understand that Bishop Alford has endeavoured, but unsuccessfully, to obtain a decision in the matter from the Foreign-office. The division of episcopal jurisdiction is, in our opinion, wholly unnecessary, and if carried out will—considering the preponderating missionary element among the clergy in China—reduce the present bishop practically to a nonentity.

EARTHQUAKE AT BATANG.—The Calcutta correspondent of The Times writes:—The Roman Catholic Bishop at Batang, on the confines of Thibet, China, and Burmah, sends to India a terrible account of an earthquake in that region affecting an area of 180 by 90 miles. The event occurred on the 11th of April, and his last letter is dated the 30th of May. Considering that the missionaries there can communicate only by Shanghai, the transit of the letters has been rapid. Last year, it may be remembered, there was a very destructive earthquake in the, in one sense, adjoining British district of Cachar. A shock at five in the morning and a stronger shock at noon were followed at sunset by an earthquake which levelled the whole town and killed or bruised half the population. The missionaries escaped to their garden, and only one of their servants perished. The "large and splendid" Lamaserai, inhabited by 3,000 Lamas, fell with a crash. The Chinese official reports, which Dr. Chauveau tells us are a little exaggerated, estimate the loss of human life at 413 Lama priests, 57 soldiers, and 2,812 "common people." A series of earthquake shocks were felt as far as Pung-mon-tang, the place at which Mr. T. T. Cooper met Seer Suggut Sing, the Nepaulese Ambassador, in 1868. The village and many others are destroyed, and so many of the authorities and the soldiers have been buried under the ruins of their houses that "robbers, like wild beasts, run everywhere." To conclude in the Bishop's own words, "the Imperial highway from Peking to Lhassa seems, and is said to be now, totally impracticable near Kong-dze-tin by the fall of a mountain and the sudden upheaving of a new one."

LAUNCH OF THE "TRENT."—The London and Glasgow Engineering and Iron Shipbuilding Company have launched from their yard at Govan a screw steamer of 1,500 tons, and of the following dimensions:—Length, 252 feet; breadth, 32 feet; depth of hold, 16 feet. She is built to the order of Messrs. J. A. Dunkerley and Co., Hull, is to be fitted by the builders with machinery of the most improved construction for economising fuel, and will be commodiously and comfortably fitted up for a limited number of passengers. The ceremony of naming the vessel the Trent was performed by Miss Fowler, daughter of Captain Fowler, senior captain of Messrs. Dunkerley and Co.'s fleet. We believe this vessel is intended for the India and China trade, via the Suez Canal.

THE Donegal, screw line-of-battle ship, under the command of Capt H. P. Miller, recently promoted to post rank from the command of the Salamis, despatch paddle steamer, arrived at Portsmouth on the 24th inst. from China, with officers, seamen, and marines on board who have been serving in several of Her Majesty's ships in the Chinese and Japanese seas. They have been paid off and recommissioned at Hong Kong during the past summer, and comprise 142 officers, 151 marines, 950 seamen, and 21 invalids. The ships in which they have been serving consist of the Ocean (flagship), Cormorant, Zebra, Rinaldo, Icarus, Leven, Banterer, Starling, Firm, Algerine, Salamis, and Princess Charlotte. The Donegal sailed from Hong Kong for England on the 24th of May, calling in at the Cape of Good Hope on the 2nd of August, and at St. Helena on the 15th of August. Five deaths occurred on board during the voyage.

FROM Ceylon we learn that the Government is about to establish a good Pali library, and in this they have the co-operation of Mr. James D'Alwis, who has collected a large number of MSS., and who has in the press a catalogue in two volumes.

WE are informed that a grammar of the Siamese language is to be published at Bangkok, by J. T. Jones, D.D., for many years a resident in that country.

THE LAW'S DELAY IN APPEAL CASES.

YET another voice reaches us—this time from Ceylon—complaining of the intolerable injury inflicted by the "law's "delay" in the hearing of appellate cases. Mr. THOMAS DICKSON writes from Strathearn House, Crieff, to the editor of the Ceylon Observer, exposing the grievous injustice which Her MAJESTY'S Indian and Colonial subjects labour under, in what he pithily describes as the "dead-lock in appeals to the QUEEN in Council." This gentleman is one of the sufferers alluded to in the leading articles on this subject, which appeared in The Times early in July. In his present letter he states the astounding fact that he is compelled to wait until three hundred and fifty cases are disposed of before any appeal from Ceylon can be listened to. Even after reaching that Ultima Thule of redress or rectification, Mr. DICKSON does not say that his cause stands first or early on the Cingalese list. We may judge then what will be the fate of others who have the misfortune to be engaged in litigation more recent than his, and whose final appeals are therefore not likely to be heard until another batch of—say 350—cases may have accrued. We feel it our duty, even in the midst of anxieties so momentous as the war which is convulsing Europe, and the disturbances which threaten the vitality of our national and commercial relations with China, to give all the publicity which our circulation commands to an injustice so pregnant with evil, and a cause of suffering so easily remedied. Bis dat qui cito dat is a maxim which, if applicable to any necessity, is trebly applicable to the demand for justice. That the "law's delay" was wisely included among the greatest calamities "that flesh is heir to" it needed not the authority of SHAKESPEARE to confirm. Which of us has not, at some time or other in his life, been dragged into litigation of which the one desideratum was the end? Which of us has not felt that, in the very fact of the possibility of appeal, lay the seeds of ultimate unjust triumph? Which of us has not felt that a good cause needs nothing but honest evidence and patient cross-examination, to elicit the truth—that the "law's delay," or (to put the case more ad rem) the "dead-lock" in appeal, means the tampering with witnesses, their impairment of memory, even their removal by death?

Economy is the watchword of our present Government. But "economy," if it is understood by the Premier (as who shall say of the translator of HOMER that it is not?), is not so well understood by the Liberal constituencies which so persistently press upon him and his colleagues the reduction of the number of judges below the requirements of a continually expanding Empire. They have their County Courts, where they can settle their disputes, if not amicably at least promptly. They know nothing of the carking care of protracted litigation, the disquiet of the mind, the unhinging of the faculties, the loss of opportunity, the "wear and tear" consequent on an appeal to an earthly Court of Justice, which borrows for itself the title of "Supreme." Our object in writing thus is simply to draw the attention of our readers in all parts of the Far East to the grievous injuries under which they labour, in common with brother-colonists everywhere, in the undue, inexplicable, and inexcusable withholding of justice, by which estates are ruined, families impoverished, and suitors "killed off" under the party-cry of "retrenchment." Justice delayed is justice denied. Increase, then, the number of the counsellors who have the decision of cases under appeal, so far at least that justice may be not only wise but prompt. The consideration of this object, beneficial to all alike, is not unworthy to engage the attention of Chambers of Commerce throughout the East, and to them we commend it. So glaring an illustration of the iniquity of the present system, as is disclosed by Mr. DICKSON'S letter, they could scarcely be prepared for.

THE MAILS.

WE understand that the directors of the Messageries Nationales, late Messageries Imperiales, intend to maintain their fortnightly service to India and China. The POSTMASTER-GENERAL has announced that correspondence by these packets should be posted on Wednesday instead of Friday, owing to the detention now caused in the transit to Marseilles by Tours instead of Paris. This is simply a precautionary step, and is not, of course, to be taken as positive. The mails by the P. and O. steamers will be despatched as usual on Friday, and may probably be three days en route, the steamer being detained the necessary time. The outward mail of 16th inst. (French) was despatched on that day, and it is not known at what time it reached Marseilles, owing to the uncertain state of communication. The inward mail arrived on Monday, the 19th (the due date), the P. and O. steamer having arrived at Marseilles some twenty-four hours before her time, which counterbalanced the increased time of transit to London. The last mails via Brindisi, due on 17th, did not arrive until the 20th, having to take the Brenner Pass and German lines to Munich, Brussels, and Ostend, instead of the Mont Cenis and Paris route. Outward correspondence by Brindisi should be posted on Wednesday, instead of Saturday, morning. We may also mention that the P. and O. steamers, from Southampton, will, for the present, call off Lisbon, to land mails, owing to the stoppage of the route through France. Our communication with Paris is still maintained by circuitous routes, but the time varies from thirty to sixty hours. The delay is occasioned, not only by the transit of troops and stores, but also by cut lines On the 19th and 20th no letters or papers were received from Paris. The wires are equally uncertain.

TELEGRAPHIC EXTENSIONS.

MR. HENRY C. FORDE, of the firm of FORDE and CLARK, engineers to the British Indian Extension Telegraph Company and British Australian Telegraph Company, proceeds by the present mail to Batavia, accompanied by his assistant, Mr. FRANK LAMBERT, via Brindisi, for the purpose of superintending the laying of the cables between Batavia and Singapore, and thence to Penang and Madras. It has been decided to lay the cables in this manner, in order to secure the finest weather for crossing the Bay of Bengal. The first section, from Batavia to Singapore, on board the Hibernia, is about 580 knots, and weighs over 2,000 tons; and the laying will probably commence in the first week in November. The second section is on board the William Cory and Scanderia, about 800 knots, and weighing over 2,500 tons. This will probably reach to the Nicobar Islands, and the remaining portion, to reach Madras, about 1,000 knots and 1,700 tons weight, is on board the Edinburgh. It is expected that she will arrive at Madras before the end of December. Assuming that this will be successfully accomplished, our telegraphic communication with Hong Kong will then be reduced to six days. This gap will be completed next year, the cable being now under construction.

THE TIENTSIN OUTRAGES.

The leaders in the daily papers upon the outrages at Tientsin are unanimous in demanding prompt action and redress from the Chinese Government, not excluding The Times. This is a great satisfaction, and it seems that the weight of the correspondence which they have published is so overwhelming that they have been constrained at last to advocate our rights. It is of the highest importance that our bearing towards China should be firm. We must not forget that it was the prestige of our arms in China which enabled Lord ELGIN to negotiate a peaceful treaty with Japan, and the Japanese are now watching our proceedings in China with great interest. There can be no doubt whatever that if we submit to indignities from China we may prepare to do so in Japan.

THE BLUE-BOOK ON JAPAN.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

The summaries given by Sir Harry S. Parkes, Her Majesty's Consul General, show, by comparing the transactions of 1869 with those of 1868, an increase in 1869 in foreign imports of more than $2,000,000, and a decrease in Japanese exports of nearly $9,000,000. This disparity between the import and export trade has however been balanced by the exportation to foreign countries of Japanese coin as bullion to the amount, it is estimated, of $10,000,000. If these bullion dealings and the sale of vessels at the various ports, amounting to about $1,500,000, be taken into account, the total transactions of 1869 will be found to correspond closely in amount to those of 1868. A summary of the movements of foreign shipping in Japan shows a very considerable increase both in British shipping and that of all other countries, the former having advanced from 192,815 tons in 1868 to 398,264 tons in 1869, or an increase of 205,449 tons, and the latter having advanced from 389,581 tons in 1868 to 645,141 tons in 1869, or an increase of 255,560 tons.

These summaries of Sir Harry Parkes are supplemented by lucid reports from the five Consulates under his jurisdiction. Consul Lowder, writing from Yokohama (which the Government, ignoring commercial usage and popular advancement, persist in still calling by its effete name, Kanagawa), reports a falling off in the direct import and export trade of that principal port, from and to Great Britain and other countries, of about $8,000,000. This decrease arises from the exports alone, the imports representing a value of about $250,000 more than those of 1868. But, though smaller, Mr. Consul Lowder reports the trade of 1869 to have been, on the whole, surer than in the previous year. The consumption of yarn increased from 36,000 to 51,000 piculs; and in shirtings there were 527,834 pieces imported in 1869, against 519,156 pieces in 1868. Camlets, formerly a staple, appear to have gone entirely out of fashion, while business in blankets, fancy goods, metals and arms was mostly of an unremunerative nature. A marked, increase in the demand and price of such articles as Saigon rice, China cotton, oil, &c., was perceptible during the last three months. The import of sugar and sugar candy increased $200,000. Taffachelass, an article manufactured chiefly in Switzerland in former years, was always saleable. Among exports, there was a great falling off in silk and tea, though, if the returns had been compiled in June, at the end of which month the tea and silk seasons commence, Mr. Lowder thinks that the season 1869-70 would not compare unfavourably with that of 1868-9. Supplies of silkworms' eggs reached the market much later than the year before, and, in total, have been only 1,400,000 cards, against 2,100,000. The export of tea shows a great falling off—only 8,601,299 lbs., against, 1868, 11,598,734 lbs. The season has, however, been satisfactory as to quality, and the Japanese have obtained at least 25 per cent. over prices of the previous year. The shipping returns show an immense increase, but this cannot be taken as showing a proportionate increase in the trade of the port, a large proportion of vessels having left in ballast.

Mr. Consul Gower reports from Hiogo and Osaka that, having found the Custom-house data unreliable, the tables which, with the assistance of Mr. Acting Vice-Consul Ainslie, he has been able to compile can only be regarded as approximate returns. Exports might have been better had the natives been prepared to meet foreign demands; the only article worth noting is tea, which has greatly increased, and will doubtless become the principal export at these ports. The increase of imports in 1869 amounts to $345,792, not including treasure. Exports show an increase of $427,578 to England and other countries, and a decrease of no less than $634,969 to open ports in Japan. Mr. Consul Gower adds that the foreign settlement of Hiogo bids fair to become one of the best in the Far East, notwithstanding the attempt of the local Government to monopolise the whole of the foreign and native trade.

Mr. Acting-Consul Annesley reports from Nagasaki an increase in imports of $913,142, and a decrease in exports (including vessels sold) of $625,868. The fluctuations in the value of native currency have injuriously affected the trade of this port. Its continued depreciation during the past year has resulted in such an uncertainty as to the rate at which remittances could be made, that shippers used to the regular course of operations in other ports of the East now look with considerable distrust upon the result of their ventures to Nagasaki. Instead, therefore, of encouraging direct shipments from Europe, the merchant here can only draw his supplies from the nearer ports in China for such goods as, at the time being, are in special demand in Nagasaki. He must do so also in the certainty that, unless early in the field, the same demands of his labours, especially those of his Chinese competitors, who can do the same work so much cheaper than himself, will speedily bring an over supply of the goods in request, and swamp a market which at best is a very limited one.

Mr. Consul Eusden reports from Hakodadi a considerable increase in British and foreign shipping, especially steamers. The total imports show an increase of £129,440, and the exports of £123,651. Mr. Eusden regrets that he is unable to furnish any information on the subject of the manufacture of paper, only inferior specimens of which, imported from other ports, were procurable by him.

The list of returns is closed by Mr. Acting Consul Troup, of Nee-e-gata, who reports that the only trade that Nee-e gata has enjoyed during the past year—the first of its existence as an open port—has been with other open ports of Japan. No ship has as yet visited this place coming from any foreign country direct; and even the coasting trade with the other ports has not been a large one. The state of the import trade generally in Japan, and in particular the want of confidence in the matter of the currency, rendered mercantile people shy of venturing on the uncertain field of a new port. Consequently, no British merchant has settled here during the past year, and but few of other nationalities. At the end of the year there were, exclusive of a few Chinamen in the employment of Europeans, only seventeen foreign residents here, all told, of whom some ten or twelve were engaged in trade, almost all of them Germans or Dutchmen. Comparatively small consignments of imports have been sent here, and the export trade has been still smaller. The state of the currency must be put down as the principal cause of the depressed state of trade during the past year. Nevertheless, the total value of goods imported from other countries which have been brought into the district during the past year, both by sea and overland, may be safely estimated at over $1,300,000, or £292,000 sterling. The export of rice was insignificant, owing to its being checked by the authorities; but silkworms' eggs were exported to the extent of some 30,000 cards, and will undoubtedly become an important article of export, as this port is near to many of the districts where they are produced.

The Globe, in an article upon the subject, says:—The Trade Reports of Her Majesty's Consul in Japan furnish us with considerable information as to the financial struggles through which that empire has passed during the last few years. The commencement of its difficulties was contemporary with the opening of the country to foreign trade. Having been completely isolated for centuries from the rest of the world, and having no other use for the precious metals than converting them into coin—the Japanese do not use jewellery or plate of any kind—it was not very unnatural to find that the intrinsic value of the coin in circulation in Japan was far in excess of its nominal value. As may readily be imagined, when foreign merchants were admitted by treaty into this land of financial innocence they were not long in discovering the fact, and hence arose so vast an exportation of the native coin as to threaten a speedy exhaustion of the currency. While this difficulty was pressing the Shiogoon's Government sorely, it was called upon to pay large sums as indemnities to foreigners, as well as to provide the sinews of war within its own borders. Under this accumulation of pressing calls, the Shiogoon's advisers resorted to the expedient of issuing a debased currency with which to pay their debts, thus spreading over the country what may be called a forced loan. Even these coins, however, were intrinsically valuable enough to be a profitable article of export; and to such an extent was the trade in coin carried that a recent Californian paper states that a Japanese nobleman on his way to Europe "was shown the process of running his country's coin into silver bars, the weight of the particular melting being three tons." It was after the issue of this inferior coin that the present or Mikado's Government came into power, and, being in even greater straits then its predecessor, at once followed its example, and put in circulation a very inferior silver coin, and largely debased an enormous issue of nibus—a mixed coin of gold and silver—by reducing the amount of gold in each coin by about one fourth. This, however, did not meet the emergency, and it was determined to issue a paper currency known as kinsats. The first issue amounted to the value of 32,000,000 rios—each rio is worth about 6s. 6d.—which amount it was announced would be lent to daimios, towns, merchants, and farmers at the low rate of 10 per cent.; 13,000,000, however, were alone taken up, and the Government found it necessary to put in circulation a further issue of 14,000,000 rios on its own account. This had the effect of sending the paper down to 50 per cent. discount. Then were evidenced the remarkable power possessed by the Government over the people, and the people's confidence in their rulers. A decree was issued forbidding speculation in the kinsats, and ordering that they should be taken in exchange for commodities at par, at the same time promising that the later issue should, during the next three years, be converted into Exchequer Bonds bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. The effect of this decree was that the kinsats not only went up to par, but even reached as much as 10 per cent. premium. Not content with these various monetary experiments, the Japanese Government has, as we know, come into the London market for a loan, and has thus within some dozen twelvemonths run through a series of financial experiences such as have rarely fallen to the lot of any other nation in as many scores of years.

Monetary and Commercial.

The P. and O. steamer Australia, which left Southampton on the 17th, proceeds by the Suez Canal, taking about one thousand tons of Manchester goods, &c., at £5 for the Straits and China, and £6 for Japan.

The large amount of silver received from India by the last overland mail (£400,000) has been disposed of. The price obtained for the rupees was 59⅜d. per oz., and for the bar silver 60⅜d.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £293,200; Bombay, £100,000; and Madras, £6,800. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10d. on all the Presidencies; and tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 10½d. will receive about 33 per cent., and on Bombay at that price about 38 per cent. These results show a slight diminution in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

The telegrams from Japan, via San Francisco, report the failure of a leading English firm, and also a German house.

We understand that Mr. J. M. Rainbow, who is now in London, has made the necessary arrangements for taking the estate of Rainbow, Lewis, and Co., Nagasaki, out of bankruptcy, and the documents for this purpose have gone out to Japan.

The following is a statement of exports for the six months The subjoined table shows the manner in which our shipments are distributed, the respective countries being placed in the order in which they rank to us as customers. Of the aggregate of £97,109,108, about 26 per cent. was to our own possessions, nearly all of them, with the exception of Australia, showing a considerable improvement. Among foreign countries, the United States have regained the head of the list, from which during the preceding two or three years they were displaced by Germany. France has continued the great movement which has been apparent ever since the inauguration of a more free commercial policy by the Emperor Napoleon. She now occupies the third place, and her trade with us is half as much as that of America. Holland is the next country of importance. Turkey and Egypt, which come next, figure advantageously; but the stride on the part of Egypt has been so much greater than that of Turkey as to cause her this year to take the lead of her suzerain. With China there has been a falling off, while Japan continues to improve her position. Russia, again, shows a satisfactory increase, and the same is the case with Belgium, Spain, and Portugal. Italy shows a partial relapse from the large advance obtained last year. As regards the South American States, Chili, the Argentine Republic, and Peru figure respectively for strong improvement; but Brazil has fallen back from the recovery of 1869. Mexico and Venezuela continue to show the decline natural to dishonest and anarchical communities:—

The P. and O. steamer Pera has brought £563,633 in specie. This amount is understood to include about £160,000 in gold from Japan, whence further large remittances are expected. Of the recent Japanese Railway Loan of £1,000,000 a total of £700,000 was despatched hence to that country, and from the sums now being sent back it would appear there may be some foundation for a rumour lately current that the contract had led to dispute, and that the money would be returned.

The following message relative to the British-Indian Submarine Telegraph Company's Cable in the Red Sea was received on the 24th instant from the manager at Alexandria:—"Suez has not spoken to Aden since 1.50 A.M. this morning. Electrician has gone to test. Fault supposed near Suez." The steamships Scanderia and William Cory, now in the Suez Canal, have been ordered to repair damages. We believe that no difficulty is anticipated in effecting the repair, the accident having occurred in shallow water, and being caused most probably by anchorage. Meantime an announcement is made by Sir James Anderson, the managing director, that no message for India can at present be accepted. The fault in the cable is understood to have occurred about ninety miles from Suez, not far from Zafarana Point, where the splice was effected between the portion laid in the Red Sea and the shore section laid from Suez. The repair will probably be completed this week, the two steamers, Scanderia and William Cory, which were on the way to Madras and Singapore with parts of the British-Indian Extension Cable, having fortunately not left Suez when the accident happened. We understand that the duplicate cable for the Anglo-Mediterranean Company is now ready for shipment, and that it will be despatched from this country on the 7th proximo, so as to be submerged before the close of the month. It is of the greatest importance to the mercantile community that this work should be completed soon, the traffic on the existing line having quite outgrown the capacity of one cable.

At the meeting of the proprietors of the National Bank of India (Limited), held on the 27th inst., the directors' report was adopted. The net profit realised up to the end of the half-year was only £273, making a total of £6,865, including £6,591 brought forward. In anticipation of more favourable results during the current six months, an ad interim dividend was declared at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum. It is proposed to deal with the loss referred to in the last annual report, amounting to £5,650, when closing the accounts for the year.

The intermediate report of the directors of the Agra Bank (Limited) announces that the net profits of the working of the bank for the half-year ending June have amounted to a sum sufficient to pay a dividend to the shareholders at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum, but that, owing chiefly to the war on the Continent and the subsequent fall in the prices of produce, it is deemed prudent to confine the distribution to an intermediate dividend at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum, carrying over the surplus to the credit of the present half-year.

The Pacific mail steamer America, which arrived at San Francisco on the 12th inst., brought 14,612 packages of tea and 269 bales silk for New York; of this quantity 441 packages of tea and 90 bales silk were to be forwarded overland and the remaining portion by steamer.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

During the past few days the improvement noticed in our last has continued, and sales made fully confirm the advance then quoted. The Taeping, from Canton, is reported off the coast. Foochow Congous: In siftings, dust and broken leaf, there is not any alteration to report, common and good common to fair has been well inquired for at 10½d. to 1s. 0½d. per lb., which prices fully confirm last quotations; in new Teas of medium grade only a few sales have been made, ranging from 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6½d. per lb.; fine has been in demand at 1s. 10d. to 2s. per lb, but very scarce. Black Leaf Congous: Common to fair may be quoted at 10½d. to 1s. 0½d. per lb. Few Teas of new import have been placed on the market, but prices may be considered fully equal to those last quoted. A small parcel of finest has realised 2s. 8d. per lb. Tayshan Congous: A few chops of "old Tea" have been shown, but no sales reported. Souchongs and Oolongs are unchanged. In Scented Teas we have no sales to report; samples ex "Taeping" are looked for in a few days. Green Teas: The fine to finest grades are still taken at full prices, and the lower sorts for the present neglected.

SILK.

Immediately following our last report 30s. was offered and refused for No. 3 Tsatlees. Since then the market has been less active, though there is no quotable difference in price; a fair demand exists for medium to common Tsatlees at 25s. to 25s. 6d. In other classes of Silks there is no change.

COFFEE.

The tone of the market continues quiet, and a large supply of Plantation Ceylon brought forward at the public sales has gone off slowly, at easier prices; Native Ceylon has also sold, at some decline from the prices lately current. The prices realised were as follows:—Plantation triage, 35s. 6d. to 51s. 6d.; small gray, 53s. to 54s. 6d.; middling grey, 57s. to 58s. 6d.; bold ditto, 62s. 6d. to 66s.; small coloury, 55s. to 59s. 6d.; middling ditto, 59s. to 64s. 6d.; good middling, 65s. to 69s.; fine middling to good bold, 69s. 6d. to 80s. 6d.; pea-berry, 70s. to 78s. 6d.; Native: good bold, 50s.; small, 40s. 6d.; pea-berry, 51s. 6d.; good ordinary, 47s. No business has been transacted in other East India.

The deliveries, although less than in the previous week, are again of good extent, and exceed those of last year by nearly 300 tons, the landings are 870 tons less, and instead of the previous surplus in the stock a diminution of 430 tons is created. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation 204,591 cwt., against 139,691 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 10,728 cwt., against 34,937 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 2,402 cwt. Plantation, against 1,167 cwt., and 3,136 cwt. Native, against 2,701 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-eight weeks ended Sept. 24, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 28,842 tons, against 29,695 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 49,893 tons, against 55,101 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 7,720 tons, against 8,123 tons; of all descriptions, 13,781 tons, against 13,964 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 21,429 tons, against 19,568 tons; of all descriptions, 34,691 tons, against 34,281 tons. The stock on Sept. 24 was, of Ceylon, 13,557 tons, against 12,999 tons; of all descriptions, 25,640 tons, against 26,076 tons.

We learn by telegram from Holland that the September sale of the Dutch Trading Company was held yesterday, at which 115,600 bags Java, &c., were offered and nearly all sold, common at about the valuations, the better qualities at ¾ to 1¼ cents above, good ordinary realising 32 to 32¼ cents.

SUGAR.

The dull tone lately apparent in the market continues, and the business done has been very limited. No supplies of East India kinds have been brought forward at the public sales, and the private business has been confined to the purchase of 1,600 bags brown Manila at 20s. per cwt., and 100 tons unclayed Zebu at 18s.

Compared to the very large landings in the corresponding week last year, those in the present are only about one-half, or fully 5,000 tons less, and as the deliveries maintain last week's improvement, being 1,300 tons more than last year, the surplus in the stock is again importantly reduced, being now only 12,500 tons. The home deliveries are not quite equal to those of the previous week, although a larger quantity of British West India has been taken, the falling off being chiefly in Manila. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-eight weeks ended Sept. 24, 1870, was—of Penang, 2,277 tons, against 2,779 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 15,173 tons, against 25,633 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 1,677 tons, against 1,942 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 19,536 tons, against 13,588 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 95 tons, against 136 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 2,031 tons, against 1,036 tons. The stock on Sept. 24 was, of Penang, 2,835 tons, against 1,030 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 29,396 tons, against 39,573 tons.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Ceylon is still in active request at the last quoted rates, viz.—in pipes £38, in hogsheads £39 10s. The quantity of Ceylon afloat is estimated at 19,379 cwt, against 21,688 cwt. in 1869, and 17,359 cwt. in 1868.

CUTCH.—There have been no transactions; an offer of 56 bags and 20 cases of very low quality was bought in at 10s. per cwt.

EBONY.—We note the sale of 21 logs Ceylon at £10 2s. 6d.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—In auction 320 baskets 37 bags really fine genuine, per Ajax, were offered and bought in at 3s. 9d.; also 112 baskets received overland, good to fine at 2s. 6d. to 3s. per lb.

HEMP.—The market continues quiet, but the sale has been effected of about 750 bales Manila, fair roping to fine Boluzan, at £53 10s. to £56 per ton.

INDIA-RUBBER.—During the last few days there has been an active demand for medium kinds, and a general advance has been obtained, large sales having been effected, the latest price paid for Borneo being 1s. 7½d.

PEPPER.—Black: The market is moderately active at previous rates to a slight advance; on the spot business has been done in both Singapore and Penang at 5d. to 5½d.; afloat 3,600 bags Penang have been sold at 4 13-16d., and 500 bags ditto near at hand at 4¾d. White: There have been no transactions.

RICE.—The enquiry on the spot continues limited, but for floating cargoes there is a fair demand, and prices show some advance; on the spot 2,019 bags white Bengal were offered and bought in, fine, 13s., medium to good medium, 11s. to 11s. 6d.; the floating cargo per Gloucestershire, 1,630 tons Necransie, has been sold at 9s. 9d. continental terms; the cargo per B. D. Metcalf, 1,620 tons Necransie Arracan, sold at 9s. 9d. for the Continent, E contract. At the close there are advices of cargoes amounting to about 27,000 tons soft grain having arrived off coast, and the demand is therefore less active. Landed last week, 2,813 tons; delivered (exclusive of the quantity ex ship), 1,931 tons; stock 36,302 tons, against 45,177 tons at this time last year.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: 6 bales Ceylon sold at 1s. 2d. to 2s. Cinnamon Chips: 75 bags ordinary Ceylon sold at 1¾d. to 2d. Cloves: 20 cases Penang of old import sold, fine, 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 1¾d.; fair, 1s. 0¼d. to 1s. 0¾d. Nutmegs: In auction, 71 cases Penang of old importation met a good demand, and 57 cases sold at firmer rates, fine bold, 69 nuts to the lb, at 3s. 6d.; 73's, at 2s. 11d.; 84's to 82's, at 2s. 4d. to 2s. 6¼d.; 93's, at 2s. 2d. to 2s. 3d.; 112's, at 1s. 11d. 12 casks Java, 76's, sold at 1s. 11½d. Mace: 4 cases middling Penang bought in at 3s. 3d.; of 22 cases ordinary Singapore, the sound portion sold previous to the auction at 2s. 9d., and the mouldy thereat at 2s. 6d.

TIN.—Straits is steady, business having been done at £124 to £124 10s.; Banca is lower; 5 tons sold at £123, and 1,000 slabs ex next sale at £119 to £120 per ton.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's Circular:—Since the date of our last, sales are reported to the extent of 22,150 packages Green (including 8,500 boxes new crop Pingsuey), 6,700 half-chests Japan (including 2,400 from second hands), 9,350 packages Oolong (including 1,400 new crop Tamsuey), and 900 half-chests Souchong. Prices realised for these, as a whole, indicate no material change in values, though at the close an unsettled feeling prevails in some quarters, with more disposition to press goods to sale. Medium and low grades Green have been taken more freely, both by consumers and for export, and these are now held with a fair degree of firmness. Medium to good medium old crop Japan are in request for Canada, and the inquiry is being rather freely met, both from first and second hands, on a basis of 62c. to 66c., duty paid. New crop goods thus far to hand realise about ten cents per pound more than our quotations for similar grades of old. With larger supplies, it is at least doubtful if the comparative prices for new are maintained.

The New York Shipping and Commercial List states that the venture of bringing new crop Japan and China Tea via San Francisco two months earlier than by the Cape route has not been a pecuniary success. The new invoices have thus far been slow of sale, and the prices realised not commensurate with the increased cost.

The following are the current quotations:—Greens (Moyune, Twankl and Fychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 70c. to 115c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 55c. to 100c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 43c. to 105c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 52c. to 85c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow Oolongs, common and good, 48c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 56c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 47c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 63c.; finest, 65c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 40c. to 50c.; superior and fine, 54c. to 63c.; finest, 65c. to 85c.; Japans, common, 55c. to 58c.; medium, 62c. to 63c.; fine and finest, 68c. to 75c.; choice, 80c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Sept. 6, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 18,039,531 lbs.; Japans, 9,493,314 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,677,500 lbs.; Oolongs, 8,469,633 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 38,834,442 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 48,700,609 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Sept. 6, 3,925,750 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 26,848,025 lbs., there remains a total of 17,926,834 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Aug. 24 to Sept. 6 amounted to 939,218 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 1,035,159 lbs.; and the exports to 323,684 lbs.

COFFEE.—The enquiry for all descriptions has become quiet, but holders are firm, and there is no change to note in quotations, which rule as before, viz.:—Java, 19½c. to 22c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. gold. The only sales of East India have been 1,300 bags Manila and 200 mats Java. The stock of Manila on the 1st Sept. was estimated at 1,700 bags, against 3,772 bags on Sept. 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 505 bags, against 505 bags; of Java mats, 31,293, against 68,269 bags; of Ceylon, 9,426 bags, against 10,811 bags; of Singapore, 5,171 bags against nil.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 16c. to 18c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $1.95 to 2; Cassia, $1.5 to 1.67½ gold.

FIRE CRACKERS.—The demand has improved, and has become fairly active; the supply is only moderate, and prices have in consequence an upward tendency; the sales have been 4,000 boxes at $3.50 to 3.65, and 5,000 boxes on private terms; at the close business cannot be done under $3.75.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

GUNNY CLOTH.—The market for Borneo is quiet at 31½c.

HEMP.—The market for Manila continues extremely dull; business to a very limited extent has been done at 12¾c. gold. The stock of Manila on the 1st September was estimated at 18,829 bales, against 14,591 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 19,036 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from the 1st January to the 31st August, 1870, were 102,276 bales, against 81,679 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on the 31st August was 30,962 bales, against 47,560 bales at the same date last year.

INDIGO.—There is a small business doing in Manila at last quotations.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $10.50 to 11 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1 to 2.50 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—The recent large business in Rangoon has lowered the supply, which has become very limited, and the inquiry for export to Cuba which lately set in continuing, prices have an upward tendency. Sales have been effected of 2,000 bags Rangoon, part in bond and part to arrive—for export at $3.25 to 3.43¾ gold, and 1,500 bags for home consumption at $7.37½ to 7.50 currency (duty paid).

SPICES.—There is a moderate inquiry, and small sales are reported at the prices previously current.

TIN.—Prices for Straits maintain a low range, despite the report of an advance of £4 in the English market; some business has been done at 35c. gold, but holders generally are asking ¼c. to ½c. advance upon that price. Of Billiton we note the sale of 100 pigs on private terms; in Banca no business is reported.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.

FOUR GOLD MEDALS.

Supplied to the British, French, Prussian, Russian, Italian, Dutch, and other Governments. Dr. Lankester writes regarding Extract of Meat:—"But there is a difference in flavour, and here, as in all other kinds of food, it is the flavour that makes the quality." It is essentially on account of the fine meaty flavour, as distinguished from the burnt taste of other Extracts, that LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT defeated all Australian and other sorts at Paris, Havre, and Amsterdam, and is so universally preferred in all European markets.
One pint of fine-flavoured Beef-tea at 2½d. Most convenient and economic "stock."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—DEBILITY AND CONSUMPTION.—In no diseases are the results of the alterative and tonic influence of these invaluable remedies more apparent or more gratifying than in that feeble condition of the body which precedes consumption. A change for the better is observed ere this treatment has been followed for a week, and the improvement steadily progresses; the encroaching emaciation and mental depression gradually gives place to health, strength, and cheerfulness. The Ointment should be rubbed most diligently between the shoulders, on the chest, and left side, at least twice a day. Two Pills should be taken nightly, the air should be sought, solids eaten, slops avoided. This treatment duly followed will soon arrest both cough and feverishness.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

From this port we have advices—by the Pacific Mail route—to the 22nd August. The London mail of 1st July was received on the 18th August, and telegrams were to hand via Kiachta to the 27th July. The following summary of the news is from the Japan Mail.

During the early part of the past week a very heavy gale, with a great rainfall, swept over the country. The rivers in the interior are much swollen. There can be little doubt that the country in our immediate neighbourhood is extensively flooded, though we do not believe that any serious damage to the crop has yet been sustained. In the Northern, Southern and Western provinces it is said that the prospects are good, but it is impossible to suppress much anxiety on the whole subject. The rice market has advanced nearly twenty per cent. during the past ten days, and is still very sensitive. Slight shocks of earthquakes have been of constant occurrence during the past week, but at the time of going to press the weather is most brilliant.

Immediately on receipt of the disastrous news of the Tientsin massacre the authorities at Yedo communicated with the local Governments of the ports in which foreigners are settled, advising them of the occurrence, and commenting in decided terms on the folly of the Chinese and on the just indignation of the foreigners of every nationality. "It is possible," the letter proceeded to say, "that ignorant or evil-disposed persons may attempt to take advantage of the news of this massacre to stir up the prejudices of the lower classes of the people against foreigners and incite them to imitate the pernicious example of the Chinese." In case of the appearance of any such symptom, the local authorities are instructed to take most stringent measures for the maintenance of order, not hesitating to use force if necessary. And recent intelligence from Nagasaki proves that the order has certainly been acted on. In that port, which the French priests seem to have chosen as their special field of labour, two-sworders are not allowed to enter the foreign settlement without submitting to a strict examination. So long as the Government continue to act in such a spirit of friendship and good faith as this, foreigners need have no apprehensions regarding their safety in Japan.

The following notification, which has appeared on the Government notice boards at Yedo, cannot but be regarded as decidedly promising:—"Whereas the times have greatly altered within the last two or three years, numbers of the people have lost their livelihood and fallen into poverty. This is for the most part solely owing to their own idle habits, and to their imagining that they can earn money without working for it. In order, however, to assist those persons in reduced circumstances who are willing to work for their living, a set of workshops for their accommodation has been constructed in the Kishiu Yashiki. The authorities of each ward are hereby instructed to make this generally known, and to render assistance in sending forward applicants who are desirous to work. And; Any person who can suggest any new article of manufacture should communicate with the department of Manufacturing Industry, by whom his suggestion or invention will be carefully examined, and, if approved of, brought into general use."

HIOGO AND OSAKA.

Our advices are to the 16th August; the London mail of June 17th arrived August 6th, and the Pacific mail, with New York dates to June 20th, was received on the 28th July. Telegrams from London to the 10th July were to hand.

For the first time, for many months, highway robberies on the road between Osaka and Kobe are reported. A courier has been stopped by four armed men, who held swords across the track. All his money and his letters were taken from him, but no other violence used. The letters were carefully felt over to ascertain if they contained kinsatz, but as they did not, were returned to the courier. The latter states that four or five other couriers were stopped and treated in the same manner.

A meeting of the subscribers to the Hiogo Hospital Fund was held on the 23rd July, when Mr. Evers (chairman) announced a subscription of about 11,000 boos up to date. A letter had been sent to the native authorities respecting the grant of a piece of land, but no answer had as yet been received. He did not think the Japanese would refuse, but, as the list was liberally filled it would perhaps be as well either to take one of the bungalows on the hill, or to rent part of the existing native hospital—the natives and foreigners making some arrangement for the attendance of European medical officers. Dr. Shokker, Hunnink, Messrs. Gower, Evers, Von Fischer, Gay and Korthals were elected a committee to organise arrangements on this understanding.

A case of slight pecuniary importance in itself—Hart v. Lewellyn and Co.—has furnished a precedent from which the Hiogo News dissents, and which, it thinks, may be reversed. The British Consular Court is of opinion that a rio is four boos, and not, as stated by defendant, two niboos, and for this reason gives a verdict in favour of the plaintiff, and mulcts defendants in the costs of Court. The News thinks that if the judge had considered the probable results of his decision he would have hesitated before pronouncing an opinion that the rio of commerce is four silver boos, and not two niboos or one rio kinsatz.

The same authority notices the arrival, per P.M.S.S. Golden Age, of Mr. Ito, late Governor of this port, who is said to be somewhat astonishing the resident officials by the expeditious manner in which he is putting through various matters that have been for a long time in abeyance.

A bad fire had occurred in Kioto. Two theatres were destroyed and about 800 tsubos, or two-thirds of an acre, in a thickly populated part of the city is laid in ruins. Mr. Lucy, an engineer, late of Yokohama, has gone into Echizen, under a twelve months' engagement with that Prince. Large quantities of very heavy machinery have lately arrived at Osaka; it is being sent up the river to be erected in the castle. It is said that Mr. Morel has stated that the line between Osaka and Kobe can be got ready for traffic within seven months of the arrival of the material. A sad boiler explosion is reported from Yedo. As the steamer City of Yedo was about to start on her trip to Yokohama the boiler burst, killing Mr. Cassidy (the engineer), the Rev. Mr. Cornes, wife and one child, with their European servant, and about fifty-two Japanese. Captain Crowninshield was blown up into the air, but came down alive, and only feels "shaken." Mr. Skinner, Mr. Black (of Howles and Black), with Messrs. Daniels and Milne, of the P. and O. steamer Aden, are among the wounded, and all but Mr. Black are likely to recover. There were 139 Japanese on board, eighty-seven of whom are wounded; the rest are missing or dead. The jury at the inquest returned a verdict that the explosion resulted from the neglect and incompetency of R. Cassidy, the person in charge of the engine (one of the deceased), and the jury further expressed its opinion that the accident might have been avoided if a proper person had been placed in charge in the absence of the engineer, Mr. Gargen. A subscription was raised by the local European residents for the relief of the sufferers. Eleven firms have subscribed one hundred dollars each.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

From this port we have news that the bodies of the victims of the massacre of the 21st June were buried with all ceremony on the 3rd August, in the presence of a large number of native and foreign officials. Tseng-kwo-Fan only refused to attend, pleading sickness. Since the 25th July sixteen "brave" chiefs have been arrested, at the requisition of Count Rochechouart; but it is said that some of them have been again released. When they were arrested, they exclaimed, rather surprised—"How now! we have not performed those exploits of the 21st June on our own accord. The Chifoo and Chihsien have driven us to these deeds, and now it appears we shall have to suffer for them." Another old brave has been heard to have said, upon his being arrested, "I don't know what you want of me. If you want me to fight against the foreigners let me go. If, however, you think of making peace with them, very well, let my head fall—I do not wish to live then any longer."

Nothing has been heard yet of an intended punishment of Tseng-kwo-Jui, who is living at present on the hills to the west of Peking. A deputation of sixty to seventy Chinese (men of consequence and ex-officials) presented themselves to Count Rochechouart, on the evening of the 23rd, with the object of obtaining pardon for him and for the city magistrates; but of course their request was not listened to. A high official, Mao-chang-hsi, arrived from Peking to aid Tseng-kwo-Fan in his investigations. The English Chargé d'Affaires, Mr. Wade, arrived on the 27th July, and with Count Rochechouart was to return to Peking on the 4th August. The 135 children which were taken away from the Sisters' house were delivered up by the Chinese Government, and quartered at "Liang shia-yuen," formerly the residence of the Commissioners of Customs, and situated in the immediate neighbourhood of the foreign settlement.

Nothing had been done towards punishing the guilty, and the Chinese scout the idea of the three mandarins whose heads have been demanded being executed, or the people punished for the riot. They believe that a monetary payment and the reconstruction of the burned buildings only will be agreed to. Tseng-kwo-Fan, they say, will not do more, and the Tsung-li-yamen cannot. The Chinese are trying every means to gain time, and are said to be accumulating large bodies of troops in the meanwhile. The Chinese even have a rumour that Li-hung-chang is coming down with a force from Shansi; but it is hardly likely that he can afford to neglect the Mahomedans. Tseng-kwo-Fan pretends to be ill, but the real disease is suspected to be ill-will.

HANKOW.

The present mail brings dates to the 5th August; the London mail of June 10 was delivered on the 28th July.

The flooding of the settlement continued. The water has risen very rapidly, day by day, and gained a much higher point than has ever been known since the port was opened to foreign trade; in fact, natives assert that it is the most severe flood that has happened since the year 1848. An immense amount of misery prevails amongst the inhabitants of the city and surrounding country; and business of all descriptions has been at a complete standstill.

SHANGHAI.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the 12th August. No later dates had been received by mail from London, but telegrams, via Kiachta to the 19th July, came in on the 11th August; these announced the declaration of war on the Continent.

Sir Edward Hornby makes his homeward journey by this mail on a well-earned leave of absence; and, in taking a retrospect of the past five years, we see how great a claim he has to the respect and good wishes of his countrymen. The North China Herald truly remarks:—Anomalous and unsatisfactory, in many respects, as extra-territorial jurisdiction is, it yet seems to be, for the time, the only means by which Treaty Powers can secure for their subjects the due modicum of justice and law in China and Japan. When it was proved, by hard experience, that the existing Consular tribunals—presided over as they were by men of experience and ability, but without legal education and training—were insufficient to meet the wants of a large and rapidly increasing community, the establishment of a Supreme Court with a staff of trained legal officials became a necessity. Few, probably, even in Shanghai, are aware of how great is the power and how arduous are the labours of the Chief Judge. He has to supervise and direct the working of the provincial or Consular Courts. He is continually appealed to for advice and assistance, alike by officials and the public; and is at the same time a judge, a mediator, and an administrator. Whilst an English or even a Colonial Judge is protected by his position from being called upon to give advice and counsel in cases which may afterwards come before him in his judicial capacity, the Consular Judge is charged to intervene, to promote reconciliation, and to encourage and facilitate the settlement, in an amicable way, of any suit or proceeding pending before his Court. Sir Edward Hornby has discharged all the duties that devolved upon him in an enlightened spirit, and the cordial address which was presented to him on his departure with 474 signatures of the leading residents in Shanghai was felt by all to be well deserved.

Shanghai continues quiet, and free from disturbing rumours; though uneasiness caused by the Tientsin massacre still prevails. People do not know what turn affairs are going to take, and wait anxiously to learn what course France has decided on. The general impression is that the heads of the three guilty mandarins will not be given up without war; and there seems little doubt that the Chinese are assembling troops near Tientsin, in view of such a contingency. The question then again arises, how long operations are likely to be deferred; and how far other ports may be affected, in case of hostile proceedings at Tientsin. In view of the prevailing uncertainty, several wealthy Soochow and Ningpo merchants have left the city for the interior. The news of war having broken out in Europe increases the gravity of the crisis.

One of the many vague rumours which have been lately abroad among the Chinese is that the Emperor of Japan was to join their own Government in an attempt to expel foreigners. This is not likely to be true. The Japanese have seen far too much in Europe lately, and are too much occupied with their own concerns to dream of incurring a war against all Western nations combined. If China had shown as much intelligence in sending as many of her high officers to Europe no such atrocity as that at Tientsin would have been conceived. Still, we learn from the Japan Times that "The Japanese are closely watching the action of the foreign Powers in this matter, and it has been talked of by the Government officials for the last few days that some of them expected to be sent to Shanghai with the probable object of being there better informed and able to judge for themselves.

Mr. Wade's apparent policy, at the present crisis, is the subject of general and severe criticism. The prevalent opinion is that he has shown a regretable lack of vigour, and that his views in regard to the political position are opposed to those of nineteen-twentieths of his countrymen in China. The position in which he and they have been placed by the Tientsin massacre is sufficiently grave to claim a departure from diplomatic reserve, and a frank explanation to those whose interests he is supposed to guard. Mr. Wade has, on the contrary, maintained his isolation, and has allowed his countrymen to retain the belief that he takes a view diametrically opposed to their own, and inclines to a policy which they hold to be fraught with danger.

The continuance of rainy weather has interfered greatly with the Volunteers' drill during the past week, but the enthusiasm of the movement is as fresh as ever. The artillery have at length got their uniforms; the next great improvement wanted is in guns. The community are indebted to the gentleman who, at an emergency, placed at the disposal of the corps the rifled cannon with which they are now drilling; but these are not suited for street fighting or quick movements. Twelve-pound howitzers, like those of the French volunteers, are the kind of thing we want—compact, light, and in every respect fitted for rapid movement.

A report has been published by the Public Works Committee of the Municipal Council. It contains nothing very important. The bunding of the Soochow Creek has been abandoned, in favour of the Yang-king-pang.

For the moment all is quiet in Nanking; but it is the quiet of an atmosphere charged with electricity. Foreigners there feel convinced that if the massacre of Tientsin pass unpunished, Nanking, Chinkiang, and Yangchow will witness a repetition of the crime. Letters have been received from Szechuen to the 19th of July, and all was still quiet in that province. The water was still rising rapidly in Hankow, and had reached, on the 24th, within a foot of its extreme height in 1869—48 feet against 49. The lower floors of houses were all under water, the church could not be used; and boats sail through the streets and down the bund.

The annual meeting of the committee of the Sailors' Home was held on the 10th August. The accounts showed profits to the end of last year to $2,000; but during the first six months of the present year there had been a falling off to the extent of $900. The lease of the present Home expiring in May next, it was suggested that measures should be taken to reform it on a more limited scale.

The Marine Commissioner has published a statement of lights now in course of construction on the China coast. He adds that ten new harbour lights will be erected forthwith in the Kiukiang district of the Yangtsze.

The proposed tax on wheelbarrows excited much opposition, on account of the extreme poverty of the barrow-men, who will have to accumulate, cash by cash, the half-dollar which the Council ask for once a quarter. If we think of a 10s. tax on a labourer of this class at home we shall more easily realise how heavily it must bear on the barrow-men here.

THE EMPEROR'S EDICTS.

The North China Herald publishes the full text of the translations of the two Imperial edicts on the Tientsin massacre, referred to in our last. Tseng-kwo-Fan and Chung How have presented a memorial to the Throne in the matter of examining and making clear the principal circumstances of the Tientsin troubles. In their memorial it is stated that they had strictly investigated the matter of persons belonging to the (foreign) sects stupifying and kidnapping people; that Wan Sang, although he had previously admitted that he had given drugs to Wu Sanchen, yet (on being subsequently examined) he alternately admitted and denied it; so that there is no real evidence that the religious establishment employed men (for kidnapping purposes); that they had examined more than one hundred and fifty children, male and female, belonging to the Sisters' establishment, who all declared that their families had placed them there to be maintained and taken care of, and that there was no such practice as kidnapping carried on. With reference to the matter of scooping out eyes and ripping open hearts, Tseng-kwo-Fan, on his arrival at Tientsin, personally investigated it (and as the result of his enquiries he says), that the people were unable to point out any proof (of such practices); that on examination it was found that neither inside nor outside the city of Tientsin was any complaint laid (before the magistrates) of children being lost; that the circumstances were just like those of Hunan, Kiangsi, Yangchow, Tienmen, and Ta-mingfu and Kwang-p'ing-fu belonging to this province, in all which inflammatory documents and anonymous placards were posted, spreading in a disorderly manner all kinds (of rumours); that afterwards, in the decision of cases (arising out of or connected with these rumours), the truth or falsehood of these inflammatory documents and anonymous placards had not been examined into and made clear; that the Tientsin people, being daily accustomed to hear the language employed in these documents and placards of other places, had already come to believe it; and moreover that, in consequence of the door of the Foreign Cathedral being kept shut all the year round; in consequence of the Cathedral and the Sisters' establishment having underground cellars, designed to let out the damp air, and to store coal and charcoal; in consequence of those who applied for medical relief being detained; and lastly, in consequence of the receiving and keeping (on the Foreign premises) the poor, the sick and the dying, suspicions were accumulated without any means of dispelling them. The memorial continues that in the fourth and fifth months of the present year (May and June) it happened there were some kidnappers who by means of drugs stupified people, and these (or their doing so) implicated the religious establishments; that the Tientsin people, seeing the Consul Fontanier firing at an officer of Government, immediately raised a clamour of ten thousand voices, and they at once rose as one man (against the French). The truth of the matter (according to Tseng-kwo-Fan) is that, as to the talk about scooping out eyes, ripping open hearts, and killing people, the greater part is false, without a particle of real evidence.

In this matter Tseng kwo-Fan has been repeatedly charged, in concert with Chung How, to act with impartiality. And the Governor and his colleague state in their memorial that this affair is all unfounded rumour. The reason of the suspicions caused by foreigners (or, according to the reading of another copy, supposed to be the authentic one, "the way in which the Tientsin people got up their suspicions") is now plainly seen. Should the like rumours arise in other provinces, the host of suspicions (engendered by these rumours) may by degrees be dissipated.

With reference to the scoundrels who stupify and kidnap children and others, there are already severe enactments against them; but lest, through lapse of time, men should think lightly of the law, let the Board of Punishments, when a criminal of his kind is brought up for trial, at once consult as to what additional punishment should be attached to this offence. Afterwards, if kidnappers should be seized in the provinces, let them also be severely dealt with, in accordance with the decision of the Board of Punishments, so as to be a warning against such cruelty and wickedness.

In the capital, which is the very seat of goodness, such blackguards ought to be much more searched out. Let, then, the Commandant of the city continually be on the watch, and if these villains should be met with let them be at once handed over to the Hingpu (Board of Punishments) for more than ordinarily severe punishment. Respect this.

AMOY.

August 15, 1870.

You will, of course, long ere this, have been put in full possession of all the horrible details of the Tientsin massacre. Every day brings out fresh evidence, or, at least, confirms the fact that the mandarins have throughout been the moving and active instruments in this frightful tragedy. A fortnight after the day of the rising the mob of Tientsin was still in an organised state, and were said to be defying the authorities. Tseng-kwo-Fan, the Governor-General, had arrived, and had superseded three of the principal mandarins; but not one solitary individual had been seized and punished. The fact that the mob was still organised shows that they were being backed by some powerful mandarin; for were the Governor-General really in earnest it would not take him a single hour, with the forces at his command, to command the most perfect submission. There seems, however, not to be the remotest doubt but that he has all along been the secret instigator of the whole affair. It is well known that he cherishes the most ambitious views, and he has no doubt hoped that by involving the Government in difficulties with foreigners his own ends would be advanced by the troubles that would ensue. If any man ought to be punished for the frightful atrocities that have been committed he certainly is one. Amoy has been, perhaps, less excited by the news than any other place on the coast. Fortunately, we have no powerful scheming mandarins here; the number of the literati is very small, and, besides, we are close to Hong Kong, from whence, the Chinese know, we could speedily be helped. Still, there has been a good deal of agitation—more of fear than of hostility to foreigners. Some fortnight ago two French gunboats steamed into the harbour. The people were all in dread, as they expected they had come in to avenge their countrymen in the north. Some of the more wealthy of the hongs began at once to remove their treasure from the town, and it took some days to get the people to believe that no harm was intended by their presence. There is one singular fact in reference to the country round about that shows very decidedly the feeling of the people towards the mandarins. Rumours are afloat on every hand of a threatened rebellion. Now is considered the fittest possible time to rise, as the people will be sure of the aid of foreigners in their struggle with the authorities. Immediately around Chin chow the popular feeling has manifested itself so strongly that extra precautions are being taken by the mandarins for the defence of the city. There is no doubt that before long there must be a change in the policy of the officials, or there will be very serious troubles in this region. The long drought has thrown hundreds of families on the country as beggars. The offensive taxes, which seem to grow more severe every year, are completely paralysing trade. Many of the best shops in our best streets are closed. Some are bankrupt, some have fled to Hong Kong to do business there, and the universal cry is that there must be some relief, or starvation will come to many before long. The fact is that for China in its present condition there is no hope ahead. Chinese officialdom is rotten and corrupt at the very core. What matters whether the people are oppressed, whether thousands are sinking into hopeless poverty, whether trade is being driven away, so that the last hopes of being able to earn a living are extinguished; the officials are growing fast upon the very misery of the oppressed, and who is there that can hold up any hopes of relief in the future? Should foreign powers take possession of this country and parcel it out among them a few years would prove that none would acquiesce more willingly in this arrangement than the Chinese people.

It is to be hoped that the English Government will not stand aside whilst the French are dealing with the Tientsin murderers.

The Chinese there, as a matter of policy, are endeavouring to make us believe that they have no enmity to any foreigners save the French; we who are on the spot know the utter untruth of this. There is some danger that the people at home, who are not so well acquainted with Chinese duplicity, may actually believe it. The love for the Englishman is not one whit different from that which exists for any other of the "outer barbarians." The Chinese hatred of us makes no difference in nationality. There is one fact that ought to be impressed upon the Governments of the West, and it is this—they will never obtain anything like justice from China, or succeed in having treaties observed, so long as they virtually acknowledge her superiority over them. There is a deal of sentimental talk amongst the rulers in the West that China should be admitted to terms of equality with civilised nations. The fact is they have all along practically admitted that she is not only equal but superior. Her ambassadors are admitted to audiences of the crowned heads of the West, whilst others must be contented with seeing only the Prime Minister of the Emperor. To accomplish any permanent results this anomaly must be stopped. Audiences must be demanded and insisted upon with the Emperor himself. Opposition will be made, but they will finally yield. Statesmen at home will find that around this question many others of profound importance are grouped, and that with a settlement of this one, a solution for the others will also be obtained.

News of the declaration of war between France and Prussia has reached us. It is to be hoped that this new state of things will not interfere with the proper settlement of the Tientsin question. Unless stern and severe measures are taken at this time we shall before long have a repetition of the tragedy, only on a more extensive scale. The Prussian ships are all laid up in harbour, and will be so for months to come. There are only two Prussian men-of-war on the coast, the Hertha and the Medusa; but these are old-fashioned wooden frigates, that could be of no use in a conflict with the French. Three or four nights ago a large fire raged in the Chinese town; over twenty shops were burned, including a pawn shop. Four foreign "water dragons" (fire engines) succeeded in putting the fire out in the course of three our four hours.

Our gunboat, the Cockchafer, has left us for the North, and has been succeeded by the Hornet; she is now away on a trip to Formosa.

HONG KONG.

Dates from this port extend to the 18th August; the French mail, with London advices to the 7th July, and telegrams to the 30th July, was received on the 16th August.

The China Mail says that it was really astounding that, up to the latest dates, no official communication had reached the Governments of France or Great Britain about the Tientsin massacre. There was not the slightest reference to it in any of the telegrams received by the French mail steamer, published or unpublished, though they extended to August 1—nearly six weeks after the occurrence of the horrible event, and the London and China Express of the 8th July, then to hand, proved that correct information of the catastrophe had then reached private hands. How comes it, asks the Mail, that the British Government had received no official despatch from Mr. Wade? Has he wilfully forfeited the confidence which Mr. Otway reposed in him? If it should turn out hereafter that the transmission of any official message has been prevented by the means hinted at by the Courier, knowing the anxiety to forestall at Shanghai a true statement of the Tientsin massacre by garbled accounts, deep disgrace will fall upon those foreign agents whose personal influence with the Chinese Government is most potent.

It will confirm the Chinese in their belief that the English will sacrifice everything for the sake of trade, to learn the fact that an English steamer, belonging to an eminent British house, has taken to Tientsin, from Shanghai, forty cases containing 1,014 Enfield rifles, with caps and ammunition complete, for the use of the Chinese Government, and that they have been duly forwarded to Peking. This last matter will, we hope, receive some explanation, and that it will be found to have been the result of negligence rather than of design. It seems hardly according to the fitness of things that a British Consul should be advising the observance of unusual politeness to assassins, subjects of a Government which British merchants are supplying with offensive weapons.

A handsome gold hunting watch, with crest and monogram, and the following inscription, has been exhibited at a local goldsmith's:—"To E. H. Pollard, Esq., Q.C. Purchased with the proceeds of a subscription by 100 friends on his being sentenced to pay a fine imposed on him for contempt of Court, which sentence was afterwards reversed on appeal to the Privy Council." The curiosity which has from time to time, during the last three years, been expressed as to what had become of the subscription by which many influential inhabitants of this city manifested their condolence with the learned Q.C. will now be satisfied.

Hiogo and Osaka, August 16*.—Transactions in Piece Goods had been upon a moderate scale, business having been interrupted by the half-yearly settlement of accounts. Prices of Cotton Goods showed a slight improvement upon those ruling last month. Grey Shirtings: A fair amount of business had been done, and prices at closing were somewhat higher. Cotton Yarn had also advanced in value, 28-32 being most in demand. Turkey Reds were saleable at quotations. Taffachelass was in slightly better request as the season advances. Black Lustres continued to find buyers at previous rates. Mousselines de Laine were less readily taken, good patterns only being saleable. Blankets were inquired for, at slightly better rates for best quality. Hoop Iron still asked for, other sorts unsaleable. Lead placed in small quantities. Quotations in dollars. Cotton Yarn: Nos. 16 to 24, $143.54 per bale; 28 to 32, $153.11 to 155.07; 38 to 42 $157.89. G.E. Shanghai.—Since the French mail steamer left there had been very little business done, the Tientsin buyers having withdrawn from the market, pending receipt of advices as to the result of their late extensive purchases, whilst the floods at Hankow had completely stopped all demands for that quarter. Grey Shirtings: The sales by importers consisted to a great extent of 7 lbs. goods. In 8¼ lbs. there had not been so much done; but the news of a slight advance in their value at Tientsin had caused more inquiry, and the market for them closed firmly, with an upward tendency. The quantity of common chops, 8¼ lbs., in first hands, was believed to be very small. For heavy Shirtings there had been no demand, and quotations were nominal. White Shirtings: Transactions had not been large. No quotable change in value, but very limited request, and a decline was not unlikely. T-Cloths: 6 lbs. and 7 lbs., common to ordinary, were still in some request, but the stock was not large, and this, coupled with the higher ideas of holders, had checked operations. Ordinary qualities had slightly improved, but the better makes were rather easier, with little disposition to operate. 8 lbs. T-Cloths moderately dealt in, but the demand seemed satisfied; rates unchanged. Drills: Some 26,000 pieces Americans changed hands on the basis of Tls. 3.45 for best goods, ordinary delivery. Jeans: Holders firm, at Tls. 2.30 to 2.35 per piece for 8 lb. English goods, but buyers disinclined to pay these figures; market demand supplied by auction sales of sea damaged and resales by speculators. Sheetings: Transactions are almost nil. Fancy Cottons: Attention still chiefly directed to Chintzes, Velveteens, and Velvets; no material alteration in values, but tendency towards higher rates. Some inquiry for Turkey Red Cambrics, but prices offered far below the ideas of holders. Trifling trade in Brocades, Spots, and Damasks reported. Woollens: The flooded state of the Upper Yangtsze Provinces had injured the market here, and there was not much likelihood of any great activity until the water should subside. Metals—Iron: Only a few settlements reported at about previous rates. Market closed rather firmer for Nail Rods; stocks large. Coals: The coal market had been very quiet; no arrivals or sales of English, Cardiff, or American. Cargo quotations from ship here: Cardiff, Tls. 8.5.0; English, Tls. 6.7.5; American, Tls. 8 per ton nominal. Quotations (duty paid):—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.7.6 to 1.8.4 per piece; 8¼ to 8½ lbs., Tls. 2.1.8 to 2.2.7; G.E. White Shirtings, Tls. 1.7.5 to 2.4.0; T-Cloths: 6 lbs., ordinary, Tls. 1.2.5 to 1.3.0; 7 lbs., Tls. 1.4.3 to 1.4.8; 6 lbs. Mex., Tls. 1.4.0 to 1.4.5; 7 lbs. Mex., Tls. 1.6.0 to 1.7.0; 8 to 8½ lbs., Tls. 1.9.0 to 2; XX, Tls. 2.2.5 to 2.3.0. Iron—Nail Rod, small sizes, Tls. 2.1.5 to 2.2.0 per picul; fair to good assortments, Tls. 1.9.5 to 2; Hoop, Tls. 2 to 2.0.5; Flat and Round, Tls. 2.0.5 to 2.1.5. Lead, Tls. 4.4.0 to 5, nominal.

Hankow.—Cotton goods: Grey Shirtings, 7lbs. and 8¼lbs. weights had met with moderate inquiry, at a decline of 2 to 3 candareens per piece; closing quotations were Tls. 1.82 to 1.86 for 7lbs.; Tls. 2.18 to 2.26 for 8¼lbs.; and Tls. 2.30 to 2.60 per piece for 9 to 10lbs. White Shirtings remained very dull. T-Cloths: An unimportant business had been done at slightly easier rates, and there were no offers at the close. Drills: The demand which recently set in was chiefly speculative and had since subsided; prices of good cargo were maintained; ordinary and common dull and rather lower. Jeans: Small sales reported at a decline on previous rates. Camlets: There were no offers. Long Ells: A small quantity, favourite chops, found buyers at previous prices; ordinary unsaleable. Spanish Stripes: Well assorted goods taken to a moderate extent at unchanged rates. Figured Orleans: But little inquiry and no improvement to advise. Metals: Lead: Sales showed a decline on last mails rates of about one mace per picul, and with a large stock the tendency was downwards.

CANTON.—Lead had been taken to the smallest extent only, as the tendency of European advices was to render holders firmer, whilst the extent of stocks at this port and at Hong Kong kept buyers from operating save for actual wants. Quicksilver was well maintained, but previous purchases had satisfied dealers for the present. Sales: Lead, Common, 400 piculs, at $6.15 to 6.20; W. B., no sales, at $6.30 to 6.35.

HONG KONG.—Cotton Yarn: No demand whatever exist for Yarns of any count, and only a trifling quantity of 38/42's had been taken by Tonking dealers at $150 to 152½ per bale for best qualities. Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs. showed no improvement, sales having been made at $2.35 to 2.45 per piece, according to quality. 8.4 lbs. had continued in fair demand, and free purchases "to arrive" had been made at last quotations. Stocks within very moderate compass, and shipments on the way also far from heavy. White Shirtings: A small quantity of the finest reeds taken. Low qualities in no demand. Grey T-Cloths: Market further declined, owing to continued anxiety of holders to force off stocks. Common qualities of 6 lbs. could be had at $1.70 per piece, and 7 lbs. at $1.90 per piece. Some little inquiry for finer qualities, but the ideas of the Native dealers had been so much disturbed by the way they had seen a great portion of the trade conducted that the offers they made were too unreasonable for acceptance. Grey Twills: No change. Dyed and Fancy Cottons: Nothing to report. Woollen Cloths: Small sales, Importers of German goods being ready to meet demand. Spanish Stripes: Purchases confined to heavy qualities. Long Ells: Sales of H. and H. H. qualities without improvement in rates. Camlets: The activity had quite disappeared, and only two small parcels of S.S. and one of B.B.B. qualities had changed hands. Lastings also neglected. Metals: Nail Rod Iron improved, but not yet realising profitable rates. The highest price obtained was $2.60 per picul, at which a parcel of 200 tons had been sold. Round, Square, and Flat Bars had been moved at $2.65 per picul. Steel and Tin Plates are neglected. Quicksilver in demand at last quotations. Lead nominally improved in consequence of the nature of latest news from home, but no sales reported. Quotations:—Cotton Yarn, $110 to 115; No. 16 to 24, $125 to 135; 28 to 32, $135 to 137.50. SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead and Co. supply the following report: —39-inch Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., in fair inquiry; bulk of the business had been at $2.60 to 2.62½, but near the close $2.72½ had been obtained. Demand for 7 lb. limited, at $2.25 to 2.27½. Small sales of 6 lb. at $1.92½ to 1.95. 45-inch 9 lb. met little attention, sales at $3 to 2.92½; 8 lb. very dull at $2.60; 7 lb. no demand; quotation $2.20 nominal. 36-inch White Shirtings: Except for most favourite makes, sales of which had been small at lower prices, there was no demand. 45-inch quoted nominally $3.70 to 3.75. 45-inch White Cambrics: To effect sales holders had accepted lower prices. Transactions in No. 24s at $18 to 18½; Nos. 15/16s at $28.50 to 29. 36-inch White Spots: Limited demand at $2.75. 36 inch White Maddapollams: Only a slight demand supplied at $20 per corge. 33-inch Imitation Irish Linens: Little change; business confined to a few cases only at $1.95. 32-inch Grey T-Cloths in moderate demand in the early part of the fortnight, but latterly very little inquiry. Transactions at $1.30 to 1.20 for 4 lb., $1.35 to 1.30 for 4½ lb., $1.40 for 5 lb., and $1.62½ to 1.60 for 6 lb.; 7 lb. neglected, nominally worth $1.90. 32-inch Grey Maddapollams quite out of demand; to effect sales $18½ accepted for 3 lb. 30-inch Grey Drills without any demand. Grey Yarn: For 40s moderate inquiry; sales at $131 to 130. 30s quite neglected, nominal at $120. To clear stocks some holders have sold 18/24s at $90. Woollens continue very dull. Small sales reported of coarse Blue Spanish Stripes at 50 cents and Scarlet Camlets at $14. Metals dull, with hardly any alteration in quotations.

PENANG.—The only arrival from Europe had been that of the s.s. Eldon, from Liverpool, via the Suez Canal, with a very moderate supply of staples. Grey Shirtings had been much neglected, only unimportant transactions reported in 6 lb. goods at $39, 7 lbs. at $45 and 44, and 8½ lbs. at $55 to 54 per corge. Long Cloths no sales. Maddapollams: Only trifling sales of 2¾ lbs. goods at $18¾ per corge. T-Cloths had likewise been very quiet; sales of 6 lbs. at $36 to 33, the lower price for inferior; and of 7 lbs. at $39 per corge. White Shirtings, low to fine, taken at $38 to 80, but only in trifling quantity; a few sales of 45-inch at $74 to 73 per corge. Yarn had been very dull, small sales of Grey Mule, No. 30, at $120 per bale of 400 lbs.; of Imperial Red, No. 40, at $73; and of Green, No. 40, at $78 per bale of 200 lbs.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA, AUGUST 22*.—Business had been quieter, and native dealers not having shown so much anxiety to realise, prices after a slight decline closed firm as last quoted. Settlements had been on a fair scale, making a total of fully 12,500 piculs since the last American Mail, almost entirely for the New York market, consisting chiefly of Good Medium to Fine grades. The inclemency of the weather had prevented supplies from coming forward to any extent, and consequently stocks were somewhat reduced; there had, however, been some fair arrivals from Kobe, both on native and European account. The Joachim Christian sailed on the 10th August with 157,819 lbs. for New York, and 29,242 for San Francisco; the Min, Laju, and Black Prince, were on the berth for New York, and the Ariel with part cargo from Kobe would fill up for the same port. Quotations:—Common, nominal; Good common, $32 to 34 per picul; medium, $35 to 37 per picul; good medium, $38 to 41; fine, $42 to 45 per picul; finest, $46 to 48; choice, $50 and upwards.

HIOGO AND OSAKA, AUGUST 16*.—At the commencement of the month considerable settlements were made at reduced rates; subsequently the market became quiet, with a tendency to a further decline, but late purchases had caused teamen to grow firmer in their demands. Upwards of 3,000 piculs had been shipped to Yokohama on native account. Arrivals estimated at 7,000 piculs. Settlements and shipments at 6,000 piculs, and stocks at 3,000 piculs. The Latona and Osaka were on the berth for New York. The Ariel, partly loaded with Tea, had sailed for Yokohama. Quotations: Common and good common, none; medium, Rios 32 to 39 per picul; good medium, Rios 40 to 44 per picul; fine, Rios 45 to 50 per picul; finest, Rios 51 to 56 per picul; choice, none.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Business in second crops had continued, but a fall of about Tls. 2 on these and most other kinds has to be noticed, and the market generally had favoured buyers. Low dusty Hohow had been sold at Tls. 14 and ordinary Shongtam at Tls. 18½; stocks were large and Teamen anxious to make sales. Settlements, 25,200 chests; Re-shipments, 2,400 chests; Stock, 96,400 chests. Prices paid had been:—Hohows and Ningchows, Tls. 14 to 27; Oonams, Oonfas, &c., Tls. 18½ to 23¾; Oopacks, &c., Tls. 20 to 25. Green: The market for New Teenkais has been opened, as noticed in our last report, with an eagerness quite surpassing that of former seasons. The first purchase was made at Tls. 43, and was soon followed by others at Tls. 45½ and Tls. 46½; since then active competition for all good chops had culminated in the settlement of "Hip Mow" and "Kut Kee" at Tls. 47. Many of the teas were of course fine, but the bulk was not equal to last season. Pingsueys still attracted considerable attention and parcels of really good make in boxes, which were very scarce, would be readily purchased. New Hoochows had been operated in at Tls. 33 to 37, and appeared to show very fair value. On examination the teas were found altogether less dusty than those of last season, but there was still room for improvement. In make and colour there was much to complain of, including evidences of hasty preparation. Settlements: Pingsueys, 6,600 half-chests; Hoochows, 2,700 half-chests; Teenkais, 37,900 half-chests. Stocks: Pingsueys, 4,000 half-chests; Hoochows, 5,000 half-chests; Teenkais, 14,700 half-chests; old tea, 2,000 half-chests. Prices paid had been:—Pingsueys, in chops, Tls. 33 to 50; Pingsueys, boxes, Tls. 41 to 51; Hoochows, Tls. 33 to 37; Fychows and Teenkais, Tls. 35½ to 47. The export of tea as compared with that of last season was as follows:— To Great Britain, Black, 3,000,000 lbs. deficiency. To Great Britain, Green, 1,000,000 lbs., deficiency. To America, Green, 751,000 lbs., excess.

HANKOW.—Arrivals during the fortnight had been on a larger scale than had been known at any corresponding period, and as the unexampled rise of the river precluded all possibility of storage, Teas had been forwarded to Shanghai as soon as they arrived. Musters of third crops were not to hand; the supply, however, was reported to be very large. Settlements by foreigners had been most trivial, and quotations were actually nominal; natives, however, had made considerable purchases for re-sale at Shanghai on the strength of their advices from thence. Transactions for the fortnight:—Settlements, 4,103 chests. Contracts, nil.; shipments to Shanghai on native account, 38,703 chests. The prices paid had been as follows: Oopacks, Common to Fair, Tls. 15.75 to 18.50 per picul, equal to 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 3½d. per lb. Oonams, Common, Tls. 13.0 per picul, equal to 1s. per lb.

FOOCHOW.—Congou: The teamen having generally realised sufficient of their stock to meet their most pressing demands, had been less eager to sell, and a comparatively small business only had been transacted in consequence. Common Teas may be quoted slightly easier, while the better grades had been taken at a slight advance. Souchong: The lower grades had been in fair demand. Oolongs: Upwards of 7,000 packages had found buyers at prices considerably in excess of American rates. Flowery Pekoe: The high prices demanded by the teamen had prevented business being transacted to any extent. Scented Teas: A small business had been transacted in these kinds, prices having a downward tendency. Sales for the fortnight and prices were as follows:— Congou: Dust and broken leaf kinds, Tls. 5 to 10; ordinary common, Tls. 12 to 14; good common, Tls. 14 to 16; light flavoury, Tls. 17 to 20; good flavoury to medium Kysow kinds, Tls. 22—42,000 chests sold. Souchong: Common to medium, Tls. 14 to 23; good to fine, Tls. 28 to 30—4,375 chests sold. Oolongs: Common to good cargo, Tls. 17 to 21¼—7,633 half-chests sold. Flowery Pekoe: Common to medium, Tls. 30 to 38; fine to finest, Tls. 46 to 50—252 chests sold. Scented Teas: Common to medium, Tls. 19 to 20: fine to finest, Tls 30 to 41—6,553 boxes sold.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA, AUGUST 22*.—Transactions had been excessively small, amounting only to about 50 bales; the extreme firmness of dealers prevented business in the early part of the interval, and on receipt of intelligence that war had broken out in Europe, buying ceased. Quotations remained as last reported but must be considered quite nominal, as business for the time being was suspended. Supplies had continued moderate, and the unsold stock was increased to about 1,000 bales. Silkworms' Eggs: Total arrivals for the season to date were estimated at 170,000 cards; Settlements had only been a few thousand cards at prices varying from $3½ to 4½ for fair to best Annuals.

HIOGO AND OSAKA, AUGUST 16.*—Contrary to expectations, very little Silk had been brought forward, natives alleging that prices in the interior were higher than foreigners offer at this port. About 60 to 70 bales of 50 catties had been brought forward, mostly old and new Silk mixed; as yet no classical Silk had appeared. Settlements were estimated at 40 bales of 80 catties. Silkworms' Eggs had been brought forward to some extent, and, failing to find buyers, had been, for the most part, shipped on native account to Yokohama. Prices asked were Rios 2.25 to 3 for fine to finest green annual kinds. Settlements estimated at 2,000 to 3,000 cards, mostly at Rios 2.25 to 2.50 per card.

SHANGHAI. — Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co. report: — Telegrams via Galle and Kiachta to 12th July, both arriving on the same day, report threatened hostilities between France and Prussia; business in Silk quite suspended. In consequence of this news the business for the French mail (which left on the 5th Aug. taking 161 bales for England and 231 bales for France) was very limited and mostly settled before the telegrams arrived. Buyers, however, soon regained confidence, as immediately after the steamer left some considerable purchases were made, no doubt in anticipation that the next telegrams would advise tranquillity restored, but the lines have apparently been interrupted, so that no later dates have been received. We hear that large quantities of the Silk on inspection was found to be inferior, and has in consequence been rejected. Had buyers been more reserved, there is no doubt we should have seen lower prices; as it is, the Tael prices show little alteration, except for common descriptions, which are Tls. 5 to 10 lower, whilst Exchange is slightly in favour of buyers. Chooping chop 3rd sold Tls. 610. Dragon Tls. 605. Elephant chop Tls. 535. Kukee Chin Jan Tls. 540. Red Peacock Tls. 525 to 530. Pangling Kahing Tls. 515. Re-reeled Haineon Tls. 590 to 620. Re-reeled Tsatlees Tls. 580 to 590. Since writing the above, telegrams via Calcutta have been received reporting war declared and actually commenced between France and Prussia; the effect of such news will be of course to suspend business entirely, in the meantime it is needless to speculate further on what the later results may be.

SIAM PRODUCE.

The following report on the Bangkok Produce Market is from the Borneo Company's Circular, dated Aug. 15:—Rice: On the receipt of advices from Hong Kong that prices had quickly risen from $1.60 to to $2 per picul, the value of our Namuan grain here has suddenly advanced from $1.15 to 1.30-35 per picul, put on board in the river in mat bags. After a few days it was known that tonnage to the extent of about 200,000 piculs had been taken up for this port, and, as it was expected, this would be too great a drain upon our short crop, prices quickly rose to $1.60-62½, at which fair sales were made. To-day we quote Namuan Mill cleaned rice at $1.50, and Nasuan at $1.75 per picul, the latter being, however, very scarce indeed. The further run of prices will much depend on the weather during the next few weeks, but when we take into account the admitted shortness of our crop and the large number of ships coming forward, we cannot even under the most favourable circumstances expect to see any very material decline in rates, at least for some little time to come. The weather has been lately more favourable, supplies of paddy in consequence became at once more plentiful. Sugar can only now be bought in small quantities at Tls. 10 ($6.53 per picul f.o.b.) for No. 16, Laconchaisee, and Tls. 6 ($4 per picul f.o.b,) for good Brown. The new Sugar begins to come to market in January. Sapanwood is unchanged in value, and in request for China at Tls. 3 per picul ($2.21 per picul f.o.b.). Sticklac: No supplies have lately reached our market. Teel Seed has declined in value and best quality was yesterday bought at Tls. 80½ per coyan ($3.14 per picul f.o.b). Second quality is worth Tls. 76 per coyan. There is now a good demand for both kinds. Gamboge and Gum Benjamin: Our market is still without supplies. Buffalo Hides have declined to Tls. 10½ per picul ($7.47 per picul f.o.b). Buffalo Horns are worth Tls. 12½ per picul ($8.27 per picul f.o.b). Deer Horns are procurable in small quantities at Tls. 13 per picul ($8.50 per picul f.o.b.). Black Pepper: There has been none whatever in the market during the past two weeks.

STRAITS PRODUCE.

SINGAPORE.—Tin sold at $29.75 per picul, but since receipt of telegrams from England to Aug. 13, quoting it £130, the article had been much inquired for, and first arrivals would probably fetch about $31 per picul. Gambier placed to an average extent during the fortnight at $3.02½ to 3.07½, and at the higher quotation dealers were very firm. Black Pepper much wanted at about $8.30 per picul, little or none obtainable. White Pepper worth $11½ to 12 per picul, according to quality; supplies very small. Pearl Sago advanced to $3.15 for small, and $3.22½ for large grain. Sago Flour: 7,000 piculs from Labuan taken at $2.65 to 2.68 per picul. Tapioca worth $3.50 to 3.62½, according to quality. Buffalo Hides of best quality worth $10½; second quality sold at $9⅞ to 10 per picul. Cow Hides: 1,100 piculs unpicked Rangoon taken at $13.62½. Gum Dammar sold at $11 to 12 per picul; 200 piculs in stock. India-rubber: A sale reported of 40 piculs at $46. Borneo quality placed at $29½ to 31. Gutta-percha: Sales of good quality at $63. Rattans scarce; good qualities worth $5 to 6½ per picul. Coffee: About 5,000 piculs Bontyne placed at $10.50 to 10.80 per picul, none remaining. Cubebs offered at $5¾ to 6 per picul.

PENANG.—The Produce Market had been but barely supplied during the fortnight. In the beginning of the fortnight a remainder of West Coast Black Pepper, sea-damaged, was purchased at $8.10 per picul, and at about the same time arrivals of Acheen secured at $8 to 8.07½ per picul, but towards the close the price advanced to $8.18 per picul, the rate of the last purchase. White Pepper not in large supply, taken at $11, $11¼ and $11½ per picul. Tin had been in limited supply, prices had ranged from $28.80 at the beginning of the fortnight to $31 per picul closing rate. Gum Benjamin: No transactions registered.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks.—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homœopathic preparation of Cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets labelled—JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

COMMERCIAL POSTSCRIPT.

The report of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, presented at Hong Kong on the 15th of August, showed an available total of assets amounting to $309,398, and a dividend at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum was declared, which will absorb $210,000. The report and balance sheet will be found in full in our advertising columns.

Referring to the fact that the steamer Magdala, 825 tons, has just left Shanghai with a full cargo of tea for New York, via the Suez Canal, and that another of the same class was on the berth for that port by the same route, the Shanghai News Letter observes:—

"It seems certain that teas destined for the American market will hereafter be sent by the way of the Cape in very small quantities, if at all. Time will soon determine which of the two routes, the Pacific Ocean and Continental Railroad, or the Indian Ocean, Red Sea, Mediterranean, and Atlantic, will be found the most convenient for the transmission of the precious leaf to New York. If the latter route should prove the most advantageous, the Americans, thanks to the vicious legislation, will be dependent for their tea exclusively through British steamers. It might be supposed that the most bigoted protectionist can hardly look with complacency on the results of his policy, as regards our mercantile marine. Americans may not, like Germans, for example, go and purchase iron steamers cheaply on the Clyde, and thus compete for the carrying trade to their own country, but be content to retire from the seas in favour of European rivals. Legislative tinkering by subsidies and the like are not what our merchants desire—they simply wish to be let alone, to be allowed to employ their capital as they, and not as Congress see fit, and then, if the Suez Canal proves the best route to the Atlantic seaboard, they may be able to share in its profits; as it is, this is prohibited."

ENGLAND'S DUTY AT THE PRESENT CRISIS.

The hope which we expressed last week—the universal hope which then animated Europe—that the negotiations for an armistice might result in the settlement of a basis of terms on which peace would be restored, has been utterly frustrated. There is now no prospect of warfare being suspended for a moment until France is entirely overrun by the armies of her invaders, and virtually subjugated, at least for a time. From the Tuileries alone does it now seem possible that Germany will consent to dictate the terms of such a peace as her exhausted foe must be brought to submit to, unless indeed, the spectacle of the sufferings of France, in her last hopeless struggle for the preservation of her honour, should irresistibly incite some of the Powers at present neutral to interpose in her behalf. The latest accounts from Russia give some appearance of probability to the apprehension that that mighty Empire will not long be content to be merely a spectator of the war. If Russia should be involved, hardly any other Continental Power can be expected to remain neutral, and the conflict, with all its ruinous consequences, may thus be extended and protracted indefinitely. In the meantime, France, regarded as single-handed and friendless, seems utterly crushed. One after another of the fortresses which she has refused to cede, even for the purpose of negotiation, have been wrested from her; her chief armies are either decimated, hemmed in, or captive; and, to crown her calamity, she possesses no Government which she and her conqueror can agree to recognise. The Emperor, who is still nominally the head of the State, is not only a prisoner, but, it is said, in such a shattered condition of health that even his life cannot be counted upon from day to day. Should he die now, the idea of a Napoleonic Regency during the minority of the Prince Imperial is too improbable to be taken into calculation. The Provisional Government, self-elected and irresponsible, is flying from town to town, in search of some resting place where it may be able to reorganise the country, and perhaps to invest itself with accredited power. In the meantime its conduct is without dignity or consistence; it is merely the mouthpiece of the frenzy of the people, and even their confidence in it shows signs of instability. For the present France is lost through the mismanagement of her vast army and the uselessness of her magnificent fleet.

The French squadron which has just evacuated the North Sea has done literally nothing. It consisted of eight cuirassed frigates, accompanied by from two to five corvettes. With the exception of two ships, which made every morning for the mouth of the Weser and the Jade, this goodly array used to be stationed all day about seven miles south of Heligoland, where they could watch the Elbe, and, at the same time, were near enough to support their western division in case of need. When twilight set in, the whole fleet united again, and, having ranged in line of battle to avoid surprise in the night, stood right out to sea. Dawn brought them back to their old anchorage, when the same manœuvres were again gone through with monotonous regularity. Every now and then a German man-of-war would come out of the Jade to reconnoitre, and go back again when chase was given. Thus five weeks passed, during which all this powerful fleet effected was to capture four insignificant vessels in their attempt to run the blockade; and two of these were so worthless that the French did not think it worth while to take them home with them when they bade farewell to the German shores!

Such, or of such effect, was the conduct of a whole war navy, in apparent strength little inferior to our own, at a time when the barbarous massacre of their countrymen at Tientsin demanded the presence of no inconsiderable part of their force to extort expiation from the Chinese. Such, to all intents and purposes, it remains. Powerless to serve their country by harassing its invaders at home, the French men-of-war show no sign of being destined to rescue or reinforce their countrymen in the Far East, now that they are threatened with equal danger.

This is not the time to enlarge upon the humiliation and disgrace of such inactivity, at least without suggesting the best remedy in our power for the evils which, thus caused, are sapping European power and influence in the East. All Englishmen are united in the fervent hope that their country may not be dragged into the war between two Powers equally friendly to it. There is not much chance that England will be so involved, if her Government remains true to the principles of the people, which, in this respect, there is no reason to doubt. But is there no way in which, without the slightest infraction of neutrality, England may intervene to the advantage of the interests of both belligerents, and to her own infinite honour, by taking upon herself the protection of European civilisation and commerce in the Far East? We think it is her imperative duty to do so. The French and German fleets are locked up in the contemplation of each other, while the extermination of "foreigners" of every nationality is the all-absorbing object of the distant barbarians who are watching with ferocious satisfaction the war which is now raging in Europe. Every day that the present war continues adds to the insecurity of life and property in the East, and, if this state of things is prolonged, it may make new wars necessary to regain the position—dear alike to French, Germans, and Englishmen—which it has taken years of industry, enterprise, and treaty to acquire. Some more energetic steps are required from our Government than were indicated in the very unsatisfactory reply of Lord Granville to the deputation of merchants consequent on the Tientsin massacre. With the quarrels of France in Europe we have nothing to do; but, in the East, the injuries done to her are injuries done to us. Our own prestige, even our own safety in the East, require that we should constitute ourselves the guardians, as we have been the pioneers, of civilisation and commerce in China. The Government seems slow to perceive the emergency of the occasion, and further pressure must be brought upon it to rouse it to action. In the benefits that will result from such action the Germans and the French will share as largely as ourselves, and we appeal to German and French merchants to co-operate with their English brethren in giving weight and force to the expression of their sentiments on this question, at other meetings of those interested in China, to be held in the principal cities of England and throughout the East.

Since publishing the foregoing article we have received a telegram, which appears in another column, and which suggests an alarming picture of the danger of foreigners in China on the expiration of the French ultimatum, without its being complied with. The Chinese were then buying and manufacturing arms in large quantities, and still instructions were awaited from the Home Government. Nothing could more strikingly illustrate the necessity of the action, recommended in our last sentences, so as to awaken the Government to a sense of the real nature of a situation which none who understand it, or who care to inquire into it, can regard without the most anxious sympathy. We call attention to an admirable article in the Standard of this morning, on this subject, which we have reproduced.

The members of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce have resolved to memorialise the Government on the subject of the Tientsin massacre. The memorialists urge that immediate steps should be taken to procure redress for the wrongs committed, and security for the future.

ROMAN CATHOLIC MISSIONS IN CHINA.

(THE GLOBE.)

The current number of the "Annals of the Propagation of the Faith" contains a long letter from Father Lebocq, a missionary in the province of Chili, in China, which at this time derives especial interest, both on account of the insight it gives us into the condition of the Roman Catholic missions in the neighbourhood of Tientsin, and also from the description it furnishes us with of the Viceroy, Tseng-kwo-Fan, whose name has been brought so prominently forward in connection with the massacre at that place. M. Lebocq's letter is dated January 18, 1870, and at that time so little did he anticipate the storm which was soon to break over his brethren that he begins by expressing a fear that the peaceful details of his district, Hokien-foo, will be found "less interesting" than those received from the more disturbed parts of China. According to his account, there were in his district, in the beginning of 1868, no less than 3,000 catechumens. In that year, owing to the invasion of the Nien-fei, the mission work was, for the most part, suspended, yet even in this time of trouble he baptised 500 adults. During the first half of 1869 1,812 were added to the number, and he considered that "the harvest of 1870 promised to be no less abundant than the preceding one." The members of the mission were on the best possible terms with the local officials, and had invariably received redress from them for the few outrages that had been committed on themselves or their converts by those common enemies of all missionaries, the literati.

The appointment in the spring of last year of Tseng-kwo-Fan to the Viceroyalty of Chili, and the arrival with him at the capital of the province of 10,000 soldiers, caused great consternation among the friendly mandarins and converts, who, judging from the well-known antipathy felt by the new Viceroy towards foreigners, very generally believed that the force thus collected was to be employed to extirpate the Europeans. A personal acquaintance with Tseng-kwo-Fan, however, caused M. Lebocq to take a much more charitable view of his character than that generally adopted by both natives and foreigners. To M. Lebocq he appeared a headstrong man, unwilling to take advice from any one, but at the same time friendly disposed towards Europeans. His influence with the Emperor and Dowager Empress is very considerable, and is owing in a great measure to the powerful support which he has invariably given to their dynasty. He recommends his subordinates not to grant anything to the missionaries beyond what is stipulated for in the Treaties. And M. Lebocq sums up the impression made on him by the Viceroy by saying that his countenance, manner, and conversation indicate rather "a philosopher who administers the duties of Government while dreaming over his books" than an active politician. And yet, according to M. Lebocq, the Viceroy gave him some eminently practical advice, which, if generally followed, would save the missionaries from much annoyance. He told him that the gentlemen of his cloth "disregarded too openly the opinions and creeds of the population by asking for or receiving pagodas and public buildings, to transform them into churches; a thing very much to be regretted, which the Pagans would never forgive, and which they would sooner or later try to avenge." Recent events have probably opened M. Lebocq's eyes to a more perfect conception of Tseng-kwo-Fan's character. His supreme contempt of the chance that Christianity can ever have of making way against the doctrine of Confucius, makes him comparatively tolerant of missionaries. But his views on the relations of his country with European nations may be gathered from the following passage, which occurred in his celebrated memorial presented to the Throne about two years since:—"Foreigners are now in the ascendant," he wrote; "but we cannot, to the neglect of the miseries of our own people, follow all the windings through which complaisance would lead us. Should times ever alter, and China be in the ascendant, while foreigners are weak, we shall then wish to do no more than protect the Chinese, nor shall we seek for military glory beyond the seas." If any significance is to be attached to words, these in the mouth of Tseng-kwo-Fan mean plainly enough that he is only waiting until China shall have become sufficiently strong to raise the cry of "China for the Chinese," and to sweep all foreigners out of the Empire. Perhaps he thinks that that time has now arrived.

There is one other point in M. Lebocq's letter on which we shall touch, as it illustrates one cause which gives rise to the want of union, which is so commonly observed among foreigners, and especially among foreign missionaries in China, and that is the very uncharitable way in which he speaks of the efforts of Protestant missionaries working in the same field as himself. Without the least hesitation he imputes to them and to their converts the most mercenary of motives. Describing the career of a native catechist, he says, that having been "dismissed from an English warehouse," and "finding himself without money or occupation, he became a Protestant," and he thus speaks of the missionaries of a certain district:—"The preachers scattered money about in profusion . . . . . and before long 500 of them (the natives) became Protestants; showing, however, less eagerness to hear the doctrine of the ministers than to receive their sapecs, and partake of the abundant repasts offered to them." Such is the language M. Lebocq uses in reference to the efforts of the English and American missionaries throughout his letter. Even supposing the charges which are thus recklessly brought to be true, the manner in which he makes them is, to say the least, unchristian; but we cannot help thinking that he has formed his estimate of those he thus depreciates upon very insufficient grounds, and, if he will allow us, we would recommend him to read over the passages in his letter to which we have referred, and compare the tone in which they are composed with that which animates the letters of sympathy which were addressed to the Roman Catholic priests by the Protestant missionaries in China on the recent massacre of their brethren at Tientsin.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Poonah, from Southampton on the 1st inst., was, in gold, to Alexandria, £111,320; in silver, to Hong Kong, £2,500; total in gold, £111,320; in silver, £2,500.

THE LAST NEWS FROM CHINA.

(THE STANDARD.)

The warnings which we have felt it our duty, from time to time, to give to the public, founded upon the ominous complexion of affairs in China, are amply justified by the tenour of our latest intelligence. It is now clear that another war with China is inevitable, unless we prefer to accept the humiliation which has been prepared for us; which means that we are to submit all European interests to the will of that "ancient civilisation" whose ministers slaughter and mutilate women and children. The last telegram from China informs us that the demands of Count Rochechouart, the French ambassador at the Court of Peking, for compensation for the Tientsin massacres have been rejected, that the population at the seaports are being supplied with arms, and that the temper of the officials is most insolent and threatening. Those who have watched the current of events, and are acquainted with the character of the very remarkable diplomacy which has been pursued on the part of England towards the Chinese Government, can scarcely be said to be unprepared for such an issue. Although what is called the pro-foreign party in China is said to have influence with the Imperial Government, it could scarcely surprise any one who has studied the growth of recent Chinese sentiment to hear that the compensation demanded for the outrage at Tientsin has been refused. Those who planned and directed the attack on the Christian missionaries must have gauged with tolerable accuracy the temper of the ruling powers. That attack was undoubtedly part of a deliberate plan to insult and flout the barbarian foreigner, after the approved fashion of the "ancient civilisation." The murder of the Sisters of Charity and of the French Consul's family was no wanton or sudden act of violence, to be charged upon the religious fanaticism or the political fervour of the Tientsin braves. It could not have taken place without the knowledge and the connivance of the local authorities, and, as there is good reason to believe, even of the superintendent of the province, the notorious Tseng-kwo-Jui, whose own connection with the Imperial Minister, Tseng-kwo-Fan, is perfectly well known throughout China. The circumstance of the attack being directed against French citizens was purely accidental. The French were the victims simply because they happened to be nearest to the butchers of Tseng-kwo-fui. It is shown even by the tenour of the Imperial proclamations themselves which have been issued since the massacre that the fury of the populace was not directed against the French as a nation, but against all foreigners, excepting perhaps the Russians. The case of the French, therefore, is the case of all the European nations having dealings with China. The Tientsin massacre is but the first spark of the conflagration which is intended by the native Chinese party to involve all the European settlements. And it was idle to expect that the Imperial Government should have the power even if it had the will to give any satisfaction for injury which was premeditated and intended to be the first step in the new Chinese policy against foreigners, and of which the authors were among those highest in the family and in the councils of the Emperor. To seek compensation against Tseng-kwo-Fan and his satellites is in effect to ask these worthies to punish themselves. It was inevitable that the demands of the French ambassador should be rejected, as it was inevitable that the step taken at Tientsin should be followed be a general series of attacks upon the foreigner all along the coast.

The danger on this occasion, it is to be borne in mind, is very much more serious than ever it has been before. Even since the last war the Chinese have been devoting themselves to the cultivation of their military resources; and, thanks to their European instructors, they have attained to a considerable amount of discipline and warlike proficiency. They are in possession of rifles and guns of all the latest patterns, and have learnt to make them for themselves. The Imperial army includes in its ranks many battalions of trained and excellent soldiers. The navy possesses many vessels of war, built and equipped in the European style. All that the genius of a Gordon, the skill and experience of a Sherard Osborn, could do to make China an important military power, has been accomplished. The warlike forces of the empire, by grace of the incredible fatuity or magnanimity of the British Government, are no longer contemptible in European eyes; nor will it be possible for British troops to venture again upon the feats of 1858, unless in very much larger numbers. The anti-foreign party has doubtless calculated upon this improvement in the offensive powers of China. They believe that their guns, and rifles, their drill and their equipment, are as good as those of the despised foreigners; and nothing else is wanted to turn them to thoughts of war. The fatal policy with which Lord Clarendon's name has been identified has only served to increase the confidence of the Chinese war party in themselves, and to foment their feelings of antipathy to the outside barbarians. Our new attitude of forbearance they naturally construe into cowardice, and all the compliments which we have paid to that fond ideal of certain of our Liberals—Chinese civilisation—have been interpreted to mean that we have at last begun to perceive our inferiority to the true and only children of light—the citizens of the "Middle Kingdom." There can be but one end to the controversy. If we are not prepared to go to war with this highly enlightened people, who disembowel Sisters of Mercy and torture little children, we must give up all that we hold on the Chinese coast. The decision has to be made at once, for we may expect any day to hear that the Tientsin precedent has been followed at other Chinese ports. What, then, is our Government about to do in this Chinese matter? Is the policy of Lord Clarendon to be followed to its legitimate conclusions? Too weak to keep the peace in Europe are we powerless to maintain ourselves even in China?

We are not much encouraged to hope for a vigorous policy when we remember what Mr. Gladstone and some of his colleagues have done and said in regard to the Chinese question. It may be that Mr. Gladstone in office will be more vigorous and more sensitive to the national honour than Mr. Gladstone in opposition. But we cannot forget the many occasions on which Mr. Gladstone has identified himself personally with that policy which is now bearing such bitter fruit in China. It is almost hopeless to expect that the man who spoke of the expedition up the Peiho in 1857 as though it had been a kind of piratical raid will take any sound or just views as to the duty of England towards China in 1870.

(MORNING POST.)

The news from China is quite as ominous as we had anticipated. The French Minister had made certain demands in reparation of the Tientsin outrage, and a certain time was given for the fulfilment of these demands. The time has gone by, and the stipulations have not been complied with. But the worst feature of the case is that the Chinese are said to be evidently making warlike preparations. The non-compliance with the French Minister's demands can hardly be attributed to accident. If we mistake not there has been a deliberate intention on the part of the Chinese to slight the more important of the terms named. Some of the minor stipulations have been either conceded or carried out with a promptitude calculated, and we may presume intended, to convey the impression that the Chinese authorities desired to make due reparation. But it would now seem that they had no settled intention of satisfying Count de Rochechouart, and if so, it would seem that the Chinese believe in their ability to defy European coercion. No doubt the news of the French having been engaged in a disastrous war at home, coupled with the delay in sending instructions from France, has stimulated the Chinese to adopt a hostile attitude. They may naturally have supposed that England would not readily engage in any more operations in China; and, believing that France was too busily occupied at home to attend to small affairs at a distance, they may have seen in the present situation of affairs a good opportunity for displaying the contempt for foreigners that they always profess to feel.

The terms demanded by Count de Rochechouart were, we are told, the restoration of the French Mission buildings and Consulate destroyed by the Tientsin mob, the public burial of the victims and the erection of a monument to their memory, a monetary compensation, the delivery of the imprisoned converts, the punishment of the leading rioters, and the execution of the Prefect and City Magistrate of Tientsin and of the notorious Tseng-kwo-Jui. It has been understood that the Chinese authorities would have agreed to all these terms save the last two. They have been supine about the capture of the principal rioters, having apprehended but very few of them, although the offenders were well known, and of those arrested many were allowed to escape. And they had failed to comply with the demand to have the compromised officials executed. This latter condition, it is plain, was the chief point of disagreement. The Prefect and City Magistrate were admittedly to blame for allowing the massacre, for they were degraded from office, and handed over to the Board of Punishments to have their case more closely enquired into. But some two months had elapsed, and still no further measures had been taken in respect to them. As to Tseng-kwo-Jui—who is supposed to have been the chief instigator and arranger of this outrage, as he had been of the disturbance at Nanking also—his liberty of action had not been interfered with; and the fact of his being a friend of the Viceroy, also a hater of foreigners, seemed to render at very unlikely that he would be even arrested, much less executed. In view of the horrible and unprovoked outrage committed upon the French subjects in Tientsin, and the notorious complicity of the officials whose execution was demanded, it cannot be contended that the conditions laid down by Count de Rouchechouart were over exacting or onerous; nor were they impossible or even difficult of fulfilment.

We were greatly afraid that the Chinese Government would fail to act with an energy and decision indicative of abhorrence of the massacre, or of desire to offer every reparation possible, notwithstanding their protestations against being treated other than as in the case of civilised Powers. The fact of the ruling dynasty of China being foreign to the country, being usurpers, militates against the establishment of friendly and intimate relations between outside nations and the Chinese. To keep the natives ignorant and subservient is the evident and, indeed, natural aim of the Tartars. They wish to hold China and to "squeeze" the Chinese, and the knowledge introduced by the example and the influence of civilised foreigners would tend to the loosening of the Tartar grasp on the easy going Chinese proper. The Chinese Government would seemingly desire to reap the benefit of "barbarian" trade, and yet to prevent foreigners penetrating into the country or to teach the people in any shape or way. Ignorance and prejudice are the desiderata of the ruling class of China for its teeming millions, and these being incompatible with unrestricted intercourse with free and enlightened peoples, there must ever be an antagonism on the part of Chinese authorities to this intercourse, or to any approach to it. This animating cause of all our troubles with China being known, there can be no wonder at the effects that are ever and anon to be observed and deplored. Such an explanation of the state of affairs in China is the best reply to those who talk about the scandal of foreigners forcing themselves, their views, their religion, and their trade upon an unwilling country. It is absolutely necessary to discriminate between the Chinese and their rulers. The Chinese are inoffensive, industrious, and, being avaricious, well content to profit by the trade of the foreigner. Left to themselves, they would neither massacre people of other nationalities, nor deny them free access into their country. But with the Tartars, the mandarins, the literati, the dominant class, it is altogether different. The great question for the outside world is—Shall this dominant class in, but not of, China, be permitted to practically exclude foreigners and to violate international amenity, usage, and law, in striving to bolster up their usurped authority? It is greatly to be regretted that, at a moment of such urgency and importance, not only to France, but to all other nations having dealings with China, there is no properly constituted government in France to deal with the question in a suitable manner. We have yet to learn whether any prompt and definite instructions have been sent out to Count de Rochechouart. But should the Chinese authorities be allowed to gain a practical, though an indirect, triumph, over one of the Powers having relations with them, it will surely be the prelude of future difficulties for all of the other Powers. The Chinese are said to be "buying and rapidly manufacturing arms." Against whom are these arms to be used?

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 26.

The Minister of the Financial Department has issued his budget, and for the first time for several years he has had to announce the necessity for raising a loan to cover the expenditure for 1871, which is estimated at f.96,426,423.30c., and the receipts at only f.86,764,193.50c., including a contribution from Java of f.10,000,000. The deficit is thus f.9,662,229.80c. Mr. Van Bosse proposes to cover this deficiency, partly by a loan of eight millions, and partly by an income-tax. Notwithstanding that every one has known for some years that our revenue was not equal to our expenditure, the public have not taken much heed thereabout, the Javanese having had to contribute what the Dutch could or would not pay. According to the Staats Courant, our official paper, Java has poured into our Treasury from 1852-70 no less a sum than f.493,020,150.96c. The receipts of the India Administration were during these years f.2,027,550,744.71c., and its expenditure f.1,534,530,593.74c. Instead of our being ashamed of receiving, or at least thankful for such an enormous contribution in so very few years, our Conservatives grumble and excite the nation against the Liberals, who endeavour to make our financial system free of Java. The Conservatives prefer that the Javanese should still work for our benefit; that we should construct a railway-net with the sweat and blood of the natives; that we should expend millions on behalf of education here, and withhold it from our brown brothers, who, however, have to pay for it. Thanks to our shameful colonial system, we could pay off our national debt with the amount that we now expend every year—eight and a-half million francs—in interest. One hundred and six and a-half million francs has been paid—with Java money—for the construction of railways, and the Conservatives grumble that we have to borrow thirty millions more in order to complete them. The most necessary works in India are suspended, or but partly constructed; we do not care for the wants of Java; we do not pay, or but partially remunerate, the Javanese for their work. And now that at last the eyes of the public are so much opened that a liberal Minister has had the hardiesse to take the first step in order to make our financial system free of Java—except, of course, a fixed contribution of so many millions a-year—now the Conservative party erics out that the Liberals cheat us in that they intend to make us pay, instead of the Javanese; and the Dutch do not like to pay, so that the principles preached by our Tories find a better reception, that is reconcilable to our national honour.

The Minister of the Foreign Department, Mr. Roess (whose resignation is now positively contradicted), intends again to ask a credit for a diplomatic mission in China. The individual appointed will not only be our chargé d'affaires, but at the same time Consul General. The expenditure is fixed at f.21,000 a-year.

The High Court has granted the requested delay of three months before pronouncing a definitive decision with regard to the demand for surséance of payment of the Oost Indische Maatschappy van Lyfrente. The documents are in possession of the commissaries. The question now remains whether time will bring money.

The uncertainty which still prevails with regard to peace continues to impose a check upon business. In some branches, however, the greatest activity prevails. Enormous quantities of goods were daily shipped from here via England to America so long as the Elbe and the Wezer were blockaded, but of course this activity will decrease now that the French fleet has left the Baltic, and Germany will forward its goods via Hamburg and Bremen. I have already told you that early in October the first steamer will start from here direct for New York. A great many steamers arrive both here and at Amsterdam, with merchandise from Havre. All these cargoes are stored here, and it is said that they are transferred for fear of the German invasion. I do not know if this assertion is true, but it is certain that these goods are not bought by Dutch houses. Perhaps a portion is destined for transit. Money remains very dear; the Bank rate is still five per cent.

In the district of Eindhoven Mr. J. B. Bots has been elected a member of the Second Chamber.

SIR J. F. W. HERSCHEL, in a letter to The Times, assures the public, in reference to the statement that Mr. Wade, Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires at Peking, was, at the time of the Tientsin massacre, at his summer residence near the capital, and had continued there ever since, that Mr. Wade was at Tientsin a few days after that melancholy event, and has resided chiefly at Peking up to the departure of the last mail.

"MALOO MIXTURE."—The Food Journal for October continues its startling revelations on the adulteration of the stuff miscalled tea, and exported from China under the title of "Maloo mixture." No doubt some other name will have to be found for this nauseous compound, now that the Food Journal has explained that its constituent materials are proved by analysis to consist of tea leaves and maggots, iron filings, rice husks and straw, plumbago, silkworms' droppings, fragments of limestone, minute seeds (name unknown), and fragments of willow leaves and stalks. It would be a public boon if the Food Journal's illustration, showing the appearance of a sample of "Maloo mixture" under the microscope, and with a magnet (about which the iron filings cling), could be posted on the walls, or given away as a handbill in front of the shops of the grocers who lend themselves to the sale of such poison. It must be borne in mind, however, that all this adulteration takes place before export, and, therefore, is the handiwork of the Chinese alone.

TENTH REPORT

Of the Court of Directors to the ORDINARY HALF-YEARLY GENERAL MEETING of Shareholders, held at the CITY HALL, HONG KONG, on MONDAY, the 15th August, 1870.

TO THE PROPRIETORS OF THE HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI BANKING CORPORATION.

Gentlemen,—The directors have to lay before you the Tenth Half-yearly Report upon the transactions of the Corporation for the six months ending on the 30th June last, together with a statement of accounts, assets, and liabilities.

The net profit for the period covered by this report, including $46,280.12 brought forward from last account, after paying all charges, deducting interest paid and due, and making ample provision for bad debts, amounts to $324,345,65, of which, after taking out rebate on bills not yet due and remunerations to directors, there remains for appropriation $309,398.33.

From this sum the Directors recommend the distribution of a dividend of $7.50 per share on the paid-up shares, and $3 on the new shares, being equivalent to 6 per cent. for the half-year (or 12 per cent. per annum), which will absorb $210,000. The balance, $99,398.33, they recommend being carried forward to the credit of new account, deferring, as was done last year at the same time, the carrying of any sum to the reserve fund until the result of the Bank's working for the year shall be submitted for consideration at the ensuing yearly meeting.

The net profit for the last six months shows a marked improvement compared to that of the corresponding period of the preceding year, and the directors are happy to record that the development of the Bank's resources, due to the liberal support of its numerous constituency, has kept pace with the increase of the paid-up capital of the Corporation; this steady progress will ensure results still more remunerative as soon as general exchanges assume a less uncertain and unsettled course than has been almost always the case during the past eighteen months. In the meantime, the proprietors may be congratulated on the strong and prosperous position acquired by the Corporation at all the places where the Bank's business is carried on.

CALLS.

The third call of $25 per share on the new shares of the Corporation due on 1st July last has been punctually met on 19,117 shares out of 20,000. The balance outstanding is due mostly on shares held by proprietors absent from the Colony, from whom the necessary remittances are shortly expected to come in.

Referring to the explanations contained in their previous Report, the Directors have decided to make the fourth Call of $25 per share on the new shares payable on the 1st of July, '1871, which will raise the paid-up Capital of the Corporation to $4,500,000, or about the equivalent of One Million Sterling.

DIRECTORS.

Two members of the Board, Mr. J. B. Taylor, Deputy-Chairman, and Mr. W. H. Forbes, have resigned their seats on their departure from the Colony.

The Honourable R. Rowett has been elected Deputy-Chairman.

AUDITORS.

The Honourable Phineas Ryrie, formerly one of the auditors of the Corporation, has been re-elected in the same capacity to fill the vacancy left by Mr. William Macauley's retirement.

CHIEF MANAGEMENT.

Mr. Victor Kresser, the Chief Manager of the Bank, having notified his intention to retire at the expiration of his engagement, the Directors have appointed Mr. James Greig, at present Sub-Manager at the Head-office, to the post of Acting Chief Manager, to take charge on the 1st of January next.

The Directors will regret to be deprived of the continuation of Mr. Kresser's services after that date, and they feel it their pleasant duty to record their high appreciation of his very able and successful conduct of the Bank's business since its earliest commencement.

Mr. David Maclean, Manager of the Shanghai Branch, was offered the situation of Chief Manager, but declined the appointment, under a conscientious belief that the interests of the Corporation will be better served by his remaining at Shanghai.

H. B. LEMANN, Chairman.

FOUR GOLD MEDALS.

Supplied to the British, French, Prussian, Russian, Italian, Dutch, and other Governments. Dr. Lankester writes regarding Extract of Meat:—"But there is a difference in flavour, and here, as in all other kinds of food, it is the flavour that makes the quality." It is essentially on account of the fine meaty flavour, as distinguished from the burnt taste of other Extracts, that LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT defeated all Australian and other sorts at Paris, Havre, and Amsterdam, and is so universally preferred in all European markets.
One pint of fine-flavoured Beef-tea at 2½d. Most convenient and economic "stock."

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.—The disorders peculiar to women are the most delicate and difficult to conduct to a favourable termination, unless they receive prompt relief from well accredited sources. Upon their early and judicious treatment hangs the momentous question whether woman enjoy strength, soundness, and cheerfulness, or pine away in weakness, disease, and misery. Holloway's inestimable preparations are the most reliable remedies for restoring weakened or suspended functions. The Ointment should be rubbed on the back and stomach for at least ten minutes every night and morning till restoration takes place and perfect functional regularity is induced. While thus using the Ointment Holloway's Pills should be freely taken, in order to purify the blood, and cleanse the system.

The French Mail was delivered this morning, but our usual files from Hong Kong have not been received, nor the list of passengers. The difficulty of travelling through France to Marseilles has caused a great pressure on the Southampton steamers, hitherto neglected. The route by Brindisi has improved, and now only occupies four days by Germany and the Brenner pass. Should the difficulty of transit for the Mails increase, we presume the Post-office will stop the Marseilles service.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Aug. 22, 1870.

The war news has startled us all very much, and we look anxiously for later telegrams; we received them to 27th July, via Kiachta, three days ago, by a steamer from Chefoo. French and Prussian ships are shut up here, and neutral flags will get the benefit; but freights are very low, and plenty of ships seeking; forty shillings to New York for A1 clippers. The coolie ship F. A. Palmer, which put in here, from Hong Kong to San Francisco, with 800 passengers, early in June, is now sending these poor creatures forward by Pacific Mail steamer to their destination, as she cannot get spars for her masts. The men have been shut up by the Japanese Government in a sort of barracoon, and were kept close prisoners, as the ship belongs to San Salvador, and has no Consul here or treaty with Japan. The America takes 300 of them, and the balance will go forward by ship or next steamer.

The Albion case is a very queer one, and results in two actions by Mr. Hoyt—one for libel, and the other for false imprisonment; but neither is likely to result in a verdict for the plaintiff. It is said that the vessel has gone far south, and may be found some day near the Fijie Islands. The whole affair is enveloped in mystery at present. The judge has just arrived from Shanghai, and will open an Admiralty Court here. The City of Yedo case enlists the sympathies of the community, and already over $1,300 has been raised by the merchants to assist the sufferers and their families. Glover and Co., of Nagasaki, have been put into bankruptcy, but it has been superseded. Mr. Gribble, of that firm, has started on his own account, with a view to keep the connection together.

There have been several sales of steamers lately, including the Columbian, Nymph, Cadiz, and Tokei. Jardine's splendid steamer Clan Alpine is for sale here, but she is too good for the Japanese. The Chieftain (formerly H.M.S. Mutine) is likely to be sold here. Captain McMinnies is in command.

There is nothing doing in Silk, pending the American mail's arrival. Tea very dear, but shipments to America are large. Government monopoly in trading checks business very much, but nobody moves in the matter. Rice is scarce and advancing; imports since 1st January are over two and a-half millions of piculs, and stocks 300,000 to 400,000 piculs. The new crop has been damaged by bad weather, and cannot be harvested before the end of September at the earliest. Dr. Parker, of Shanghai, goes home by this mail steamer, which takes 2,300 tons cargo and nearly 500 passengers of all classes.

(FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.)

The Japanese Government are most anxious to prevent any disturbances with foreigners, because they are so afraid of Foreign Powers coming to their country and taking all, or a portion. A Naval College is to be established in Yedo, and an officer late of H.M.'s service is to have the management, and assisted by others. All their naval officers and men will have to pass college; so after three years we may expect their navy to be more efficiently manned. The drilling or organising of the army is still unsettled, the difference of opinion being as to the course of drill, whether French or English. A body of Satsuma's men are being taught music, so in the course of a year it will be advertised "Satsuma's Band in the Gardens this afternoon."

The Yokohama lottery of $20,000 has not succeeded, for the native authorities were very prompt in issuing a circular threatening their people with punishment if they took part. Are we in this part of the world so much better than our forefathers who indulged in them, and found them very useful means for raising funds? Of course, in England they are not now required, for money can always be raised by corporations, companies, and such like, but in Yokohama we cannot, and when pressed for money it is to me the only way it can be raised. I wish the press of this place would bear in mind that we are not in England, and that we have others than the English to deal with.

NAGASAKI.

Aug. 15, 1870.

My last letter, dated 15th ulto., went by the same route as the present one (via San Francisco). As there was no steamer leaving this port for Shanghai in time to catch the mail leaving on the 29th July I was unable to despatch my usual fortnightly letter. The London and China Express of 3rd June arrived here 30th July by the North German steamer Tapangnyo in fifty-seven days. The news that war is declared between France and North Germany was received here from Chefoo on the 12th instant, and confirmed this morning via Galle, but many people here think it is "wolf" again, as it has been several times before, and that the senders are interested in Tea or Silk, as some of the facts do not seem likely. One from German sources is that the North Germans are within forty-four miles of Paris, while dates are only twenty-five days old to this place. The gunboat Wun Yo Maro, built at Aberdeen, for the Prince of Chosiu, arrived here 18th July. The corvette Malacca, en route for Yokohama, put into this port 26th ult for coals, and sailed again 28th idem.

The French barque Mysore sailed for Bordeaux 23rd July, with the most miscellaneous cargo ever sent from this port, consisting chiefly of a choice collection of lacquerware and curios, which I hear are intended for the Paris market. These have been selected from various ports in Japan by Mr. Renard, of Paris, during his recent visit to this country. The following movements of men-of-war have taken place:—H.B.M.S. Adventure sailed 17th July, for Hiogo and Yokohama. H.B.M.S. Ocean arrived 25th ult. from Yokohama. The Russian corvette Usadnick arrived 5th inst. from Castries Bay. The North German corvette Hertha arrived here 12th inst. from Chefoo. The French corvette Dupleix, from Chefoo, came on in the 14th inst.

An abominable trade carried on by Chinese has been brought to light at this place. The custom of the Japanese selling their children has been carried on here for years past, but until lately it has been confined to selling boys only to Chinese who have no children, and in a large number of cases these adopted children have been treated with the greatest kindness by their guardians, more so than they would be by their own parents, who are very poor people, and have in many cases not the means of supporting them. I believe this state of things has existed with the connivance of the local officials, as the children were not sent away to China. Latterly, however, children of both sexes have been sold to Chinese speculators for shipment to China—for what purpose it has not transpired, but you may be sure it is with no good intent. This the Japanese authorities have effectually stopped by imprisoning the parents who sold their children.

The guardhouses at various points near to this settlement, alluded to in my last, are viewed with great suspicion, not only by the native traders, but by many foreigners, who no doubt recollect that they are similar movements to those made in 1865. Although these are a breach of the treaty, it is doubtful whether any steps will be taken by the Consular body, as the "wily" Japanese will plausibly explain that they are for foreigners' safety only, and thus an infringement of the treaty becomes law. The Nagasaki Express makes a few remarks on the subject, from which I extract the following:—"We have watched with some interest the unusual fit of energy displayed by the native officials 'for our sakes,' in planting guardhouses at every available spot surrounding our settlement. We have inquired at several likely quarters for an explanation, but as yet we have received no satisfactory answer. If danger is apprehended from the anti-foreign party, why has official notification of this not been made to our Consuls? Perhaps there may be some foundation for the rumour, but the cry of wolf has been raised so often—Kounins have always been close to Nagasaki, ready to chew us up in less than no time whenever it suited the purpose of the Government to say so, that we must be excused if we hesitate to give it full credence. If the object of the officials be sincere they will deserve our thanks, but we are always suspicious of 'disinterested motives,' and especially have we reason to be suspicious of unasked-for favours from the Japanese. It may be unfair, but we cannot help suspecting that the Government will make these guarded-houses serve other purposes than protecting foreigners. For their own sakes we should like to see these soldiers more gallantly employed; but with much of their contemptible surveillance we do not wish to interfere, only let them be careful how they intermeddle with our trade, and that no more illegal taxes are imposed, otherwise an appeal to Yedo may result not only in the redress of this but of many other gross violations of the Treaty." With reference to this subject even the Nagasaki Shipping List has changed its tone, and says, "We have now the strongest reason for suspecting that the ulterior object has yet to be discovered. Scarcely a day passes without there being some new regulation put in force."

The weather here has been very remarkable. After becoming suddenly warm the thermometer touched 93, and continued at about that figure for some days, and then just as suddenly the wind went round to the north, from which quarter it has continued to blow heavily during the past five days, which has caused people to take to cloth clothes again.

The Japanese officials seem to take great interest in the Tientsin affair, and on every steamer arriving from Shanghai great anxiety is shown to obtain information from the foreign residents and borrow their newspapers.

With all the much-vaunted reforms made by the Japanese Government at Yedo, the facilities for doing business at Nagasaki are worse than they were previous to the present lot of local officials taking office, but whether this state of things is known and sanctioned by the authorities at Yedo is doubtful, as some of the functions performed by the Customs are of the most paltry nature; for instance, any transactions (if they amount to twenty rios, a little over £4) between Japanese and the residents have to be reported by the native to the Custom-house and pay a squeeze, for duty it cannot be called. It does not seem that this sort of thing can be considered different to that existing at Decima in years gone past. An armed patrol marches through this settlement day and night, but no one seems able to say why the Japanese do this.

This being the Emperor Napoleon's fête day our harbour presents a very gay appearance; it is not often we have so many large men-of-war in port as now. In addition to the Ocean, Hertha, Dupleix, and Vaadwick, several British merchant vessels dressed ships, and the three former and the Japanese battery gave the customary salute at noon.

Announcement has been made that the firm of Gaymans and Co. ceased to exist in Nagasaki from the 1st July, and that at Hiogo and Osaka their business has been transferred to Messrs. E. Renard and Co., which firm Mr. P. H. Fricke and Mr. A. S. Genth are authorised to sign in Japan. This place looks the picture of wretchedness; scarcely any business is doing either in exports or imports, and everything and everyone seems depressed.

Exchange on London is nominal; an Admiralty draft, three days sight, was sold as high as 4s. 7d. per dollar some fourteen days ago. Nebous rapidly advanced from 440 to 410 at the end of July, but afterwards receded to 420, at which rate they nominally stand, but it is thought they will go lower yet. The cause of this sudden fluctuation is owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the coin rendering them dangerous to hold, and foreigners do not care about having more than enough to supply their immediate wants, and when they are compelled to purchase from the native money changers, the latter are quite masters of the position, and could, if they chose, put the price to 300, and there would be no remedy except the Englishman's privilege, "growl and pay it." With regard to Freights to London, I have not heard that the Alida has engaged any freight at less than £3 10s. per 50 feet; she still wants some 100 tons or so to complete her loading, which there is a little difficulty in getting just now. I hear that a considerable quantity of her cargo consists of transhipments from Hiogo.

CHINA.

PEKING AND TIENTSIN.

The Courier of Aug. 18 has the following:—

The foreign-armed troops in Peking are being drilled after the foreign style by Chinese drill-masters taught in the Tientsin school.

Tseng-kwo-Fan is reported to have gone privately to Peking, without the knowledge of his troops. This, however, needs confirmation. Mao has been notified as Chung How's successor. On hearing of the arrival of Li's troops the captain of the Ashuelot sent an express after some of his officers, who were on their way to Peking. On their return they reported having seen great numbers of soldiers outside, and thirty brass guns. The American Consul was requested to obtain information about them, and was told by the authorities there were only 2,500 troops.

At the powder-mills nothing is going on. The erection of machinery has been stopped, owing to the state of affairs. But for this they would by this time have been making powder.

About a week since it was reported that all the mandarins at Taku had left for Tientsin. It was explained that they had only come up to pay their respects to the Empress Dowager, whose birthday it was. They had left at dead of night, and curiously enough brought their wives and families and portable property with them. The troops thus deserted became uneasy; a messenger was sent down to report the circumstance, but found no one to report to. The officers have been made to return to their posts.

SHANGHAI.

The present mail brings dates to August 18. The London mail of June 24 arrived on August 14. Telegrams via Kiachta reached to July 26.

The war news has naturally tended to elate the Chinese, who think that France has her hands too full at home to despatch a force to China, and as of course any reparation would be made from fear of consequences rather than from a sense of justice, the expectation that French demands will be satisfied has fallen to a minimum. It is the more important, therefore, that they should be undeceived, and that if France is too busy for the moment some other nation should send troops to Shanghai, to impress the necessity for maintaining peace. It is far easier to prevent than to cure.

The Volunteer force is likely to receive a strong adjunct, in the shape of a sort of Burgher Guard. The complaint has been a frequent one among those who have enrolled that there are more men out of the corps than in it, and that the case is one in which all alike ought to come to the fore. A movement is now on foot for organising a reserve guard of men who have not seen fit to join the regular Volunteers, but who could still render good service in protecting the settlement, and especially the women and children, in case of trouble. The Volunteers themselves have reached a very fair stage of efficiency. A general parade was held last Friday, and we are glad to learn that it is proposed to hold similar meetings on the same day every week.

The Emperor Napoleon's fete-day was celebrated as usual, with much enthusiasm, by our French neighbours. A salute was fired shortly after sunrise from the French Bund, and a mass was performed at the Cathedral. Another salute was fired at noon, from H.I.M. Coetlogon; and a third in the evening, by the Volunteer Artillery, from the French Consulate. After sunset, the Bund was brilliantly illuminated, and attracted thousands of native and a large number of foreign spectators.

We learn that the people in Kiahing have been in a very excited state lately. Talk about burning down all the churches, and murdering and expelling foreigners, was rife. But the Chihsien has issued a proclamation, saying that kidnapping was the work of the Chinese vagabonds, and had nothing whatever to do with foreigners; that anyone in molesting a foreigner should be surely punished; and this had the effect of calming the excitement.

Our Peking correspondent dwells on the delay shown in punishing the Tientsin mandarins, and in apprehending the rioters as one proof among more that the Government are not heartily bent on dispelling the false tales which have been spread regarding foreigners, or calming the hostile feeling which has been excited. After six weeks, the former are still at large, and only nine men alleged to have been engaged in the outbreak are arrested. Not a single proclamation had been issued, denouncing the flagrancy of the crime; but the edicts which the Emperor has issued have failed, if they were ever intended, to allay the suspicions entertained.

The Cycle says that Ting-jihcheng, the Governor of Kiangsu, in consequence of his reputation for accurate acquaintance with foreigners, has been ordered to Peking, to aid in the settlement of the pending questions. The task does not seem very welcome, for instead of going by steamer and reaching the capital in ten days his Excellency is, in strict accordance with the rites, going by land. If he is lucky, he will complete the journey in about a month, as there are some eighteen stages to be passed, and allowance has to be made for bad weather.

We regret to learn that Baron Richthofen has been obliged to return from the North without completing the programme he had set for himself before starting. The unsettled state of affairs has made it impossible for him to prosecute the researches he had intended in north-west China. The invaluable information he has already collected renders the interruption more regretable.

The latest news from Tientsin is unsatisfactory. Nothing has yet been done towards punishing the guilty, though the officials profess to be occupied in searching them out. Seven weeks, however, have now elapsed since the massacre, and not a culprit has suffered, though the leaders of the riot must be well known to everyone in Tientsin. Neither has any progress been made towards the punishment of the mandarins beyond their degradation. It is believed that the anti-foreign party, which is the most powerful, will not consent to their execution, though willing to make reparation in other respects. One or two of the high officials are sufficiently wise to foresee the danger they are incurring, but the majority are said to be confirmed in their desire to resist. M. de Rochechouart is quite determined to stand by his demands, and is said to have named a short date for a final reply.

The delegation of Mao-chang-he to Tientsin is also spoken of as portending the ascendency of anti-foreign influence, as this mandarin is believed to be violently hostile to foreigners. Thousands upon thousands of fans have been put in circulation in Tientsin, bearing a representation of the massacre of the French Consul, the burning of the Consulate, and Chinese triumphant.

These fans are roughly got up, and sold for 40 or 50 cash only; made of bamboo and common paper, ill-finished. They purport to be in commemoration of the 21st June. They represent three foreigners—Fontanier, Cheverier or Simon, and Thomassin, overborne by a tremendous crowd, tremendously armed; the cathedral in flames. A boat-load of braves crossing the river to assist the assailants. Foreigners distinguished by red shirts, and one represented as being assaulted, while running out of the French Consulate. Lastly, the Che hsien present with his official chair. It is said another fan is being prepared, representing the murder of the Sisters.

Mr. Wade's visit to Tientsin is said to have done much to persuade him that the outbreak was premeditated, and to enlighten him as to the gravity of the position. His house at the hills, near Peking, has been robbed; at Tientsin stones were picked up, though not thrown. The report of troops assembling is being daily confirmed, and even the report of Li-hung-chang's approach with a strong force is gathering substance. It is said that the vanguard of his troops is already close at hand. Large numbers of troops can be seen from the mastheads of the ships in the Peiho, and the general impression is that the Chinese are quite ready to fight. The estimate of the force round Tientsin is necessarily unreliable, but it is certainly large.

It is rumoured that Mr. Hart has resigned the Inspector-Generalship of Customs, and that Mr. Dick and Baron de Meritens are to succeed him; but this is only rumour, and may perhaps have its origin in the removal of Mr. Hart's family from Peking, and in his reported intention to visit Europe shortly.

The Italian Legation is stopping at Chefoo, which is wisely preferred to Peking, in the present aspect of affairs. The Italian frigate Principessa Clotilde is expected here daily. The English and French Admirals are both in port. When the telegrams arrived, on the 15th, announcing war, the North German corvette Hertha went outside to one of the islands "for practice." and did not return. It is expected that she will meet the Medusa at Nagasaki. The Barrossa has not yet arrived. It is said that the American Minister has ordered the Ashuelot to remain here till further orders.

At Kiukiang the river has overflowed its banks. The bund of the foreign settlement has been submerged a couple of inches, and a large tract of country on the north banks has been flooded. Rumours were current that all the Yangtze ports were to be garrisoned.

The Courier says:—It is rumoured in the Settlement that a private telegram per Shansi, yesterday afternoon, conveyed the intelligence that the war between France and Prussia was at an end, and their differences were being peacefully adjusted. We sincerely hope this may be true, but we have been unable to trace the report to its source, and fear it is a case in which the wish has been father to the thought.

The Hipparchus left Shanghai for Hong Kong en route for London on the afternoon of the 16th of August. She takes 400 tons of tea, and 100 tons of other cargo. She takes, besides, in specie for Hong Kong, Tls. 220,000. Passengers for London per Hipparchus—Rev. W. B. Hodges and wife, Mr. J. Osborne, and two third-class passengers; for Hong Kong, Lieutenant R. G. Drew.

Proclamation.

Ting, a member of the Board of War, an assistant-censor and Lieutenant-Governor of Kiangsoo, issues the following proclamation:—

A short time since the business people of Shanghai, misled by rumours, were in a great state of alarm; the Futai, on the occasion, issued a proclamation clearly stating that he had examined and found that the Roman Catholics had never kidnapped persons for the purpose of scooping out their eyes, plucking out their heart and so forth; he also instructed the Intendant, Maritime Commissioner, and District Magistrate to adopt severe measures to repress the excitement,—all which is on record.

After this the suspicions of the people were completely removed and their minds quieted, from which it is abundantly manifest that there was no intention on the part of the people to create a disturbance; it was entirely the work of certain vagabonds who fabricated a lot of groundless stories and thus excited the ignorant, silly populace.

The Futai has had the honour to receive an Imperial Mandate ordering him to proceed to Tientsin, to investigate and settle certain matters there, but will return ere many months. Ever bear in mind the truth that all mankind are brethren (lit. that all within the four seas are brethren), peacefully attend to your business occupations and do not give ear to groundless talk nor harbour suspicions and doubts. Should any evil persons make up reports and create disturbances, they will be severely punished by the local officials; when this is done, we may expect an improvement in the public morals and the prevalence of tranquillity, for which the Futai earnestly longs.

A special proclamation—7th moon, 15th day

Tseng-kwo-Fan's Memorandum on the Tientsin Massacre.

Having been ordered by Imperial decree to repair to Tientsin, and inquire thoroughly into the events of the 21st June, I have, up to the present time, arrived at the following conclusions regarding these sad occurrences :—

The first cause of the disturbances lay in the circumstance that missionaries were accused of being implicated in the kidnappings perpetrated by bad men. To this must be added the various rumours about eyes dug out and hearts torn out, it being pretended that a certain medicine was prepared from these ingredients ; and these rumours did not only spread from one to the other among the simple and silly people, but even amongst the gentry and literati there were many who brought forward the same accusations with one voice. From these accumulated suspicions openly expressed dissatisfaction arose, and amid the consequent excitement the great disaster happened.

It is therefore necessary, in the first place, to discriminate between truth and fabrication, in order to separate right from wrong and innocence from guilt, so that we may clearly show that a just settlement of the matter is our only aim. And we must specially keep in mind that wild rumours of this kind have been circulated, not in Tientsin alone, but that formerly in Hunan also and Kiangsi, in Yangchow and Tienmen, and even in the province of Chihli, in the districts of Tamingfu and Kwangping anonymous and inflammatory placards were posted about, in which it was maintained either that the missionaries stole the children, or that they dug out the eye, and tore out the hearts of men, or that women and girls were seduced and polluted by them.

And although the disturbances excited by those accusations at the above mentioned places have been severally settled, still it has never been thoroughly investigated and clearly shown how far the imputations contained in these anonymous placards were well founded or not ; and therefore it has been my principal care since my arrival at Tientsin to elucidate these points singly by careful examination and enquiry.

First, as to kidnapping being practised by Chinese Christians. It is true that Wong-san made a confession of this kind ; but even he denies on the one day what he had confessed on the other, and his statements are not in accordance with those of his comrades. And certainly no proof has been obtainable of the complicity of the foreign missionaries themselves in these abductions of children. Further, I have repeatedly examined all the boys and girls, 150 in number, taken away from the Sisters of Mercy, and they unanimously maintain that they had been instructed there only in religious matters, that they had been brought to that establishment spontaneonsly by their parents to be educated there, and that they had by no means been dragged there forcibly by kidnappers.

Second ; with regard to the tearing out of eyes and hearts, this is a mere invention, without the slightest foundation in reality. It would appear that during the fourth and fifth moons of this year (May and June) cases occurred of two or three children who had died in the hospital being put into one coffin, which aroused the suspicions of the people. And the gates of the mission premises being closed the whole year excited suspicion by its mysteriousness, and, because the people could not explain to themselves what was going on inside, a sense of fearful curiosity took possession of them. In this way evil reports spread to all the four quarters of the earth, and ten thousand cries of uniform accusation went forth against the missionaries. But it would be vain to seek for any foundation of facts on which these spectre-accusations have been based—it would be like trying to catch with the hands the passing breeze, or to seize a shadow.

When, some days ago, I arrived at Tientsin, the people crowded around and stopped my chair, and numberless petitions were presented to me. But when I had made the most careful inquiry to find out what the truth was as to the tearing out of eyes and hearts, there was not one who could adduce a single proof that such things had happened at all. And when I inquired within and without the city I found that very few children had been stolen at all, and these cases had almost all been duly investigated by the Courts. But from what source all these false rumours originated I have not been able to ascertain. I have the intention now, together with H. E. Chung How, to draw up a memorial to the Throne, in which he will give a general outline of the state of affairs, so as to bring to an end all these various discussions.

Indeed, to murder children and to mutilate their dead bodies in order to prepare medicine from them, is a deed so horrible that even uncivilised wild tribes would be loath to do it. England and France are large countries beyond the seas. How could we suppose them capable of such inhuman crimes ? Reason forbids us to think of any such thing even as possible.

It may not be denied that among the Chinese converts there may be bad men who kidnap children and do other bad things, covering themselves with the name of missionaries as with a talisman ; but this can only impose on us the duty to punish those converts who are found guilty of lawlessness ; and must not lead us to lay these things to the charge of the missionary establishments generally.

It is the aim of the Catholic religion to teach men to be virtuous, and the Emperor Kang-hi long ago gave permission to spread this doctrine in his dominions. And the hospitals of the Sisters of Mercy may be fairly compared with our Foundling Hospitals, &c. The desire of the Sisters is to found asylums for the miserable and poor. Charity and mercy are their device ; if, therefore, they are accused of abominable deeds, foreigners will be justly prompted to resentment and wrath.

It is my wish, therefore, that the Emperor should promulgate an edict in all the provinces of the Empire, openly declaring that the misdeeds laid to the charge of the missionaries in those anonymous placards are nothing but calumnies ; so that the wrong done to foreigners by these slanders may be expiated, and the doubts of the Chinese people and literati may be dissolved, and that every man in the Empire may learn and know the true state of things. In this way it is hoped that the distrust existing at present between Chinese and foreigners may be terminated, and that the hatred and ill-will between our people and Christians may gradually disappear.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

Dates by this opportunity extend to August 30. The outward mail arrived on the 11th. Admiral De Cornulier-Luciniére, Governor, and Officiating Commander-in-Chief, had issued a proclamation that, in view of the war which seemed likely to break out, all Prussian subjects who were already established in Cochin-China might continue to reside and trade there, but that they would be subject to special surveillance, and, in the event of their being detected in any act compromising the safety of the colony, and the interests of the French nation, they would be subject to martial law, as if war had already been declared. Prussian ships arriving before notice of the declaration of war would be allowed the usual grace of fifteen days, and a safe conduct for six days after leaving Saigon ; but these indulgences will cease as soon as any steps shall be taken against the safety of the colony, or any Prussian cruisers appear at Saint Jacques. Navigation between Saigon and Cangion is interdicted from sunset to sunrise.

The Courrier de Saigon states the news of the war had produced a profound sensation in Saigon, where the Germans have important interests, but the liberal regulations of the Governor had given general satisfaction, and the natives were so fully convinced by experience that France must be victorious in war against any European State that no uneasiness was felt concerning them. The Napoleon Fête day—the 15th August—had been celebrated with the greatest enthusiasm. The Governor reviewed the troops on the Quai Napoleon, which was crowded with spectators, and after the review he attended divine service at the cathedral. A spirited regatta and a general illumination added to the effect of the rejoicings, which closed with a brilliant ball given by the Governor, and attended by the élite of Saigon society. Information from the interior of the colony states that the day was observed with similar rejoicings in distant stations.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 3rd Sept. The outward P. and O. mail, July 29, arrived on the 29th August, and was followed by the French mail of August 5 on the 2nd Sept., in the new steamer Guienne.

The Legislative Council met on the 30th August. The Acting Attorney-General moved for leave to introduce a Bill to establish a money-order system between the United Kingdom and the Straits Settlements, as well as between the several settlements of the colony. No other proceedings of importance occurred, but the Pension Bill was attracting a good deal of attention.

The Singapore Daily Times learned from Saigon that the French gunboat Segond had arrived there, having on board the masters and crews of the two North German vessels, the Georg, from Bremen to Shanghai, with coals, and the Turandot, from Hamburg to Hong Kong, with general cargo. These vessels had been captured by the Segond, at a distance of from fifteen to twenty leagues from Saigon. The masters and crews were taken on board the Segoid, French crews put in the captured vessels, and the chief officers retained on board to navigate them into Saigon.

The Danish frigate Tordenskjold, Capt. Lund, from London 13th June via Suez Canal, has arrived here. She saluted the British flag immediately after anchoring, the salute being returned from Fort Canning. The Tordenskjold has on board 40 miles of the shore end and 100 miles spare sea line of the submarine telegraph cable to be laid between Hong Kong and Shanghai, and will, we believe, be assisted in the laying by the steamers Great Northern and Cella. She is to leave for Hong Kong.

On the 22nd of August a gay concourse of the European community, as well as a crowded assemblage of natives, was collected on the occasion of the launch of the first steamer ever built in Sarawak. The owners, Messrs. Walters, Crocker, and Co., feeling deeply sensible of the obligations under which they lay to Mr. Crookshank, the resident, for the kind manner in which he had advised them during the construction of the little vessel, had, as a sign of their appreciation of his kindness, decided upon naming the steamer the Bertha, and Mrs. Crookshank was asked to perform the usual ceremony for her namesake.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—Business both in Cotton and Woollen Goods continued dull. The Piece Goods market had been very quiet during the week. With the exception of one sale of 23,000 pcs. 8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings, to arrive, and some small parcels of 7 lbs. goods, which had changed hands at lower rates, there had not been much doing in this fabric. T-Cloths of all kinds had declined in value, and there was no disposition to operate in them. A few English and Dutch Drills had been sold at about last mail's rates, but of Jeans there was no sale recorded. Fancy Cottons: Chintzes seemed still the article wanted. The difference, however, between the ideas of holders and buyers as to value continued to impede business. Quotations generally were unchanged, and the market was languid. Woollens were not wanted, and the tendency of prices was downward. There had been scarcely anything done in them since last mail. Scarlet Long Ells, C.P.H., were nominally worth Tls. 5.50 per piece. Assorted Spanish Stripes and Camlets, same chop, 5 mace per yard and Tls. 11 per piece respectively. Figured Orleans, of very good assortment and pattern, had been sold to a small extent at Tls. 3.70 per piece; but for the other articles of Woollen import no quotations could be given. Metals—Iron: Settlements during the past week about 8,000 bundles Nail Rod, at Tls. 2.10 for small sizes, and Tls. 2.05 for good assortments—rates which showed little change on those previously ruling. Stock very large. Tin: Market dull; no buyers. Lead: Some weak holders trying to obtain Tls. 4.20 cash for L.B.; no demand whatever.

HONG KONG.—There is very little to report, as no special activity had been displayed in any article of import. Cotton Yarns continued neglected. One or two small sales of Grey Shirtings had been the only transactions in these goods. T-Cloths had commanded more attention, and fair settlements of 6, 7, and 8 lb. weights had been made, at about previous currencies. American Drills still found no buyers. Some 1,200 pieces Dutch Drills had been placed at $4.05 to 4.15 per piece. Woollens offered nothing for comment. In Metals, Nail Rod Iron had been considerably placed: Tin and Quicksilver were steady.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

The following reports are from Messrs. Olyphant and Co.'s Circular:—

SHANGHAI.—Black: There has been some enquiry during the past week, and 7,100 chests are reported settled and 1,500 chests re-shipped. Further supplies have reached us from the river ports, and the stock now stands at 110,000 chests. We make no change from our last quotations, but the market is decidedly weak, and holders are showing a good deal of anxiety to sell. Green Teas have continued in demand for America at irregular but full rates. Some parcels show a decline of two taels from the extreme quotations of our last circular, but the supply of fine Tea has been so meagre that parcels of only good medium quality have realised Tls. 42 to 42.5.0, and such terms are no better than those secured at the opening of the market. Settlements since the 11th instant have been 7,762 half-chests at Tls. 33 for fair Taiping, and Tls. 44 for fine Twanki. Further purchases of 2,500 half-chests have been made, but particulars have not yet been published. Stock, 15,400 half-chests Twanki and Fychow; 8,000 half-chests Pingsuey; 5,000 half-chests Shanghai-packed, and 2,000 half-chests old Tea. No new Moyunes have yet arrived.

FOOCHOW.—Settlements of Congous amount to about 10,000 chests. Flavoury Congous and those of better quality have been fully supported, and in some instances have brought higher prices, but common kinds are again weaker. The stock of Oolongs is daily increasing, but as yet musters of the fine grades are not shown. Souchongs and Scented Teas are quiet. The steamer Vine left for London, via the Suez Canal, on August 13, taking 499,720 lbs. Tea. The Wylo, for the same destination, is full, and will clear to-day (August 17). The Lass of Gawler and Hannah Nicholson have sailed for the Colonies. The Louisa has cleared for Boston.

AMOY.—An active business has been done in Oolongs by American buyers, and the market has been entirely cleared of supplies. About 13,000 half-chests have been settled during the week, and prices have slightly advanced, common to fair cargo teas having realised $21 to 23.50 per picul. Some 5,000 half-chests of these purchases have been bought from muster packages before the chops had arrived to market, and of the entire settlements the quality has been mainly common to fair. Nothing of moment has transpired in Congous. The Eleanor is loading for New York, and the Mindet, just arrived from Hong Kong, is fully engaged. Statistics to date are:—Congous, arrivals, 24,387 half-chests and 3,534 boxes; settlements, 20,529 half-chests and 3,384 boxes. Oolongs, arrivals, 56,125 half-chests and 6,350 boxes; settlements, 57,365 half-chests and 6,165 boxes.

CANTON.—A very limited business has occurred in Scented Teas during the week, at rates showing no material change in values; but of the small transactions noted a considerable proportion is reported to have taken place in barter. The settlements since the 15th August are estimated at about 2,000 boxes Scented Capers, and 600 boxes Scented Orange Pekoe.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—Since the arrival, on the 10th August, of telegrams announcing war declared by France against Prussia, business had been entirely suspended, not a single transaction being reported. Foreigners considered prices very unsafe, unless a concession of at least Tls. 70 to 80 per picul be granted; and many were of opinion that even with this decline quotations would be too high for consumption, owing to the largely increased stocks of China and European Silks in Europe, which must arise from the cessation of business caused by the war. The inferiority, too, of the European Silk this season, must, it was considered, naturally interfere with the sale of China Silk, and it was feared London quotations for best thirds Tsatlees would not again reach 32s. this season, even if the export should prove to be under 40,000 bales.

CANTON.—There was no demand from foreigners, and prices were gradually declining, though, owing to some speculative demand on native account, values in the country were firm.

SAIGON PRODUCE.

RICE.—The market had shown no change of importance. Supplies from the interior continued to come in slowly, and there was only one contract to report, viz., 5,000 piculs long grain at $1.50 per picul; at this rate holders were firm. For round grain $1.60 had been asked. Now that the rainy season had fairly set in, the growers will be less anxious, and will soon re-appear in the market with fresh supplies, which, it appears, they kept in reserve.

("Times" Special Telegram, Received Oct. 10.)

Our correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs on the 22nd of September:—"The Catholic church has been destroyed at Newchwang, and the impression gains ground daily that there is no prospect of a peaceful settlement of the Tientsin affair. The party in favour of war measures is more powerful than Prince Kung and the peace party, and it is feared that the former will be greatly strengthened when the news of the French reverses during the present war becomes known. Much anxiety is felt by the Europeans here, and the North China Herald advocates the forwarding of troops from India for the protection of the lives and property of foreigners—the latter in this city alone being estimated at fifteen millions sterling."

The cargo was being discharged, and three small vessels laden with dry coffee had arrived at Brouwershaven. The Betty, Chevalier, from Batavia, which arrived at Texel, Oct. 8, reported having experienced severe weather, July 13, 38 S., 25 E., during which she stove bulwarks, loosened deckhouse, &c., and received other damage. The Frances, Hiel, from Singapore, which arrived at New York, Sept. 25, reported having experienced heavy weather off the Cape, during which she stove bulwarks.

THE BRINDISI ROUTE.

We are indebted to a valued correspondent, who is now making the journey from London to Batavia, for a graphic account of the progress of his party, which, we think, will prove interesting and valuable to those of our readers who may be at a loss, in the present state of the Continental service, which route to adopt. Since this journey the time has been reduced to four days:—

Hotel des Quatre Saisons, Munich, Sept. 24, 1870.

Under existing circumstances, so far as the route from London to this place is concerned, Bradshaw is of little or no use, once you pass the frontier into Prussia at Verviers.

I left Charing-cross on the evening of the 21st at 8.45 P.M. (mail train), and arrived at Ostend after a very smooth passage on the 22nd at A.M. The boat was very full below, with several people on deck. I may mention here that the South-Eastern Railway Company will not book you through or register your baggage further than Verviers, the frontier town between Belgium and Prussia. The baggage was examined at Ostend, and at 6.45 A.M. we left Ostend.

At 9.20 A.M. arrived at Brussels.

At 9.40 A.M. left Brussels.

At 12.29 P.M. arrived at Verviers.

At 5.35 P.M. arrived at Cologne, instead of 4 P.M., as formerly, there being but one train a-day for passengers. As I was informed, they stop at all stations instead of proceeding express. At night all passenger traffic in this part of Prussia is suspended, that time being reserved for Government work; therefore I was obliged to sleep at Cologne.

At 1.25 A.M. on the 23rd I started in the train from Cologne, and booked as far as Mainz (Mayence).

At 10.45 A.M. arrived at Coblentz—stopped ten minutes.

At 1 P.M. arrived at Mayence for dinner, and proceeded

At 4.30 P.M. booked through to Munich; passed through Darmstadt.

At 7.30 P.M. arrived at Aschaffenburg, the first town in Bavaria in this direction. We had to remain here nearly four hours, and

At 11.25 P.M. nominally, but at midnight in reality, we again got under way, and travelled till

3.15 A.M., Sept. 24, when we stopped at Wurzburg, in the waiting room, an hour and three-quarters; leaving there

At 5 A.M., arriving at 10.9 A.M. at Fruichlinger, where we stopped about five or ten minutes to change trains. After that we continued without interruption as far as this place, arriving here at about 2.40 P.M., or sixty-six hours from Charing-cross, with two nights' travelling, and one night in bed.

The trains through Prussia were very heavy; indeed, from Cologne to Bingen thirty-five carriages and waggons with two engines; plenty of soldiers, both wounded and unwounded, amongst the number. At Bingen and Mayence I saw several Frenchmen, looking, as a rule, dejected, but not so dilapidated as I should have expected to see them. There were evidently plenty of soldiers at Bingen, en route for France, and as we passed along we saw many houses with the white flag and red cross flying on them. No one was asked for passports.

We leave by 9.50 train to-night, and expect to be at 1.20 P.M.

If I have time I will write from Brindisi, where I expect to be a little after midnight on Tuesday morning.

Oriental Hotel, Brindisi, Tuesday, Sept. 27, 1870.

We remained nearly six hours at Munich, viz., from 2.35 P.M. to 9.50 P.M., Sept. 24, when we left in the train for Verona.

At 12.45 A.M. of Sunday, the 25th, the train arrived at Kufstein frontier station, between Bavaria and Austria. Luggage was here examined, and after changing into the Austrian carriages, we left at 1.45 A.M.

At 5.30 A.M. we arrived at the top of the Brenner Pass, and continued to descend very rapidly through most beautiful scenery until 9 A.M., when we arrived at a town of considerable size, called "Botzen." The distance between the last two points is twelve German miles, equal to about fifty-six English miles. According to barometric observations taken by me the difference in level is not less than 3,500 feet, equal to an average gradient of 1 in 84, and this was passed over at the average speed of 16 English miles an hour.

At 11.20 A.M. arrived at Ala, the frontier town of Italy. Luggage was again examined, and after breakfast we again started at 11.50 A.M.

At 1.20 P.M. we arrived at Verona. Got fresh tickets (to Bologna), and changed trains; remained there thirty minutes, and

At 4 P.M. arrived at Padua, and had to wait two hours for the train to Bologna.

At 10 P.M. arrived at Bologna, where we remained the night. Under ordinary circumstances we should have been obliged to have left Bologna the next morning by 7.25 train, weekly mail service, but owing to the letters coming over the Brenner, instead of through France this time, the mail train will be some twelve hours late, we therefore

At 3.40 P.M. of Monday, Sept. 26, left Bologna, travelled without changing carriages all night, and

At 11.30 A.M. Sept. 27, arrived at Brindisi, and found that the steamer would not leave till 1 A.M. to-morrow morning, just twenty-four hours after the advertised time for sailing.

Thus the journey from London to Munich was sixty-six hours, and from Munich to Brindisi sixty-nine hours, equal to one hundred and thirty-five hours, or five days fifteen hours; but in the regular way the latter part of the journey would have been accomplished in twelve hours less time, reducing the total to one hundred and twenty-three hours, equal to five days three hours; however, I should advise passengers coming this route to leave London not later than Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, by which means they would have one day to spend in Venice, which is but a short distance off the route from Padua.

There are too many changes of trains and examinations of baggage to make this route pleasant for families, but for small parties with a moderate amount of luggage the journey is most agreeable. The scenery from Liege by Cologne, up the Rhine to Mayence, and from thence by Munich over the Brenner to Verona is most beautiful.

No passports were asked for at any place. The hotels we stopped at were—Hotel Dische, Cologne; Hotel des Quatre Saisons, Munich; Brun's Hotel, Bologna; the Oriental Hotel, Brindisi. The cost per person, first-class, including hotels and everything, is, London to Brindisi, £18; and passage to Alexandria, 275 francs, equal £11; total £29.

CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA, AUSTRALIA, AND CHINA.

CIRCULAR TO THE SHAREHOLDERS.

The directors regret that on the present occasion they are unable to follow their usual course of convening a meeting of the shareholders for the purpose of declaring an interim dividend.

In the last annual report reference was made to the diminished amount of the profits for the preceding twelve months. The causes then assigned, but especially the adverse condition of the exchanges, have since acted still more unfavourably to the interests of the bank, and sensibly affected the result for the half-year ending 30th June.

The directors are enabled to report that in two of the law-suits connected with the failure at Batavia judgment has been given in favour of the Bank by the Court of Appeal at Lubeck; and there is now every reason to believe that the amount to be ultimately written off will be more than fully met by the profits which were carried forward last year for that purpose. On the other hand, it is with much regret that an announcement has to be made of a loss having been incurred at Shanghai, through the fraudulent conduct of a warehouse-keeper, in misappropriating goods which had been deposited in his custody by the bank. The amount thus involved has not yet been finally determined, but it is estimated that it cannot exceed £22,000, and may fall short of that sum.

The directors have invariably furnished the shareholders with the earliest information regarding all matters bearing upon the interests of the Bank, and they, therefore, feel it incumbent on them to refer to the effects produced by the existing Continental war, in disturbing credit, depressing the prices of Eastern produce, and thereby lessening the value of securities in the bank's hands. The directors are, however, able to state that, after making a most careful valuation of the bank's holdings, upon the basis of present low prices, they consider that £50,000 would amply cover all deficiencies; and this contingent loss might be materially diminished by a restoration of peace, leading to a recovery of trade. Of course, against these losses, positive and contingent, will have to be placed the profits for the twelve month ending 31st December next. Under the circumstances now detailed, the directors are precluded from recommending the payment of any interim dividend.

In an article in the Globe of this evening the belief is expressed that the appointment of Mr. MONGAN as consul at Peking is intended by the Government as a first step towards the abolition of the British Legation in China. The Globe recalls the announcement made by Mr. OTWAY last session that a sum of £10,000 would be cut off from the China estimates, and considers that this can only be attained by adopting the course it suggests.

MR. WILLIAM TARRANT.—The Sir William Wallace has brought a passenger from China who has not been eastward of the Cape since 1839. William Tarrant, we think, has not his equal in length of residence in China or in the versatility of his talents, for we hardly know what he has not done during his eventful career in China. He was one of the earliest servants of the Land-office in Hong Kong, and the first cuttings of roads in 1843 were effected by him, including the well-known "gap" into the Wongnei-chung valley. He was, however, too independent for any Government employ, and for exposing the conduct of some officials was suspended. Since that time he has been chiefly known as the editor and proprietor of the Friend of China at Hong Kong and Shanghai, which he conducted up to last year.

FOREIGN-OFFICE, SEPT. 30.—The Queen has been pleased to appoint Russell Brook Robertson, Esq., now Her Majesty's Vice-Consul at Yedo, to be Her Majesty's Vice-Consul at Yokohama.

CAPT. COOMBES, many years ago in command of the Constant in China waters, proceeds by the next mail to take command of the ship China, now in China or Japan.

The present mail brought forty bales silk from Japan; none from China.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.—OUR APPEAL PURSUED.

In all cases of emergency it is the bounden duty of thinking men, after satisfying themselves of the course which circumstances require of them, to reckon up the resources they can command, and the friends they can depend upon, for the accomplishment of the object which they have at heart. The friends may be few, but their influence may be widespread; the resources may be scattered and difficult to bring into collective action, though, united, they would be irresistible. This is the best, if not the only, way to "pluck the flower, safety, out of the nettle, danger;" and in this spirit we once more address our readers on the subject of the Tientsin Massacre, and the present phase of the consequences of that most lamentable, and, thus far, unredressed outrage. The occasion is too momentous, and the cause too dear, to admit of studied writing, or even of the due expression of the emotions it calls forth. We cannot afford time for lamentation over the graves of our murdered friends, when the safety of the living trembles in the balance. We must not forget for a moment that the existence, not of our power, not even of our trade, but of that gallant detachment of our English brotherhood which colonises the Far East, demands all the aid which mind, energy, and influence can collect for their rescue at the present juncture in China. Let us, then, in as few words as possible, survey their situation according to the latest intelligence, count the friends here on whom their safety depends, and consider the best means for their immediate protection.

The last telegram from Hong Kong, received last Thursday, though it bears date three weeks ago, tells us that already rumours were current of fresh massacres, consequent on the outrage at Tientsin, and that, in various parts of China, native troops were being collected, ostensibly for the protection of "foreigners," in the face of a hostile population, and by a hypocritical Government, which had virtually refused—by suffering the French ultimatum to elapse—to bring its malefactors to justice. According to the latest advices, the Chinese bigots were stimulated by what their priests represented to be the manifestation of Divine approval of the late massacre in fertilising showers; and the great bulk of the people, always opposed to civilisation, were puffed up by pride in the arts of warfare which we have taught them, and elated, not more by their own fancied strength than by the rumours of Western weakness, consequent upon the war which the "foreigners" are waging against one another. Under any circumstances, with a Government more than suspected of bad faith, an army raised from the dregs of the people, and a people the most superstitious in the world, excited against us by their priesthood, the situation of Europeans in China must ever be one of great danger, unless they are sustained by a sufficient and a united protective force. Of this force, scarcely adequate to their defence in times of peace, one half—the French—is now disarmed and powerless. No doubt, the Chinese, in their infatuation, believe France to be finally subdued, for we may be sure that this astute people have not failed to observe that the surrender of the French navy is an article in the rumoured terms of peace demanded by Prussia. In this event they perceive in England the only Power from which they have anything to apprehend, if they take the apparent opportunity of flinging their Treaties to the winds, exterminating foreigners of every nationality, and closing their ports once more.

What, then, is the attitude in which England appears at a moment so fraught with danger to her most cherished ideas? It would be worse than idle to disguise the fact that, apparently stunned by the din of warfare on the Continent, she has no ear for the far cry of her imperilled sons abroad. If it is disposed to arm at all, her present Government is intent on arming only for the protection of her own shores, which no reasonable being can conceive to be in the slightest danger. Her Colonies, from time immemorial the mainspring of her greatness, appear to have slipped out of account with a Ministry which, if it enjoys public confidence at all, certainly attained to power solely on the faith of its promises to enlarge British commerce, and bring the development of the resources of distant lands to the relief of our over-burdened population. Most unhappily the recent outrages in China occurred at a time when it was impossible to bring their consequences fully before the only tribunal which would be certain to avert them, for Parliament had ceased to sit when our tardy officials abroad sent their accounts of these transactions home. It may be months before Parliament reassembles, and, in the interim, what is to be done?

The next power to which Englishmen are accustomed to look in times of emergency is the Press; but, when we turn to that usually mighty influence now, the prospect is not reassuring. Most of the prominent journals are so engrossed with war news that they can spare little space for interests which they would admit, if they would but listen, are of far greater and more lasting importance to the Empire. It is true that there are some vigorous and earnest exceptions to the general apathy of the English press on Eastern subjects now. Last week we reproduced an exhaustive article from the Standard, which completely endorsed the views we have ever advocated, and the Globe and the Morning Post have followed in a similar strain. It is not unworthy of note—and we make the remark in no party spirit, for this is not a party question, nor are we party writers—but still it is not unworthy of note that all the journals which have advocated the protection of our countrymen in the Far East are Conservative. The Liberal papers are, as a rule, reticent or flippant on this subject. The leading journal has not spoken out at all definitely; and the paper which claims to have the largest circulation in the world, while it devotes three leading articles a day to questions connected with the Franco-Prussian War, finds in the description of a new American Saloon Refreshment Carriage matter more palatable to the readers of its fourth editorial than the crying needs of Englishmen in the East. Even this is not the worst. An evening paper, which likewise arrogates to itself a circulation as unbounded as the credulity of the readers who believe in its "intelligence," asked, two days ago, the unfeeling question:—"Will it, we "wonder, ever be safe for Europeans to dwell in a land where "the people are so grossly ignorant, and the rulers so astute as "to practice upon this ignorance for their own purposes, and "where, above all, human life is held in no manner of estima-"tion? Even for the chance of making a fortune in a few "years such a game can hardly be worth the candle." Is it not pitiable to see a subject so momentous discussed in such a spirit as this? But, for a press, some of whose organs are thus vitiated, we can but hope for a speedy day when it will feel and express more truly than it has done yet the responsibility which it professes.

Where, then, are we to turn for friends? We are no alarmists, and we write in no disheartened spirit—our cause is too good for that; for sooner or later it must triumph, and those who neglect it now will never cease to reproach themselves for their apathy, if its success is further impeded by delay. We appeal to our readers at home and abroad—to all who are interested by experience, relationship, or fortune in the cause of progress in the Far East—to form local committees, and to hold meetings for the purpose of making public the danger in which they stand. They are numerous and influential enough to command attention, and to be listened to with respect. The Government and the press, at present deaf to them, will soon be compelled to grant their just demands by the voice of a public opinion which neither can afford to disregard longer—a public opinion which is never slow to redress the injuries of the defenceless, or to throw the ægis of protection over those who have deserved well of their country.

THE DUTCH TRADING COMPANY.

The Dutch Trading Company has acquired among European nations so large a reputation that in England and Germany there are some people inclined to the belief that the Company represents Dutch trade in toto. And, indeed, this is not altogether incorrect, the Company being based upon monopoly and protectionism, which principles have always characterised its management. Dutch merchants have become mere commission houses, and Dutch trade and shipping have been, for a long period, wholly dependent upon the favouritism of the Company. Thus energy has been extinguished, and a spirit of dependence fostered. It is strange, but, nevertheless, quite true, that Dutch shipowners are not, as a rule, men of enterprise, and when they are not favoured with the Company's cargoes, they cannot compete with foreign vessels, as is proved by the fact that produce shipped on private account from Java is for the greater part conveyed in English or German vessels to Dutch harbours. Of course it was easy in times when a vessel made profits equal to its value in four or five voyages to the East to find money to build other vessels, and indeed so many were built in those days that Dutch harbours were frequently filled with East Indiamen waiting for charters. Shipowners have never thought of sending their ships elsewhere, and the spirit of enterprise being so totally extinguished, Dutch shipping has lately shown such unproductive returns, that no money can even be found to establish a service of steamers between Holland and America, notwithstanding that enormous quantities of goods are constantly being shipped via Rotterdam to New York. The Dutch Trading Company has crippled the trade of Holland. There was a time when its existence was a necessity. In the year 1824 trade in Holland was languishing, and King William I. founded this Company in order to promote commerce, shipping, agriculture, and manufactures. The capital was fixed at twelve millions of florins, with permission to double that sum, and the King himself guaranteed an interest of four-and-a-half per cent. The subscriptions, however, were so enormous, reaching sixty-nine millions, that it was resolved to fix the capital at thirty-seven millions. Since the formation of the Company the capital has been several times altered, and actually it stands at about thirty-one millions. The Company began its operations upon a very large scale, agents being appointed in all parts of the world, but the success was very small. In almost every branch of trade the Company lost money; even transactions upon Dutch account with Java left an unfavourable balance, and without the least doubt the Company would soon have been obliged to liquidate but for the paternal care of its Royal protector. One of the stipulations of the original contract was that the Trading Company should be charged with the transport of all stores the State might send to Java, and with the conveyance of all Java produce to Holland. These stipulations became the bases of an enormous prosperity. In 1831—the quotation of the shares being then 71¾—matters began to turn. The Company stopped as much as possible the trade upon its own account, and became the commission agent of the State. The culture system was introduced; enormous quantities of produce were conveyed, and large profits were made. The nation, however, paid very dear. The whole system of the Company—which was at the same time the secret money-lender of the State—was one of protectionism. The produce must only be conveyed at exorbitant freights in Dutch ships, Dutch manufactures only were to be sent to Java, and foreign competition was thus totally excluded. Of course the Company, its brokers, its favoured shipowners, its managers, grew rich, the shareholders received good dividends, and the reputation of the Company improved and gradually reached its zenith. But times changed. An influential party in Holland arrived at the conviction that the Java culture system was unjust, even inhuman. And these feelings have made such rapid progress that the whole system is undermined, and before many years will have collapsed, when both agriculture in Java and the trade of Holland with that country will be conducted upon sound principles. The moment must soon arrive when the Government cultures must be transferred to private industry. In the meanwhile, the principle of selling Java produce in Java must be adopted more extensively, and in that way the Company will become wholly superfluous and unnecessary to Dutch trade.

The contract of the Company with the Government terminates on the 31st December, 1874, and next year a general meeting of shareholders will be held, in order to decide whether it is desirable that the contract should be prolonged. If it is decided affirmatively, it is to be hoped that the States General of Holland will interpose against such a prolongation. There are some who advocate that the Company should remain what it is as long as there are Government cultures in Java. But why cannot the Dutch Government sell all its produce in India? That, indeed, is the principle which should be applied. If Dutch trade and shipping, already weakened by protection, do not seek to achieve independence of the Company, a terrific collapse will be the inevitable result.

The acting Governor, General Whitfield, at Hong Kong has not been idle. The various members of the Government have contributed a full share of useful ordinances which his Excellency introduced at the last meeting of the Council. We shall wait with interest the particulars of the ordinance for the modification of the ordinance of 1855, restricting the conveying of Chinese passengers, and which shipowners and agents at Amoy and Singapore have so long complained of. A reasonable restriction to prevent Chinese being stowed like pigs is perfectly correct, but to enforce regulations for a passage of ten days with equal rigidity as on one to the West Indies is mischievous and unwise, as it strangles a most important branch of trade

We have been informed that the French mail steamer which should leave Marseilles on the 16th inst. will not be despatched, and that consequently no mails for China will be made up after the present date until the 21st inst., the intervening period being thus a fortnight instead of a week. We understand that it has been determined during the continuance of the war to revert to the system which prevailed previous to July last, that is, to despatch but one French mail steamer in each month.

The Tientsin outrages continue to form a subject for discussion by the public journals. We may remark that the letter to The Times signed "Old Shanghai," which we publish, is written by a gentleman who, although fully entitled to the pseudonym, is not the original "Old Shanghai" so well remembered by former residents in the "model settlement." The text of a memorial on the subject of the massacre, which has been forwarded to Lord Granville by the Bradford Chamber of Commerce, appears below.

THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

MEETING OF THE BRADFORD CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

A meeting of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce was held last week, at which the President, Mr. Behrens, drew attention to the important question of our relations with China, in connection with the horrible massacre at Tientsin, which he believed would have sent a thrill of horror through England if the public attention had not been drawn to the great events transpiring on the Continent. If France had not been engaged in the war, we might have left her to deal with the matter, for she would no doubt have taken active steps in defence not only of her own subjects, but of all the Europeans who were resident in China, on the faith of treaties, and seeking an honest livelihood. After referring to the magnitude of the China trade, and of the capital involved in it, the president remarked that outbreaks like that at Tientsin, and even the great probability of a war, had been foreseen by many residents in China ever since the European Governments had allowed themselves to be humbugged by the Burlingame mission. He urged the necessity of decisive steps being taken by the English, in conjunction with the other Governments represented in China, to show that such outrages as that of Tientsin would not be permitted, and that European lives and property would be protected. He had applied for information to Mr. Matheson, the chairman of the London Committee, who had recently had an interview with Lord Granville on the matter.—The answer of Mr. Matheson was read; it embodied the proceedings which took place at the recent interview of the deputation of London merchants with Lord Granville.

A long conversation followed as to the action which it was advisable the Chamber should take. Alderman Law, while not saying one word in exoneration of the infamous outrage at Tientsin, held that the conduct of England towards the Chinese was not such as to entitle us to take a high moral tone towards them. He referred in terms of strong condemnation to the manner in which treaties had been forced upon the unwilling Chinese for the purpose of promoting the opium traffic. Mr. Garnett concurred with all Aderman Law had said as to the conduct of England towards China, but urged that the question he had raised was not that which was now before the Chamber, namely, that of protecting the lives of those who were in China on the faith of treaties. After further discussion, in which Mr. Neill, Mr. Godwin, Mr. Waud, Mr. Garnett, Alderman Law, and the president joined, it was resolved that a memorial to Lord Granville should be drawn up by a sub-committee, including the president, vice-presidents, and Mr. Garnett.

The course resolved upon has since been followed up, and the following is the text of the memorial which has been forwarded to the Foreign-office. As yet no reply has been received:—

To the Right Honourable the Earl Granville, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

The Memorial of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce.

Showeth,—That the late massacre of Europeans at Tientsin has everywhere excited horror and indignation and apprehension of further atrocities. That the accounts arriving by subsequent mails leave little doubt of the catastrophe being, not the result of accident, but of a conspiracy in high official quarters. That such a conspiracy threatens the greatest danger to the lives and property of foreigners in China of every nationality and of every creed. That the present unfortunate position of France may render it out of her power to demand, and, if necessary, to enforce satisfaction for the past and security for the future. That unless immediate steps be taken further acts of violence may be apprehended on the part of a people only too prone to consider impunity to the aggressor as a proof of weakness on the part of the sufferers' nation. That, irrespective of the imminent danger which this sad event foreshadows to English interests, it would be a most friendly act on the part of the British Government, if Her Majesty's representatives and commanders of forces in China were ordered to act in common with those of our old and faithful ally. Your memorialists, therefore, pray that Her Majesty's Government will take such steps as they may think advisable to procure immediate redress for the wrongs committed, as far as that is possible, and thereby remove the danger of similar outrages in future, which might eventually lead to another war with China.

Bradford, Sept. 29, 1870. Jacob Behrens, President.

The Times of the 7th inst. says:—Upwards of three months have now elapsed since the tragedy was enacted, and all the information received during that time tends to confirm the view we have been compelled to take of the character of the occurrence. It was no unpremeditated or accidental ebullition of popular rage. The actors were members of organised bodies, and they did their dreadful work, it can hardly be doubted, with the connivance, if not at the instigation, of public officials. Moreover, from that hour to this no effectual measures have been taken for the punishment of the guilty, and a telegram in our impression of Monday last represented the Chinese as more intent on preparations for war than measures of atonement. The question now is what proceedings, pending the overwhelming embarrassments of France, should be adopted either by other countries or ourselves. The victims were French women, but, besides that the French in their present distress have few resources to spare for an Eastern War, the case of all foreigners in China is in these respects one and the same. It can hardly now be doubted that the interests—not to say the lives—of Europeans in China are in jeopardy, and that if retribution be not exacted for this sanguinary aggression the Chinese will be likely to misinterpret our forbearance, and to repeat the insurrection on a larger scale. It is difficult, however, to see what policy should be adopted in the not improbable case of an appeal to force. We have a mission at Peking which it cost us a world of trouble to establish, and which, if it were withdrawn, we could only perhaps, re-establish at the expense of another war. The invasion of China and the capture of Peking were accomplished, it is true, by a force insignificant compared with the magnitude of the work, but it would certainly not be convenient for us at this moment to despatch a military expedition to the East. We have, no doubt, a powerful army in India, and it admits of indefinite increase from the martial races of that country. Sikhs could probably be enlisted in any number for the service; nor would it, perhaps, be impossible to recruit for that service even in China itself. One half of the nation appears to be always fighting the other half, and Major Gordon raised "The Ever Victorious Army" from among Chinamen. The exigency, however, of the case is, we fear, serious, though the difficulty is serious also, and none the less unwelcome from being entirely unprovoked.

Concerning the above leader the Standard remarks:—The Government now practically admits that its policy of conciliation has failed. The prompt punishment of outrages on the spot where they are perpetrated is the only policy which can succeed in maintaining our general relations with the Empire on a satisfactory basis. Our Government will not see what is nevertheless written in large letters all over the history of our relations with China, that we may undertake warlike operations at the coast ports without formally going to war with China at all.

The correspondent of a Dublin newspaper, the Freeman's Journal, writes as follows on the subject of the Tientsin massacre:—"The North China Herald is quite correct in saying that one of the martyrs of Tientsin was 'a young Irish lady.' Young she was—in the very flower of her youth. Miss O'Sullivan was a Cork lady, and was educated at St. Mary's Dominican Convent, Kingstown. Highly accomplished as she was, she would have suited her home mission admirably, but nothing could induce her to forego the burning desire of her heart, and that was to lay down her life for her Divine Spouse. In her humility she scarcely dared even to glance at the possibility of this; but she was resolved to seek the opportunity. It was granted; and one who knew and loved her well has to-day the proud satisfaction (mixed indeed, with sorrow) of saying in confidence that the highest, nay, the all-absorbing, desire of that noble young Irishwoman was realised when she shed her blood for Jesus Christ in Tientsin."

The following letter appeared in The Times of yesterday, with the signature "Old Shanghai."

Sir,—As with the Medes and Persians of olden time their "rule altered not," so also it is with the rulers of China in the present day. They understand only two situations—that of "master" and "servant." There is no middle course; they desire the former, but, with judicious treatment, will accept the latter. I do not here desire to criticise the action of succeeding British Governments in reference to their China policy. Facts have condemned it, and each succeeding telegram received during these shortening days will, alas! ruthlessly dispel the haze which hangs over the official mind. My object now is to draw public attention, through your world-read columns, to the fact that these late terrible murders in China affect the whole civilised world, not merely France, Russia, and Great Britain, whose subjects were the victims. They were not merely the stray ebullitions of feeling on the part of a mob, but, as is well known to those who have had any experience in China, a part of a systematic plan, consequent upon the total ignoring, on the part of Western Governments, the influences which regulate Oriental minds—namely, the relative positions of "master" and "servant." Owing to late sad events, the French are precluded from sending what alone can impress the Chinese mind—a powerful expedition. Unfortunately, England cannot spare troops. We have, however, plenty of steam power, both naval and mercantile; why cannot some arrangement be come to with our own Government and those of France and Germany to allow some of the troops of the former Power, now captive in the latter country, to be conveyed in British vessels at once via the Suez Canal, and occupy during the winter the Taku Forts This action would check the Chinese present onward movement, and give time, without loss of prestige, to European nations to arrange matters in the spring, when we are hoping to see the sun break through the dark cloud which now hangs over a large extent of Europe. I do not enter into details; I only suggest the idea. Too often England's neutrality has offended both parties. Now we can help both. Germany has quite as much interest, both as regards religion and trade, in the opening up of China as France has. If nothing should now be done, I fear we shall see in the fate of those at Peking, during the coming winter, a repetition of the sad end of Macnaughten and those who perished with him, and have again to write, as has too often been the case in our intercourse with the East—"Too late."

(THE GLOBE.)

Simultaneously with the arrival of the telegram from Tientsin which informs us that the time limited for the acceptance of the French ultimatum, addressed to the Peking Government, had expired without its demands having been complied with, and that the Chinese are rapidly buying arms and assembling their forces, comes the news by the mail of the burial of the French victims of the massacre, and of the firm conviction expressed by M. Rochechouart and his colleagues, in their addresses at that ceremony, that Prince Kung's promise that "the guilty, whatever be their rank, should be punished," would be faithfully carried out. It is not difficult to account for the change which appears to have come over the aspect of affairs in the interval between the 3rd of August, the day on which the funeral took place, and the day in September when the telegraphic message left Tientsin. We have no doubt that at the time first named the Chinese believed that any hesitation on their part in complying with the demands of M. Rochechouart would be the signal for a war with France, and therefore, though they trusted to time and diplomacy to evade some of the most galling conditions, they expressed themselves willing to punish to the utmost the promoters of the massacre. But since the 3rd of August a great change has come over the power of France; her armies have been defeated, and her dynasty has been overthrown. The news of some of the misfortunes which have overtaken her must have reached the ears of the astute politicians at Peking before the 31st of August, the last day fixed by M. Rochechouart for the acceptance of his ultimatum, and no doubt turned the scale which had at first been pretty equally balanced between compliance and defiance, and has determined them to make a grand effort to free themselves from the presence of foreigners in the interior and to drive them back to the confines of the settlements conceded to them at the ports. It is much to be hoped that the other Treaty Powers will take up the position which would under other circumstances have been surely held by France. Any hanging back on their part, any plainly expressed desire to avoid a war at any cost, will most certainly bring that which they dread upon them. And both many lives and much money might be spared if, instead of waiting until a general massacre of Europeans shall have forced a war of revenge upon them, they were to take a firm and decided line of conduct now.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

We are in a position to state that the detachment of marines which we lately announced had been ordered to proceed to Japan, and subsequently detained for further orders, will be despatched in the course of this month, under the command of Colonel F. J. Richards, R.M.L.I, of the Gosport division. Captain Hill has been appointed adjutant, Captain Broughton paymaster, and Lieutenant E. B. Gray quartermaster to the detachment. According to present arrangement the corvette Juno, which has just returned from the West India station, will convey the troops to Japan, and return with the battalion of the 10th regiment now stationed there.

It is reported in well-informed circles that Rear-Admiral B. P. Seymour will proceed with a new "squadron of observation" to China. Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett will, in all probability, be shortly relieved, and it is also thought probable that he may not wait for his successor, but transfer the command pro tem. to Captain Raby, V.C., of H.M.S. Adventure.

A silver claret jug from the ward room officers, and a silver dressing case from the sub-lieutenants and navigating sub-lieutenants of H.M.S. Ocean, were presented on the paying off of H.M.S. Donegal to the Rev. W. E. Smith, R.N., B.A., as a token of their esteem.

A sample of "Poyang Lake coal," from China, has been forwarded to the Admiralty authorities, with the view of its being tried, and if found successful as a steam generating coal, used on that station, by which a great saving to the Government will accrue.

Monetary and Commercial.

The Board of Trade returns for the month, and eight months ending 31st August last, have been issued. They show a further slight falling off in the total of our exports, the declared value of these for August being £17,087,496, against £17,461,595 in the same month for 1869. The principal changes are a decrease in woollen manufactures, woollen yarn, cotton yarn, iron and steel, copper and brass, hardwares and cutlery, wool, beer, and alkali, but an increase in apparel, coals, cotton manufactures, haberdashery, linen manufactures, machinery, silk manufactures, and telegraphic wire. For the eight months the totals are £131,543,368, against £126,341,811 in the corresponding period of 1869, and £116,777,023 in that of 1868. The imports show a considerable falling of in several of the principal free of duty goods, such as wheat, flour, cotton, and wool. In the quantities of articles subject to duty entered for home consumption there are some changes of a favourable nature. A decrease is shown in cocoa, fruit, and tobacco, but a marked increase in every other commodity, coffee, tea, sugar, and wine exhibiting the greatest improvement. We publish our usual summary of the figures which relate to our trade with the Far East.

The official returns of the stocks of imported produce held in the bonded warehouses at the end of last month show that the quantities in hand of nearly every article are greatly in excess of those held at the corresponding date of last year, and are consequently such as to place us in a good position for meeting the demand whenever the Continent shall begin to recruit its exhausted supplies. From official figures it will be seen that there is an increase of 6 per cent. in the stock of coffee, 78 per cent. in currants, 450 per cent. in raisins, 4 per cent. in rum, 15 per cent. in brandy, 111 per cent. in refined sugar, and 37 per cent. in unrefined, 8 per cent. in tea, 5 per cent. in tobacco, and 2 per cent. in wine. The only instances of decrease are 12 per cent. in cocoa, and 4 per cent. in molasses.

The correspondence received, via San Francisco, on the 3rd inst. confirmed the telegraphic accounts of the suspension of Messrs. Glover and Co., Japan. The amount is not stated, but it is believed that they have received assistance which will enable them to wind up without a forced sale of the Takasima coal mines or other property. A notice has been issued that the agency of the various insurance offices, viz., the Northern, the Imperial, and the London, has been transferred to Mr. Henry Gribble, lately signing for the firm, per pro. Mr. Gribble has issued a circular announcing that he has established as a merchant and commission agent. We understand that there is no partnership between the Japan firm and Glover, Dow, and Co., Shanghai.

The tenders for £300,000 in bills on India were received on the 5th inst. at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £249,400; to Bombay, £50,000; to Madras, £600. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10d. on all the presidencies; and tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 10¼d. will receive about 29 per cent., and on Bombay at that price about 48 per cent. These results show no alteration.

The Telegraph Construction Company's ship Scanderia, with the chief electrician of the British Indian Submarine Company, has sailed from Suez to repair the break in the cable of that company, which is proved by tests to be about ninety-five miles from Suez, in thirty fathoms water. Should the weather prove favourable for the repairs, the cable may be expected to be open for traffic again on Monday next.

Letters have been received from the screw steamer Hibernia, with the Batavia-Singapore section of the British Australian Telegraph Company's cable on board, dated Aug. 17, lat. 13.6 N., long. 25.34 W. All well on board.

The screw steamer Peiho, built by William Denny and Brothers, of Dumbarton, 1,100 tons register, with less than nine tons of coal consumption per day, has made the passage from Glasgow to Rangoon, with a full cargo, in forty days, through the Suez Canal, the best yet reported.

At the weekly meeting of directors of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China, held on the 5th inst., it was resolved not to recommend any dividend for the half-year ended June 30 last This has caused a fall in the shares to £13-14. A circular has been issued to the shareholders explaining the reason for withholding the dividend, and it is this statement of the truth which affects the market price, as some shareholders prefer false statements and dividends. The directors, however, wisely study the permanent interests of the Bank. The amount at stake with the affairs of Mr. Hargreaves is about £20,000.

TEA.

There has been less activity in the market, although prices have been firmly maintained. The Trade having bought freely were not inclined to pay a further advance in prices, which was generally required by importers, who, in the face of favourable advices from China, continue to act with great firmness, the quantity now left in first hands being comparatively small. Public sales of China Tea took place on the 4th inst., comprising 9,345 packages, of which 6,799 packages were sold, 6,687 packages being without reserve. The stock in the United Kingdom on 30th ultimo was estimated at 73,700,000 lbs., against 68, 200,000 lbs. last year, and the quantity afloat at 32,737,000 lbs., against 52,324,000 lbs.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings and broken-leaf kinds have only been in limited demand at about former prices. Fair to good common is now quoted at 11½d. to 1s. per lb., showing ½d. to ½d. per lb. advance. Fair to good Kaisows, of old import, have been saleable at full prices in the absence of further new arrivals. In new season's business to a moderate extent has taken place at about previous prices for good to fine kinds. Pak Lins have sold at about former rates. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities have been more saleable from 8d. to 10½d. per lb. Fair to good common cannot now be bought under 1s. to 1s. 1d. per lb., being a rise of ½d. to 1d. per lb.; fair to good, of old import, have been saleable from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d., being ½d. per lb. higher. There have been no further arrivals of new season; the sales made from those left on hand, of early ships, show very firm prices. In Amoy kinds there has been rather more doing for fair quality at 10½d. to 11d. per lb. In new-make Canton kinds some sales of old season have been made from 1s. to 1s. 0½d. per lb.; those ex Taeping were principally common quality; a few good sold from 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d. per lb. Oolongs have been wanted, the arrivals this year having been unusually small. Souchongs: Sales are made with difficulty at former prices, the quality being indifferent. Scented Teas: Canton Capers, ex "Taeping," have sold from 1s. 7d. to 2s. 4d., being lower prices than those obtained for the few parcels received by Overland route. Foochow Capers show no alteration. Canton Orange Pekoes, ex "Taeping," have met only with a moderate sale at from 1s. 7d. to 2s. 4d. for good to finest kinds. Foochow kinds: Old seasons show no alteration. A few sales of new, of good to fine quality, have been made at a decline of 1d. per lb. Uncoloured Japans show no alteration; the stocks are now very small. Green Teas: The market shows no change, the demand still being inactive, the only kinds saleable being the finer grades, which about maintain former prices. All the common to medium qualities are of very uncertain value, and all at irregular prices. Canton Gunpowders and Young Hysons of old import have sold at public sale at low prices.

The following is from Messrs. Shepard, Harrison and Rehden's Circular:—In the absence of arrivals of importance we have to report a quiet market, at prices about on a par with the quotations given in our report of 21st ultimo, except red leaf, of the grades good flavoury to Kaisow kinds, which advanced to 1s. to 1s 2d. per lb., but the past day or two have receded ½d. per lb., chiefly of second-hand parcels, which are obtainable on better terms than importers are willing to accept. The Taeping, from Canton, via the Cape, arrived on the 28th ult. with new season's Scenteds; prices obtained, though considerably under those made a short time ago, for Overland arrivals, are understood to give favourable results. The Export trade has been confined to a few purchases of Congou for Canada, with a good inquiry for uncoloured Japan leaf, and fine Green of country growth, of which the market is very bare. Deliveries are as follows:—

Home consumption for London from 1st Jan. to 31st Sept. ...	59,573,000	57,984,000
Export do. do.	24,000,000	26,000,000
Sent coastwise do.	31,000,000	26,440,000
Total,	114,573,000	110,424,000

The grades of Black below common, of which there is an excessive stock, have not yet benefited by the improved position of good common to Kaisow kinds; the demand, for these latter has somewhat subsided, at 1s. to 1s. 1½d. per lb. The new season's show greater steadiness, and have sold at fully previous quotations. Pakling kinds, show no alteration. Tayshan: The Taeping with supplies, chiefly of the lower grades, which have sold at 8¾d. to 11d. for ordinary to good common, 11½d. to 1s. 1d. for fair to brisk burnt kinds, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d. for medium strong malty burnt kinds. Black leaf: The quotation for old season's have been maintained, and for new buyers await further imports. Extra fine quality has been taken at full prices. Souchong and Oolong offer no remarks, there being little of new leaf held by importers. Scented Tea: Canton Orange Pekoe: Sales ex-Taeping have been made at full prices, but as buyers are stocked, to induce business lower rates have been accepted, as also for Caper, of which liberal supplies have come forward, mostly of the Chulan style of leaf, selling at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 11d. per lb. Foochow Orange Pekoe and Caper call for no detailed remarks, as supplies held by importers are limited. Green: The market is bare of all desirable grades, common and medium, though prices rule very low, being almost unsaleable.

SILK.

The market has displayed a surprising firmness and elasticity, and under the influence of a steady demand for China Silk, chiefly for home use, prices have stiffened, until they may be quoted 2s. to 3s. above the lowest moment in August, and importers who have felt disposed to be current have been able to sell at 26s. to 26s. 6d. for "Red Peacocks," 27s. for "Kukee 4," and 29s. 6d. for best chop 3rd Tsatlees. Within the last two or three days, however, the demand has rather suddenly ceased, and although prices are not quotably lower, still the market is decidedly flat. For Japans there was some inquiry lately, and business at very low rates; but the demand has again subsided. In Cantons a few sales of ordinary "Tsatlee reels" have been made at 17s. 6d. to 18s., and also in Loongcongs of medium quality at easy rates, but the enormous stock of Canton Silk, 7,281 bales, against 2,090 bales at this time last year, naturally prevents manufacturers from buying beyond their actual necessities. The deliveries from the London warehouses in September were very good—viz., 2,365 China. 556 Canton, 495 Japan, and 247 Bengal; total, 3,663 bales; and from 1st to 5th instant 353, 75, 126, and 31 respectively; total, 585 bales.

COFFEE.

The supplies of Plantation Ceylon at the public sales during the past week have been tolerably large, and with the exception of the best qualities have gone off without spirit, and at a further slight decline. The latest prices paid have been, triage and ordinary, 32s. 6d. to 52s.; small grey, 50s. to 52s.; low middling to middling grey and dull, 54s. 6d. to 58s.; bold ditto, 60s. to 66s.; small coloury, 54s. to 60s.; middling ditto, 58s. 6d. to 64s.; good to fine middling, 64s. 6d. to 71s.; good to superior bold, 71s. 6d. to 83s.; peaberry, 71s. to 80s. 6d. Native Ceylon, of which but a limited quantity has been brought forward, has realised steady rates, viz, small, 41s.; bold, 50s. 6d. to 51s. 6d.; peaberry, 50s. 6d. to 51s. 6d. Of other East India descriptions no offers have been made.

The week's landings, which, including arrivals of various descriptions from Havre, are very large, but only 300 tons in excess of last year; the deliveries have again fallen off, and are 400 tons less than at the same time 1869, thereby creating a surplus stock of 300 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 226,782 cwt., against 123,818 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 11,787 cwt., against 34,300 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 2,402 cwt. Plantation, against 1,167 cwt., and 3,136 cwt. Native, against 2,701 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-nine weeks ended Oct. 1, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 30,651 tons, against 31,932 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 53,242 tons, against 58,111 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 7,948 tons, against 8,337 tons; of all descriptions, 14,230 tons, against 14,367 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 22,009 tons, against 20,385 tons; of all descriptions, 35,623 tons, against 35,638 tons. The stock on Oct. 1 was, of Ceylon, 14,558 tons, against 14,205 tons; of all descriptions, 27,608 tons, against 27,326 tons.

SUGAR.

There has been an active demand for useful refining qualities, which have realised an advance of 1s. per cwt., while for the lower kinds only a moderate demand has been exhibited at about the previous range of prices. The business in East India descriptions has again been very limited. At auction the only offer, consisting of 9,456 bags unclayed Manila (duty 4s.) was bought in above the value. Zebu at 19s. to 19s. 3d., Taal at 18s. Privately 7,956 bags unclayed Zebu, bought in at last week's auctions, have been sold at 18s. 6d.; 2,000 bags unclayed Taal Manila at 17s. 6d., and 13,000 bags low Java syrups at 16s. 9d.

The deliveries for home use continue large, including 3,600 tons British West India and 600 tons Manila, and as some quantity of the latter has again been exported, the total deliveries are nearly 1,100 tons larger than last year, and as the landings are 2,200 tons smaller, the surplus in the stock is again reduced, being now only about 8,000 tons. Stock, Sept. 24, 102,029 tons, against 90,591 tons; Oct. 1, 99,767 tons, against 91,638 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-nine weeks ended Oct. 1, 1870, was—of Penang, 2,277 tons, against 3,015 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 15,183 tons, against 25,917 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 1,689 tons, against 1,982 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 20,177 tons, against 14,068 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 96 tons, against 158 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 2,259 tons, against 1,036 tons. The stock on Oct. 1 was, of Penang, 2,822 tons, against 1,194 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 28,537 tons, against 39,377 tons.

Cocoa-nut Oil.—A moderate business has been done in Ceylon, and the market closes steady at last week's quotations, viz.:—in pipes £38, in hogsheads £39 10s. The quantity of Ceylon afloat is estimated at 21,374 cwt., against 20,635 cwt. in 1869, and 16,567 cwt. in 1868.

Camphor.—There has been very little business done; privately about 50 cases China have realised 70s. 136 cases sold at auction at 70s. to 73s. per cwt. for fair to good, in lead. There has been, however, a considerable inquiry at lower prices, and but little offers, either on the spot or to arrive. An important arrival per Cymbeline is expected.

China Grass.—The market is dull, and lower rates are current; a parcel advertised for auction has been privately disposed of at £50 per ton for good white, and at auction yesterday 60 bales were retired.

Cubebs.—Without transactions.

Cutch.—The inquiry continues dull, but holders are firm; small sales of fine Pegu are reported at 20s. to 20s. 6d. per cwt.

Coir Goods.—The last auctions comprised the following offers:—Yarn: 1,426 bales Cochin, the greater portion sold at £18 5s. to £42 for ordinary coarse and dark to very good well-made; 32 tons in dholls brought £17 5s. to £18s. 10s. for common. 187 bales and 72 tons Ceylon, the latter only mostly sold at £23 5s. to £36 for medium to very good, and £48 15s. superior. Fibre: 273 bales Cochin bought in; 5 bales fine bright Ceylon brought £29 15s. 500 ballots fair sold at £13 to £20 10s. ordinary to fair. Rope: 1,439 coils (28 tons) Cochin retired; 160 coils Ceylon sold at £26 for 1 to 3 inch. Junk: 491 pieces damaged brought £9 per ton.

Cowries.—An offer of 67 barrels Ceylon at auction found buyers at 35s. 6d. per cwt. for good small, with a few medium rather yellow, and 13s. to 22s. for ordinary large to medium; a moderate trade has also been done privately at about corresponding rates.

Dragon's-blood.—The market is steady, and of 11 cases at public sale 6 cases realised £6 10s. per cwt. for quality lump.

Ebony.—The high price reported in our last is still maintained for fine figured wood.

Galls.—There is a good deal more enquiry than has been shown of late, and as high as 44s. per cwt. has been paid for good China, though sales have not been made to any large extent. Of Japan we have no stock, and there is good demand.

Gums.—All these gums continue very quiet. Auctions have embraced: of Benjamin 40 cases Sumatra, half of which sold at £4 2s. 6d. per cwt. for good 3rds, and £3 7s. 6d. Palembang. Manila Copal, 85 cases retired. Damar sells slowly, at low prices; 166 cases Batavia at auction, a few only sold at 52s. 6d. per cwt. Gamboge firmer, and 18 cases at auction sold at £12 10s. to £13 per cwt. for fine pipe.

Gutta-percha.—Although prices have declined there is very little enquiry, and stocks are increasing; 332 baskets and 37 bags at auction were retired. Very superior genuine picked has been sold privately at 3s. 3d.

Gambier.—The market is steady, with small business at 16s. to 16s. 3d. per cwt.

Hemp.—Without any reported transactions, the market for Manila is steady at the rates last current, viz., £53 to £56 per ton for fair roping to fine Boluzan.

Hides.—At the last sales there was a fair general demand for East India Hides, the exporters operating more freely than for some time past, and nearly all those offered found buyers; fair and good descriptions under 9 lb. average ¼d., and those over that weight ½d. per lb. over last sale rates. Ordinary and inferior were also slightly dearer. 9,364 Dry and Brined Penang Ox and Cow Hides offered, 7,973 sold—dry, light, and small, 6d. to 7¾d.; heavy, 6¼d.; extra heavy, 6½d.; thirds, 5d. to 5¼d.; fourths, 3½d. to 3¾d.; brined light, 9¾d.; heavy, 7½d.; extra heavy, 7¼d. per lb. 1,305 Brined Cochin Hides offered and sold—second light, 8d.; heavy, 6¾d.; thirds, 6¾d.; small, 7¼d.; fourths, 5d. per lb. 454 Ceylon Hides offered and sold—light and small, 5¾d.; heavy and extra heavy, 5¼d.; thirds, &c., 4¾d.; buffalo, 4d. per lb. 3,988 Singapore and Penang Buffalo Hides offered, 3,120 sold—best heavy, 4½d. to 5¼d.; seconds, 4¼d. to 5d.; light, 6¼d. to 7d. per lb.

India-rubber.—Medium qualities continue in active request, and a further advance has been paid, nearly the whole of the quantity of West India offering being taken off; Assam has also sold at full rates. Afloat large sales of Borneo have been effected at firm prices. At public sale yesterday 30 baskets Penang were bought in at 1s. 9d.; of 54 baskets Singapore one lot sold at 1s. 8¾d., the remainder being bought in at 1s. 8d.; 28 baskets Borneo sold at 1s. 7½d. to 1s. 7¾d., and 18 chests Assam were bought in at 1s. 2d.

Isinglass.—There is no business to report in either Penang or Manila.

Japan Wax.—The market is steady, with a moderate business doing; of 261 cases offered at public sale a part was taken at 69s. for fair but rather greasy saucers, and 72s. 6d. for fine cake.

Musk.—Sells readily, but at easy rates, and common rough is in too large supply. The Auctions have embraced the following: of 18 caddies Tonquin, 7 sold at 29s. 6d. to 30s. 6d. per oz. for fine; 10 tins grains half sold at 35s. to 44s. for very skinny to very good; 10 caddies Cabardine sold at 15s. 6d. to 16s.; 18 tins Nepaul Pod, and 10 tins Nepaul Grain were retired.

Oils.—Annised is again dearer, with sales up to 8s. 6d.; Cassia is also higher, with news of China disturbances, and 4s. 6d. has been paid. Nutmeg is wanted. Lemon Grass dull.

Plumbago.—The market remains in the same inactive state as last noticed; private transactions are of a retail character. Of 1,036 barrels at public sale about one-third found buyers at 19s. to 24s. per cwt. for fine to very superior bright lump; 13s. 6d. to 15s. ordinary to middling lump; 9s. to 11s. 6d. middling to fine chips; and 5s. to 9s. 6d. ordinary to very fine bright dust.

Pepper.—Black continues in active demand, and, being scarce, prices have further advanced ½d. to ¼d. per lb. On the spot about 5,000 bags have been sold—Penang at 5d. to 5¼d., Singapore at 5⅛d. to 5¼d.; for arrival, 7,500 bags have changed hands at rising rates—Penang at 4 13-16d. to 5d., and Singapore at 5⅛d. per lb. White firmly maintains the late advance; on the spot 660 bags Singapore sold at 6¼d.; for arrival, 200 bags, September sailing, realised 6⅜d. per lb.

Rattans.—The Auctions have embraced 4,373 bundles Rangoon, which sold at 2s. 11d. to 3s. 4d. per 100 canes; and 6,768 bundles Singapore, of which one-third sold at 3s. 4d. to 3s. 8d.

Rice.—The market is quiet, business being limited, both on the spot and afloat; sales are reported of 1,400 bags fine Java at 14s., 615 bags ordinary Rangoon at 8s. 3d. to 8s. 6d., and 80 bags Siam at 8s.; also of the following floating cargoes:—The Victor, 560 tons Necransie, at 9s. 9d., for Holland; the Usko, 820 tons Rangoon, at 9s. 6d., Continental terms; the Leaping Water, 1,350 tons Necransie, at 9s. 7½d. for the Continent; the Eena, 510 tons Necransie, at 9s. 9d. landed terms for London; the Romulus, 910 tons Necransie at 9s. 6d., Continental terms. Landed last week, 6,986 tons; delivered (exclusive of the quantity ex ship), 1,520 tons; stock 41,758 tons, against 44,072 tons at this time last year.

Rhubarb.—With fears of the serious disturbances in China causing a cessation of supply, there has been some disposition to buy largely, and anything offering at reasonable prices has been taken. One parcel middling dull root sold at 2s. privately, but subsequently an advance of 6d. per lb. has been obtained, and at last auction 29 cases similar, fair coat, dull grey and pinky fracture, realised 2s. 6d.; there is not much now offering.

Spices.—Cassia: Steady, with retail trade privately at 107s. per cwt. for fine unworked. 169 cases Japan and 30 boxes China at auction were retired. Cinnamon: Without change in value; market rather quiet, and transactions retail. Chips maintain their advanced value for the better descriptions. 97 bags sold at auction at 2d. per lb. for fair coarse bark, and 5½d. fair shavings of good flavour. Mace: 19 cases Penang were bought in at 3s. 2d. to 3s. 3d.; 22 cases common Singapore sold at 2s. 9d.; mouldy 2s. 4d. to 2s. 6d. per lb. Nutmegs command firm rates; 12 casks limed Java, 76 to the lb., sold at 1s. 11d. to 2s., and 83 cases Penang, 112 to the lb., 1s. 11d.; 98, 2s. to 2s. 1d.; 93, 2s. 2d. to 2s. 3d.; 84, 2s. 2d.; 82, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 7d.; 73, 2s. 11d.; and 69, 3s. 6d. per lb. Cloves; 20 cases Penang realised 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1¾d. for middling fine.

Sago.—Quiet, and lower prices accepted. Of 400 boxes and 883 bags at auction only a few of the former sold at 18s. per cwt. for very good bright even well made small. No change in flour.

Sapanwood.—Without change in the absence of business. 9 tons Singapore and 9 tons inferior Manila at auction retired. 12 tons of the Bangkok Siam character from the Cape were offered and sold at £5 10s. per ton for fair Wood.

Sticklac.—The recent activity is no longer apparent, and there is little or nothing doing.

Star Annisеed.—No sales reported.

Soy.—The market is quiet; small sales of China have been effected at 2s. 2d. per gallon.

Tobacco.—At the last sales 272 bales Japan leaf damaged, sold at 5½d. to 8½d., and 14 cases Manila Cheroots 2s at 6s. 3d. to 6s. 6d.

Tapioca.—The market is dull of sale, except for very superior quality, which, on account of its scarcity, commands extreme rates. Auctions have embraced 791 bags Singapore, of which only one-fourth sold at 3½d. to 3¼d. for very superior bright Rio character; 977 bags Penang retired; of 300 bags Pearl offered, two-thirds sold at 20s. to 22s. per cwt. for medium to fine bullets; 63 bags and 50 boxes Flour were retired.

Turmeric.—No business doing.

Tin.—The market is still characterised by great inactivity; consumers—believing that war, with its attendant disorganisation of trade, would surely bring a fall in the article—have limited their transactions to barest needs. On the other hand, holders, taking into consideration the small available supply, see no reason for sacrificing their stock, so prices have been fairly maintained. Prices show no material change from those last recorded; the current rates are—Straits on the spot, £124; afloat, £118; Banca, £125 to £126; Billiton, £124. According to Messrs. French and Smith's Circular the future course of the article must greatly depend on the result of the Dutch Trading Company's sale, to be held at Amsterdam this day, when 80,000 slabs Banca will be offered. This quantity in times of commercial prosperity would not be considered excessive, especially when taken in connection with the small supply of Straits and Billiton here and afloat; but the question is whether during these times of political uncertainty buyers will be found for the entire quantity at present prices. Should a combination again be formed, such as we have seen for the last two years, it is possible that prices may not only be maintained, but even rule higher.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—DEBILITY AND CONSUMPTION.—In no diseases are the results of the alterative and tonic influence of these invaluable remedies more apparent or more gratifying than in that feeble condition of the body which precedes consumption. A change for the better is observed ere this treatment has been followed for a week, and the improvement steadily progresses; the encroaching emaciation and mental depression gradually gives place to health, strength, and cheerfulness. The Ointment should be rubbed most diligently between the shoulders, on the chest, and left side, at least twice a day. Two Pills should be taken nightly, the air should be sought, solids eaten, slops avoided. This treatment duly followed will soon arrest both cough and feverishness.

THE MAILS, &c.

The transit through France is still impeded, and the present mail is delivered—as was the last—two days late. The next inward mail (French), due on the 24th inst., will bring dates Yokohama, Aug. 30; Shanghai, Sept. 2; Hong Kong, Sept. 8; Singapore, Sept. 17. It will probably arrive on the 26th. There will be no interruption in the inward French mails until January, when the service homeward will be as outward—once a month during the war.

Telegrams in advance of the mail leaving Hong Kong on the 29th Sept. were received, via Galle, on the 17th inst., and telegrams, via Kiachta, with Shanghai dates to the 28th Sept., came in this morning. Telegrams dated Yokohama, Sept. 22, in advance of the Pacific mail, via San Francisco, were received yesterday.

Summary of News from the Far East.

—o—

JAPAN.

From the ports in Japan the dates to hand by this mail have been anticipated by the San Francisco route, given in our last.

CHINA.

—o—

CHEFOO.

Dates are to August 20.

The Shanse took down Captain May, of the Opossum, gunboat, who is on his way home, having just received his promotion. The Princess Clothilde, Italian man-of-war, arrived from Japan, and is anchored near the French Admiral's ship Venus. She exchanged salutes. Rumour says the Emperor of China has gone to Jehol, but this wants confirmation. The Appin arrived on the 17th. N. E. wind died away and weather much hotter. News has been received, by special courier from Teinwanfoo, the capital of Shangtung, that the missionaries there have been insulted, and stones thrown both at them and at their chapel. The missionaries purposed to leave the city unobserved, and retire to some adjacent village. A further report says the Taoutai had received a despatch from Peking, inviting a report as to the feeling of the people with respect to foreigners.

The marines were landed from the Venus, and put through a good drill, with skirmishing, &c., on the hill. They had two small field-pieces, which six men lugged up and down all sorts of rugged ground with perfect ease. The Barrosa arrived on the evening of the 17th. The Admiral had been impatient for her appearance. He hoisted his flag in her on the 18th. Two French gunboats came in on the morning of the 19th. There has been a meeting with a view to establish some sort of local government here, and not before it is wanted; the sands seem to be the scavengers of the place. Casks of putrid beef or fish are emptied there, broken bottles strewed about, debris of all kinds thrown down, and in the evening a number of sailors disport themselves immediately in front of the houses. The water here has been analysed, and pronounced to be full of vegetable and injurious matter.

SHANGHAI.

The dates are now down to Aug. 25. The outward mail (French) of July 8 arrived on the 21st. Telegrams via Kiachta had been received to Aug. 2.

The following summary is from the North China Herald of the 25th of August:—An attempt has been made to assassinate the Viceroy of Nanking, and great excitement prevails in the city. The blow was struck on the 22nd. On the 23rd his Excellency was still alive, but reported to be in great danger; every effort was being made to prevent the true state of affairs becoming known. No other reason can be surmised for the crime than the course the Viceroy took in preventing the outbreak, which had been planned to occur simultaneously with that at Tientsin. The assassin is reported to be a Shantung man. He refuses to give any motive. Disturbance is feared now the Viceroy's influence is withdrawn, as there is a vast number of students in the city.

From Chefoo we hear that the English Admiral is going to Nagasaki to join his flagship, the Ocean. Admiral Kellett is said to take a very serious view of matters in the North, and to complain of the want of definite instructions. The French men-of-war in port were decked with flags, in honour of the Emperor's birthday, and salutes were fired at noon. The Italian frigate Principessa Clothilde, H.M.S. Barrosa, and the French gunboats Frelon and Couleuvre have arrived.

Very grave uneasiness still prevails in Peking, and influence is being evidently exerted to keep the feeling of hostility to foreigners alive. The Sisters of Charity have been threatened, though no demonstration has been made. The Government are ostensibly trying to prevent disturbance. A correspondent writes, that four Chinese soldiers and a corporal (!) keep guard in a house adjoining the cathedral and the Sisters' establishment; and a notice was posted officially outside the door of the Cabinet, signed by the Taoutai, but really believed to come from the Empress, enjoining on the subordinate heads of police and of the garrison to suppress all rumours, and keep strict surveillance over their districts. Any officer who fails in his duty is to be immediately reported for punishment.

Still popular excitement is great, and rumour is very rife as to the future. Nothing, evidently, but severe punishment inflicted for the massacre at Tientsin will restore quiet. The long delay which has taken place without a show of retribution encourages, more and more, the feeling of hostility which has been excited; and by encouraging the anti-foreign party makes it more and more difficult to enforce measures which might have been easily carried out in the first fortnight had the Foreign Ministers been firm and united in their insistance.

The Belgian Minister has addressed a strong protestation to the Yamen on the way in which the Government has proceeded in the management of Tientsin affairs. It is but right that, on behalf of the Italian and Belgian Sisters who were among the victims of the fatal June 21st, a distinct voice should be raised, expressing in a clear manner the sentiments of their compatriots who have come to the knowledge of their unhappy but glorious end; and our readers will see, from a précis of the despatch which we print elsewhere, that Baron t'Kint has done his duty well. We trust it will be found that others have acted with equal vigour and promptitude. It is believed that Count Rochechouart will haul down his flag on the 31st, unless his demands are complied with. The Prussian Legation has communicated the fact of the European war to the Tsung-li Yamen.

The great stumbling-block is the execution of the mandarins. The Government apparently will not recognise their glaring complicity in the massacre, but persist in talking of punishment for neglect or incapacity in not having prevented it. They seem willing to punish the perpetrators of the murders, to re-erect the buildings destroyed, to indemnify the families of the victims, and to degrade the officials; but they will not execute them. And nothing short of execution will be a sufficient punishment for the past or guarantee for the future. It is likely that the latter received so much high encouragement that it is practically impossible to execute them for virtual obedience to instructions.

A proclamation has been posted in Shanghai that the Kwei-chow "Subscription Office" is now open, and that it has commenced the sale of office and titles. Any rank in Peking can be purchased, up to a member of one of the Six Boards (inclusive), and in the provinces up to Taoutai (inclusive). The Kwei-chow office offers special facilities; it has obtained from the Emperor power to issue Government certificates to purchasers on payment of the purchase-money, whereas formerly such certificates could only be obtained after reference to Peking. Of course "gentry" and "wealthy" persons are urged to avail themselves of such an unexampled privilege!

The steamer Tu-pang-nyo is to be offered for sale by auction on the 20th Sept.

A Protestant Mission Chapel outside the Pingtze-men was assailed by Chinese soldiers searching for foreigners. The commanding officer explained that he did so in obedience to orders from the Taoutai's yamen. On investigation the explanation given was that the search was with a view to the foreigners' safety!

The example of Mr. Hart in withdrawing his family from Peking is likely to be followed by many others. Very severe remarks are made about Mr. Low, the American minister, who has been at the hills with his family ever since the massacre; Mr. Wade has never been there more than forty-eight hours at a time.

The officers of the Ashuelot, proceeding to Peking in carts, strayed close to the "Nan hai-tze" (South Park), a dangerous locality for foreigners to approach at present, owing to the number of soldiers stationed there. Everything indicated that the apprehension felt by almost every one is too well founded.

HONG KONG.

Our advices from this port extend to the 1st September; the French mail, with advices from London to July 22, arrived out on the 31st August.

Baron Richtofen has published a retrospect of his journey from Hankow to Peking, which is sufficiently interesting to make us learn with regret that, from unforeseen circumstances, the Baron has been compelled to return to Europe without carrying out all that he proposed when commencing the expedition. The country on the route of the Baron's travels separates itself into three natural divisions, first, the valley of the Han river and its tributaries, including portions of Hupé and Honan; second, northern Honan, between the Fu-niu-shan and the Tai-hang-shan; third, highlands of Shansi. Honan ranks among those provinces of China which are most favoured by nature. It is rich in both agricultural and mineral products. Coal, iron, and lead constitute the latter. In proportion to its area Shansi has probably the largest and most easily workable coal-field of any region on the globe.

The Legislative Council met on the 18th August. We extract the following summary of its proceedings from the China Mail. A draft ordinance to amend the law relating to night-passes was read a first time, and the Supplementary Estimates were passed without opposition, the Colonial Secretary remarking that the actual expenditure for 1869 was $93,000 below the sum estimated for. But this was the last of a bad system, and they would not require again to vote the money in that way. On the motion of the Lieutenant-Governor, the Estimates for 1870 were then read, and he hoped that the Council would go minutely into them, because under present instructions no money could now be voted without the consent of the Legislative Council. He therefore proposed that the Council should go into committee on the various items. The Colonial Secretary explained that in the Department of the Surveyor-General there were extensive alterations and additions. A draftsman ($2,400), two assistant engineers (one $1,840 and another $1,680), chair-coolies, inspector of buildings, ($1,200), Chinese tracers, sappers, &c., &c., made up a very considerable increase of $7,928. Some conversational discussion arose concerning the manner in which the draftsman's duties were performed before this appointment was made. It was admitted as most essential that the duties of the Surveyor-General's department should be efficiently carried out; but it appeared strange that the duties devolving upon draftsmen, tracers, and assistant engineers had been hitherto performed by others, and it was matter for curious inquiry who did the work before.

On the motion of the Colonial Secretary, the salary of Mr. Smith, the Registrar-General, was raised from £800 to £1,000, on account of the increased duties attached to the office, and Mr. Smith's special aptitude for it. The motion was carried, although the Chief Justice, Colonial Treasurer, and Messrs. Ryrie, Gibb, and Rowett had expressed themselves in favour of a provisional vote. On the police estimate the Lieut.-Governor remarked that he thought it would be a great improvement on the present state of things to employ intelligent West Indians in lieu of Sikhs, who did not understand us. He proposed to obtain West Indians who could read and write, and upon whose pluck we could depend in an emergency. Thirty of them had been employed, and when absorbed into the force they would be able to fall into their places; and by-and-by they would have a better description of men—men who had served ten years in the West Indies, of good character, who were thorough soldiers, and could take their places with any regular regiment. Some conversation then ensued as to the cost, Mr. Gibb remarking that it might be well to obtain an idea how much it would cost to bring the West Indians to Hong Kong. The Colonial Secretary said about $200 a-head; and H.E. mentioned $180 as a likely price. It was therefore thought advisable to postpone the question till its bearings and details were better understood.

The Council then went into the consideration of the several ordinances proposed by the Attorney-General, of which we gave a summary in our issue of the 30th ult. The ordinance for the punishment of deported criminals was passed without discussion. The ordinance for increasing the liabilities of innkeepers was passed, after some discussion, it being finally agreed that, being only £1,000, the amount should remain as originally proposed at last meeting by Mr. Keswick. The Attorney-General further explained that the rules would have to be printed in English and Chinese and exhibited in the hall of any hotel; that residents were not included, according to common law, among visitors, and therefore not entitled to the protection provided by this ordinance. On the ordinance relating to re-entry by the Crown, the Attorney-General said that it might seem hard, but that it was nothing more than the privilege now possessed by every private subject. Upon any breach of covenant, caused by non-payment of rent, &c., the ordinance provided a public mode of enforcing the right of the Crown to re-enter. In reply to Messrs. Ryrie and Rowett, the Attorney-General said that the Crown would not have power to throw the land back upon a lessee after the expiry of the year. The Chief Justice and Mr. Rowett reminded Mr. Ryrie that nonpayment of rent laid a lessee open to distraint and sale of property, and, after some explanations, the Bill was passed. The ordinance relating to pawnbrokers was referred to a special committee, consisting of the Attorney-General and Messrs. Ryrie and Rowett. The ordinance for the maintenance of good order in public buildings, &c., was passed after a jocular discussion on dog ejectment, in which the Chief Justice said that if any one turned a dog out, the dog could not bring an action of battery, and Mr. Ryrie observed that some dogs required a great deal of beating; while many persons valued their dogs very highly. The ordinance to make further provision for the administration of the estates and effects of deceased persons was passed unanimously; as was the ordinance for giving compensation to the families of persons killed through negligence, the Attorney-General having explained that this ordinance was copied exactly from the Imperial Act, viz., that upon which the £3,000 was so recently awarded to a widow in an action against the P. and O. Company.

Mr. Rowett asked whether there was any limitation to the erection of matsheds. They were now approaching the dry season, when fire was most frequent, and in the very centre of the town there were immense matsheds, constructed of the most inflammable materials. One was just now being raised on the site of the new German Club, and if ever it caught fire the surrounding buildings would be certain to be very seriously damaged. The Lieutenant-Governor referred to the apparently anti-German character of the movement. The Attorney-General was not certain that matsheds could come under the heading of a nuisance. Mr. Gibb remarked that the matshed erections were absolutely necessary, so far as he could judge. It was clear enough that they were dangerous; they had had a fire in Hong Kong not long ago, which originated from a spark from a matshed. The Attorney-General promised to look into the law on this subject, and the Council adjourned.

The Aroostook, the gunboat sold out of the American service at Yokohama some time since, and which realised, we believe, some $12,500, has been re-sold to the Japanese for $35,000.

The British steamer Saida, from Lisbon via Suez Canal, arrived at Macao 26th Aug. She brings some 250 troops of the line for the Garrison, the new Superintendent of Emigration, several officers who came out as reliefs, besides the families of some of the officers stationed at Macao. We regret to learn that the daughter of Lieut.-col. Leite (the commandant of police), a young lady of about sixteen, died of heat apoplexy during the passage down the Red Sea. The other casualties of the voyage were the loss of two sergeants. It is supposed that the Saida will return direct to Lisbon, taking cargo for the continent here and at Macao.

The arrival of the ice-laden ship Formosa was very opportune, as the supply had dwindled down, we learn, to a moderate amount, and the delay of a few weeks more would have compelled a careful husbanding of the stock on hand. Owing to the prudent manner in which the ice business has been conducted under the present agent of the Tudor Company, the community have never been deprived of this necessary for a single day since their assumption of the ice supply, though under the old regime it was either a feast or a famine the greater portion of the year.

We hear (says the Shanghai Express) that Messrs. Russell and Co. have entered into a contract to place 200,000 piculs of rice, for the supply of the Chinese troops, in Tientsin within one month. The Shantung has been despatched to Tamsui for the first instalment, and other steamers of the S. S. N. Co. will, it is said, rapidly follow. It is also known that several consignments of rifles have lately passed into Chinese hands, so the "braves" will be well armed and provisioned for the campaign which is apparently contemplated for the winter.

The following is the account, duly certified, of the average amount of bank notes in circulation in Hong Kong and specie in reserve, during the month ending July 31, 1870:—

	Average Amount.	Specie in Reserve.
Oriental Corporation	$637,959 ..	$212,653

Chartd. Bank of India	350,950 ..	120,000

We learn from the China Mail that the fans manufactured and distributed by the Chinese in commemoration of the Tientsin Massacre, and alluded in our last, were of four kinds, but two of them cannot now be procured, as they have been prohibited by the mandarians. It is not a little suggestive that only two of the four kinds were stopped. The reason is said to be this—that those interdicted had on them the names of the perpetrators, and the names of the mandarins who suggested the horrible deed. However, the French priests have copies of all. Our contemporary adds—We hear that the British Consul's notification, to the effect that foreigners might now go to the City, has fallen a dead letter. The bearing of the people implies too much risk.

The following is an extract from a private letter written by a resident at Tientsin, and dated August 16:—"We cannot imagine what the British Minister means by such a suicidal course as he is pursuing. My advices from Peking report that he is really the great obstacle to any satisfactory adjustment of our present disturbed relations. The Belgian Minister is so disgusted with his course that he refuses to have any translations done under his eye, as has hitherto been his practice. The tone of the people here is most insolent, and all the friendly Chinese urge us to go on board the steamers, for they confidently predict another and an early outbreak. The place is full of native troops, and some of these rascals fraternise with the people and foster their animosities. We are all feeling this suspense to be almost unendurable."

Baron von Rodenbach, the Belgian Minister at Peking, has addressed an able despatch to the Tsung-li-Yamên on the Tientsin Massacre. The first impression was that all the victims were French; but it was soon ascertained that English, Italian, and Belgian subjects were amongst them; and, ever since then, the Belgian Minister has been constant in his demand on the Chinese Government for the prompt punishment of the guilty. On the 30th July his Excellency paid a formal visit to the Tsung-li-Yamên to protest against the inertness shown. He expressed his satisfaction that Foo and Hien had been degraded, and ordered to be judged by the Board of Punishments; but urged that Tseng-kwo-Fan and Chung How found them in fault only for not having prevented the outbreak, whereas it was notorious that these two magistrates had mainly occasioned it by their incendiary proclamation. The Belgian Minister again urged the necessity for a proclamation by the Emperor, categorically denying all the charges brought against the foreigners, and declaring that their authors would be severely punished. It was shown that massacres like that at Tientsin were to have taken place simultaneously in several of the other provinces, both north and south, as well as at Nanking. His Excellency declared therefore that, unless the Imperial Government wished to assume beforehand the responsibility of future massacres, it should proceed to summary judgment and punishment without further delay. We are confident that our readers will share our gratification with Baron von Rodenbach's able despatch, and our confidence that, if the Foreign Ministers had addressed a joint note to the Tsung-li-Yamen, couched in equally vigorous terms, at the outset, their just demands would have been promptly yielded.

BANGKOK.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the 3rd September.

Captain Oldfield has reported the freedom from all obstacles of the route for a telegraph from Java, eastward to Bangkok.

The latest news from Cheangmai confirms the demise of the ruler of that land, and of another of the same spirit, Chow Ratfakee-nai, who, during the troubles there, was as bitter against the introduction of Christianity as the late King The King died on the 29th and Chow Rat-fakee-nai on the 30th June.

The Laos Prince Boontawong is a full and younger brother of the Maha Ooparat, the second King of Cheangmai, on whom the government of the kingdom now devolves. This prince is now probably to all intents and purposes second in the kingdom, and will doubtless continue in that relation, when his elder brother shall be constituted king by his Majesty the King of Siam, as is now contemplated, soon after the cremation for the late King of Cheangmai, early in the next dry season. Prince Boontawong, who is one of the noblest looking among the Laos princehood, expresses a strong assurance that the Americans in Cheangmai will henceforward enjoy great peace.

Herr Paul Pickenpack has commenced his duties as Consul for Sweden and Norway at Siam.

Advices from Petchaburi, which is one of the western provinces of Siam, indicate some anxiety on the part of rice cultivators. The banks of the Petchaburi river had not yet overflowed, though several unsuccessful attempts were made to construct a dam and force an inundation. Having failed, the people think it best to trust and wait the usual annual inundations. Efforts likewise are being made to organise in the capital of that province a military force. Barracks have been built, and raw men are being disciplined with old flint lock muskets, whilst others are being drilled only with sticks.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 9th September. The London mail of 5th August (French) arrived on the 2nd September.

We learn from the Straits Times that business was very dull, public attention being engrossed by the war. The Pension Bill was being progressed with, and would probably be passed at the next meeting of the Legislative Council. There are, however, one or two points in this Bill not altogether satisfactory to the general public, inasmuch as the old Indian servants, though pensioned on the scale allowed by the Indian pension rules, are not provided for so liberally as the officials appointed since the transfer; and members of the police force entitled to relief from the police superannuation fund are not to receive any pension whatever.

The arrivals of steamers from Europe via the Suez Canal have been few.

PENANG.

Dates are down to 10th Sept. The French mail of the 5th August from London was received via Singapore on the 5th Sept.

The following items are from the Penang Gazette.

The Committee, consisting of the Lieutenant Governor, the Colonial Secretary, and the Hon. F. S. Brown, which has been sitting during the last week to inquire into the working of the various public departments, are believed to have concluded their labours so far as inquiry goes. There are all sorts of rumours afloat as to what the result will be. One report is that we are no longer to have the honour of possessing a Lieutenant Governor, but that Colonel Anson's title is to be in future that of "Superintendent" or "Government Agent," but no saving to the colony is effected by the change as the pay of the office is to be the same, nor is the cause for it very apparent; and if the change indicated is all that comes from the Colonial Secretary's visit Mr. Birch may as well have stopped at home and saved the cost of his coming here. The Lieutenant-Governor, Colonial Secretary, F. S. Brown, M.L C., and Major McNair, Colonial Surveyor, left for Singapore in the Peiho. During the absence on duty of Colonel Anson, Capt. D. T. Hatchell, magistrate in the province, will act as Lieutenant-Governor.

The select committee appointed to inquire into and report on the new Government House and the expenditure incurred thereon have presented their report to the Legislative Council. They state that, "Viewing the quantity and substantiality of the work performed and the manner in which it has been finished, the committee are of opinion that the building is probably worth the money spent upon it." The whole amount expended on the new Government House is stated at $161,451.94, being, according to the committee, an excess of outlay over what was voted by the Legislative Council of $11,351.94, or, if we take the Auditor-General's calculation, of $37,415.51.

The vacancy in the Roman Catholic See of Penang, caused by the retirement of the Right Rev. J. B. Bucho, is to be filled by the appointment of the Rev. Father Leturdu, now stationed at Pulo Tikus. Bishop Bigandet, on his lordship's return from Rome to Rangoon, is to call here and consecrate the new prelate.

The Germans in Penang have subscribed upwards of $600 towards the relief fund for those of their fellow countrymen who suffer from the war.

It is seldom that Penang has been so denuded of shipping. On the 9th September there was but one English-owned ship in the harbour, and only two steamers, the Cashmere and Kalahome. From the 1st of August to the 6th of September 674 coolies arrived from Negapatam and Paumbon, per Caroondadencunny, Vettival, Mahomadia, and Ahmad Samdani. There were but a small proportion of plantation coolies among the number. There is at present a great demand for labourers in the province, not only on the plantations, but also for Government employ on the roads.

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—Cotton Goods—Grey Shirtings: The market had ruled steady during the fortnight, with a moderate demand at previous prices; closing rates, Tls. 1.80 to 1.86 for 7 lbs., Tls. 2.20 to 2.27 for 8¼ lbs., and Tls. 2.30 to 2.58 per piece for 9 to 10 lbs. White Shirtings: Only small sales; no change in prices. T-Cloths: For 6 lbs., being out of season, no offers; good and best makes of 7 lbs. taken to a fair extent at Tls. 1.62 to 1.70 per piece; common not wanted; only small sales of 36-inch cloths reported at Tls. 1.90 to 1.95 per piece. Drills: Less inquiry; prices of best English firm, Dutch and American easier and dull. Jeans: Small sales of English at Tls. 2.24 to 2.28 per piece. Fancy and Dyed Cottons: Very little demand; a few sales of Gentian Shirtings at Tls. 2.50 to 2.60 per piece. Woollens and Worsteds—Camlets: In the absence of demand prices slightly weaker. Black sold as low as Tls. 8 to 8.50 per piece; Scarlet at Tls. 10.30 to 11.40 per piece. Lastings: A few sales at previous rates. Long Ells: Market remained in a most unsatisfactory position. Spanish Stripes sold at an advance of 1 to 2 candareens, but not much demand. Figured Orleans: Some inquiry; well assorted parcels sold at an advance of 1 to 2 mace. Metals—Lead: Only limited inquiry at Tls. 4.25.

SHANGHAI.—Grey Shirtings: In our issue for the French mail we noticed a large sale of 8¼ lbs. goods "to arrive." Since then few sales had taken place. The stock of this weight was low, and it maintained its value comparatively well; but in the face of reduced prices at home, and considerable supplies of 7 and 9 to 10 lbs. makes, both on the spot and afloat, the quotations for these were quite nominal, and the market was very weak. Sales of all weights from first hands, 60,000 to 70,000 pieces. White Shirtings: The inquiry for this import had been limited, sales amounting to only 6,000 pieces; prices showed little or no change. T-Cloths: The remarks in our last may be repeated—"T-Cloths of all kinds had receded in value, and there was no disposition to operate in them at quotations." Drills: Latterly any little demand that had been manifested was freely met by the Chinese speculators, who were being pressed to clear; and to effect sales a concession to buyers had to be made in consequence. Jeans: 12,000 to 15,000 pieces had changed hands, the bulk being composed of re-sales by Chinese. Sheetings: Out of stock; domestics rather firmer, say Tls. 0.0.7½ to 0.0.8 per yard for 24 lb. cloth. Fancy Cottons: Chintzes and Velvets still wanted, but dealers refused an advance on previous offers, and hence a restricted trade; more inquiry for Damasks, and fair sales effected; stock exhausted. Brocades, Spotted and Dyed Shirtings, Turkey Reds, &c., depressed; prices very irregular. Woollens: The rapid subsidence of the flood at Hankow had but little effect, and, except in the case of Figured Orleans of good assortment and patterns, former prices had been barely maintained. The market closed weak. Sales—Camlets, 2,400 pieces; Long Ells, 3,200 pieces; Spanish Stripes, 1,440 pieces; Lustres (Plain Figured), 7,000 pieces; Crape Lustres, 2,100 pieces; Lastings, 700 pieces; Crape Lastings, 650 pieces. Quotations:—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.7 to Tls. 1.7.8 per piece; 8¼ to 8½ lbs., Tls. 2.1.4 to Tls. 2.2.4; G.E. White Shirtings, Tls. 1.7 5 to Tls. 2.4.0; American Drills, Tls. 3.2 5 to Tls. 3.4; Jeans, Tls. 2.5.0 to Tls. 2.6; English Drills, Tls. 3.0.5 to Tls. 3.1.5; Jeans, 8 lbs., Tls. 2.2 to Tls. 2.3; Dutch Drills, Tls. 2.8 to Tls. 3; Jeans, Tls. 2.2 to Tls. 2.3; Damasks, dyed, 40 yards, Tls. 4.2 to Tls. 4.4; Gentian Shirtings, Tls. 2.3 to Tls. 2.5; Chintz, Tls. 1.3 to Tls. 1.5.5; Turkey Reds, Tls. 2.1 to Tls. 2.7.5; Velvets, Tls. 0.1.6 to Tls. 0.1.8 per yard; Iron, Nail Rod, Tls. 1.9 to Tls. 2.2 per picul; Hoop, Tls. 2 to Tls. 2.0.5; Lead, Tls. 4.2.5 to Tls. 4.3, nominal.

HONG KONG.—Cotton Yarn: Beyond a few small sales of Nos. 38 to 42 nothing had been done. Prices nominally lower all round. Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs. very flat and lower; 8 lbs. also weaker, but decline is less marked, owing to smallness of stocks. Very little demand for heavy goods. White Shirtings: A few fine goods quitted at a further considerable decline; no demand for common or medium reeds. T-Cloths: Sales of all weights forced; prices showed a further decline all round. Brocades: Some demand for good assortments. Damasks: Nothing doing. Chintzes: Very flat; a sale of special colours at $2. Velvets and Velveteens: Stagnant. Drills: A few sales of best English. Woollens: Dutch very flat. Spanish Stripes: Nothing doing. Cloth: A few sales. Long Ells: Market further lowered by a large sale of best HH goods at $6.85 for Scarlet. Camlets and Lastings: No business. Orleans: A few sales of Figured at lower prices. Blankets: Small demand for best; stocks large. Iron—Nail Rod: Active demand, particularly for small sizes. Other kinds no sales reported, hardly any demand. Lead: Demand limited. Holders firm, and not willing to sell at quotations. Coals: Not a single transaction during the fortnight; arrivals—one cargo English, one of Welsh. Quotations:—Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs., $2.25 to 2.30 per piece; 8.4 lbs., $2.80 to 2.85; 9.12 to 10 lbs., $3.30 to 3.50; White Shirtings, fine, $3.25 to 5.50; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., ordinary, $1.60 to 1.70; Mexicans, $1.75 to 1.85; 7 lbs., ordinary, $1.80 to 1.90; Mexicans, $2 to 2.30; 8 to 8.4 lbs., $2.35 to 2.50; Brocades, Coloured, $3.50 to 3.75; American Drills, 40 yards, 15 lbs., $4.60 to 4.70; English and Dutch, 40 yards, 13½ to 15 lbs., $3.80 to 4.15; Cloths, $1.40 to 3.35; Orleans, figured, $4.50 to 5; Blankets, $0.35 to 0.55 per lb.; Iron, Nail Rod, $2.40 to 2.60 per picul; Lead, $5.50 to 5.90.

SINGAPORE.—39-inch Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lb., in good request, but with light stocks holders were very firm, which had restricted business, only small sales reported at $2.75. Transactions limited in 7 lb. at $2.30 to 2.35, showing an advance. 6 lb. dull; retail sales at $1.95 to 1.97½. 45-inch goods in less inquiry; sales of 9 lb. at $2.90. Nothing doing in other weights. 32-inch Grey T-Cloths met with a little more attention; the few sales reported show slight improvement. 32-inch Grey Maddapollams: Very little demand, sales only at low rates; 2¾ lb. placed at $18½; 3 lb. at $20. 36 inch Grey Long Cloths: No change; quotations nominal. 36-inch White Shirtings: No improvement, and could not be placed except at very low rates. 45-inch in very limited demand. White Spots very dull, and quoted $2.65 to 2.67½ nominally. White Cambrics in very small demand. No. 24s, 16 by 16, worth $18 to 18 50; sales of No. 15/16 at $28¾ to 29½. White Jaconets: No transactions; quotations nominal. White Maddapollams in no demand. Grey Yarns, 40s in good demand, at $130 to 132½; stocks very light; 30s, no inquiry, quoted nominally $117½ to 120; 18s to 24s, very quiet at $90 to 95. Turkey Red Yarn weaker; sales of 12 lb. Glasgow dye at $140 to 142. Imperial Red, small sales at $71 to 74. Dark Green wanted at $84 to 85. Iron: Govan flat bar sold at $2.45 to 2.47½; Round and Square at $2½; Nail Rods, at $2.30 to 2.35. Lead improving, cargo brands held for $5.60 to 5.75, and LB at $6 per picul.

PENANG.—There had been a slight increase in the demand for certain Grey goods at in most instances an advance in prices obtained. Grey Shirtings: 6 lbs., buyers of small quantities at $40 to 40½; 7 lbs. taken at $45½ to 47; 8¼ lbs. at $56 per corge. Long Cloths without movement, quotations nominal. EXPORTS.

TEA.

HANKOW.—Tea had continued to come forward steadily, but met with little attention, and had been usually shipped on at once; settlements were few and confined to small parcels, some of which were in barter. Third crop leaf was arriving in some quantity, but few musters had been shown. Transactions for the fortnight:—Settlements, 3,145 chests. Contracts, nil.; shipments to Shanghai on native account, 25,932 chests. The prices paid had been: Oopacks, Fair, Tls. 15 to 19.25 per picul, equal to 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 4d. per lb. Oonams, Common, Tls. 13 to 13.50 per picul, equal to 1s. to 1s. 0½d. per lb.

SHANGHAI.—Black: The market remained very quiet for some days after the departure of the last English mail, owing to the nervousness produced by the persistent decline in the home market, and the very large and gradually accumulating stock, the result of an actual excess in the supplies of about 60,000 chests. Later on, news of the war between France and Prussia arrived, which caused most people to close their books, pending further news of the very important European troubles. A few days after this a beginning was made at a decline on former prices of about Tls. 1½ per picul, and this was the signal for a general rush into the market, and the operations entered into had been altogether unparalleled for irregularity, some purchases showing a decline of over Tls. 3 per picul, and in other cases a positive advance, when compared with the better-bought parcels of three weeks before. In comparing present prices with those ruling at the end of June, they will be found to be (taking quality into consideration) decidedly higher for some kinds, especially those between Tls. 21 to 23, than those existing at that time. On the other hand, the steady decline in the home value of common classes and the present dislike to them had caused a fall in such kinds of about Tls. 2 per picul. Prices on the average were considered to be Tls. 2 over present London values; some few parcels of Ningchow Tea showed a good value, but much of the Oopack and nondescript Oonam was quite 15 to 20 per cent. over the low prices ruling in England. The heavy purchases would do much to ease the native, and, as the season was yet early, the possession of funds would tend to induce him to try fresh ventures, which, with the present market irregularities, it would be premature to say would not prove profitable. Settlements for the fortnight, 29,000 chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, 1,600 chests; Stock, 292 chops, or 93,000 packages. Quotations, duty paid (exchange for credits, six months' sight, at 5s. 10½d. per tael, and freight at £1 10s. per ton):—Hohow, low to fair, Tls. 14 to 19, equal to 9¾d. to 1s. 0½d.; Oonam, common to fair, Tls. 15½ to 21, equal to 10½d. to 1s. 1¾d.; Ningchow, common to fair, Tls. 18 to 23, equal to 1s. to 1s. 3d.; Oopack, fair to good, Tls. 18 to 22¾, equal to 1s. to 1s. 2¾d. Green: A steady business had been transacted, and all fine and choice chops had commanded extreme rates. Teamen showed a little more inclination to dispose of the medium and lower grades, but there was no actual reduction in price. The current rates for fine and choice Moyune and Teenkais were Tls. 44 to 48; for medium to fine Fychows, Tls. 37 to 42. Settlements for the fortnight, 22,074 half-chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, 1,136 half-chests; Stock, 11 chops, or 7,026 packages of Fychow and Teenkai Teas; Stock, 27 chops, or 14,118 packages of Pingsuey and Shanghai-packed Teas.

Foochow.—Up to the 19th August a steady business had been in progress, notwithstanding the depressed state of the home markets in both England and America, the fall in Exchange and Freight having given some encouragement to buyers. Prices for all classes of Common Congou had been well maintained, and the best flavoury and medium Teas which remained in stock had commanded higher rates, in many cases an advance of one to two taels having been paid. Since the 19th, the market had exhibited no change, the settlements having been on a more moderate scale, say 11,077 chests for the week. Quotations: Dust, Tls. 4¾ to 8; Broken Leaf to Ordinary, Tls. 8½ to 12; Fair to Good Common, Tls. 12½ to 14½; Flavoury to Good Flavoury, Tls. 15 to 20; and Medium, Tls. 20½ to 22¼. Souchong: There was no demand, and the few chops settled had not established any decline in prices. Quotations were: Common, Tls. 15 to 20; Medium, Tls. 21 to 25. Oolong: Only one parcel of 106 half-chests had been taken at Tls. 21. Quotations quite nominal at—Common to Fair Cargo, Tls. 17 to 19; Good, Tls. 20 to 22; Superior, Tls. 24 to 25. Scented Teas: A slight decline had taken place but no business had resulted. Settlements 4,197 boxes. Quotations: Common, Tls. 17; Medium, Tls. 18 to 22. Flowery Pekoe: No business.

Amoy.—Oolong had been in such demand that stocks had at no time been allowed to accumulate beyond 3,000 half-chests, and in many cases chops had been bought to arrive; on the 27th August musters representing 5,000 half-chests were shown, and as the market had been bare for several days, all chops of superior quality were at once secured at $30 to 34, thus establishing an advance of $2 per picul. The supply of the season was estimated at 115,000 half-chests. Congou: About 1,300 half-chests had been taken at $15½ to 16¾. The bulk of the stock on offer was, however, of undesirable quality, and attracted no attention. Settlements for the fortnight: 20,200 half-chests Oolong, at $19 to 21 for common; $22 to 23½ for fair; $24 to 25 for good, and $27 to 34 for cargo; 1,300 half-chests Congou, at $15½ to 16¾ for superior to clean. The Eleanor left on the 24th August with 440,409 lbs. for New York, and the Mindet was still on the berth.

Canton.—A few settlements had been made from time to time during the fortnight at irregular and lower prices. At the close, owing to the unsettled state of European affairs, buyers remained quiet. Settlements from 13th to 27th August:—Country Congous, nil; Canton District Congous, nil; Scented Orange Pekoe, 2,000 boxes, at Tls. 20 to 33; Scented Caper, 6,000 boxes, at Tls. 16 to 27; Stocks, Country Congous, 5 chops, or 2,600 chests.

SILK.

Shanghai.—The following is from Messrs. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular dated 25th August:—The French mail left on 19th inst. without any Silk. The war news has entirely checked business, not a single transaction having taken place during the fortnight; we hear of one or two foreigners making offers at 30 to 50 taels reduction, but without resulting in business; the natives themselves show little disposition to sell, unless they can obtain within 30 taels (of last quotations) on Market Silks and 10 to 20 taels on chops say for Choopings, Tls. 590 to 595, equal to 30s. 2d. to 30s. 5d., Dragon, Tls. 580 to 585, equal to 29s. 8d. to 29s. 11d., Red Peacocks, Tls 500 to 510, equal to 25s. 7d. to 26s. 1d. Stocks have increased to 6,500 bales. As we go to press some dealers exhibit signs of weakness, and we should not be surprised to learn they have shipped a quantity on their own account. We give no quotations, as they are entirely nominal.

Canton.—The only settlements during the fortnight had amounted to 45 bales Tsatlee and 10 bales Loong-kongs, all concluded by one firm. For America and Bombay nothing had been done, and quotations were nominal. A purchase of Waste Silk was reported up country as having been made by a Hong Kong native firm. The fourth crop was fairly spoken of, and a large fifth crop is expected. The stock may be estimated at 80 bales Loong-kongs, 150 bales Tsatlee-reels, 50 bales Kowkongs, 150 bales Cumchucks, Lacklows, &c., and 400 bales of inferior descriptions.

STRAITS PRODUCE.

Penang.—The transactions in produce during the fortnight had been limited. Black Pepper, Acheen, was fairly supplied in the beginning of the fortnight, but latterly arrivals small and few. The bulk taken for the India and China markets at $8.35 to 8.40 per picul. Of West Coast a small parcel, about 300 piculs, taken at $8.47½ per picul. White in moderate supply at $11¾ per picul. Tin had come forward and pretty freely purchased in the beginning of the fortnight for $31.05 per picul, but had declined to $29¼ per picul, at which the market closed weak. Tapioca contracted for to the amount of 2,000 piculs at the former price, viz., $3.75 per picul. Cutch: Nothing done for Europe. Mace purchased at $80 per picul for No. 1 picked; the only transactions in Nutmegs had been in 110 nuts per lb. at $49½ to 50 per picul. Sugar in fair demand; sales of No. 1, about 1,400 piculs, at $6.60 to 6.75 per picul.

Singapore.—There had not been much alteration in the value of the principal staples; a fair demand had been shown for most articles, and prices were steady. Gambier was bought at $3.07½ to 3.10 during the fortnight, but latterly the price had a downward tendency, and the last transactions were at $3.05 per picul. The market closed weak; about 1,000 tons had been contracted for. Black Pepper had been bought to a limited extent at $8.35. White Pepper: Sales trifling. Pearl Sago taken to some extent; the market closed weak. Sago-flour in active request; fair business, prices slightly receded. Tin met with good demand; considerable business has transpired; market cleared at $31½ per picul. Gutta-percha in fair request; prices well maintained. Bontyne Coffee rather firmer, supplies small, no business reported.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOREIGN BILLS OF EXCHANGE.—A question of some importance was decided at the City of London Court, on the 7th inst., before Mr. J. Anderson, Q.C., sitting as Deputy Judge, with reference to the expenses payable by an English acceptor upon the dishonour of a foreign bill of exchange. The action was brought against the Liebig Extract of Meat Company, who dishonoured a bill drawn upon them by their local director, at Havre, in consequence of receiving a telegram stating that no value had been given for the bill. They, however, paid the bill, which was for £2,000, within four days, but the foreign holder sought to recover, in addition to one-half per cent. as commission of intervention, three other sums of £2 10s., being commission to the Union Bank, as follows;—One-eighth to the bank, one eighth again for remitting the £2,000 from Havre to London to reimburse the holders' agent who had intervened for his honour, and a further one-eighth per cent. for returning the £2,000 to Havre on the bill being paid by the company. Mr. F. O. Crump, barrister, for the company, objected to these items as not being necessarily consequent upon the dishonour of the bill. He cited various authorities, and contended, on the principle laid down with reference to re-exchange, that they could not be recovered at law. It was attempted to set up a custom in support of the plaintiff's claim, but after adjourning the case and hearing evidence on both sides, his Honour determined that nothing more could be claimed than the one-half per cent. commission of intervention, and gave judgment for the defendants, with costs.

THE CHINESE IN THE UNITED STATES.—The coolie question is agitating the country considerably during the pending political canvass but as the burden of sentiment is against coolie importation in both parties—the shrewd politicians of both taking that side in order to influence working men's votes—there is not enough demonstration made by the friends of the coolies to create anything like a well-balanced contest. Meanwhile the few coolies who have come to the Atlantic States are winning favour by their excellent conduct. The coolies at North Adams, Massachusetts, whose arrival last summer caused such a commotion, have applied themselves assiduously to work and are becoming already skilful shoemakers. They are not only established securely in the factory, but have mastered the trade, and, according to advices from there, are working more steadily and regularly, and turn out a larger average of as good work than the same number of "Knights of St. Crispin" whom they superseded. The Chinese make shoes at a cost of $2 per case less than their predecessors, and their employer expects this saving to reach $6 per case. The experiment may revolutionise the shoe trade of New England. A coolie force of 200 is engaged in a railway building in New Jersey. Seventy others have gone to work in a laundry at Newark, New Jersey. The competition thus indicated is leading our working people to form "Anti-Coolie Leagues" in the large cities, while in San Francisco it has produced a lawsuit against the Trans-Pacific Steam Line for violating the Californian law regulating coolie immigration.

THE quantity of unmanufactured tobacco imported into the United Kingdom last year amounted to 52,588,590 lbs. The analysis shows that 1,456,623 lbs. came from the Hanse Towns, 6,350,957 lbs. from Holland, 312,317 lbs. from Greece, 1,752,587 lbs. from Turkey Proper, 1,334,718 lbs. from the Philippine Islands, 594,339 lbs. from Japan, 242,976 lbs. from Cuba, 1,872,765 lbs. from New Granada, 37,046,032 lbs. from the United States, and 1,645,276 lbs. from other countries. The Commissioners of Customs predicted an augmented importation of what is called the stemmed variety, and it appears from the returns that the importation of this kind of tobacco rose, as compared with the previous year, from 13,612,823 lbs. to 26,650,875 lbs., or an increase of nearly cent. per cent. This has arisen chiefly on account of the increase of importation from the United States; but the supplies from all other countries continue to fall off, and have now reached the lowest point ever occupied since 1860, the year before the commencement of the American war.

THE "CAPTAIN" AND THE "ONEIDA."—The prompt subscription of a fund by the officers and crew of the United States steamer Franklin, at Portsmouth, for the benefit of the sufferers from the appalling calamity that occurred to Her Majesty's vessel the Captain is viewed with profound satisfaction in America. This satisfaction is caused not only by the generosity shown, but chiefly by the fact that it gives the press a chance to draw comparisons with the Bombay and Oneida case, in Japanese waters. The Bombay deserted the Oneida, our newspapers say, but the United States' sailor, remembering that blood is thicker than water, practically sympathises with the English tar in his misfortunes.

A court-martial held on board the Royal Oak at Gibraltar, to investigate the circumstances connected with the loss of the gunboat Trinculo, terminated in the honourable acquittal of her commander, Lieutenant the Hon. F. G. Crofton, and the officers and crew of the ship. The Court was of opinion that the loss was caused by the bad look-out kept on board the Spanish steamer Moratin. The President, in returning his sword to Lieutenant Crofton, complimented him upon the high state of discipline which prevailed on board the Trinculo, as evidenced by the entire absence of confusion after the catastrophe. Every man who could be rescued was brought safe to shore.

George Barnett Goulden, retired commander, has been appointed a Naval Knight of Windsor. He became a mate in the Royal Navy June 6, 1850, and served in the Pilot, 12, in the East Indies from January, 1851, until September, 1852. During the Crimean war he distinguished himself at the mouths of the Danube. He was made retired commander April 1, 1870.

Major-General Sir John Douglas, K.C.B., has been appointed Commander of the Forces in Scotland from the 1st of October, in succession to Major-General R. Lumley. Sir John served in Scotland from 1860 to 1865 as Assistant-Adjutant-General.

OUR POLICY IN CHINA.

The opinions of The Times and its correspondents, as well as those of other journals quoted in our columns, are all agreed in recognising the gravity of the crisis in China, and the necessity for prompt and decisive action to prevent the repetition of outrages like that at Tientsin. The only thing left to regret—after reading the excerpts from The Times, which will be found in another column—is that the admission of the necessity for action is not accompanied by any practical suggestion of the course to be adopted. "The question is, what is to be done?" repeats The Times with wearisome iteration, until, at last, it closes its article without offering any reply to its own inquiry. We confess that we can see no reason for hesitation or doubt as to the kind of action which the late massacres and the present state of feeling in China demand. All that is required is the display of sufficient force to awe intending evil-doers, and to insist on summary justice upon convicted ones. The former is, however, the more urgent, if not the more grave necessity. Already redress, compensation, &c., have been insisted upon to the too great exclusion of security for the future. No means appear to us so likely to guarantee security as the occupation by our Government of the Taku Forts. These forts command the entrance of the Peiho river, on which Tientsin lies forty miles by land from the mouth, and Peking eighty miles north-west of Tientsin. Troops landed at these places, and even gunboats stationed at Tientsin, are utterly crippled while they have these formidable fortifications opposing them in their rear. In fact, they no better than prisoners of war, and all our countrymen merely hostages for their forbearance. Nothing is so easy or so consistent with British dignity and humanity as to require such material guarantees for security as may give us the possession of strength without the necessity of exercising it in war; and unless we are prepared to retire to the five ports and submit to every kind of humiliation before we are finally expelled altogether, we must act decisively. As The Times observes, "We want no Chinese "war upon our hands, but we must protect the lives and "possessions of our countrymen in China, and that we can- "not do without exacting retribution for an outrage which, "though directed immediately against our neighbours, in- "volves the security of all European settlements alike." We believe that the security here required can be best attained by the re-occupation of the Taku Forts. The telegrams from Hong Kong, to 29th September, to be found in another column, confirm those received last week via Kiachta, and published in our issue of 12th inst.

A Foreign-office telegram from Mr. Wade reports all quiet at Peking and Tientsin. We presume this was circulated as a set-off to the numerous telegrams received reporting disturbances and threatenings from various other ports, including the destruction of another church at Newchwang; and the anxiety at Shanghai was so great as to demand an immediate despatch of troops from India. Lord Granville and his colleagues evidently wish the public to understand that they were right in the views expressed to the deputation of London merchants representing the meeting held at the London Tavern. It is true that our Government did not agree with the fears expressed at the meeting, but it remains to be seen who is correct; certainly each succeeding mail has confirmed the views of the merchants. It will be remembered that Lord Granville informed the deputation that orders had been sent to our Minister at Peking to support the French Government, but we must conclude that Mr. Wade has not carried out these instructions, as we know that the demands of the French Minister remained unsatisfied by the Chinese Government on the 26th Sept., or three months after the dreadful atrocity known as the "Tientsin Massacre." We now suspect that Lord Granville left out intentionally one very important word, which, of course, explains the reason why our naval and military forces have not co-operated with the French in obtaining the satisfaction demanded. The word is "moral"—i.e., that Her Majesty's Government had instructed Mr. Wade to give moral support to the demands of the French. We shall soon see what this timid policy will lead us to. It is really a burlesque to publish "all quiet at Peking and Tientsin." Of course it will be so if we do not enforce satisfaction for the late outrage, and we think that the merchants should demand further explanations on this point from the Foreign-office.

OUR EMBASSY AT PEKING.

The Globe assumes that the notification in the London Gazette, appointing Mr. Mongan to be Consul at Peking as well as at Tientsin, indicates the intention of the Government to abandon the Legation at Peking. Such is not the case. The object is simply to give Mr. Mongan jurisdiction over British subjects at Peking, as it is not usual for the Minister to perform Consular duties; his office is diplomatic. A similar state of things exists in Japan. Sir Harry Parkes is the Minister and Plenipotentiary at Yedo, but we have also a Consul there. The concluding part of the article in the Globe is, however, quite worthy of perusal, and we extract the same:—

> We ought long ago to have insisted on the right of audience with the Emperor; but instead of so doing we have conducted our intercourse with Prince Kung, whose only real official rank is Minister for Foreign Affairs, and who is but a unit in the Imperial Cabinet, as though he were all powerful and supreme. There is every reason to believe that he personally is friendly disposed towards us, but at the present time there is a large and powerful anti-foreign party vigorously agitating both in Peking and in the provinces, and to this party many of the Imperial advisers belong. The concessions that we, in conjunction with the United States Government, have lately made to the Peking Government have, by being construed into symptoms of weakness, greatly encouraged the anti-foreign leaders, at the same time that the great improvement which, under our instruction, has recently taken place in the defences of the country has led them to believe that in a struggle with foreign Powers they would be able to hold their own. To these influences are to be attributed the extremely hostile disposition which is displayed towards foreigners at the present time in all parts of the Empire. As long as, from various circumstances, Prince Kung was supported by a majority in the Cabinet things went smoothly enough, and our requests, never unjust, were more or less acceded to. But when the positions were changed, and Prince Kung found himself in a minority, having no power to turn out the Ministry, and being probably unable to retire himself from office, he was compelled to meet our demands with excuses for their non-fulfilment, and our importunities by delay, or else to feign illness and absent himself from the Foreign-office, as he did on receipt of the news of the Tientsin massacre. The inconvenience of being obliged to depend for the fulfilment of our Treaty on the majority of a Cabinet over the destinies of which the highest power we have official cognisance of has no power whatever, must be patent to everyone, and it must be equally obvious that the true remedy for the evil is the right of audience with the Emperor. He alone has the power to dismiss Ministers, and he alone should therefore be held responsible for the maintenance of a Government which should fulfil the obligations undertaken in his name. The excuse that the Emperor is under age should now, at least, be thrown overboard. He is as old or older than the King of Greece was at the time of his accession, and decrees are daily issued by him. Until this right is granted, and the bar sinister to our legitimate position as equals, which its continued refusal implies in the minds of people of the Empire, is removed, our relations with China can never rest on a firm and satisfactory basis.

It will be seen from the report of a meeting of the Legislative Council at Hong Kong, which we publish in another column, that the acting Governor-General Whitfield not only enters fully into the affairs and interests of the colony, but is withal rather clever at badinage. We trust that the gallant General may continue to make himself not only useful but agreeable to the colonists, as we believe that there is little chance of Sir Richard MacDonnell returning, and his successor will not be appointed until Sir Richard's term expires in April next.

We understand that the project of a railway from the town of Singapore to the new harbour—the want of which has often been noticed by us—is again thrown out by the rival dock companies. We can understand that they should have different views as to the route that the line should take, but we cannot understand why the local Government should be idle in the matter. If they wait for the Home Government to give any assistance in the matter, the prospect is indeed hopeless.

We understand that tonnage has been engaged for the conveyance of about four thousand tons of railway iron and material to Yokohama, as a first instalment of the proposed lines in Japan, for which the £1,000,000 loan was raised by Mr. Lay on behalf of the Japanese Government.

The Telegraph Construction Company have received advices from Suez that the Scanderia proceeded on the 14th inst. for Singapore, after having repaired the Red Sea Cable. This delay will not, it is expected, prevent the completion of the Batavia, Singapore, and Madras Cable by the end of the year. The cable to connect Singapore and Hong Kong will leave in February, and be laid in April or May.

There have been rumours to the effect that our Government, in conjunction with that of France, had declared war against China. It is hardly necessary to say that there is no truth in them. The rumours as to the despatch of troops from India and England are also incorrect. The Marines for Japan, announced in our last, are the only troops under despatch.

Some time since we noticed the decision of the Spanish Government to subsidise a line of steamers from Spain to Manila; we are now informed that the time for receiving tenders has been extended to Dec. 31.

OUR POLICY IN CHINA.

The Saturday Review urges that it is in the power of the English Government to render France almost the only essential service which could not be regarded by Germany as a wrong or an affront. The whole English naval force on the coast of China ought to be placed at the disposal of the Embassy, and the Chargé d'Affaires ought to be instructed to act as M. de Rochechouart would have acted if he had not been embarrassed by unexpected difficulties. It may indeed be hoped that such instructions have already been given, so that the English admiral may, if necessary, have anticipated the closing of the Peiho by ice. It is highly probable that a local demonstration may be more effective than a direct menace to the Imperial Government. If the Chinese Government protects the Tientsin assassins it will leave the lives of all foreign traders at the mercy of the rabble and of the competitive prizemen. If an enterprise which was found comparatively easy a dozen years ago now transcends the power of England, it only remains to acquiesce in the degradation which would in that case seem to be the principal consequence of modern reforms and improvements; but there would be no difficulty in providing, at home and in India, a sufficient force for the coercion of a contumacious Government and a semi-civilised community. Even Mr. Gladstone's aversion to strong measures may be shaken by regard to the interests of English trade, and by sympathy for the innocent victims of Chinese barbarism. A timely and effective support of the French demands would, perhaps, not be followed by extraordinary gratitude, nor would it induce M. Victor Hugo, in his next rhapsody, to insert Lord Granville's name in his list of worthies between Confucius and Nicodemus; but it is sometimes expedient to do what is right, even without an immediate prospect of reward.

The Spectator inquires why Lord Granville does not announce in some one of the hundred ways open to him what he is doing to avoid disaster in China. Has he sent three regiments of Sikhs to Singapore; or warned Lord Mayo, who is accessible by telegraph, though he is at Jeypore, 300 miles from a railway; or asked Prim or the Netherlands Government to lend troops if a requisition reaches Manila or Batavia; or done anything besides promise help? The accounts get worse and worse, and we may hear, as soon as Peking has heard of Sedan, of a universal massacre of foreigners. Lord Mayo is energetic, and the fleet is large; but Lord Mayo is as far from Peking as from London, and the fleet has no army to disembark. We shall never be really safe in China until we possess an island on the coast large enough to maintain an expedition of its own.

The Standard is convinced that if the mandarins would only leave them alone the Chinese would live amicably with the foreigners. If ever there is a quarrel with missionaries it will be invariably found that it is the class called "literati"—that is, as we should call them, the passed "competition wallahs"—who get up the row, and that it is not religious zeal, but simply literary vanity, which is at the bottom of it. In the case of the French Roman Catholic missionaries, it is true that there is something more than this at the bottom of the popular antipathy. Here the offence which is given is a distinct political one, inasmuch as every native convert is claimed as a subject of France, and is withdrawn from his allegiance to the civil power. This is a clear wrong, of which the Chinese Government may justly complain, and for which, if they complained, France would be bound to make reparation. In any case, however, there can be no justification for a civilised nation in taking such a vengeance as that at Tientsin. Every day that such an outrage remains unredressed adds to the virulence of the anti-foreign feeling on the part of the ruling classes and the army in China. Like all Asiatic people, they are utterly unable to dissociate forbearance from impotence or cowardice. They have been encouraged to think that they are now, by the possession of European arms and military discipline, on an equal footing with Europeans in war, and they may be expected to be even more reluctant to afford any sort of redress than have been Chinese Governments at all times. There is no alternative, therefore, but that England, as the leading Power interested in the safety of European life and property in China, should resort to the one appeal which only the Chinese in such cases are able to understand.

The Rev. John Scarth, an old resident in China as a merchant, but now rector of Cranborne, writes to The Times, pointing out that "Alpha" is wrong in his conclusion that the Chinese as a body hate us. We quite endorse Mr. Scarth's opinions:—I cannot endorse the opinions expressed by your correspondent "Alpha," and I feel sure that nine-tenths of the mercantile community and nearly all the English missionaries will agree with me rather than with "Alpha." It is not fair to the Chinese to take the opinion of those who have lived among them only in an official capacity, and who judge from the feelings of the mandarins towards foreigners and know little of the feelings which the people hold. In daily intercourse with the natives few difficulties arise; but our whole official intercourse with the Government has been a succession of little battles, they trying to keep us at a distance, we ever seeking some new advantage. The mandarins and the literati have, when they choose, the vagabonds on their side, and a disturbance can readily be raised, though not so easily put down.

If we take the actual position of foreigners into account, how they live a few among thousands, how they travel far and wide through the country, and enter into transactions involving millions of money, and scarce think of danger excepting when they know that the mandarins or some party of braves whom they encourage are ready to do an injury, surely we may be convinced that the natives do not hate us in the way that "Alpha" would have your readers believe?

Colonel Gordon, who commanded the "ever victorious army," had as good opportunities of judging the character and disposition of the Chinese as any one has ever had, and I am sure that his experience of the mandarians left him little to say in their favour, while all that he knew of the people showed how ready they were to be good friends with the foreigner, and his most faithful soldiers were not those that the mandarins supplied, but those which he himself enlisted.

We have made many mistakes in our policy in China, simply because we look upon the Government as representing the feelings of the people, whereas the Government only represents a system and a dynasty. The people care little either for one or the other. Had we not done so much to hold the present Government together it would have broken up long ago from a rotten core. We helped it in its civil wars; we did its police work on the coast against pirates; we collected its revenue when its own officers were not to be trusted, and its Customs administration could not be carried out against fraudulent traders, and in no case have we ever found in all our wars with China that the people were opposed to us. We held Canton with no difficulty; at other places the people have looked upon us as their protectors, and have been grateful for our aid. But if I shift my position to the audience chamber of a Yamun I should at once find that, though the mandarin may be friendly, the system he has to uphold is the reverse. The very difficulty that is experienced in bringing the mandarins to punish the perpetrators of massacres (for the Tientsin horror is not the only one we have had to deplore) shows either that they are connected with the occurrence or are too weak to seize the perpetrators for the sake of justice being done. Experience, however, has always shown that when a display of force has been resorted to on the part of the foreigner there have been some men, whether the true culprits or not we could not always know, who have been sacrificed, if not punished.

The cruel punishments of a half-civilised Government tend to teach the people and the mob how to vent their rage when their wrath is stirred; but, as a rule, the people are timid, and not bloodthirsty at all, though they are trained up to be accustomed to the most horrible sights, when the power of the Government wishes to be strongly impressed upon them. I write in hopes that no unguarded attempts may be made to bring about a new war in China, especially in conjunction with the French, for their difficulties and ours there are founded upon a perfectly different basis; and it would be indeed cruel to raise up a new war to injure a people who are friendly under the pretence of teaching a lesson to a Government that but for our aid would scarcely exist, and is so weak that it is at the mercy of any ambitious mandarin who may try to seize the reins. Its weakness arises from the people having llittle sympathy for it, and because it would rather keep us away than et the country profit by our civilisation and our trade.

RISING OF CHINESE IN PERU AND MASSACRE OF OVERSEERS.

By the mail steamer which arrived on the 12th inst. we have received accounts of alarming Chinese revolts which had occurred in the Peruvian provinces, Barranca and Pativilca. The coolies had risen in various plantations, massacred all the whites with shocking brutality, and attempted to blockade the town of Barranca, but were severely repulsed, and dispersed in small bands in the neighbouring mountains. The occurrence had caused general consternation. The estates had suffered severely in the destruction of crops and property.

The Panama Star and Herald contains the following account of the rising:—"From Peru we receive the news of a very serious insurrection of the Chinese labourers employed on the haciendas of Pativilca and Galpon, about 150 miles north of Lima. It seems that on the night of September 4 the coolies on the first named estate, having become aware of the presence of an agent from Lima with a large quantity of money in his possession, rose en masse, and after having massacred with the most shocking brutality all the whites on the plantation proceeded to the adjoining haciendas, induced the Chinese there to join them, perpetrated more acts of violence, and finally, numbering from 1,500 to 2,000, attempted to sack the little village of Barranca. Here, fortunately, intelligence of their movements and designs had preceded them, and the inhabitants of the place, stationed behind a hastily constructed breastwork, received their attack with such well directed volleys of musketry as to throw the insurgents into complete confusion and demoralised retreat. Troops arrived from Lima on the 6th, to aid in quelling the disturbances, but found their labours restricted to following the Chinese, who had dispersed in small bands to the neighbouring mountains. About thirty or forty whites were murdered, and from 250 to 300 Chinese were killed during the affair. The loss, however, consists principally in the coolies and the destruction of crops and property. Once in the mountains, the planters will find it next to impossible to recover their labourers; meanwhile the extensive and valuable estates if suffered to remain idle will speedily be greatly deteriorated in value and effectiveness. The occurrence had caused general consternation, even propositions had been introduced in Congress prohibiting the further importation of coolies into Peru."

"THE TIMES" AND ITS CORRESPONDENTS ON THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

The Times of the 13th contained two important letters on the present crisis in China; one from its regular correspondent at Shanghai, and the other from "Alpha," whose former letter, together with the reply which it elicited from "Philo-Sinensis," we reproduced in these columns on the 9th and 16th ult. The Times devotes a leading article to these communications, and at length demands immediate and decisive action in the following impressive words:—"With the evidence before us, it becomes impossible to regard the recent massacre as menacing only to the nation which has been its immediate victim. The French may have lit the spark, but the conflagration, once on foot, threatens to involve all foreigners in its destruction. All our correspondents warn us against allowing this crime to escape unpunished, owing to the unfortunate pre-occupation of the French. The delay has already been sufficiently perilous. We need not identify ourselves with the French quarrel, but one of the Sisters of Mercy was an Englishwoman, and we ought to resent as a peril to all foreigners, and a scandal to the good faith of the Peking Government, the flagrant indifference to justice which suffers month after month to elapse without any effectual measures of retribution being adopted. Questions of policy and of diplomatic relations have nothing to do with the avenging a murderous outrage. The first necessity in the East is, as our correspondent says, to put down murder and violence 'with a strong hand and a bold front.' Whatever faults the French or their missionaries had committed, the Tientsin Massacre cries for vengeance, and we should be alike false to ourselves, to our neighbours, and to humanity if, merely because we are not the immediate sufferers, we failed to insist on retribution. It is, as our correspondent confesses, a very difficult question to see how the conviction and punishment of the guilty are to be secured. But it is one of those difficult questions of which honour and interest alike demand the solution."

In one important point The Times considers the present explanatory letter of "Alpha" (who, it will be remembered, is believed to be Sir Rutherford Alcock) is satisfactory, although it is by no means reassuring. "Alpha" earnestly disclaims being supposed to argue that, as the outbreak was not directed against foreigners generally, it "need not create alarm or call for combined intervention." He writes to explain that nothing could be further from his intention than to suggest such a conclusion. He does not hesitate to say that he "lives in daily fear of a worse catastrophe." The Times hears that his alarm is but too well justified. Its own correspondent informed us by telegram that the Roman Catholic church has been destroyed at Newchwang, and we learn at the same time, through St. Petersburg, that Roman Catholic buildings have also been destroyed at Kia-hing. The Foreign-office, indeed, has received information, of four days' later date than this, that all was quiet at Peking and Tientsin. But we must conclude from the previous telegrams that the movement commenced three months ago at Tientsin had partly spread to other towns. In the letter of The Times correspondent at Shanghai, dated 18th Aug., he says:—"While the Chinese are delaying to make reparation they are preparing for resistance. The truth of the native reports which I have mentioned of the collection of troops near Tientsin can now be verified from the mastheads of the foreign ships in port. Soldiers can be seen in every direction. Their number is set down at 40,000, and Li-hung-chang, Gordon's associate in the Taeping war, is said to be approaching with 25,000 more from Shansi. The Chinese are elated by the possession of foreign guns to a belief that they are now capable of resisting foreign armies with success, and there seems little doubt that they intend testing their belief. Count Rochechouart has pressed his demands, and will, I believe, haul down his flag if they are not complied with within a short date. In that case Peking and Tientsin will almost certainly be untenable for foreigners during the three winter months when the Peiho is closed by ice. The French have not sufficient force in China to begin hostilities at once; it is unlikely that they can receive reinforcements before the end of the year, and their temporary withdrawal will be looked on as a proof of success which will encourage futher acts of violence.

"I have hitherto written as though France alone were concerned in the threatened war. But though her representative has taken the lead in demanding reparation, she is not alone aggrieved. Subjects of England, Italy, Belgium, and Russia were also among the victims, and the duty devolves, therefore, upon these Powers also of bringing the Chinese Government to reason, as a matter of justice to the dead, no less than as a guarantee of security for their future interests in the East.

"The fact that all the Roman Catholic missions here hold ostensibly from France led at first to the inference that all the murdered missionaries were French. But such is not the case, and the fact that France is prevented for the moment from avenging their death should not mean that China is to go free till France is at liberty to punish her. The Belgian Minister, I am aware, has written an admirable despatch, dwelling on the cruelty and disgrace of the crime, claiming reparation, and impressing upon the Peking Government that 'those who are trying, directly or indirectly, to inspire the Chinese people with a hatred of the foreigner are preparing for their country complications which cannot fail to be disastrous for it and for the Government of the Emperor.'"

Replying to the urgent question "what is to be done?" The Times says:—"It is admitted that the Tientsin Massacre was directed with a remarkable exclusiveness against the French. But we are emphatically warned against concluding from this circumstance that other foreigners are exempted from the animosity of the Chinese. Our misapprehension of our correspondent's ('Alpha') meaning has had the advantage of eliciting from him a most explicit statement on this head. The Chinese, he says, high and low, hate us 'as aliens and intruders, innovators and barbarians. They hate the foreigner for his aggressiveness, his assumption or assertion of superiority, and for his habitual disregard of their customs and feelings, as well as of their prejudices. He is equally an object of distrust and dislike for his military superiority, his restless spirit of enterprise and activity, so opposed to their own tendencies. Above all, he is alike hated and feared by the ruling classes as a proselytiser and propagandist, seeking to subvert the established religions and institutions, and a cause of danger and trouble to all on whom the duty of governing falls.' In obedience to the candour our correspondent recommends, we fear it must be added that these reasons for aversion are by no means groundless. The Japanese showed at first an equal jealousy of foreign influence; but, with superior shrewdness, they have discerned the necessity of admitting it, and have resolved, by boldly taking it in hand, to render the inevitable revolution as little revolutionary as possible. This political instinct seems wanting in the Chinese. They are simply afraid of us, and fear is the blind mother of hatred. Rulers and ruled are ready at any moment, if the requisite excitement be afforded, to shut their eyes to consequences, and make a frantic effort to shake us off. Patience and prudence on both sides would in time enable us to understand each other. But, meanwhile, Europeans in China live, it is to be feared, on a volcano. There is no doubt the French and the Roman Catholics have in a peculiar degree drawn upon themselves the animosity of the Chinese. 'Alpha' tells us that the reason of this special hostility is well understood, and that the danger it occasioned has been long foreseen. The Roman Catholics claim great privileges for their converts. If a Chinese Roman Catholic be engaged in a feud or lawsuit with his neighbour, he applies through the missionary for the protection of the French Consul or Minister, and this protection is afforded him. In short, the French and the French missionaries do not scruple 'to extra-territorialise their converts, and assert a right of interference with the civil power throughout the interior.' It is easy to see that such conduct must aggravate intensely the natural Chinese dread of foreign influence. 'The whole nation,' according to 'Alpha,' 'is full of combustible matter;' but he does not hesitate to say that it is the Romanist missions, acting under French protection, which alone at the present moment threaten us with an explosion. If the Government can satisfy themselves of the truth of this observation, it will became their duty to urge it upon the attention of the French. The task will be a delicate one, and we need not say with how much better grace we could discharge it if, in the first instance, we interpret with generosity our obligation to our allies in the moment of their distress. We shall be equally wise and generous not to separate ourselves from the French in dealing with the present outbreak; but, in our turn, we may justly ask them not to prosecute a course which imperils our interests as well as their own."

On the 18th The Times, reverting to this subject, observed that unless the Chinese are taught in some way or other that retribution waits upon crimes like these, no foreigner's life in China can be considered safe. When we proceed, however, to institute further inquiries, we are left, unfortunately, with very imperfect information. As even a Chinese mob will not rise without provocation or instigation, it is but just to ask what offence was given, and at whose instance or by whose connivance this butchery was perpetrated. Necessarily, too, we must satisfy ourselves about the best method of redress, and ascertain, if we can, not only what demands we should prefer, but to what authorities they should be addressed, and by what measures we should prepare to support them. On no one of these points, unhappily, is there any concurrence of opinion. The offence expiated by these helpless victims was that of religious proselytism, attended, it is to be feared, by political pretensions obnoxious to the native magistrates and educated classes of the people. These pretensions, enforced, perhaps, occasionally with too little consideration for the susceptibilities of mandarins and literates, gave deep offence to the ruling classes, and to their instigation, it is supposed, the outbreak was due. It is necessary to remember that the Chinese, like all Asiatics, grow bold with impunity, and interpret forbearance as cowardice. The Massacre of Tientsin, though directed against a particular class of a particular nation, may easily be repeated in other places with less provocation, if once it is believed that it can be repeated with safety.

All foreigners in China, whatever may be their pursuits or their policy, live in what is called a "solidarity" of responsibilities and perils. The Chinese, if once roused to active hostility, would recognise little difference between French and English, Americans and Germans. We, therefore, on our side, must recognise the common cause also, and, as the French have enough on their hands, we must act for ourselves and them. But how to act? That is the question which involves the greatest difficulty. We could either demand redress of the Imperial Government, or we could apply coercion to the local authorities. Not only justice itself, but the magnitude of the interests at stake, requires that we should proceed deliberately, and with a full knowledge of our position and our means. It is to be hoped the affair will not swell to the dimensions of a war. The Chinese do not deny their responsibility, nor have they pleaded justification. They have merely employed the tricks of delay, and have continued their excuses and their promises until four months have elapsed without an offer of redress. It was recently reported that they had actually rejected the demands preferred by the representative of France in the country, and no surprise should be felt if the intelligence of the war should encourage them to persist in their obduracy. Stories are told, too, of their buying breech-loaders, and training troops in European fashion, but the opinion of those most conversant with Chinese affairs is that a moderate demonstration of force will suffice both for the exaction of retribution in the present case and the protection of our settlements in future.

As it happens, we have a considerable naval force in those regions, and a battalion of marines will be despatched in augmentation of the troops at the disposal of its commander. This is but a small display of strength, and yet, if the version now given of the affair be correct, it may prove sufficient. We have lately endeavoured, as far as our relations with the Imperial Court extend, to strengthen its authority by reference to its decisions, instead of taking the law into our own hands, and enforcing obedience on the spot. This, however, presumes on the part of the Emperor and his Ministers both the will and the power to execute justice, whereas no justice has been done or even attempted in the case before us. On the other hand, we have as yet refrained from those appeals to which the Chinese have always consented to listen, and perhaps a demonstration of the customary kind may terminate the question without further trouble.

THE WORKING MEN'S INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION AND THE FAR EAST.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—Being deeply interested in China, I have read with much pleasure the articles in which you have shown the necessity for calling public attention to the value of our trade in the Far East, and the alarming condition in which European settlers there have been placed by the impossibility of the French punishing the Tientsin massacre as they would have done at another time. I sincerely hope that your arguments will have the desired effect, and that the Government will no longer permit such valuable lives to be endangered for want of timely succour. My main object, however, in writing to you now, is to express the conviction that, if our countrymen in the Far East find less sympathy than other colonists with the English people, it is because they do not take active steps to bring their usefulness before the public. Take the Working Men's International Exhibition at the Agricultural Hall, for instance. This exhibition of the products of agricultural and manufacturing labour in all parts of the world, after being opened by the Queen, and inspected by the Prime Minister, has been visited, on an average, by four or five thousand persons of all classes every day for three months, and the number of visitors is still increasing. Everywhere throughout this noble Hall may be seen groups of visitors, examining the materials for industry and the examples of skill sent from abroad. Europe is well represented by every country; and all our colonies, with one exception, have furnished information of the most valuable and interesting kind, as is proved by the groups of earnest inquirers who gather round their departments. But while India, Australia, and even Peru are represented in the International Exhibition, China and the Far East give no sign of commercial existence. This is a great oversight, and one that must be remedied if our labours in China and Japan are to meet with the appreciation of the English public. Specimens of tea in its pure and its adulterated states, of silkworms' eggs, silks, &c., in various stages of manufacture, native goods of all kinds, photographs of persons and places, and, in fact, everything that can give information to the classes that are earnestly seeking it, would do more to familiarise and interest the public concerning the producers of articles of daily consumption than any other form of appeal for protection. One stall thus furnished from China and Japan in the present Exhibition would have been worth fifty public meetings in conveying a due idea of the value of the Far East to England in the present day.—Yours, 10th Oct., 1870. BETA.

Monetary and Commercial.

It appears that the claims in England on the estate of Messrs Glover and Co., Japan, whose failure we announced in our last, are numerous and considerable in amount. The next mail from Japan via San Francisco is looked for with some anxiety, to know how far the assistance said to be given by the Dutch Trading Society extends, and if it will enable the firm to effect an equitable compromise. It is reported that the immediate cause of the stoppage was pressure by one claimant, now in China, for proceeds of vessels sold.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Nyanza, from Southampton on the 15th inst., was, in gold, to Alexandria, £207,000; to Madras, £100; in silver, to Hong Kong, £1,500; to Shanghai, £4,200; total in gold, £207,100; in silver, £5,700.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

There is great dulness in the market, but holders generally are firm, especially for parcels in bond, so that although buying is restricted to actual requirements, prices have not suffered a material decline. There is a large accumulation of stock at this port, owing to the new crop having come forward earlier than usual, but there is a corresponding decrease through the country, as the regular consumption diminishes stocks, which are very slowly replenished.

The current rates are as follows:—Uncoloured Japan, common to fair, 73c. to 78c.; superior to fine, 80c. to 90c.; extra fine to finest, 96c. to $1.15; Oolong, common to fair, 60c. to 70c.; superior to fine, 75c. to 95c.; extra fine to finest, $1.05 to 1.40; Souchong and Congou, common to fair, 60c. to 70c.; superior to fine, 75c. 90c.; extra fine to finest, $1 to 1.30; Orange Pekoe, common to fine, 76c. to $1; Hyson, common to fair, 65c. to 75c.; superior to fine, 80c. to 95c.; extra fine to finest, $1.05 to 1.30; Young Hyson, Canton-made, nominal; common to fair, 55c. to 60c; superior to fine, 70c. to $1.05; extra fine to finest, $1.20 to 1.50; Gunpowder and Imperial, Canton-made, nominal; common to fair, 75c. to 90c.; superior to fine, $1.05 to 1.30; extra fine to finest, $1.40 to 1.75; Hyson Skin and Twankey, Canton-made, nominal; common to fair, 58c. to 63c.; superior to fine, 65c. to 68c.; extra fine to finest, 70c. to 75c.

SILK.

The following is from Messrs. O'Donoghue and Howell's Report:—The market has undergone but little change since our last report. The slight activity we then announced as beginning to be manifest has not increased in any marked degree; the market is quite bare of desirable silk, and manufacturers are awaiting further arrivals of the new crop before making large purchases. Re-reeled Haineen and Tsatlee continue to be the favourites, and are the first silks to feel the effect of the slightest improvement in trade; stock is small. Tsatlee and Taysaam of the usual reel are taken only in small quantities for actual need. Re-reeled Canton, extra fine, is receiving but little attention; the inferior grades have been selling a little more freely, and are held quite firmly at quotations. Japans are suffering almost total neglect.

The following are the current rates:—Tsatlees, No. 2, $10 to 10.25; No. 3, $10; Nos. 4 and 5, $9 to 9.25. Taysaam, No. 1, $8.75; Nos. 2 and 3, $8.25 to 8.3-8; Nos. 4 and 5, $7.1-8 to 7.25; Canton, re-reeled, good, $7 to 7.1-8; fair, $6.5-8 to 6.75; medium, $6.50; Tsatlee, re-reeled, good, $10; fair and medium, $9.3-8 to 9.50. Haineen, do. fair, $9.25 to 9.50. Canton, re-reeled, extra fine, $8.50. Japans: Maibash and Koshio, nominal; no demand. Atchezan, fair, $8.50. Sodai, good and fair to medium, $9.25.

Coffee.—The current quotations for East India kinds are, Java Government bags, 20c. to 22c.; Java mats, 19c. to 21c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. There is an active demand for Brazil, to which the attention of buyers has been almost exclusively directed. There is consequently but little doing in other kinds, there being no speculative enquiry. The only sales to note are of Java, 8,350 mats ex Regina Maris, and 1,500 mats ex Candati at the current rate, also 1,700 mats ex the last-named vessel on private terms. The stock of Java is low, and at the close prices for this kind show a tendency towards advance. The stock of Manila on the 1st Oct. was estimated at 400 bags against 4,564 bags on Oct. 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 670 bags, against 873 bags; of Java mats, 31,760, against 88,391 bags; of Ceylon, 9,426 bags, against 8,927 bags; of Singapore, nil, against nil.

Camphor.—China is quoted 19c. gold (in bond).

Essential Oils.—Aniseed is quoted $2 to 2.10; Cassia, $1.20 to 1.25 gold (in bond).

Gambier.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

Gunny Cloth.—The market for Borneo is quiet at 30½c. to 31½c.

Hemp.—The market for Manila is active, and we note sales of 1,747 bales ex Tewksbury on the spot at 13c. gold, cash, 1,000 bales afloat per Daniel Marcy at 13c. 60 days' prompt, and 3,000 bales afloat per Volunteer (since arrived) on private terms. At the close there is great firmness, and an advance is expected. The stock of Manila on the 1st October was estimated at 7,730 bales, against 10,178 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 10,436 bales in 1868.

Indigo.—There is a small business doing in Manila at steady prices; sales have been effected in small lots of about 55 cases at $1.10 to 1.35 currency, cash.

Preserved Ginger.—China is quoted $10.50 currency (duty paid).

Rhubarb.—The quotation for China is $1.50 to 2 currency (duty paid).

Rice.—All kinds are in but small supply, and there is consequently only a limited business. The sales of East India are confined to Rangoon; 1,700 bags for home consumption have been sold at $7.12½ to 7.25 currency duty paid, and 475 bags, chiefly for exportation at $3.37½ to 3 50 gold in bond.

Sugar.—There is not a large amount of business going forward in Raw Sugar, but there is a very strong feeling on the part of holders, who, as for a long time past, offer their supplies very sparingly, and only at very full or advancing prices; the consequence is, a hardening tone to the market, which closes very firmly. The sales include 50,663 bags Manila ex Galatea, and 12,300 bags per Menden at 8¼c. to 8⅜c.

Spices.—Cassia has advanced to 47c. gold, at which price there is a fair amount of business doing, and in addition the sale is reported of 160 bales Batavian ex Cyclone at Boston. White Pepper is in fairly active enquiry at 31c. gold. The market for other Spices exhibits a quiet tone.

Tin.—The market is extremely dull, and the current quotations, 34½c. to 34⅝c. for Straits, and 36⅜c. for Banca, must be considered merely nominal, there having been no transactions worth reporting.

CASUALTIES.

The Maria Adriana, Kuhaak, from Batavia, which arrived at Brouwershaven, Oct. 8, in entering the latter place came into collision with an American schooner and lost jibboom; she then drove against the bow of the Schorpioen (Dutch ram), and began to make water; two tugs and some of the crew of the Schorpioen went to her assistance, and she was put ashore at Dwars in den weg, where she filled and became a total wreck. The cargo was being discharged, and three small vessels laden with dry coffee had arrived at Brouwershaven.

The Betty, Chevalier, from Batavia, which arrived at Texel, Oct. 8, reported having experienced severe weather, July 13, 38 S., 25 E., during which she stove bulwarks, loosened deckhouse, &c., and received other damage.

The Frances, Hill, from Singapore, which arrived at New York, Sept. 25, reported having experienced heavy weather off the Cape, during which she stove bulwarks.

Information has been received at Liverpool of the discovery of two rocks, neither of which were laid down in the charts. The Liverpool ship Kate Winifred was lost upon one of them while on a voyage from Zebu (Philippine Islands) to Liverpool. This rock or reef lies near the group of Teekang Bessie Islands, to the S.E. of the island called Wangie, and is situated S.E. of the Celebes, the capital of which (Macassar) the crew of the Kate Winifred reached after she became a wreck. The position of the other rock is described as being in the fairway of the great N.E. channel of Torres Straits.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS NEVER AT FAULT.—In all irritations of the skin, sores, ulcers, burns, and scrofulous enlargements of the glands, Holloway's Ointment presents a ready and easy means of cure which never disappoints the most favourable expectations. It manifests a peculiar power in restraining inflammation, removing stagnation, cooling the blood, and checking all acrimonious or unhealthy discharges. Whilst thus acting locally, the Pills are no less remarkable for their power in improving the general condition and habit of the body, which renders the cure complete and permanent. Under the genial influence of these potent remedies, the puny infant becomes the robust child, the pale and emaciated regain colour and rotundity, and the dyspeptic eats freely without fear.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

A letter from this place says :—

Matters are still dragging on in Tientsin. The city mandarins have not been punished; and the popular belief, that they will not be so, is supplemented by a rumour that they are to be reinstated. Not one of the rioters has yet been punished; nor does there appear the slightest disposition to do so. Yet China has been admitted with a flourish of trumpets into the comity of nations, and has been ostentatiously given all the advantages of international law by Governments whose first just reclamations are set at nought. Instead of punishing men guilty of one of the most hideous massacres on record, the Chinese are collecting large forces to sustain them; 50,000 to 80,000 men are now gathered round Tientsin, and their ablest officials are being assembled—Tseng-kwo-Fan, the most powerful Chinaman in the Empire; Li-hung-Chang, his great ally, hardly inferior to him in influence, and the best general they possess; Ting, Futai of Kiangsu, the nominee and protégé of both, and the author of the advice to the Emperor (in his memorial on treaty revision) to order the literati throughout the Empire to excite the people against foreigners, if the latter became importunate. Chen-kwo-Jui is alternately said to be under surveillance at Peking, and to be Tseng-kwo-Fan's guest at Tientsin; and the latter is said to have declared that he shall not be given up. Chung How has been received at Court with distinguished regard. The Spanish Minister had passed through Tientsin, en route for Chefoo.

An edict has been posted in the city of Tientsin, stating that the French are inexorable in their demands, and that it is simply impossible to comply with them; the mandarins shall not be given up. It has been always prophesied by men who knew China that the policy lately adopted by the British Government would lead to war. Their prediction seems likely to be realised more quickly than they thought.

A correspondent at Peking reports that all is quiet, and likely to continue so during the winter, because the Government have had so much trouble with the Tientsin Massacre that they will try and prevent a repetition of it. In the city the police penetrate into every lane, and it would be difficult for any evil-disposed prefect to get up a riot like that at Tientsin without its becoming known to some of the numerous censors and place-hunters, who might make capital out of reporting the plot. The Legation and the admirals will also be likely to take measures for protection. On these grounds some of the foreigners in Peking consider themselves quite safe. The native Christians in the country, however, are not expected to enjoy the same immunity.

Childish as it appears to us there is no doubt that the Chinese think the time has come when they may again try their strength with us With foreign drilled troops, and foreign arms, large and small, they imagine nothing further is required to make them a match for the foreigners. At least they are quite ready to try it. The common report is that as soon as the French leave this the forts and river will be put in readiness to bar their re-entrance in the spring. No prudent man would remain here during the winter without a land force of 5,000 men. It would be sheer madness to send a small number. The Chinese know perfectly well that sooner or later the French will exact retribution for the outrages they have suffered, and they will therefore do all they can to get rid of all foreigners before winter, so as to complete their preparations to resist the French on their return. This will entail the taking of the forts again, as in 1860, with greater loss of life probably than then, and a stoppage of foreign trade for some time. Nothing can prevent this but a sufficient body of foreign troops occupying the Taku Forts before winter. This done a light line of rails over the level country to Tientsin or even to Peking, would enable a small force to guard both places.

HANKOW.

The flood at Hankow, after attaining a much greater height than last year, is now steadily falling. The effects upon the population of the neighbouring districts have not been so serious as those of last year's inundation, as the wheat harvest had been secured before the present rise. Numerous important embankments and bridges have been destroyed, and portions of the wall of Hankow have been swept away by the force of wind and water. The refugees have commenced to visit the neighbourhood of the city of Hanyang, but are immediately relieved and removed in boats to some distant place by the authorities of the district. So many beggars have infested Hankow that on some days half of the shops have been shut, in order to resist their levying of alms. The population is indifferent towards foreigners, being too much taken up with its own troubles. Li Hung-Chang, late Viceroy of the double province, rendered an immense service to all parties and interests in Hankow, when he absorbed into his camp all the disorderly and ill-conditioned fellows about the town, who went with him in his crusade against the Mahomedan invaders of Shensi.

SHANGHAI.

Dates by this mail are to the 1st Sept. The P. and O. mail of July 15 arrived out on the 28th August. Telegrams to 9th Aug., via Kiachta, had been received. The following summary is from the North China Herald of Sept. 1:—

Shanghai remains perfectly quiet, though the course of events is eagerly discussed among the people, and all kinds of rumours are afloat. The fact of the Franco-Prussian war has convinced the Chinese that France is too much occupied at home to do any fighting in China for the present, and they are confident accordingly that their authorities will not give into French demands. The idea of these being complied with from an abstract sense of justice never seems to occur to any one. For instance, there was a very widely spread rumour among the Chinese that Prince Kung's estate had been confiscated, and that he himself had been ordered to commit suicide by strangling, the cause being his friendliness to foreigners. The Chinese did not know whether to believe the report or not. Later news proved it to be false. We only mention it because its very existence is suggestive.

A second report goes that the authorities have ordered the reeds along the water-courses on the Pootung side to be gathered; and it is supposed that they are wanted for the use of the army which is to be called out to fight the foreigners, as the reeds are generally gathered in the twelfth moon. Another rumour is that the Taoutais at the different ports have orders to foment a rising against foreigners directly news comes of fighting at Tientsin. Tseng-kwo-Fan, they say, designs thus to distract attention. We mention all this to show how interested the people are in the crisis, and how thoroughly they are convinced that fighting is meant. This interest alone has a significance to men who remember the last war, when Shanghai people seemed hardly to care for the result. In the meantime, in view of so much uneasiness, the community are doing wisely in preparing against possible trouble. An organised scheme for the defence of the settlement, in case of danger, has been lately under consideration of a defence committee of the Municipal Council, the commanders of the men-of-war in port, and the captains of Volunteers. Among the measures which have been discussed, and which will, we hope, be decided on, is the erection of barriers as formerly during the rebel time. We should also like to see the earthwork along the defence creek, restored. The Volunteer corps has been recruited; and a third gun added to the artillery. We hear that Mr. D. Muirhead has liberally placed a Dahlgren howitzer at the disposal of the corps, with carriage complete—to be retained as long as they may wish or need. A meeting of members of the Home Guard was held yesterday, and a set of rules was adopted, providing that, like the other Volunteers, the corps be under the control of the Municipal Council, though having its own commandant; that its special duty be to protect the streets in case of danger; that a uniform weapon be adopted, and a small amount of drill gone through with this object, and that the corps be divided into sections, each to guard a certain portion of the settlement. The election of a commandant and of district officers was postponed until a larger number of names had been enrolled.

News has been received from Nanking of the death of the Viceroy. H.I.M.'s ship Coetlogon has gone up to protect the missionaries at that city, in case of trouble arising in consequence.

A Kiukiang correspondent says:—A good deal has been written about Chen-kwo-Jui's origin, but I believe it has been generally mistaken. So far as I can make out, he is no adopted son of Sanko-lin-Sin's, but an ex-rebel, who was adopted when young by the present Chentai of this district. He is also a special protégé of Tseng-kwo-Fan's. And, in confirmation of this, I may say it is generally believed here that our Chentai has declared he will march his troops on Kiukiang and murder every foreigner in it if Chen-kwo-Jui is hurt.

A correspondent writes that uneasy rumours have been revived in Ningpo, and even reached the point of a fixed day for a repetition of the Tientsin tragedy. The 29th August (3rd day of the 8th Chinese month) was named for the event. The native Christians were in a great state of mind, and imparted their fears to their teachers. The gunboat was to be killed, the Catholic cathedral eaten, and foreigners generally were to be burned up and made into mincemeat. However, here is the 30th, and it did not come off. It looks, too, as if there were some trouble threatening up country. The Taoutai has suddenly rushed off in a fast boat to Hangchow without his retinue, having first called out six hundred men, and ordered them to await his return. What is the motive of his excitement I cannot say; but it is surmised that the men are to go to Hangchow, to keep order during the examinations.

We mentioned some time ago that a foreigner named Mourens was doing good service with the Imperialist Army against the Mahomedans in Yunan. A correspondent now writes that the term of his original agreement with the mandarians having expired, Mr. Mourens is about to return to Canton with his companion. Both of these gentlemen have done their duty well, and the province is still in great need of their services, as the war is far from finished. But it appears that the Emperor is angry at Europeans having been sent to Yunan without his permission, and orders have come down from Peking to dismiss them. May his Majesty's valiant soldiers prove that they are at last able to do without foreign assistants! At present the Mahomedans are recovering courage, and hailing the departure of foreigners as a matter for joy and hope. Mr. Mourens left Chungking on the 6th instant, for Hankow.

We hear (says the Evening Express) that the river embankment near Nanking has broken in, and that No. 3 gunboat, which left here a few days since, has taken up several steam engines and some pumping gear. It was reported that they had managed to dam up the embankment, but that there was three feet of water over the city roads, and unless it was pumped out the examinations could not proceed.

The Courier announces the death of Ma, Viceroy of the two kiangs, whose assassination was reported in our last. He died at Nanking on August 23, eleven hours after having been stabbed in the groin by an assassin. Two ruffians were associated in committing the deed, though only one of them struck a blow. Both are from the province of Shantung. They were at once seized, and when examined declared that their reason for killing Ma was because the Viceroy had published a proclamation in regard to the Nangking and other riots, dictated by Rochechouart, and containing a phrase indicating that the French were the equals of the Chinese nation.

As the steamer Albatross was leaving Heard's Wharf a large junk was driven by the strong ebb tide (about four knots) athwart the cut-water of the steamer, which just then going on full steam ahead cut the junk in two, one half gliding past each side of her, and one of the sections being beaten to pieces by her propeller. We have not heard whether any lives were lost. The cargo belonged to Fuh-Sung, and was bound for Woo-sieh, and, being chiefly coal and nail rod, sank immediately.

The work sheds needed for the building of the abutments of the new iron bridge over the Soochow Creek are almost complete; piles, indicating the points on each side at which the abutments are to terminate, have been driven, and various materials laid down, all showing that the works are to be proceeded with at once. It is not a day too soon, as we hear that the bridge is likely to be here by November, and the interval will hardly suffice for the construction and consolidation of works such as the approaches to a bridge.

The K'ua-Hsing left the harbour on the 30th Aug. with the Chief Coast Lights' engineer, Mr. Henderson, C.E., on board for the North Saddle, where the lighthouse works are now fast approaching completion. The keepers' dwellings are completed, with the exception of the painting. The K'ua-Hsing will, before her return, go to Sha-wei-shan with some material. It is supposed that the Relief is now at Sha-wei-shan discharging bricks, as she left this a few days ago with that object.

Already the rumour of war between France and Germany affects our trade. Six days ago a sailing vessel brought the intelligence that France had declared war against Germany. So utterly unprepared for war were we that no one credited the statement. When four days ago the Kiu-shu brought later dates, confirming the previous rumour, captains of German vessels became alarmed. The North German vessel the Arab, the Meta, and the Maria, which had started on their southward voyage, returned to a safe anchorage a few yards beyond the limits of the harbour. The Consul has warned masters sailing German ships that if they leave the port they do so at their own risk. It is said one or two French gunboats are outside the bay ready to pounce on any unfortunate German vessel which may venture to go to sea. An officer from a French man-of-war boarded an English vessel, the Ellon Castle, about 120 miles from this port, and demanded to see the ship's papers. The Chinese merchants are in a state of great distress. They feel it very hard that the German ships which have their cargo on board will neither "move on" nor return them their cargoes.

HONG KONG.

The advices by this mail are to the 8th September; the London mail of July 29 arrived out on the 5th September, with telegrams to the 21st August; the Pacific mail steamer Great Republic arrived on the 3rd Sept.

The Pacific mail steamers are increasing in public favour. A very gratifying testimonial was presented by Mr. C. I. King, of the firm of Chapman, King, and Co., of Shanghai, in the presence of all the passengers, to Captain Seth Doane, commander of the Great Republic, on completing the voyage from San Francisco to Yokohama—the longest steam passage in the world out of sight of land. The splendour of the accommodation of the Great Republic was greatly appreciated by all the passengers, as was also the punctuality with which the sister steamers, the Japan and the America, met them at sea at the hour predicted by Captain Doane.

The Daily Press says that it is evident, from the letter addressed by Lord Granville to the Home merchants, that the Government is somewhat hard to convince upon the China question. Although they consent to refuse the ratification of Sir Rutherford Alcock's Convention, they nevertheless maintain that it would be productive of a great deal of good to mercantile interests, and that they only throw it over in deference to the opinions of the merchants. In this they are somewhat inconsistent; as if the opinions of the merchants are a reason for throwing over the Convention, they are so only because the merchants are better judges of the merits of a commercial convention than the Government can pretend to be. If the merchants are the best judges—and their opinion is that the Convention will prove disadvantageous—then it may be taken as proved that such is the fact. It is to be feared that sixty-eight adverse votes on the Liberal side had more to do with the Government's decision than the tender regard they express for the views of China merchants. At least, they are somewhat tardy in displaying the consideration for which they now claim credit.

The official proclamation of neutrality was issued in an extraordinary Gazette. It is not likely that its provisions will have to be enforced in this harbour, but it affords official evidence that the tide of war has reached the shores of this island.

The British clipper-ship Tamesa, which arrived from Bangkok, has lately made one of the most extraordinary runs on record. Having made her outward voyage to Adelaide, in South Australia, in seventy-two days, she sailed from that port for Ceylon with a number of horses, some prime milch cows, and a general cargo. Starting upon the commencement of a strong S.E. gale at the same time with the P. and O. steamer, she actually performed the wonderful feat of heading the mail boat into port by six hours, the distance between Kangaroo Island and the Leuwen having been cleared in ninety hours under a reefed foresail and lower topsail. The live portion of the cargo was all delivered in prime condition.

By the Pacific Mail steamer we have to note the arrival of the celebrated George Francis Train, who is making a flying trip round the world in ninety days, with the intention of taking notes and writing a book. He will leave this by the next French Mail steamer, and meantime intends to run up to Canton. Mr. Train is quite confident that he will be returned for the Presidency in 1872; declares himself a stanch adherent of the Fenians, notwithstanding the defeat of General O'Neill, and expresses his determination to speak in Ireland. He had thought of addressing the public here, but finds that his time will not permit it. Speaking of Japan, he declares his opinion that Sir Harry Parkes's influence is unbounded, and that he might be Mikado if he liked. He thinks everything about China is immensely exaggerated, and does not believe the population is more than 200,000,000, not 400,000,000, as currently stated.

The bones of about 1,200 Chinese lately reached San Francisco on their return the Celestial Empire. They had been gathered up along the line of the Central Pacific Railroad, and were all there was left of a regiment of the labourers on that great work. They are taken home in pursuance of the contract by which they were originally brought into this country.

The U.S. flagship Colorado, Captain Cooper, bearing the flag of Rear-Admiral Rodgers, left this port for Shanghai on the 4th. It is probable that she will visit Chefoo, Tientsin, and the other northern ports, returning here in November next. It was Admiral Rodgers's original intention to remain here during the fall and winter, but under present circumstances, it appears desirable that the United States should be represented in force in the Peiho.

SAIGON.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the 13th Sept. The London mail of Aug. 5 had arrived out with telegrams to 26th.

The official Courrier de Saigon contains a Government notification that, in consequence of the declaration of war, the Emperor had directed that the functions of the Consuls of the North German Confederation should cease immediately, but that such of these gentlemen as desired to remain in the French colonies might avail themselves of the privileges granted in the proclamation of the 21st August, noticed in our issue of the 12th. The interests of the subjects of the North German Confederation who continue to reside in the French colonies during the war will be confided to the Consuls of the United States, but with the special proviso that the admission of Prussian subjects, or their allies, to French territory, cannot be permitted except by special permission, which will only be granted in exceptional cases. Mr. J. A. Speidel, Consul of the United States, is therefore appointed to officiate at Saigon in place of the Consul of the North German Confederation. The Governor has ordered the formation of a Volunteer Guard for the protection of the city, and also directed a subscription for the wounded to be opened at the Secretariat. The Governor and the Municipal Council headed the list with liberal donations, and the sum collected in the first week exceeded 6,000 fr. The Courrier de Saigon expresses the most sanguine conviction of the triumph of French arms, consequent on the invasion of France by the Prussian army "blinded with overweening confidence," which reads very sadly by the light of recent events. The Regent of Siam has addressed a letter to the Governor of Saigon, informing him with many thanks of the safe return of the plenipotentiaries of the Siamese legation with the amended treaty concluded by them with the Governor, and which the Regent describes as highly satisfactory to the Siamese Government.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The present mail brings no news of much interest or importance. The French national fete was held on August 15, with "unprecedented solemnity." All the French in Bangkok called on their Consul and accompanied him to the Roman Catholic Cathedral, where thanksgivings were offered to the Almighty for the blessings conferred upon the French during the past year, and a solemn Te Deum was sung, and a grand banquet was afterwards given by the French Consul to his countrymen and all the Roman Catholic missionaries present in Bangkok. The American Consul proposed the health of the Emperor. The day's festivities closed with a ball and an illumination. The Germans of Bangkok had commenced a subscription for the wounded, and in one day realised $2,600, and a special appropriation of $135 per month during the existence of the war and for six months after its close. H.R.H. Krom Hluang Wongsa returned from Nakawn Yoke on the evening of the 8th inst., having been absent since the 29th ult. in search of the reported tree, called Ta-ko-daang, whose fruit had the name of restoring youthfulness to old age. He found the tree not in the forest, but at a temple near the residence of the governor of that province. And it was the only tree of the kind, as the Prince then learned, to be found anywhere in that region or any other in Siam. That tree is about three feet in circumference four feet from the ground. It had a mate standing near by till a few years since, when it died, and now the fruit appears to have no power left of reproduction, and none of its ancient life-giving virtues remaining. H.R.H. by great effort obtained one of the apples of that tree, intending to experiment on its seeds.

CHINA TRADE REPORTS FOR 1869.

By the last mail we received "The Reports on Trade at the Treaty Ports in China for 1869"—a goodly quarto volume of more than 200 closely printed pages, printed at Shanghai, and published by order of the Inspector-General of Customs. A work of such magnitude and interest could not have appeared at a time when its publication would have been attended with more good. Lengthy as it is, every page in it bristles with information, greatly assisted by the maps and tables which it contains; and, in the present critical condition of our relations with China, it cannot fail to serve the double purpose of strengthening the hands of those who have lately urged upon the Government the necessity of refounding European commerce in the Far East, upon a basis of confirmed security, by exhibiting the immense value of our Chinese trade in the "hard logic of figures;" and of enlisting the interests of those less experienced or less informed of our countrymen who may be induced to peruse its pages, or even to consider the results which they convey. It would be a national gain if the volume before us were laid on the table of every public library in the country. It reflects the greatest credit on the perseverance and power of arrangement of Mr. Dick, the Commissioner of Customs at Shanghai, and amply compensates for the length of time necessarily occupied in its compilation. It must be very gratifying to Mr. Dick to see that the Inspector-General, Mr. Hart, recognises so fully the thoroughness with which he has worked up his subject, and the interesting form in which he has arranged the mass of information collected by him.

He leads the reader from fact to fact in a manner so unaffected and earnest that it never suffers its interest to flag. He engages the attention without any other argument than that which is furnished by the information he communicates; and it is not until the close of the book that he speaks in his own person, and shows us by his Suggestions for the Revision of the Chinese Customs, Tariff, and Trade Regulations that he is as well able to reason justly from facts as to collect and arrange them. He truly observes that it is too much the custom to discuss Chinese questions from the point of view of unreasoning sympathy with the natives, or of unreasoning antipathy to them; and to accuse the party of progress of selfish motives, where much of their alleged "selfishness" is the very means of producing the most widely-extended good. "If Foreign Powers had their questions well in hand," says Mr. Dick, "and were prepared to treat them comprehensively, and to negotiate with a little unanimity, there is hardly a commercial reform now advocated which could not be obtained in a short time."

The reform to which Mr. Dick attaches the greatest importance, and for which he proves the most urgent necessity, is the establishment of a system for dealing with questions, as they arise, under the treaties and tariff already existing. The experience of the past ten years has furnished ample reason for the opinion that, until a suitable arrangement be made for this purpose by the Chinese Government and the foreign representatives, there is no hope of such questions being properly attended to. For want of such a system many of the measures devised during that period have been attended with great inconvenience, and it has been found virtually impossible to effect simple changes of the most obvious necessity without unreasonable and injurious delay. Mr. Dick advocates the formation of a board at Peking for deciding the hearing of the treaties, and the action they justify in regard to commercial questions; and another board at Shanghai, acting in communication with the former, for bringing to bear on such questions all the information obtainable from the experience of merchants and officials. The board, or permanent committee at Peking, should be composed of officials appointed by the Chinese Government, and of an official from each of the foreign legations. As matters now stand, all new action taken or changes made, under the treaties, need the consent of the contracting powers whose treaties are affected, and what Mr. Dick proposes is merely that the functions thus scattered among many hands should be made readily available, and strengthened by being placed in regular communication with the information requisite for the business to be transacted. The prohibition last year of the export of peas from Newchwang and Chefoo to foreign ports is a good example of the necessity for such a system; and the withdrawal of the prohibition, at the simultaneous request of the foreign ministers, is an equally good illustration of the benefits to be expected from it. Where a Chinese administration alone is concerned, the extreme difficulty of modifying rules in a regular manner is to some extent counterbalanced by the ready growth of irregular practices. It is, therefore, all the more necessary that where the intervention of foreign treaty rules administered by foreign hands has cut off this resource, the regulating power, or combination of powers, should be made sufficiently effective and flexible to meet all the requirements of the position.

Mr. Dick's view of the required revision of some parts of the tariff may be thus shortly summarised. The opium duty should be raised to as high a rate as may be found to be possible without encouraging smuggling, and experience has shown that upwards of 100 taels a chest can be obtained without such risk. In return for making such reforms as are required in the commercial and other intercourse between China and foreign nations, Mr. Dick thinks that China might fairly ask the British Government to consent to some arrangement whereby the Customs service should be extended to Hong Kong; and that such an arrangement, if made with a fair consideration for all the interests concerned, would not be disadvantageous to Hong Kong. It would be well to inquire how far the position of the staples, tea and silk, in foreign markets is affected by the duties charged on them in China. Of tea China still has practically a monopoly, and the present duty probably does no harm; but Japan and India are competing, and their competition may before long be felt. In silk the case is different, as China supplies only a comparatively small portion of the quantity used in England and France. The rates and regulations affecting the home trade as carried on in foreign vessels should be dealt with quite separately from the tariff on imports and exports. Besides the heaviness of the charges imposed by the foreign trade tariff on the home trade, as compared with those levied by the Chinese themselves, they sometimes have the effect of protecting the foreign article against the native, as in Japanese tea, Indian cotton, Manila sugar, English and foreign coal, as well as all foreign kinds of the other articles named. Cotton and woollen goods, wood and timber, require a readjustment of the measurements on which they pay duty, consequent on the new measurements and varieties introduced since the present tariff was framed. In some articles different rates of duty are levied according to differences in quality, a distinction always avoided in the English tariff, on account of the difficulties which it involves. The rates on all these articles should be recast, and they should be reduced, especially on such articles as are of small bulk in relation to value, as the present rates] tend to encourage smuggling—ginseng is a prominent example—and there are also articles of such ver small bulk that, although they are not heavily taxed, the attempt to prevent smuggling them would cost more than the revenue they would produce, such as cornelian beads, gold thread, gold and silver ware, and watches. There are, moreover, many articles which it would be policy to exempt from duty altogether, because the amount collected is out of all proportion to the expense of collection. The prohibition of the import of the munitions of war simply has the effect of throwing trade in those articles into the hands of certain firms, and consequently of making the articles dearer to the Chinese. For the prevention of the supply to rebels a prohibition of import is of no use in ordinary times. Whether importation be prohibited or not, the sale to unauthorised persons would always be illegal, and the importer who wished to sell them in that way would always conceal his importation. We will close our present notice with the fact that Mr. Dick strongly recommends that the same scale of duties should be applied to merchandise conveyed in native as in foreign vessels—a proposal which is not likely to meet with many dissentients. We have given the reforms suggested by Mr. Dick our first consideration; in our next issue we shall give an analysis of the separate returns from the eleven ports on which the proposed reforms are based.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN MISSIONARY.

The Rev. Robert Moffat, at a private entertainment given by Mr. Fraser, an old friend, at Buckhurst Hill, described the course of his labours in South Africa, extending over fifty-four years, passing under review the many trials and difficulties by which it was beset. When he first went out to the Bechuana tribes they had no sign of a written language, and exhibited as much astonishment at the use of one as the South Sea Islanders amongst whom Williams laboured. It was a very long time before he could acquire any knowledge of their tongue; and his first attempts at its use involved very awkward and humorous mistakes. For instance, he was made to call a man a great rascal, or to ask an old woman to kiss him, while the natives stood by laughing at his blunders. It was a very earnest yearning of his heart to be able to speak to them in their own language of the love of God, although he soon found that new difficulties had to be encountered even here, for it was hard to convince them of the truth of his testimony. By degrees it was received by a few; and then, eyes for ever unused to weeping streamed with tears of penitence and love at the recital of the story of the cross. The venerable missionary recalled with much interest his early struggles in translation. It was a work which he never meant to undertake, but was ultimately compelled to go through with it because no one else could or would undertake it. References were made to the encouragement he had received from his son-in-law, Dr. Livingstone; and an expression of thankfulness was added in respect to the comfort which he felt in leaving the Kwuman mission under the care of his excellent son, John Smith Moffat. It was touching to hear the noble old man utter the strong hope he cherished of meeting once again with the poor Africans who have listened to the Gospel from his lips, when they shall be assembled before the presence of their God and Saviour. In this glorious work he had finally been called to suffer the penalties of continued toil amidst so many difficulties. He had been a martyr to a sad want of sleep, but he rejoiced to say he now felt that rest was coming back to his weary system, and with it comfort and hope for future labours at home. Mr. Moffatt was through all his labours accompanied by his wife, who rendered most valuable aid in the schools and other means employed, as also did some of his children. One of his daughters married the celebrated Livingstone, for whom all England now throbs with anxiety. No one but those who have had opportunities of seeing a missionary's life in an out-station in Africa, India, or China can form an idea of the discomforts and trials which attend the wife of a missionary, and nothing but their love and devotion to the cause of Christ could support them. Their lot is, indeed, a reproof to those who live at home at ease, and so often complain of their lot as hard.

The Rev. Mr. Darlin, in an excellent speech by way of returning thanks for the assembled company, stated the great interest and love with which he had followed from youth the life and progress of the devoted "South African Missionary."

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—Business continued dull, in presence of the war news from Europe, and of the threatening aspect of affairs in China, and the market for Piece Goods was very weak. The business in Piece Goods since the departure of the English mail had been restricted to a few transactions in Grey Shirtings at lower rates; a faint enquiry for common 6 and 7 lb. T-Cloths; small dealings in Turkey Red Shirtings and Chintzes for Japan, and some trifling purchases of Woollen for the River ports. Sales of ordinary Chop 8¼ lb. Grey Shirtings "to arrive," at Tls. 2.1.3 per piece, were reported. Tls. 2.1.4 to 2.1.7 was the quotation for goods on the spot. Dewhurst's chop was worth Tls. 2.2.2. to 2.2.3½ per piece, but ordinary chops were preferred at the lower prices. 7 lb. were worth Tls. 1.7.0 to 1.7.4 per piece, ordinary to best makes. The chief business in T-Cloths for the week consisted in re-exports to

Digitized by Google

Hankow. Drills and Jeans had been neglected. Dyed Brocades had been wanted, but the stock of these was entirely exhausted. In other kinds of Fancies very little had transpired. Woollens: As above stated, a small demand had existed for Woollen Goods. Figured Orleans had been taken at former rates, but for Long Ells and Camlets lower prices were offered. Produce men were offering barter settlements of Camlets at 3 to 4 mace per piece under what importers were asking for their stocks. Lastings, Crapes, &c., had not been inquired for. Metals—Iron: A considerable business had been done in Nail Rod Iron during the week, settlements reaching some 40,000 Bundles, at Tls. 2.1.5 for small sizes and Tls. 2.0.0 for fair to good assortments, about former rates. Stock, about 110,000 bundles. Lead sold quiet, holders firm; common chops at Tls. 4.3.4; L.B., Tls. 4.4.5.

Hong Kong.—The telegraphic intelligence brought by the English mail of 29th July, reporting increasing firmness and activity in the home markets for Manchester Goods and Raw Cotton, had had its effect upon the markets here, and had caused an improvement in both prices and demand. In Raw Cotton large settlements had been made at higher figures, and an advance of $1 to 2 was noticeable. In Grey Shirtings only one or two small sales had been made; 8-4 lb. goods were completely out of stock, and in view of this, those parties who had it in their power to sell "to arrive" were demanding prices well over previous quotations. T-Cloths had been fairly dealt in at improving rates, and a rise in values about equal to the decline reported for last mail had been effected. Drills had not been affected by the upward movement, and former prices of all descriptions were barely maintained. Woollens were quiet and unchanged. Lead was firm, though quiet. No sales of Bar Iron had been reported, but the market was steady.

Saigon.—There had been no improvement to report in Cotton Goods; prices had undergone no material change for the worse, but there was still no inquiry for any kinds, and stocks remained heavy. The quotations were:—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.80; do., 7 lbs., $2.40; Grey T-Cloth, 4 lbs., $1.35; do., 4¼ lbs., $1.38; do., 4½ lbs., $1.45; do., 5 lbs., $1.55; White Irishes, $2.05.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

The following reports are from Messrs. Olyphant and Co.'s Circular:—

Shanghai.—Black Teas: There has been a fair demand during the week at the reduced quotations current for last mail. Settlements amount to 17,700 chests, and re-shipments to 2,800 chests. Further additions had been made to the stock, which stood at 100,700 chests. Green Teas: A few parcels of fine and finest Moyune had arrived, and had found ready sale at very full prices. These Teas, in common with those from other districts, were inferior to last year's crop, and there was not much improvement to notice in the matter of dust. Settlements amounted to 8,690 half-chests in all, and 1,100 half-chests had been re-shipped. The stock was estimated at 35,000 half-chests.

Foochow.—Since the 26th Sept. the settlements of Congou amounted to about 13,000 chests. Purchases reported on the 27th showed an advance of about half a tael on the prices paid for broken and leafy to good common descriptions, but since the receipt on that day of the English mail business had been conducted on much the previous scale of prices. The tone of the market was rather quiet, and although the settlements made public averaged over 4,300 chests per day, we believe that some of these were bought before arrival of the mail, but only subsequently reported. On the 29th 920 half-chests of Oolongs were taken for English account on a basis of Tls. 20 short for good cargo grade, and these being of really good quality showed better value than earlier settlements. Souchongs and Scented teas were in limited demand. The Everest and Chinaman had sailed for London. The rate of freight to London had been raised, and tonnage was not procurable under £2 per ton. The Windhover had cleared, the Haddington would follow on the 31st, and the Falcon and Shun Lee were engaged full.

Amoy.—Settlements of Oolongs had continued at previous rates, and there had been only a small stock to choose from; some thirty chops, however, had come to hand, but no offers had thus far been reported. Congous have been slightly dealt in, but the bulk of the stock was of very undesirable quality, and settlements were dearer in value than Foochow Teas of corresponding grade.

Canton.—The business of the week had been very inconsiderable, and we have only to notice settlements of a few hundred boxes of each description of Scented Tea.

SILK.

Shanghai.—No settlements had been effected since the departure of the English mail with 103 bales. Buyers continued to demand greater concession in prices than sellers were willing to submit to; and as holders were obtaining facilities in the shape of advances from banks and private firms, no great decline was looked for. Arrivals from the interior for the week did not exceed 160 bales; and the latest advices from the producing districts reported business suspended, and buyers returning to Shanghai. The unsold stock was estimated at 6,000 bales.

Canton.—No improvement in the demand had been experienced, and there is consequently no change in the position of the market to report.

SAIGON PRODUCE.

Messrs. Behre and Co.'s Circular gives the following report upon the Rice market:—There being only little offering, as usual at this time of the season, the slightly better demand for China and Japan has been sufficient to keep up prices, and some 50,000 piculs grain have changed hands at again higher quotations, viz., up to $1.70 respectively, $1.60 per picul for round and long corn. Our natives continually entertain great hopes regarding the coming crop, and there being still moderate stocks of this year's grain in the interior, we may anticipate larger arrivals and lower prices for the next weeks. Our quotations close at $1.65 for round grain and $1.57½ for long rice. New rice will be available for export at about the middle of December next.

The annexed report upon other articles of produce is from Messrs. Kaltenbach, Engler, and Co.'s Circular:—Cotton uncleaned. Owing to more liberal arrivals from Cambodgia, present stocks at Cholen may be estimated at over 2,000 piculs, and higher freights for neutral vessels; prices are somewhat declined, and $6.75 per picul would be accepted. Of cleaned sorts there is always little on the market; No. 1 is worth $21.75, and No. 2 $18.50 per picul. Exports for the month amount to 3,375 piculs. Hides are not more abundant than before, but prices were lately a little easier, so that a few contracts could be passed at $8.75 for Buffalo and $12 to 12.25 for Cow hides. Horns obtainable in small lots only, at $8.50 per picul. Black Pepper: The Ludovic and Charles cleared with about 3,200 piculs. The Helene is loading, and another vessel will soon be on the berth for Havre, but there is no doubt that the total quantity coming forward this year will be far behind the general estimation. Cocoa Nut Oil: Although in the middle of the season prices have again advanced, and present quotations are $8.25 per picul. Gamboge: There is a little less inquiry, and a few lots changed hands at 57½ per picul.

The total number of officers who returned in the Donegal was 143, and of seamen and marines 990, making a total number of 1,133 officers and men. The Donegal arrived at Hong Kong on May 2nd from England with reliefs for the crews of H.M.'s ships Ocean, Zebra, Rinaldo, and Sylvia, which vessels had been some considerable time at the above port awaiting her arrival. Meanwhile they all underwent a thorough refit, machinery and boilers being found in a satisfactory condition, and are now quite fit in every respect for a further period of service in those waters. The above four ships were paid off on the 9th, when the old and new crews were exchanged, and the Donegal was enabled to start on her return voyage on the 24th, being navigated by the return crews; fine weather and smooth water were encountered almost the entire passage. Singapore was reached on June 4th, and sailed from on the 8th, touched at Anjer on the 13th; arrived at Simon's Bay on July 23rd, left on the 2nd of August, touched at St. Helena for a day on the 14th, and arrived at Spithead on the 23rd of September.

The Priam, which arrived at Falmouth on the 14th inst. from Singapore, landed forty time-expired men and invalids of the Royal Artillery and 75th Regiment, who were sent to Plymouth to be passed on by the military authorities to their various destinations.

The following appointments have been made at the Admiralty:—Sub-Lieutenant William L. H. Browne, to the Ocean as supernumerary; the Hon. P. H. H. Hutchinson, midshipman, to the Ocean, as supernumerary.

The naval command at Portsmouth, which will shortly become vacant, will probably be conferred upon Sir Henry Keppel, late Commander-in-Chief on the China station.

LITERATURE.

A work in two volumes has been issued by Messrs. Smith, Elder and Co., under the title Journeys in North China, Manchuria, and Eastern Mongolia, with some Account of Corea, by the Rev. Alexander Williamson, B.A. The journey upon which this narrative is founded was undertaken with objects connected with missionary labour, and in pursuance of these Mr. Williamson was led into districts remote from the Treaty Ports, and therefore but little known. Much that is interesting is related respecting the products of the soil and mineral wealth of these obscure provinces, and in some instances valuable information is imparted, while at the same time facts are given in such a clear and readable style, and are so blended with anecdote and critical notes of observation, that amusement may be found on every page.

The Chinese Recorder and Missionary Journal for August is a number of more than usual interest. The Rev. A. Krolczyk commences an account of a visit to the Aborigines in the north-western part of the province of Kwantung, starting from Sam-kong, a fortress where Chinese officials keep guard over the Midu-tze who live in the adjacent hills. The Yiumen were inquisitive concerning the "trouble" between the Chinese and the foreigners, but Mr. Krolczyk is of opinion that there is nothing to fear from a coalition of this tribe with the other foreign elements in its bosom, as they neither knew nor cared anything about the different aboriginal tribes in China, still less about the mountainous tribes north of India, Birmah, and Siam. The Overland Trip from Kiukiang to Foochow is concluded, and supplemented by a useful itinerary for the guidance of future travellers. Mr. Ewer concludes his interesting essay on The Sabbath in China; and a sensible paper on Pagan Idolatry and Revelation, and a Synoptical Table of Chinese Dynasties, are valuable contributions. A correspondent gives a terribly exact account of the Chinese capital punishment of "caging to death." This punishment is termed in the Foochow patois K'ie-lêng (standing in the cage). The cage is an open frame, as high as the culprit's neck, about which boards are so closely adjusted that the head cannot be withdrawn. Death results from sheer exhaustion and starvation in from four to six days, and it is said that this mode of execution is becoming more common, especially in the South.

The Athenæum remarks that Mr. Adams, the Secretary of our Legation in Japan, has been rendering good service in doing all he can to protect the silkworm in those countries by his influence and advice, which are willingly received. At the last advices he had returned from a lengthened tour in the interior, on which he will report. In Japanese are some illustrated works on silk culture.

The fourth number of Art, the new magazine of which we lately noticed the establishment, exhibits a great improvement upon its predecessors. The illustrations include "A Portrait," by Vandyck, and "The Annunciation," a fac-simile of an early Italian print, both of which are excellent specimens of photographic achievement.

The first number of a new paper, called the West Indian News, has been issued by Mr. P. Algar. This paper is intended to treat on matters of special concern to those engaged in the trade, and from the first number we think the production will be found highly useful.

THE STRAITS ASSOCIATION.

General approval has been expressed in Singapore at the steps taken by the Straits Association in respect of the proposed steamer, it being felt that with inexpensive additions the Pehio would have met all the possible wants of the colony. Governor Ord's craving for steamers appeared still unappeased, and he had proposed the purchase of the Argyle, 14 tons, as a substitute for a boat he had built under his special survey a year since, but is now found unsuitable! The non-official members seem to have met him with a dignified and severe rebuke.

A Select Committee was appointed to inquire into the civil establishments, and it is hoped that the result may promote economical administration, a system to which the colony has been a stranger for the last three years.

The report on Government-house was to be the subject of discussion at the next meeting of Council, and would probably occasion a somewhat stormy debate.

The King of Prussia has conferred on Herr W. von Pustau, of Altona, the insignia of Knight of the Royal Order of the Red Eagle, as a mark of appreciation of his services in connection with the International Exhibition held at Altona last year. The above-named gentleman was also himself an exhibitor of a very valuable and instructive collection of China produce—more particularly of tea and silk, the latter showing the manufacture from the incipient silkworm's egg down to its final state, in the shape of the costly and beautiful crapes and shawls.

Among the passengers by the present mail is Mr. George Francis Train, the American citizen par excellence. This gentleman left San Francisco some months since by the Pacific route for China, and having now returned by way of Suez has lost no time in proclaiming his opinions upon the war to the French people in a stump speech which we learn by telegram he delivered at Marseilles on Saturday last.

Breakfast.—Epps's Cocoa.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homœopathic preparation of Cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets labelled—James Epps & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

LONDON: MONDAY, OCT. 24, 1870.

SATISFACTION FOR THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

Mr. Charles Magniac, M.P., one of the deputation which was received by Earl Granville on this subject on the 14th ult., determined not to allow the question to slumber, has addressed a second appeal to the Foreign Secretary, in the form of a letter, which we publish in another column. Mr. Magniac has entitled himself to the thanks of the community for his public spirit in thus urging on a lethargic Government the prompt action for which the new evidence he adduces proves the increased necessity.

A telegram, published in our last, announces that ten of the Tientsin mandarins have been transported, and fifteen "men" beheaded—we presume by way of punishment for the late massacre. Pending the receipt of a detailed account of the proceedings which led to this sentence, we can offer no opinion as to its justice or its sufficiency to meet the requirements of the case—or even whether such a measure of atonement will be deemed satisfactory by the French. We have as yet no means of judging of the degree of the complicity of the ten mandarins who have been transported; and what is the evidence upon which the fifteen men have been beheaded. Knowing the recklessness of human life, as well as the unprincipled mystification of the Chinese Courts, we cannot avoid the suspicion that some trick may have been practised upon us, similar to the well-known affair in Hwang-chu-kee, where, twenty years ago, under a somewhat similar demand for justice, the mandarins searched their gaols for a few criminals, and sacrificed them. Meanwhile our position is unchanged, and daily increasing in influence in the press and in the public mind.

Just as we are going to press we have received another telegram announcing that the Taku Forts have been armed and stored by the Chinese, and a considerable army has been collected at Tientsin. This not only confirms the intelligence that we had previously received, to the effect that the Chinese were arming, but it shows that they are now actually ready, and the necessity for action is more urgent than ever. If so much valuable time had not been lost, the Taku Forts might have been armed and stored by us, instead of being fortified and garrisoned by the Chinese, who, no doubt, now look forward to repulsing any European fleet from those strongholds, as they did, with such disastrous consequences, the expedition of Admiral Hope in the year 1859. We trust, however, that a sufficient force will be brought against them to preclude the possibility of a repetition of that calamity, but there can be no doubt that in the present temper and attitude of the people a greater force is now required than would have been sufficient two months ago. Another chapel has been burned down by the mob, and it is said that the provincial authorities promise its restoration; but one thing is abundantly clear—that the course of outrage has not been checked by the punishments alluded to above, and we can only hope that it will not be attended with more bloodshed before some decisive steps are taken for the protection of the foreigners in their present dangerous situation.

The report of the return to England of Mr. Medhurst, at present Consul at Shanghai, is incorrect. Mr. Forrest, the Vice-Consul, is home on leave, and Mr. Davenport has taken his place. Mr. Markham will leave shortly for Chefoo, via San Francisco. Mr. King, lately Acting Vice-Consul at Newchwang, has been granted leave. Mr. Swinhoe is not likely to return for some months.

THE SURRENDER OF OUR TREATY RIGHTS IN FORMOSA.

We understand that the representations made by merchants interested in the trade of Formosa have failed, so far, to induce the Foreign-office to alter its decision as to the abandonment of the ports now opened to trade in that island; and, according to present arrangements, the Consulates will all be closed and our rights to trade abandoned early next year. It has been proved that the figures given by Sir Rutherford Alcock as the value of our trade are very much below the mark; but the Foreign-office is deaf to all such remonstrances, and have respect only to one fact—viz., the saving of the expense of the Consulates. That dreadful spirit for cutting down, which overrides every other consideration with the present Government, is the all-absorbing idea, and it seems must be, like peace, obtained at any sacrifice of our future interests in China. To surrender any of our rights at this particular time is certainly the most unwise step, and will assuredly be followed up by the Chinese Government by an attempt to deprive us of other treaty rights, under the belief that we will submit rather than resist. Even Sir Rutherford Alcock pointed out that, should the abandonment of Formosa be decided on, it was most important that some equivalent should be obtained from the Chinese Government, as such surrender without a quid pro quo would certainly be misinterpreted, and attributed to a weakness on our part. Of course, the surrender of our rights does not necessitate the same course by other Treaty Powers, and British subjects must, we suppose, be content to play second fiddle to all other nationalities who have borne no part in the cost of opening up China. We believe that a steamer will shortly be sent out to trade between Amoy and Formosa on English account, but she will probably be put under any other flag but the English.

THE CHINESE AT HOME AND ABROAD.

The rising of Chinese coolies in Peru, and the massacre of their overseers in two provinces, and under circumstances of aggravated brutality, is a fact as suggestive as it is deplorable; and it derives additional importance from the fact that it was impossible for the assassins of Barranca and Patavilca to have been aware of the outrages of their brethren at Tientsin. It proves that the "grain" of the Chinese character remains the same in the most distant places and under the most widely different circumstances. In China the motive was hatred of the "foreigners;" in Peru it was probably the temptation of their masters' gold. Wherever these people may be located, we are now assured that they are equally treacherous, murderous, and calculating. Human life will never be safe where they possess numerical strength, or are permitted international responsibility, without the presence of a sufficient armed force to insist on their good faith. In colonies it is not safe to admit a preponderance of Chinese immigrants, especially of the coolie class. Their artisans and tradesmen may safely be encouraged, for they are both clever and persevering, thrifty and peaceable; but their coolies should never be collected in greater numbers than can be readily put down by the natives of other countries with whom they cannot assimilate.

MR. MAGNIAC TO LORD GRANVILLE.

October 13, 1870.

My Lord,—The character of the intelligence received on the 10th inst. from China, by telegram dated Kiachta, October 9, so amply and painfully confirms the apprehensions lately expressed by the deputation of merchants for the safety of the lives and property of British subjects there, that I venture again to press the subject for your Lordship's consideration.

Relying on the authenticity of the intelligence we have received, reporting great anxiety and the destruction of another Roman Catholic church at Newchwang, it is our firm conviction that immediate and additional measures of protection are required, particularly at the Northern ports.

In respect of the form which this protection should take, I would merely say that, although the navy is well represented, the military forced available for defence on land is comparatively insignificant, and the telegram I have referred to states—"Assistance of troops demanded from India."—I have the honour to be, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient humble servant, Charles Magniac.

To the Right Hon. the Earl Granville, K.G., &c., &c., H.M.'s Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Monetary and Commercial.

The half-yearly meeting of the Oriental Bank Corporation was held on the 20th, Mr. Blyth in the chair, when an interim dividend of 6 per cent. was declared for the half-year. Mr. C. J. F. Stuart, the chief manager, read a statement of the assets and liabilities of the bank, and of the profit and loss account. The net profits for the half year were £93,802. The chairman said the only business of the present meeting was to declare an ad interim dividend, and he had great pleasure in stating that, notwithstanding the state of affairs in India and China, they were enabled to declare the usual dividend. They had received from the managers the assurance that the credit of the bank stood as well as ever. There was no discussion, and after the declaration of the dividend the meeting separated.

Mr. W. T. Henley, of North Woolwich, has just laid a submarine telegraph cable from Bona to Malta, thus completing the lines of the Marseilles, Algiers, and Malta Telegraph Company. The total length of both sections laid is about 900 miles.

Telegrams via Kiachta from Shanghai announce the failure of Messrs. Overweg and Co., of Shanghai, Foochow, and Hankow; the liabilities are not stated.

It is expected that a further dividend of 3d. in the pound, completing 7s. 6d., will be made on the estate of Messrs. Lindsay and Co. No further dividend is expected from the estates of Robert Smith and Co., and Smith, Kennedy, and Co., the total distribution having been 3s. 2½d. The property in China belonging to the estate of Messrs. Fletcher and Co. has not yet been realised-and the final dividend is consequently delayed. A further 1s. is expected from the estate of Messrs. Scott, Bell, and Co., and a trifle on Messrs. Dow and Co.'s Another 1s. will soon be declared on Finlay, Campbell, and Co.'s estate, and 6d. on that of Dent and Co.'s.

The tenders for £300,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £290,600, and to Madras, £9,400. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10d. on all the presidencies, and tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 10½d. will receive about 56 per cent., those above in full. There were no tenders accepted on Bombay. These results show a diminished demand for means of remittance to the East.

The directors of the Singapore Gas Company have issued their report for the half-year ending 30th June, to be presented to the shareholders at the extraordinary general meeting on the 25th inst. The profits for the half-year are £1,564, and the directors recommend a dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum on the preference capital, and 7 per cent. per annum on the amounts paid-up on the original capital.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The Market has been very firm during the fortnight, and prices for almost all kinds have been firmly maintained. The principal transactions have been in Teas out of recent arrivals, which have comprised a fair assortment of all kinds, the sales making in old Teas being of a comparatively limited amount.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings and broken-leaf kinds have only been taken to a limited extent, and prices are scarcely so firm. Fair to good common remain at former quotations. Fair to good Kaisows of old import have been in request at the late advance in prices. The new Teas per steamer Niger have met with a ready sale at full prices compared with those obtainable for the parcels unsold per Achilles and Statesman. In Paklings there has been no material alteration. Black-leaf kinds: For low qualities there has been but little inquiry, but prices show no change; fair to good common remain firm at 1s. to 1s. 1d. per lb.; fair to good of old import show no alteration. Further supplies of new season have sold readily at from 1s. 6d. to 1s. 10d. for good, and 1s. 11d. to 2s. 6d. for fine to finest kinds. Amoy kinds have been slow of sale at former prices. Oolongs continue in request at very full prices. In Souchongs there has not been much business done. Sales of Flowery Pekoe have been made from 3s. 10d. to 4s. 3d. Scented Teas: Canton Capers have been readily taken at former prices. Foochow kinds at 1d. per lb. decline. Canton Orange Pekoes have been difficult of sale at previous rates. Foochow kinds have been sold without alteration. In uncoloured Japans there have been but few transactions. Green Teas: A small invoice of really fine Moynne kinds has been sold at very high prices. In other sorts there is but little of interest to note, the demand being limited to the finer kinds, which maintain their position, common to medium kinds still being realised with great difficulty at the low prices current. In Canton-made kinds there is but little alteration to notice.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular states that a considerable business has been transacted the past fortnight, importers being willing sellers at the satisfactory rates obtainable, especially for black leafs, which form the bulk of supplies lately to hand; while red leafs, notwithstanding their undoubted inferiority, have also been selling at better rates, the limited quantity imported encouraging merchants to be firm holders; in fact, there has not been that pressure to sell on arrival as witnessed during the early part of last season, supplies to date being more on a scale with our requirements. The absence of the usual Export trade to the Continent has consequently not acted so adversely as might have been expected. Latest advices from China to 29th September give the Export at 69,000,000 lbs., against 89,000,000 lbs. last year same date.

Messrs. Percival and Co. remark:—The improved tone of our market noticed in our Circular of the 6th inst., the result of continued favourable advices from China, state of stocks at home and cargoes afloat has continued without interruption; hence we have had good business doing at full and remunerative prices. The fresh arrivals ex Oberon, Titania, Cutty Sark and Nestor, from Shanghai, and Niger, from Foochow, have met with marked attention, and the bulk of these cargoes have been disposed of, realising the following rates:—Black-leafs, fair to medium, 1s. 7d. to 1s. 10d.; do., good medium, 1s. 11d. to 2s. 0d. do., fine to finest, 2s. 1d. to 2s. 4d.; Red-leafs, fair, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d.; do., medium, 1s. 7d. to 1s. 10d.; do., fine, 2s. 0d. In Old Season's Congous transactions have been limited, but the recent advance is fully maintained. New Scented Teas ex Deerhound have sold as follows:—Capers, medium, 1s. 6d. to 1s. 10d.; do., fine, 2s. 0d. to 2s. 10d.; Orange Pekoes, medium, 1s. 6d. to 1s. 9d.; do., fine, 2s. 0d. to 2s. 4d.

SILK.

The quiet which we reported on the 6th instant as having set in at the beginning of the month has since continued, and the market has become decidedly flat, with weaker quotations. The public sales which terminated yesterday have in no way led to more business; and there is everywhere a quiet tone and an indisposition on the part of buyers to operate at present, except at about 1s. to 1s. 6d. below the highest point of last month. At this decline some recent arrivals of China Silk from the south of France have been sold, but the majority of holders do not show a disposition to meet the market on these terms, and seem to prefer taking the chance of an early termination of the war, when prices would probably again revive. Of Japan, Canton, and Bengal Silk there is little to be said; all are for the moment without real inquiry, and it is difficult to give actual quotations. Deliveries of Silk are wonderfully good, all things considered, say from 1st to 19th instant:—1,256 Chinas, 410 Japans, 256 Cantons, 172 Bengals—total, 2,094 bales. The stock on the 20th inst. (yesterday) was China, 16,091 bales; Canton, 7,705 bales; Chinese Thrown, 554 bales; Japan, 7,034 bales; Bengal, 3,539 bales; total 34,923 bales.

COFFEE.

The supplies of Ceylon at the public sales have been less extensive than during the interval upon which we last reported, and more competition for the parcels offered has been shown. The colony qualities of Plantation have realised fully previous rates, and in some instances a slight advance, while common and grainy kinds show but slight change in values; and the latest prices paid have been, triage and ordinary, 40s. 6d. to 54s. 6d.; small grey, 50s. to 51s.: low middling grey to middling dull, 56s. 6d. to 59s.; bold ditto, 63s. to 67s.; small coloury, 54s. to 59s.; middling ditto, 60s. to 64s. 6d.; good to fine middling, 65s. to 72s.; good to fine bold, 73s. to 82s.; superior bold bright, 83s. 6d. to 86s.; peaberry, 73s. 6d. to 79s. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 132,084 cwt., against 120,187 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 5,115 cwt., against 35,083 cwt. The weakest will take no harm from the use of this alterative and tonic medicine, but will gradually regain their health. The strongest will preserve themselves from many of the mishaps into which their boasted strength and fearlessness of results often betray them. Long suffering invalids may look towards this rectifying and revivifying medicine with the certain hope of having their maladies mitigated, if not removed, by its means. In short, for all ages, circumstances, and conditions, Holloway points out the treatment which is competent to check the progress of disorder in, and expel its seed from, the human frame.

A telegram from Mr. Wade, dated Peking, Oct. 16, has been received via Kiachta, and will be found in another column. Mr. Wade states that the Decree on the Tientsin case had been published, that twenty Chinese were to be executed immediately, and two magistrates exiled. We have also received Grant's weekly telegram from Shanghai, Oct. 11, Tientsin, Oct. 16, which has a different colour. It states that Mr. Wade had been insulted, that foreign Ministers had rejected the Chinese proposals of settlement for the Massacre, and foreigners were undecided as to wintering at Peking and Tientsin.

YOKOHAMA.

We have received the following telegraphic news in advance of the mails of 23rd Sept. via San Francisco, which will probably be delivered at the end of the week.

The steamer Great Republic arrived at San Francisco on the 16th Oct., with eighty-four cabin passengers and 500 Chinese. Amongst the passengers for New York are Francis Oakly, C. Lambert, J. Oleany, T. Thomas, S. L. Phelps, G. W. Hoyt, and nineteen officials of high rank. For Europe—Mrs. J. S. Bourdon and family; S. E. Aiken, and three Japanese officers. She brings on freight for New York, 6,559 packages of tea, 853 of silk, and 152 of merchandise.

The Franco-German war has induced the Japanese Government to issue a neutrality proclamation. The French and German residents of Japan have subscribed liberally to their respective sanitary funds. A collision between Prussian and French sailors had taken place in the port of Yokohama. The European war has stopped business in silk and silkworms. The Government has appointed a party of officers, one a prince of the Imperial house, to visit the seat of war in Europe and report the result of observations. The party has arrived by the Great Republic, en route to Europe.

A heavy thunderstorm has visited Yedo, and many houses were struck by lightning and set on fire. Rains in the districts north-east of Yedo flooded the country. The crops and many houses were destroyed; many lives were lost.

YOKOHAMA MARKET REPORT.

Shirtings in fair request, with moderate business. Cotton yarn steadily declined; no demand. Fancy goods and woollens, no settlements. Silk: Stock, 2,000 bales. Arrivals of silkworms eggs, 1,135,000 cards. Settlements, 150,000, at $4 to $5 per card; large business. Tea: Prices higher, very firm, arrivals heavy. Stock, 9,000 piculs. Exchange on London, 4s. 5¾d.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

SEPT. 4, 1870.

The Japanese Government preserve strict neutrality in regard to the war, and send vessels to all the ports to enforce order.

The railway works are progressing, and if the plant arrives as was formerly expected the line may be opened in the early part of the year. The telegraph wires are to be erected and laid between this and Rock Island, and so vessels can be telegraphed in half a day before arrival. Steam oil machinery in Yedo working well, to the intense amusement of the natives.

A great work is likely to be undertaken by Government; extension of English jetty 670 feet into the bay, which will admit of vessels up to 3,000 tons lying alongside. The Consular Board has placed some obstacle in the way of Captain Purvis becoming Harbourmaster and carrying out the rules and regulations submitted by him. Mr. Brunton, the engineer, is progressing well with his drainage and road-making.

The Commercial Company is reported to have advanced $3,000,000 to assist their merchants now holding silk-worm egg cards and silk.

At last the community are likely to do something about the lighting. A committee, Messrs. H. Smith, Benson, and Pitman, has been appointed to inquire into all matters connected with it, and report in a fortnight. Mr. H. J. Hooper with his self-Government scheme will die out.

YOKOHAMA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

We have received the half-yearly report of the Yokohama Chamber of Commerce. The following are the statistics of trade for the six months ending 30th June. In 1869 the total value of imports was $5,904,161; in 1870 it rose to $10,931,697—an increase of $5,027,536. This cannot, however, be taken altogether as an improvement in trade, for, when we come to analyse this enormous increase, we find it consists in the import of articles of food, the necessity for which may be a sign of prosperity, but such is not at present apparent in Japan. Proceeding to figures, we find, of the total value of imports for the six months ending 30th June, 1869, the estimated value of trade done by Chinese is $2,500,000, of which amount fully $2,000,000 were for articles of food, and of the trade done by foreigners ... $87,971 was for sugar
677,520 „ rice

A total paid for food of ... $2,765,491, leaving for manufactures $3,138,770;

Whilst the present six months' statistics show:—

Sugar	$1,555,000
Rice	4,872,000
Peas	440,000
Oil	425,000
Salt	256,500

leaving $3,383,197; from this deducting $350,000, the value of arms and steamers sold, we find the value of manufactures sold to be $3,033,197, showing an actual decrease of $105,472 in the value of manufactures delivered during the last six months as compared with the corresponding six months in 1869.

At a first glance this may not seem promising, but on a little consideration of the position of things, it shows the elasticity of the trade, that in the face of such an enormous drain on its resources, as indicated by the amount paid for food, the regular and legitimate import trade has suffered to so small an extent.

So far this season all crops have proved fully average ones, and with a good rice crop, about which of course it is too early to form any opinion, it seems natural to suppose that trade would rapidly revive, and we are justified in looking hopefully to the future.

Looking further we find

The Chamber's proceedings during the half year under review have been almost entirely confined to routine business, and there is little of general interest to record. A Special Committee was appointed to consider the form of the Chamber's telegram via America, and it has been decided to continue the telegrams throughout the summer months. It is a matter of regret that the Customs regulations, referred to in last report as having received the sanction of the Consuls, have not, so far as the Chamber's information extends, received the sanction of the native authorities; and the state of the Hatobas and the difficulties attending the landing and shipping of goods remain as unsatisfactory as ever. The continued and loud complaints received from home as to the deterioration of Japanese silk induced the Committee to address the Minister of the Interior a special letter on this subject, and the thanks of the Chamber are due to the British Minister for the assistance rendered in this matter. The fact is that, with the exception of some of the produce of the Oshiu districts, Japan silk has year by year deteriorated in quality, and although up to this time the Japanese growers may have been encouraged by the readiness with which they dispose of their produce to foreigners into doubting the truth of the remonstrances already made to them, yet the Chamber thinks that the results predicted by it in its circular published in July, 1868, have been clearly manifested this season.

It is estimated that Japanese growers have, by their carelessness during the present season, sustained a loss of $80 to $100 per picul on hank silks—which upon 10,000 piculs is $800,000 to one million of dollars. It is hopeless, the Chamber believes, for the Japanese with the apparatus now in use among them to produce available fine-sized silks. It is only by the introduction of improved apparatus, such as is used in Europe, and of the European system of "filature," that they will be enabled to reap all the advantages of the excellent nature of their silk. The foulness of Japanese silks is another cause of grave complaint; and the irregular "Reglage" (i.e. the movement which guides the crossing of the thread in the reeling) is an evil for which the substitution of machinery for manual labour seems the only likely cure. On the receipt of the Chamber's letter, the Japanese Minister of the Interior issued a notification to the silk-producers, urging them to carry out the Chamber's suggestions; and it is said that this notification has been generally well received, and may lead to improvement.

NAGASAKI.

Nagasaki, Sept. 1, 1870.

Since my last, dated 15th ult., sent via San Francisco, events have been unusually scarce; most likely the all absorbing topic has entirely prevented minor events from being brought to light, as the natives seem to interest themselves in the war between North Germany and France quite as much as Europeans.

On the 17th ult. the gunboat Wun Yu Maru changed her flag from English to Japanese. The French corvette Dupleix sailed for Yokohama 17th, and H.B.M.'s gunboat Cockchafer arrived from Shanghai 19th idem, but did not bring any mail, although at least one, that of June 17, was known to be lying there at the time she left, viz., August 12—in fact, had been lying there at least ten days. The fact of the postmaster at Shanghai neglecting to send our mails by one of H.B.M.'s vessels looks very much like gross neglect of duty, and certainly requires explanation.

No London and China Express has been received here since my last, excepting those obtained by applying to the Post-office at Shanghai; those of 9th and 17th June, and 1st, 7th, and 15th July are due here, and persons who have no friends who will undertake to forward them on are likely to wait, as the North German steamer Tapanguyo has ceased running. The arrivals from the home side have been as follows: Unison, on 21st August, from Sunderland, with coals for Her Majesty's navy; Oberon, from Liverpool, 27th idem; and Chieftain steamer, from London via Yokohama and Hiogo, on 29th idem.

The North German Consul at this port has sent a subscription list to the German residents, asking for contributions towards a patriotic fund, and has obtained over $850, and in addition to this amount, monthly contributions have been promised from the whole of the German residents, twenty-seven in number.

The Namenohira tea houses have been the scene of a battle fought by a lot of two-sworded gentry, belonging to Tosa and Higo, who drew their swords, and used them pretty freely; one account says that one fellow was killed, and all engaged were more or less wounded. It is a great pity the affair did not terminate like that of the Kilkenny cats, all got killed, and not one left to tell the tale.

Messrs. Glover and Co. announced their suspension by circular on 17th August, and a meeting of creditors, under the private arrangement clause, is advertised for the 16th instant at H. B. M. Consulate.

We experienced a shock of earthquake on the 30th ult. at about half-past eight in the evening; it is reported by persons who were sitting still at the time to be a severe one, preceded by a loud rumbling noise. At the time it occurred it was exceedingly close and oppressive.

The foregoing is all the news I am able to collect; so little is there of any description, that our two newspapers have lately been engaged in dragging all our grievances to light; if they only succeed in reforming a quarter of what they have undertaken, they will certainly receive their well-earned thanks from this community.

This letter will be detained in Shanghai some six days previous to the departure of the mail from that port for Europe, but as the steamer Golden Age appears to be the only one likely to arrive there in time we consider this our mail day.

TIENTSIN.

A correspondent from this port, under date Aug. 31, writes:—

The latest rumours which have a probability almost amounting to certainty are:—The Viceroy of the two Kiangs is dead—died suddenly in the night. Tseng-kwo-Fan is to succeed him. Some of his troops have already left Tientsin, and it is said that Tseng is to follow them promptly. Li-Hung-Chang is to succeed Tseng-kwo-Fan as Viceroy of Chih-li. This is firmly believed by the people, but no one can give a rational explanation of what appears to be a degradation of Tseng-kwo-Fan.

For some days the city magistrates have been most active in seizing the perpetrators of the tragedy of June 21. There are now proclamations issued, stating that if any one will guarantee their good conduct for the future, as well as certify to such good conduct in the past, in reference to persons now under arrest, they shall be at once liberated." The zeal of the officials has therefore been only of the most mercenary kind. Some of the biggest villains who took part in the massacre are known to be at large. I send you these rumours for what they are worth.

SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port are to Sept. 8. The French mail, with London dates to July 22, arrived out Sept. 5. The week's news is not important.

The Courier says:—It is reported, on respectable authority, that the Fire Queen brought from Chinkiang Chinese advices from the North, to influential Chinese here, that Ting, the governor of Kiangsu, and Prince Kung have both been assassinated. No particulars are given; it is only the apparent trustworthiness of the channel through which the news comes that induces us to give the rumour publicity. Besides, there was less anterior probability of the murder of Ma than there is of the event above mentioned. Our last advices show that Ting was engaged with all the energy which characterised him when the Taoutai of Shanghai, in a task which must have roused the deepest fear and fury of the anti-foreign fanatics with whom Tientsin is thronged.—[The telegrams do not confirm this.—Ed. L. and C. T.]

IMPERIAL EDICT.

Tseng-kwo-Fan and his colleagues having memorialised the Throne to the effect that the French Minister persists in his demands; and that he has petulantly returned to the capital to negotiate (the matters in dispute).

Rochechouart, with boundless arrogance and assumption, demands the execution of the Fu and the Hsien, a demand ten thousand times to be rejected.

We had previously by Edict commanded C'hien-ting-ming* to take Chang-kwang-Tsao† and the rest,‡ and to bring them to Tientsin; we moreover instructed Tseng-kwo-Fan and his colleagues to obtain the depositions of the said Fu and Hsien, and, in accordance therewith, to return answer to the said ambassador (Rochechouart). We expected that with all speed this matter would be settled, (but) Rochechouart, since we have not followed his wishes, has in anger returned to the capital.§

At this crisis ourselves and foreigners are equally desirous of coming to an agreement, (yet you) high officials of the Foreign-office are able of course with unalterable resolution strongly to oppose (all his) evil designs. Tseng-kwo-Fan and his colleagues must continue rigorously to seize, and speedily to punish, all those arrogant, cruel, and riotous men. || Respect this! 15th day of the 7th moon, Tung-chih.

NEW TROUBLES AT CHINKIANG.

We understand that official communications were made to the foreign Consuls residing at Chinkiang, to the effect that the Taoutai at that port had evidence that an attack upon the foreigners there was contemplated, and that the Taoutai had appointed a special officer to arrest and punish the ruffians.

The appearance of things at Chinkiang is threatening, not only from the unrestrained rabble there, but also from the soldiery at Kwa-Shan and other places in the neighbourhood. We learn that the British Consul went yesterday to see the Taoutai on the subject. We further hear that No. 3 Chinese gunboat is blockading Nanking, but perhaps that is done to keep the tens of thousands of literary men now assembled there from joining the rowdies, who seem bent on the expulsion of "foreign devils" generally.

We regret to have to record the death of Mr. Conolly, Secretary to H.B.M.'s Legation at Peking. He had been ailing slightly for a day or two, but on the 27th felt much worse than before, and after finishing some documents said he would go home and return in the afternoon, but in two hours he was dead. The cause of death was typhus fever. Mr. Conolly is spoken of in terms of much respect and regard by all who had the pleasure of knowing him, and his loss will be especially felt by Mr. Wade in the present state of affairs.

We are informed that the fine ship Northampton, tea laden for London, was successfully got off the North Bank, where she had grounded near the Beacon while under charge of the pilot, yesterday, at about half-past six P.M. She has since been towed into Wusung by the tug Fokelin, where divers will examine her bottom, and surveyors will decide as to whether she ought to proceed to sea or be docked. About 3,000 packages of tea were discharged into lorchas, and these will be at once placed on board again. It is believed that the vessel has sustained no injury whatever.

THE TUNG-CHOW MISSIONARIES.

We are glad to know that the missionaries at Tung-chow, concerning whom so much anxiety has been felt, are all safely away. The two steamers sent for their relief brought away the ladies and children, and the gentlemen of the party, with the exception of two, who remained with the hope of committing the mission property to the care of the authorities. The threat was that they would be held as hostages, and cut to pieces gradually, according as foreign arms succeeded. Not a pleasant "situation" to contemplate!

A correspondent at Ningpo writes:—The Chinese are strengthening the fortifications at Chinhae and on Castle-hill, and are, it is said, going to replace the old used-up guns by new pieces of good artillery. The Taoutai's soldiers, they say, intend to guard the city gates, in place of Colonel Cooke's contingent. The common talk is of the intention to make a short job of the foreigners both in the city and in the settlement. We hear all these items of so interesting a nature to ourselves, and are determined to do our best to thwart their kind intentions, and turn the tables upon our opponents whenever they open the ball.

Capt. Crowell of the Venus, reports that on his last voyage to Hong Kong a French steamship of war on coming near the Venus suddenly put her helm down and laid herself across the bows of the latter vessel, while her ports were opened, her guns trained, the men at their quarters, and, in short, all was ready for action, Capt. Crowel quietly hoisted the American flag; the Frenchman asked no questions, saw his mistake, and steamed off. An English brig was overhauled in a similar way off Foochow.

We are informed that Mr. N. J. Hannen, barrister-at-law, Shanghia (son of Chief Justice Hannen), is to be appointed Judge of H.B.M. Court at Yokohama, provisionally, for one year.

* The Chief Judge of Chihli.

‡ The Che-Hsien of Tientsin.

§ The native interpretation of this is, that since the French Minister has returned to the capital displeased, the Che-Fu and the Che-Hsien need not be brought to Tientsin, i.e., they may be set at liberty.

|| The actual perpetrators of the crime.

I send herewith the minutes of the result of the Gibson Memorial Fund Subscription, which you will be pleased to see will give his mother and sister some £70 sterling a year between them.

Everything is quiet here, but I believe the war junks and the military have received orders to keep themselves up to the highest state of efficiency, but whether this is for offence or defence I am not prepared to state. A volunteer corps is forming here to be ready for emergencies.

A large fleet of North German ships is lying idle in the port owing to the war. The building of the lighthouse at Chapel Island is being pushed on with great vigour.

THE GIBSON MEMORIAL FUND.

The Committee of the above Fund beg to thank the foreign residents in China for the liberal manner in which they have responded to their call, and placed on record their appreciation of the services of the late Mr. Acting Consul Gibson. They have now the pleasure to lay before them the result of the subscription.

HONG KONG.

Dates are down to Sept. 15, but there is little local news that has not been anticipated by the French mail, given in our issue of the 24th. The outward French mail of Aug. 5 arrived Sept. 12 with telegrams to Aug. 26.

The situation in the North continued to excite much apprehension. The China Mail suggests that the Government should, in such an emergency, act independently of the British Minister, and send a corps of observation to the North. The cost of sending two or three companies of the 75th to Chefoo, with ammunition for a possible contingency, would not be grudged by the Colony, even if it had to pay the amount from its own treasury.

Our Hong Kong contemporary says it is painful that a fine British force should be lying inactive in Hong Kong, when its presence in the north might, and probably would, avert impending murder and outrages on women worse than murder, and asks:—Need the red tape of the Foreign-office absolutely bind the hands of our Government under such circumstances? May not the Legislative Council of Hong Kong wisely compensate for the patent defects of a British Foreign-office Minister, and at their own cost take some steps for the preservation of British life and property?

The official proclamation of neutrality was issued in an extraordinary Gazette on the 6th, but it was not apprehended that its provisions would require to be enforced in this port. A great portion of the journals is, of course, devoted to the European war, but it was thought that the crushing defeats of the French, already known by telegraph, would lead to an early peace.

The Legislative Council met on the 2nd, and, by adjournment, on the 9th. The chief objects of discussion were new regulations for night passes to Chinese, and the propriety of giving permission to contractors to erect matsheds over their works. In the former case some alterations in the regulations were made; in the latter, the existing law was maintained, as it was thought it afforded sufficient private remedy in cases of real danger. The ordinance for the reciprocal surrender, by the Governments of Hong Kong and Macao, of fugitives from justice was read a second time and passed the Attorney General observing that it had been delayed longer than it might have been, had it not been for the report of a Special Commission of the House of Commons, which had imposed some strict rules to be observed. This ordinance will take retrospective effect so as to reach cases of absconding debtors, cutting and wounding, receiving stolen property, &c.

A correspondent, writing from Hankow, says that the streets of Canton were crowded with students who have come from all parts of the province to compete at the approaching triennial examination for the degree of Keu-jen. They had as yet evinced no hostility to foreigners, but all felt that the receipt of unfavourable news from the North would work a sudden change in the fickle tempers of these aspirants to fame, who would no doubt look upon Shameen as an inviting spot whereon to give vent to their boisterous spirits. No attempt had been made here to form a Volunteer corps. It was rumoured among the Chinese that the Tartar General would be summoned to Peking to assist in solving the present difficulty; little is known of his disposition towards foreigners, but he is said to be a man of some weight at the capital.

The foreign school was once more started on the 1st, after lying dormant for some months. Mr. Sampson is the principal.

A correspondent, writing from Macao, says, "We have here a new Procurador, as Mr. Marques Pereira, of Hong Kong celebrity, could not succeed in being reinstated, in spite of addresses, &c., &c., made in his favour by the Hong Kong-Portuguese lads.

To Mr. Joao Rodrigues Gonsalves, the late chief interpreter, the Junta da Justiça denied compensation for losses and damages he had claimed for loss of situation and imprisonment. Really I do not know whether he is innocent or guilty of the charges brought against him by the Echo do Povo. If innocent, as Judge Lacerda says, why, then, does he deny him his due? If guilty, why may he be set free? The same may be said of Mr. Marques Pereira.

There is also here a new Superintendent of Emigration, a gentleman newly come from Lisbon, and who, of course, does not understand a word of Chinese or of our jargon de mae-falla. I think the place ought to be filled by a Macaese gentleman who is conversant with the Chinese language.

The kidnappers of the Annamese were all lately tried, and sentenced to several years' imprisonment with hard labour. The prisoners Aleixo Gomes and Jayme dos Santos have had each three years' hard labour; the Chinese crimps nine years each, and so on. If you and the late Echo do Povo had not raised your voice against the malpractices that were then so rife at Macao, I do not think punishment would ever have been inflicted upon the kidnappers of the poor Annamites.

Forty thousand dollars out of the proceeds of the gambling licenses (or reserve fund, as it is called in your place) are appropriated to pay for the charter of the transport Saida.

75,000 piculs.		Mean price ...	14.07

Let the result of the last sale held here be compared with that in Holland, and it will be perceived what an infinitely more favourable result for the treasury chest is obtained by a mean price of f.14.07 for No. 14 than can be expected from a sale in Holland.

The British ship Kate Winifred, which got on a reef to the east of Batavia, in the neighbourhood of the Tukang Bessi Islands, has been sold at Macassar to a Chinaman for f.10,420. This amount may be called large, as it is very difficult, if not impossible, to save anything from the wreck or cargo of the ship. The cargo consists of fully 19,000 piculs of unclayed sugar, some hundreds of piculs of hemp, and sapanwood. The ship herself is about 900 tons burthen.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

Dates are down to Sept. 12, but there is little news of interest. The remains of H. E. the late Minister for Foreign Affairs were removed to the summit of the Mene, in Wat Boop-pha-ram, and the cremation was consummated on the afternoon of the 7th inst. The late movements of the Siamese war steamers, &c., were in consequence of the expected arrival of a white elephant from Ligore, but as it turned out to be only a common animal, the Siamese were somewhat chagrined to find themselves the subject of a hoax, and so gave the brute a very cold reception.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to Sept. 23. On the 12th the P. and O. steamer Ellora arrived with the London mail of August 12, and on the 19th the M. I. steamer, with the French mail and London letters to the 19th idem. Telegraphic advices from London extended to Sept. 13.

The fortnight had been devoid of local interest, and there is little to summarise. There had been no meeting of the Legislative Council, but the committee appointed to examine into the working of the various departments of the Civil Service—consisting of the Lieutenant-Governor of Penang, the Colonial Secretary, and Messrs. Reid, Adamson and Brown—had been at work during the fortnight in Singapore, and their report was looked forward to with considerable curiosity.

The French transport Creuse, which arrived here on the 18th Sept., with invalids, brought to this port from Saigon twenty-five Germans, the crews of the North German vessels Georg and Turandot, captured by the gunboat Segond. They were handed over to the North German Consul here on arrival, and were provided for at once. The steamer Great Northern had arrived from London, via the Suez Canal, having on board a portion of the submarine cable to be laid between Hong Kong and Shanghai. The only other arrivals by this route had been the Delaware and the Alonso.

The last mail brought a copy of a letter addressed by the Secretary of the Straits Settlements Association in London to Lord Kimberley, Secretary of State for the Colonies, on the subject of the new steamer. The Association do not appear to have been well informed in regard to the matter; the letter is dated the 9th August, and refers to the suggestion of his Excellency the Governor for building a steamer out here at a supposed cost of $80,000; it urges the desirability of retaining the Perko, and ends by requesting his lordship to "forbid any further expenditure in the direction referred to." The Association were evidently unaware that a steamer was then being built on the Clyde, and nearly finished, for the use of the colony, and this under special instructions from the Colonial-office, which appears to have taken the matter into its own hands. The French mail brought the news of her launch, and it is gratifying to learn that, while of the dimensions wished for by his Excellency (400 tons), her cost is only £8,000, and that she is also likely to prove an economical vessel, her engines being only 100-horse power.

An official report from Banjoewangi states that, on the 5th August the Dutch ship Pasaruan, Captain T. W. A. Hollanders, brought in the seamen forming the crews of the French ship Massaliote, Captain Martino, and of the Hamburg schooner Honolulu, Captain H. Edebrand, both lost in Torres Straits. These shipwrecked people were properly cared for by the captain of the Pasaruan during their sixteen days stay on board that ship. After having been provided with everything needful at Banjoewangi, the English crew of the Hamburg ship left with the Pasaruan for Sourabaya, while the crew of the French ship was, at the request of the captain, brought over thither by a gunboat.

The roads are just now undergoing very extensive repairs, and, as is usual under the present system of road repair, are not in a very pleasant condition for the owners of carriages and horses.

The revenue officers are just now making some important seizures. Some two days ago about $400 worth of contraband chandoo was seized near Tanjong Pagar, and last night, off Tanjong Rhoo, a fishing boat was seized containing $700 worth, which was being imported into the settlement. Two Chinese who were in the boat were arrested.

Commercial Report.

—o—

[Our commercial advices from several ports have not come to hand by the present mail, and our market reports are consequently less ample than usual.]

IMPORTS.

Shanghai.—The dull tone we reported on the 24th inst. continued, the only improvement being in Grey Shirtings; large sales of 8¼ lb. had been made during the week, and prices had advanced from Tls. 2.1.3 to 2.2.3 to Tls. 2.1.7 to 2.2.7 per piece. 7 lb. had also commanded more attention and slightly improved in value. The market for other Cotton Goods and for Woollens showed but little or no alteration from the condition last reported.

Digitized by Google

BATAVIA.—There had been large arrivals of English Grey Shirtings, with sales at low prices. White Shirtings were also in but limited inquiry. In other Cotton Goods and in Woollens scarcely any transactions had been effected, and prices were wholly nominal.

HONG KONG.—The improvement noticed in our commercial report for the French mail was maintained, and had in some instances been strengthened, but the business done had been for the greater part of a speculative character.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

FOOCHOW.—The news from England appeared to have had a depressing effect on buyers, and the business for the week had been chiefly for the Colonies. Congou: Some of the teamen had been pressed for money and had accepted lower prices for cash, but there is only a slight decline to notice in common and the inferior grades. The market was dull, with a downward tendency. The following were the current quotations: Dust and siftings, 6d. to 7¾d. (cost in London); broken leaf to ordinary, 8¼d. to 10½d.; fair to good common, 10¾d. to 1s.; flavoury to good flavoury, 1s. 0¼d. to 1s. 3¾d. Souchong: Few purchases at a decline of fully a tael. Quotations: Common, 11¼d. to 1s. 1¼d. (cost in London); medium, 1s. 1¾d. to 1s. 3¾d. Oolong: The market for America had been opened by the settlement of 4,795 packages at Tls. 30½ to 31, proportion equivalent to about Tls. 25 for good cargo, or 42 cents gold in bond in New York. These prices were about 5 taels over last year's opening rates, taking into account the much greater proportion of common teas and the general inferiority of the crop.

SHANGHAI.—Black: The improved inquiry continued; very common Hohows had been taken at Tls. 14; very common Shongtams to fair Oonfas at Tls. 16½ to 20, while a good many common to fair Oopack kinds had found buyers at Tls. 17 to 20, and in some cases seem to show the best value. Notwithstanding the large settlements the stock was maintained at a high figure, and every steamer brought fresh supplies from the river ports. Settlements, 39,800 chests; reshipments, 5,600 chests; stock, 99,000 chests.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. Skegg's and Co.'s Circular, dated Sept. 8:—The French Mail steamer left on the 1st inst. without any silk. It is reported that a small purchase of Chooping's chops has been made for America at Tls. 570, equal to 29s. 6d. for the thirds, with Tls. 20 difference for the one's and two's. Kukee Chin Jan has also been bought at Tls. 490, equal to 25s. 6d., while Red Peacocks are held for Tls. 495, equal to 25s. 9d. There appears more disposition on the part of dealers to meet buyers, as some anxiety has been shown to sell market silks at a reduction of Tls. 50 per picul on our last quotations, viz.:—Tls. 450, equal to 23s. 5d., would be readily accepted for ordinary market 4 Tsatlee; a few Hangchow Tsatlees have been taken at Tls. 415 to 425, equal to 21s. 8d. to 22s. 2d., and some common Kahing Taysaams at Tls. 375 to 395, equal 19s. 8d. to 20s. 8d. Mybash reeel (supposed to be Hainan), Tls. 500 to 540, equal to 26s. to 28s., while Pang-E-Tah's best chops are held for Tls. 600 to 620, equal to 31s. 1d. to 32s. 1d. Some few Throwns also go forward, but the price has not transpired. Settlements for the fortnight have been mostly made in joint account, and amount to about 600 bales. We give no quotations, as we do not consider the market fairly opened.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of this Society, held on the 28th, the report on the new Government House was considered. The attempt made by Governor Ord to divest himself of the responsibility for the extra amount expended on the building and charged to other accounts, was severely condemned; and a resolution was passed to the effect that the Secretary of State be urged to institute a searching inquiry into the matter. Great satisfaction was expressed at the appointment of a committee to inquire into the Civil Establishments of the Colony; and the Association pledged themselves to further efforts to secure the freedom of the Bench from anything like interference from the Executive. The treasurer made a satisfactory statement of the financial affairs of the Association. It was stated that Mr. Jarvie, of Glasgow, had joined the Association.

LITERATURE.

The Tientsin Massacre; its Causes, and how to Secure Permanent Peace. By Dr. Thin, Vice President of the North China Branch of the Asiatic Society.

In this terse and timely little volume Dr. Thin proves beyond doubt that the outrage at Tientsin is only the last and greatest of a series of attacks on foreigners of every nationality, and that the mandarins are directly guilty of encouraging the lower natives to commit such crimes. The measures which the author considers necessary for foreign Powers, and especially for England, to secure permanent peace in China, are briefly and sensibly explained. The mandarin of each district should be made responsible for the safety of all foreigners, and that responsibility must be, not to the Emperor at Peking, but to the nearest foreign consul. The European communities in China should be protected by gunboats, built and equipped in China, manned by Chinamen, and maintained at the expense of the Chinese. These gunboats would be a great gain to the Chinese themselves, if they only put down piracy, which has been done near Hong Kong, and on a small scale, by English gunboats. The saving to native commerce by the suppression of the swarms of pirates that infest the islands on the coast would repay the cost of a fleet of Chinese gunboats ten times over. Besides this, the punishment of the mandarins responsible for the Tientsin Massacre must be insisted on. The demand for this has been too long put off, and too feebly made; and, when at length they are brought to justice, a proclamation setting forth the rank of the culprits, the nature of their crimes, particulars of their sentences, and the reasons why their punishment was not immediately inflicted, should be made public in every large city in the Empire. We cordially commend Dr. Thin's volume to the perusal of all persons having interest or influence with the Government, and the political education of the classes on whose representatives in the Legislature the fate of European trade and civilisation in the Far East is now so completely dependent.

The Phœnix; A Monthly Magazine for China, Japan, and Eastern Asia. No. 3. Office: 3, George-yard, Lombard-street, London.

This is a very interesting number. That the editor, the Rev. James Summers, Professor of Chinese in King's College, is carrying on his work in a thoroughly practical spirit is evident, not only from the general contents of the magazine, but from his own contributions to it. In the present number his "Note on the Manchu Language" is, so far as it goes, thoroughly exhaustive, and equally valuable to the student and the colonist who may contemplate a sojourn in China. "The Pearl-Embroidered Garment," a translation from the Chinese by Mr. Carroll, H.M.'s Vice-Consul at Foochow, is interesting from the light it casts on parts of the domestic economy of the Chinese, at present too little understood. Mr. Hyde Clarke, Foreign Secretary of the Ethnological Society, contributes a capital paper on the Eastern relations of the Scythians, and the remainder of the number is made up with interesting articles, of which one of the most noteworthy is a review of General Alexander's Teaou-shin, a dramatic adaptation of an old Chinese historical romance, quite a literary curiosity in its way. There is also a very sensible article on the Tientsin Massacre, which advocates the immediate occupation of the Taku forts. The first step should be to withdraw from Peking all diplomatic and consular agents to Tientsin—occupy the Taku forts at the mouth of the Peiho—seize the arsenals at Foochow and elsewhere—make demonstrations before Canton and Nanking, and put an embargo on all rice and salt junks destined for the capital. The Phœnix also suggests that the Chinese should be compelled to support a foreign contingent at each port for the protection of Europeans; the pay to come from the Maritime Customs Revenue. This plan would not necessarily lead to war; in fact, it seems the best way to prevent it. We have followed too long the suaviter in modo policy with the Chinese Government; the fortiter in re is the necessity of the hour, and will be found to be the most humane in the end.

Digitized by Google

Since the commencement of the war between France and Germany numerous maps have been issued illustrative of the different scenes of operations. Those which were first published comprised the whole of France and Germany, it being at that time a matter of speculation where the actual fighting would commence. Subsequently, and after the disastrous defeat of the French at Sedan, Paris and its immediate environs became the situation upon which interest was directed, and maps of that district, with views of the city itself, have continued to be offered in endless variety. But now that the annexation of Alsace and Lorraine seems to be contemplated as a condition of peace, people have become anxious to know the exact extent and situation of those territories. This requirement has been met by Mr. Wyld, who has issued a map in which are indicated, by different shades of colouring, the various lines of boundary and frontier, thus showing at a single glance what is really required by Germany as a reward for the success of her arms.

RAILWAYS FOR CHINA.

The following, on the eligibility of the country for railways, is from Mr. Williamson's book,* noticed in our last:—

The country is admirably adapted for railways. The greater part is a plain, and when mountains branch inwards, there are generally valleys, often very wide and fertile, through which lines could be carried. The great highways I have just been describing form the best guides, both physically and economically, in reference to the most feasible lines. They form the most direct routes to the great emporiums of trade, with the fewest possible natural obstructions. Their course lies also through the most populous districts; either it was so originally, or they have attracted people by the facility of communication. Lines of railways, therefore, could be laid parallel to them all. But such a network of railways is out of the question at present; I can only venture to suggest two great trunk lines, one running from Peking south to Canton, with a branch to Shanghai; and another running east and west from some harbour on the north bank of the Yang-taze-kiang, available for ships of large tonnage, say somewhere opposite Chinkiang; and from this carried through Kiang-su, western Shantung, Chihli, Shan-si, and on to Shen-si, with a view, ultimately, of being carried through Central Asia to Europe—an undertaking not much more formidable than the great Pacific line in America now completed.

It would be well to begin with the first for many reasons, but more especially because in this case advantage could be taken of the banks of the Grand Canal for a portion of the way, and as this lies almost directly through a country perfectly level, and as the Canal banks are Government property, there would be no bargaining with private individuals, no graveyards to desecrate, and, in short, the least violent change possible. I have no fear of the junk-men, who still remain on the Canal, rising against such an undertaking. Comparatively few now, they would soon find employment in the construction of the works needed for this enterprise, and they are not strangers to the kind of labour which would be required. In reference to them, and the muleteers and carriers of all descriptions, I am confident that the lateral traffic which would immediately spring up in connection with such lines would soon engage all their resources, and create a business which would astonish them. And I base my belief upon personal observation of the spirit of the people, confirmed by what has transpired in reference to steam-vessels. These have been rapidly taken advantage of, not only by the mercantile classes, but even by the literati, who are so difficult to move. Witness the numbers of scholars brought from the south to Tientsin for the examinations in Peking; also the numbers of mandarins who now use the steamers. At the two last great examinations at Peking the literati of Foochow actually chartered a steamer to take them there and back—showing that when their convenience requires it they can pocket their prejudice. Moreover, the fame of steamships has spread all over the country; everybody speaks of their safety and rapidity, so that railways would soon also command their approbation. I see, therefore, no great difficulty in the introduction of railways into China. The grave-yard difficulty has been exaggerated; it is formidable only near large towns, and could easily be avoided; or, where unavoidable, a little extra money or an Imperial tablet would soon allay the clamour. . . . . The apologists of stagnation say that the Chinese are not prepared for such changes, and predict all manner of evil consequences. I have seen as much of the country as any of these alarmists, and maintain that the people are not only prepared for railways, but that they would no more disorganise Chinese society than they did that of England, or France, or Belgium; for it is marvellous how soon men get accustomed to changes which are for their benefit. In the first instance, immense numbers would find employment and good wages on the construction of the works. The traffic would gradually, as the rails were laid down, assimilate itself to the habits of the people; mines and new sources of industry would be brought into operation; the agricultural resources would be greatly developed, and commerce in all its branches would receive a powerful impulse. The increased lateral traffic would absorb the present carrying trade. Railways would bring the whole Empire under the control of the central Government, put an end to rebellions, would place commerce on a secure basis, equalise the administration of justice, modify those famines which so often threaten, and frequently paralyse, large portions of the Empire; moreover, they would provide means for the diffusion of knowledge; they would introduce a new element of life and activity among the people, stir up dormant energies, widen the sphere of observation, develop new views, evolve new wants, create new business, and destroy obstructive prejudices; they would increase the intercourse and harmony between Europeans and Chinese, bringing buyers and sellers face to face; they would place the transit duties, that source of so much mischief, on a satisfactory footing; and, in short, would, in a thousand ways, promote the advancement and happiness of the people.

THE COAL MINES OF CHINA.

The following is from the same book:—"An interdicted coal mine has been found within two miles of the city of Tung-chow-Foo, and close on the sea shore. The existence of the mine—first reported by the natives, and afterwards denied by them—has been set at rest by the discovery of a tablet half buried in the ground where the pit was, forbidding the farther working of the mine. The writer has a copy of the inscription in his possession. It is dated the eleventh year of the Emperor Kia-king, 6th moon, 11th day, which makes it A.D. 1806. It was issued by the Chi-hien mandarin, and declares that, as the pit disturbs the Fung-shui of the villages, burial-grounds, and neighbourhood, it is henceforth closed, &c. Afterwards an application was made to reopen it, but the literati took the matter in hand, and insisted on its continuing shut, and succeeded in their efforts. Seeing that this city is an open treaty port, that it is far removed from the capital, that the pit is in a comparatively quiet place, lying not far from magnetic iron ore, galena, and silver ore, and that it is within thirty-five miles, by sea, of Chefoo, no doubt attempts will be made to work it. Should it prove as productive of coal as is anticipated, it will be a great matter to all natives and foreigners, and a boon to the coasting steamers and the men-of-war which coal at the above port. Iron ore and iron stone of many descriptions have been found in several places far removed from one another, and in such positions as to indicate their wide distribution. Very fine iron ore, viz., the black oxide of iron, has been procured at a hill called Pau-shan, about fifty li south of Tung-chow-Foo. It lies near the surface, and there appears to be plenty of it."

OUR POSITION IN CHINA.

(THE ECONOMIST.)

We are inclined, upon the whole, to believe that the position of British subjects and British interests in China deserves the most serious attention of Her Majesty's Government. It is, no doubt, quite possible to overrate the political importance of an Oriental massacre, which is as often due to fear as to any other cause, the insurgents seeing no alternative between respect and murder. Asiatics in all countries are apt to kill where Europeans would only hoot. It is also quite possible to exaggerate the evidences of official complicity. Asiatic rulers being much more under the influence of opinion than we are apt to suppose. They cannot afford to despise their soldiers, and their soldiers, unless mere mercenaries, share all the prejudices of the classes from which they are drawn. The tortures, too—and more especially the indecent tortures,—which usually accompany massacres in the East disturb the Western imagination, which regards the wilful infliction of pain with a loathing a Chinaman is incompetent even to understand. Nevertheless, in this instance we think the evidence tends to show that the Anglo-Chinese are in the right, and that the European community in China stands in great danger of extirpation. The Chinese think that the French are the soldier people of Europe, they know that French power is broken, and they imagine that the hour is arrived when foreign interference may safely be brought to a close. It is quite impossible that this country should tolerate or even disregard a menace of that kind. Not only would its realisation lead to an immediate and most annoying war, but its existence involves a danger which is too often overlooked. Capitalists do not like to live under personal terror. The existence of an infinitesimal extent of personal danger has for years past arrested the flow of English capital to Ireland, and the development of the trade with the interior of China is completely stopped by the risks which would attend its serious prosecution. It is quite within the range of possibilities that the Chinese might render residence in Shanghai and other ports so insecure, or dangerous, or unpleasant, that the place would cease to attract capital, and a trade of immense value, one which has scarcely begun, but which already amounts to £20,000,000 a year, would be brought to a close. No country so dependent as our own on Asiatic commerce could patiently endure such a loss; and we cannot but think that Government would do well to avoid it by precautions such as they have not yet employed.

THE corvette Juno, with the detachment of Marines for China and Japan, is now at Plymouth, from whence she will sail in a few days. Full details will appear in our next issue.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homœopathic preparation of Cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." OPINIONS ON THE POSITION IN CHINA.

The numerous articles and letters that have appeared in the London press on this subject during the last few days are a gratifying fact, not only because they prove the greatly extended interest now felt in the affairs of China, but because, for the most part, they are written in a liberal and earnest spirit. Of course, in such a mass of correspondence it would be idle to expect to find no exceptions to the general tone of the Press; but such productions usually condemn themselves by their own sophistry, and require no serious argument to refute them. As notable specimens of this kind of writing we need do no more than refer our readers to the letters of "F." to The Times and "Mencius" to the Pall Mall Gazette. The former is merely a farrago of exploded diatribes against missionary enterprise, and the latter is a vulgar and lengthy piece of special pleading, apparently designed to prove, first, that Englishwomen who speak French and enter religious societies forfeit all claim to the protection of their mother country, under circumstances of peculiar self-denial and devotion; and secondly, that British subjects in China have no claim to the protection of the Government, and would not be worth the cost of it if they had, seeing that their existence in China is of no use to anybody but themselves, and only to themselves on account of the vast fortunes they amass. "Mencius" wilfully ignores the fact that the English merchant in the Far East is not only the medium through which the wages paid in Lancashire and Yorkshire for the cottons and woollens they export are brought to the fire-side of the British workman, but also that the table of the same artisan (like the table of "Mencius" himself) is supplied with cheap luxuries otherwise unattainable, through the industry and enterprise of his bête noire—the sordid merchant. Happily the "Mencius" variety of political economist is nearly as extinct as anti-missionary reasoners of the "F." school. Our readers have only to glance at them to see to what miserable shifts the partisans of the Government are driven in the attempt to extenuate the delays of the Foreign Office.

JAPAN.

The proclamation of neutrality by the Japanese Government, reported in another column, is a gratifying fact in a double sense. It not only shows the keen observation with which they watch and emulate the proceedings of the Western Powers, but, by the steps taken, in despatching ships of war for the purpose of enforcing the proclamation on either of the belligerents who might be inclined to disregard it, it displays a firmness and resolution which must command the respect of both countries. As a first fruit of this wise precaution we may now, no doubt, regard the absence of news of any engagement following the ill-advised challenge between a French and German ship of war stationed in Japan, which was reported a few weeks ago.

We believe that the powers entrusted to Mr. Lay have been cancelled, and that the Oriental Bank Corporation now solely represent the Japanese Government. A notice will shortly be issued in reference to the £1,000,000 loan lately negotiated by Mr. Lay.

THE OPENING UP OF CHINA.

Mr. Williamson's book contains abundant evidence of the vast internal mineral and other resources of China which lie undeveloped, owing to the blindness of the ruling classes, who believe in the powers of Fung-shui and such like trash, unworthy of people with any pretensions to education. That this state of things will ultimately fall before men of rising genius there can be no doubt; but how much longer are we to be scraping at the outer crust only of China, and submit to be cooped up at Treaty Ports with expensive Consulates? Why should our merchants, and men of science, and our missionaries be prohibited from pushing their way to any part of China which is promising? All that is necessary is that they should work their own way on their own responsibility. Last year, when the negotiations were in full play for the revision of the Treaty, we advocated that we should insist on the opening up of all China. This is what we still advocate as the safest and easiest means to reach a satisfactory state of relations with China, instead of the present restricted intercourse which brings its wars round almost every decade. Mr. Williamson has gone through the length and breadth of the land, where no foreigner was ever before seen, and what does he tell us? Why, that the masses of the people are friendly, and that the hatred and opposition proceed entirely from the governing classes—high and low grades—who perceive that the contact of the foreigner is opening the eyes of the people and inducing a resistance to their wretched grinding and squeezing. It is this, and nothing but this, that keeps us back from extending our commerce all over the Empire. These ten journeys of Mr. Williamson, most of them of great extent, have done more to enlighten us on the real character of the people and its condition than all the expensive expeditions undertaken by our Government. They prove that Englishmen can go into the interior on their own responsibility with safety, were it not for obstruction by the officials. Our Government objects to merchants exploring the interior for emporiums of trade, as they consider that they must be avenged in case of injury; but this nursing is not required. Our merchants are ready to go on their own responsibility, and take all risks. Let this be done, and we opine that Fung-shui and all such superstition will speedily vanish. Mines will be worked, canals, rivers, and roads repaired, railways and inland steamers introduced, in ten years the Central Government would have such a hold on the provinces that rebellion would be impossible, bribery and corruption, which now undermine every department, would vanish, and China and its Government be once more a happy country. In another column we print an extract from Mr. Williamson's book on the eligibility of the country for railways. Is there no well-wisher of the Chinese at Peking who can rouse the men in authority to their true interests? Instead of the millions spent on arsenals to resist the foreigner, which have no bearing on the well-being of the people, how much better would these millions have been invested in railways developing the mining districts and general resources of the country!

UNANIMITY AMONG THE FOREIGN RESIDENTS AT SHANGHAI.

According to latest accounts from Shanghai the attitude of the foreign residents continued to be satisfactory. The unanimous feeling of sympathy for their French confreres, expressed by every member of that cosmopolitan community after the Tientsin Massacre, has not been disturbed by any word or deed committed by subjects of the belligerent Powers. When the news arrived in China of the war between France and Germany fears were entertained that the representatives of these nations would at once assume a hostile attitude towards each other, and thereby weaken the efforts to obtain reparation from the Chinese Government. We are glad to find that this bond of union has not been broken, and trust that, whatever betide, it will remain firm to the end. Perhaps no one has done more service in cementing the friendly intercourse of the foreign residents at Shanghai under the calamitous circumstances than Sir Edmund Hornby, H.B.M.'s Chief Judge for China and Japan. On his leaving China for Europe, by way of America, he was presented with a flattering testimonial, to which he made an appropriate reply. In it occurs the following passage:—"The painful and astounding intelli"gence we have just received of political disturbance in "Europe will, I am sure, make no difference in the friendli-

"ness of your relations with each other. Though you may "be the subjects of rival and hostile Governments, your mu- "tual relations are of a far more intimate and holy charac- "ter. You are members of one family, residing in a strange "land, exposed to common dangers, and having common inte- "rests; whether your rulers see fit to differ or agree, that can- "not and ought not to affect you. War is a curse; but let it "not, I beseech you, interrupt feelings that spring from mu- "tual respect, kindly intercourse, and private social rela- "tions." These noble sentiments of the learned Judge had great weight with the community, and were quoted by Count MEJAN, the French Consul-General at Shanghai, at the official dinner given on the 15th August, when he declared that the sentiments of himself and his fellow-countrymen were in accordance with those views. From this we may safely conclude that the French residents will be restrained by authority from disturbing the friendly relations that subsist. But will the German residents be restrained from making demonstrations on receipt of the great victories of their arms in France? We fear not. Hence there is the possibility of some collision between residents of the belligerent nationalities. On this point the Consul for the North German Confederation has not ventured upon any public expression of opinion; neither have the German residents recorded publicly their pacific sentiments. Some action of this kind would be reassuring to all who have the interests of Shanghai at heart. And should it be, when this terrible war is at an end, that the foreign community continue in friendly intercourse with each other, it will expunge from the record of Shanghai the vile aspersions which have been cast on its society.

GAMBLING AT THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

MANY people in England are looking anxiously to learn what the Governor of Singapore will have to say on the subject of gambling. It would seem that from time to time this vice breaks out in the East, and has to be repressed by vigorous measures. We gather from the latest newspapers that such an outbreak now threatens, and that the subject has been again brought prominently before the notice of the public in Singapore. It appears to us desirable to remind our readers how gambling is regarded in England. Many of our countrymen, when they leave home, seem to forget the opinions entertained—the sentimental opinions it may be—of the nation they have left. Let us remind such persons of what they may have forgotten. England hates gambling with all her heart. She will not tolerate it wherever she can put an end to it. People may think her hypocritical or pharisaical, or no better than her neighbours, but on certain subjects she has made up her mind, and cannot be changed. Gambling is one of these subjects. We have put down gambling-houses here; we apprehend race gamblers; we have protested against the vice until we have created a public opinion in Europe on our side, and the "hells" have had to disappear even from Continental States. Now, while England has put down "hells" in Europe, it would be a great mistake to imagine that she is going to tolerate them in British colonies. We are not unmindful of the difference in circumstances here and in the East. There are certain vices which we in this country can readily understand break out with renewed virulence in hot countries. Such vices it may be impossible to suppress, and we may therefore be under the necessity of regulating them. But gambling is not one of these. Let our colonial readers distinctly understand this fact, that, if the question were ever put to the English nation or to Parliament—Are you prepared to tolerate the existence of gambling in Singapore or elsewhere? there would be but one answer—Gambling must be put an end to. Our contemporary the Straits Times says:—"We are by "no means advocates of harsh measures; we would much "rather see the vice farmed out. Either legalise it or "suppress it." We say distinctly, suppress it. Our readers may rely upon this, that English public opinion will be against any attempt whatever to legalise the traffic. The argument which was so foolishly used in the case of the gambling farms at Hong Kong, that a considerable revenue was derived from the legalisation of the vice, will not avail for a moment in this country—will rather tell against than for the cause for which it is used. VESPASIAN said non olet of a tax derived from an equally obnoxious source, but in the nostrils of the British public such a tax does smell.

We may now deal with a more technical matter. In the columns of the contemporary already alluded to it is stated that the law is at present incompetent to deal with the subject. The writer admits that former magistrates have contrived to work the law, but he suggests that this has been done by construing it "very liberally"—that is, in plain English, by exceeding it, or adding to its provisions. We have taken some pains to look into the subject, and have fortified ourselves by opinions in which we can place confidence, and we can assure our contemporary that he is in the wrong. We believe the law as it at present exists is now, as it has been found to be in times past, amply sufficient to meet the evil. What is wanted is not better law, but better administration of it. The common law of England, and the laws of all civilised countries, now set their faces against gambling on the ground of public policy. Any statute which is passed in England on the subject is not in substitution for, but in confirmation of, the common law. And the same principle applies to the laws at the Straits or at any other of our colonies. Gambling is of itself against public policy, and any particular statute which is passed must always be read by this light. In other words, it must be construed so as to give jurisdiction. Our contemporary, however, seems to think that the Act in force applies only to "regular gambling-houses." Probably his conclusions are derived from reading the 56th section of the local Police Act. We readily admit that if this were the only section which bore on the subject there would be much to be said for our contemporary's rendering of the law. But another Act puts the whole question on a much broader basis. The Act No. LXVIII. of 1860 in section 15 gives the widest possible meaning to the words "common gaming-houses." It meets the difficulty in the boldest possible way. When evidence has been given against his house either that cards, dice, gaming-table, or cloth, board, or other instrument of gambling has been found in it, this stringent law throws the burden of proof upon the householder that his house is not a gaming-house. In other words, it gives the widest possible meaning to the word gaming-house. If such a law is not strong enough to put down gaming-houses it is difficult to see how it could be strengthened. Any house in which gambling has been carried on is a gaming-house under this Act until the owner can prove the contrary. Put into plain English, this means, of course, that if evidence can be brought to show that gambling has gone on in a house the law will throw every obstacle in the way of the person who wishes to prove that his house is not commonly so used. We have no wish, however, to go further into the technicalities of the question. Our object is to remind Englishmen abroad how strong is the feeling in England against this vice, and to warn them that their safest course—the only course which England will approve—is to root the evil out entirely.

WE have received a copy of the "Reprint of Letters on the Tientsin Massacre" from the North China Daily News, just issued in pamphlet form from the North China Herald office, Shanghai. We have already noticed these letters as they appeared, and therefore it only remains for us now to acknowledge the good service rendered by the editors of our China contemporary in reproducing them in their present compact form. Connected, as they are, by a few brief sentences of explanation, and supplemented by translations of the despatches and proclamations issued by the Chinese authorities since the massacre, they form a complete text-book for the course of action imposed upon our Government by that outrage.

NOTWITHSTANDING the critical state of all the ports in China, reported by each telegram, and the urgent request on the part of the English community at Shanghai for troops from India, we regret to say that none have been sent forward either from England or India. The troops from Madras are simply the ordinary reliefs for the Hong Kong garrison.

THE PRESS AND CORRESPONDENTS ON THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

The Times of the 25th says the last news is not of a character to remove anxiety. A private telegram, indeed, announced that punishment had in some degree been inflicted; and it is surprising that, in a matter which may issue in such important consequences, the Government should be outstripped in information by private firms—the present being not the first time in which official intelligence has been thus behindhand. It is satisfactory to hear that any measure of vengeance for the recent Massacre has been inflicted. But there is reason to fear the example thus made will have fallen short of the just demands of the French Minister. Count de Rochechouart had demanded, above all, the execution of the three mandarins who, as magistrates in the city of Tientsin, were fully believed to have been directly concerned in the outrage. One must have escaped punishment altogether, and, from the other two having been simply transported, it would seem but too probable that the European authorities will deem that due satisfaction has not been afforded. Any number of miserable Chinese can always be produced for execution, and if the great men escape with a punishment which might secretly be rendered nominal, very little can have been done towards stigmatising the recent crime in the eyes of the natives.

These apprehensions are confirmed by the telegram announcing that a Chinese army has been sent to Tientsin, and the Taku Forts have been armed and provisioned. It is difficult to understand why the Chinese should be thus preparing for active military operations, unless they were still conscious of the dissatisfaction of foreign Powers, and expected to provoke an attack. We learn, at the same time, that another chapel has been burnt down, and, though its restoration is promised, the incident would seem to show that the spirit of fanaticism is still abroad in the Empire. The assassination at Nanking of the Viceroy Ma, a known protector of the foreigners, is another most ominous symptom. Amid this uncertainty the mail brings the translation of a memorandum relative to the massacre by Tseng-kwo-Fan, who is Viceroy of the province in which the outrage was committed, and who is said to be the most powerful mandarin in China. It must be admitted that, as a literary production, this memorandum is unexceptionable, and might with advantage be imitated nearer home.

If we could consider it apart from the occasion on which it was written, we might regard it with unqualified satisfaction. Tseng-kwo-Fan acknowledges that it is the aim of the Catholic religion to teach men to be virtuous; he recounts that the Emperor Kang-hi long ago gave permission to establish it in his dominions; and he condescends to compare the Hospitals of the Sisters of Mercy to the Chinese Foundling Hospitals. "Charity and Mercy," he says, "are the desire of the Sisters; if, therefore, they are accused of abominable deeds, foreigners will be justly prompted to resentment and wrath." Tseng-kwo-Fan's conclusion is that the Emperor should promulgate an Edict in all the provinces of the Empire, "openly declaring that the misdeeds laid to the charge of the missionaries are nothing but calumnies, so that the wrong done to foreigners by these slanders may be expiated."

We do not underrate the importance of having such sentiments officially placed on record by a powerful mandarin. But the very excellence of such statements furnishes the greatest condemnation of their author. Why has Tseng-kwo-Fan waited until after the Tientsin Massacre to disperse these slanders and to invoke the authority of the Emperor Kang-hi in support of the Catholic religion? Had the Emperor some time ago published such an edict as he is now invited to issue, the popular fury would, in all probability, have been restrained. However unexceptionable in itself, this memorandum is in the highest degree unsatisfactory, considered as an inquiry into the Tientsin Massacre. That atrocity was crying for vengeance at the time this cool memorandum was written and published. The very first duty of the Viceroy was to discover the guilty persons and to punish them. But this duty is entirely put aside, and the massacre is referred to in the mildest possible terms. It is a "sad occurrence," a "disturbance," a "great disaster," but nowhere is it styled a heinous crime. This is a mode of dealing with the occasion which it is impossible to endure. It is exactly in accordance with the usual craft of the Chinese. The Viceroy can afford to be polite in official documents so long as he can unofficially wink at the murder of foreigners by Chinese bravoes. The one thing upon which we must insist is the condign punishment of the authorities who were responsible for the recent massacre. If this has not yet been granted, no further time should be lost in enforcing it.

"M. N.," writing to The Times, says there can be little doubt that the two mandarins who are said to have been transported were the prefect and district magistrate of Tientsin, whose duty it was to have prevented the organised rising of the 21st of June. The official status of these mandarins is comparatively low, the higher of the two ranking only with a vice-consul or interpreter in the British Consular Service; but there was another mandarin, whose guilt was more flagrant still than theirs, and who is said to have actually led the rioters that sacked the French Consulate and murdered its inmates. This was Chen-kwo-Jui, one of Tseng-kwo-Fan's military subordinates, who distinguished himself against the Nienfei in 1868, and holds the rank of General in the Chinese army. He is, therefore, a man of note, and his decapitation on the scene of his crime would have a deterrent effect of the most salutary kind, but while the lesser criminals are punished—however inadequately—the greater one escapes for the present scot free. Count Rochechouart's demand for the execution of this man has, it seems, been flatly refused by the Governor-General of the Province of Chili, the highest local authority to whom it could be referred. It only remains, therefore, for the representatives of France and England to appeal from Tseng-kwo-Fan to the Imperial Government, and if, as is most likely, this appeal be made in vain, it then becomes our duty to coerce that Government into a compliance with the demands of justice. This might be done by re-occupying the Taku Forts for a period, say, of five years, and by obliging the city of Tientsin to pay the expenses of the occupation. We might, further, insist on placing our Legations in telegraphic communication with Taku, and I would suggest that Russia, also, should demand the right of extending her telegraph from Kiachta to Peking.

Presuming that Chen-kwo-Jui's guilt is clearly proved, and that the Imperial Government refuse to execute him, and publish by a proclamation at Tientsin, and by an edict in the Peking Gazette, the particulars of his crime and punishment, it should then be told that the Forts will be occupied for some fixed period, as I have above stated, and held at the expense of the city which has disgraced itself by the massacre of unoffending women, and it should also be told that if any armed opposition be offered to our troops the grain fleet which proceeds to Tientsin every year with the tribute rice will be arrested, or that possession will be taken of the Shanghai arsenal or of the foreign-built Chinese fleet. Knowing our power to execute these threats, the Government would not dare to oppose the re-occupation of the Taku Forts, and their retention by an Anglo-French force would tend greatly to restore commercial confidence at Tientsin, the largest market in China for our cotton goods, and would also aid, possibly, in bringing about a peaceful solution of the Audience Question—a question that may soon be raised, and on the right decision of which will chiefly depend the future security of our relations with the Manchu Tartar Dynasty.

"Tientsin" writes to The Times concerning the passage in Tseng-kwo-Fan's Memorandum in which he alleges that Wong San made a confession that kidnapping was practised by Chinese Christians. "Tientsin" explains that Wong San was door-porter to the Tien-cha-Tang, or cathedral. After the massacre he was imprisoned in one of the Yamens of the city, and there underwent the most horrible tortures; his hands and feet were in a frightful state, and but little life was apparently left in him when he was released on the demand of the Consul. Whatever this man stated under torture he has contradicted on his release. Tseng-kwo-Fan does not state that his confession was made under torture; he leaves it to be imagined that the statements were made under simple examination, so that they are unreliable being contradictory.

"Mencius" writes to the Pall Mall Gazette that, whatever doubt may prevail on this subject among miscellaneous observers, there is one class, at least, who entertain none whatever—the English traders with China and residents there. According to them, full revenge for the past, full security for the future—these are to be exacted vigorously without the tedious preliminary process of waiting to know what measures the Chinese have taken, or what they have to say in defence of them. The opportunity must be taken at once, not only to punish the offenders against France, but to place English trade and concern in China on a satisfactory and permanent footing—for the sixth or seventh time in our recollection. "And everybody knows, and no one exactly likes to say," continues this writer, "that, whatever the result a Chinese war might have, it would most assuredly, in its first stages, fill the pockets and exalt the position of all the members of our colony there who have wit enough to turn a good occasion to a good account." In the Tientsin Massacre three of the slain were Russians—engaged in their lawful business, and under Russian, not French, protection. They were killed by mistake. One unfortunate lady was, by birth, British; but in everything but birth she was French. Under these circumstances, Russia, we are told, instituted her inquiries into the case. She was satisfied that the slaughter of her subjects by the mob was unintentional. No injury, no insult, were intended to Russia. And it was not the business of Russia to avenge insults intended for another Power, because by accident, however sinister, they happened to involve innocent subjects of her own. Russia is therefore reported to have resolved on taking no action in the matter as regards the alleged individual injury to herself. What she may do in combination with others is another matter. And "Mencius" thinks that few reasonable men will imagine, if the facts be thus, that Russia is disgraced by her moderation. The apparent Russian grievance in the matter is far greater than ours. Her subjects were slain in the streets, in no connection with the obnoxious French, and under the protection of their Sovereign. Our poor fellow-subject had practically renounced her British connection and protection, wore French religious garments, was joined to a French religious society, and was murdered, so to speak, as a Frenchwoman. But while no one taunts Russia for being thus quiescent, a portion of our opposition press, reinforced by a strong Anglo-Chinese contingent, is profuse in its vituperation of the British Government for not having treated this miserable but obvious accident at once as a cause of hostilities, to be averted by no apology or satisfaction, but to be carried on to the point at least when every Anglo-Chinese shall himself admit that he is in complete security, and enjoying the full fruits of his commercial enterprise.

Of course this means that we are to conquer China for the benefit of the Anglo-Chinese, and would be so understood. But, omitting altogether the view which the Chinese themselves would take of the matter, let us consider for a moment—what "Hong Kong," wisely for his purpose, omits—the curious complication in which these proceedings would involve us with other European Powers. As has been often pointed out, no State has any commercial connection with China, except Great Britain, and, to a very minor extent, America. But France, which has no such interest in China at all, is just as much a treaty Power as they are; and Russia and North Germany have taken good care to place themselves in China on the "most favoured nation" footing. We cannot obtain from China a single advantage which we must not share with all these. We cannot take a single step against China, unless on a purely English occasion, without consultation or co-operation with them. "The aid and countenance of America, North Germany, and Russia should be obtained, as it easily can," says "Hong Kong," with much simplicity, in a letter to The Times. I think it very probable that it might; but on one condition: that we—the parties really concerned—should do all the paying and most of the fighting, and that all the other Powers should obtain an exactly equal share in the results with ourselves. That King William or Czar Nicholas would take any other view of the subject than this I am far too little sanguine to believe. They would use the Chinese treaty railways and treaty telegraphs just as we should use them, and their representatives would vex the Chinese with demands arising out of the construction and maintenance of these railways just as we should vex them. They would each hold one key of the customs treasury by way of fraternal co-operation with ourselves. It would become with them, not a matter of interest as we Britishers are said to measure national interest, namely, by money, but a matter of national pride, that not one advantage should be obtained in which they did not share—not one negotiation or public examination entered into in which they should not participate.

In order to complete a scheme which implies in truth the absolute subjugation of China, it would be far better that this subjugation should be announced at once, and China and its Emperor placed under a joint European and American protectorate; and then, what next? But, however sweeping may be the views entertained by writers such as "Hong Kong," there are enthusiasts of the Anglo-Chinese persuasion whose zeal is of a still more burning order. No Englishman's property has been injured. Not a hair of an Englishman's head has been touched. But because we are afraid that outrages against Englishmen's persons and property may be perpetrated—and no one can deny that the apprehension is a real one in the case of a nation subject to such ungovernable and anomalous impulses as the Chinese, therefore, "One about to return to China" writes to The Times, pleading for war at once: war without special purpose, without conditions, without limits. This writer, at least, suggests only one; war until the Anglo-Chinese—he distinctly announces that they alone are competent judges in the matter—say they have had enough. War with China, which simply means massacre; the slaughter, by all the latest European methods of extermination, of myriads of wretches who have no means of resistance except what despair may at last lend them—war with its regular Chinese accompaniments: cities of ancient wealth barbarously destroyed, helpless families of women and children piled as corpses within their own doors, sacrificed either to the fire of their enemy or the dark passions, half-murderous and half-suicidal, which arise in the minds of the miserable defenders. We have satisfied to our own full satisfaction our national prudery in these matters by condemning the recklessness of the French, from Emperor to journalist, in making light of the horrors which war was to bring on their enemies the Germans. What European warfare has ever surpassed the horrors which we have unwillingly perpetrated on these savage but defenceless enemies; and which our Anglo-Chinese advisers invite us to renew—not for national glory, not for freedom, not for independence, but in order that capitalists who have chosen to buy land and establish houses of business in China may be secured—which, after all, they never can be—to their own hearts' content against a possible violation of treaty. "Mencius" concludes by expressing his anxiety not to be misunderstood. He says:—"Our foreign export trade is most essential to our greatness; almost necessary to our existence. Those who engage in it, though in pursuit of their own advantage only, are benefactors of their country in an indirect but most important sense; and defended in case of need they must be. But if we owe them much, the creditor side of the account is rather an alarming one also. The privileges which they aim at obtaining in some foreign countries, the maintenance by the public of the rights which they claim in others, involve us in very heavy responsibilities indeed. Their pressure on Government after Government in the affairs of China has lost us—with justice—that favourable judgment of the leaders of the civilised world which our conduct in the matter of the slave trade and other questions of great general interest has tended to secure us.

"F.," writing to The Times, says that the massacre was perpetrated with such brutality that the provocation which led to it is apt to be forgotten or passed over too lightly, yet such was its nature that no people could be expected to tolerate it. It would be very satisfactory if a proper investigation were made into the proceedings of the missionaries in China, which might lead to the correction of abuses by which our friendly relations with the Chinese have before now been endangered; for it would be too much to expect the missionaries themselves to remedy these abuses. They never see such things in the same light as other people; to them temporal interests are as nothing in comparison to what they choose to consider eternal ones. Why take for granted that the Chinese alone are to blame? If people set up their religion above the laws of the land, why should they not suffer for it in China as they have often done in Europe? According to the treaty, I believe that proselytising missionaries are allowed by the Chinese Government, but if this is opposed to the feelings of the people, and only extorted through fear, how can it be enforced, and why should we insist on it? We would not do so in the case of any European Government; then why in China?

The Standard says:—The preparations which are being made by the British Government continue to be of the most languid and perfunctory character. A battalion of marines has been ordered for service in China, and a telegram published on Saturday announced that the departure of troops from Madras is being hastened. We presume that not more than a single battalion of marines can be spared just now from England. Yet we may remember that it was only last year that the Ministry took credit to themselves for having reduced four thousand marines. Now, when we want them, we are obliged to go without, to the imminent risk of British interests, and to the detriment of commerce, perhaps ten times greater, stated in money, than the total of what we saved last year in this transaction. The French Ambassador, M. Rochechouart, if the reports are true, is acting somewhat foolishly by holding aloof from the representatives of other nations—this appearance of discord among the Europeans having led the Chinese Government to propose to the Prussian Minister an alliance against France. These overtures have, of course, been declined by the representative of Prussia. It is most unfortunate indeed that just at this crisis, when it is necessary for the Europeans to act unanimously against the Chinese, there should be war in Europe between France and Prussia.

The Pall Mall Gazette says it is doubtful whether British statesmen quite understand the importance to this country of three barbarous or semi-barbarous countries in the extreme East, and it is quite certain that the English public does not understand it at all. From India, China, and Japan we import nothing that we eat or drink except a luxury, tea, and a grain which is something more or less than a luxury, rice; yet the stoppage of our mercantile connection with these countries would inevitably carry with it the starvation of large numbers of the English labouring classes. Russia, Germany, France, and the United States, the countries which send us our food, do not take nearly enough of our goods to close the account. How, then, do we pay for the remainder? Unquestionably we pay for it by the profits of our sales made chiefly in the open markets of the Far East. If the Indian and the Chinese markets were shut against us, our workmen would have to starve or to pinch as infallibly as if some convulsion of nature suddenly cut us off from the vast corn-lands of the Mississippi valley or of Southern Russia. A vast deal more is at stake than the interests of a comparatively small number of merchants bent on making a fortune rapidly. Are we or are we not in danger of being pushed from the Chinese market by a population so enormous that if they pleased they could, so to speak, squeeze us out of their country by putting their shoulders together? The Oriental passion of exclusiveness is apparently becoming ungovernable in China at the present moment; and yet, serious to us as is the question how best it can be controlled, we are all but without the means of resolving it. We are probably but imperfectly informed as to the conditions of our Government in India; yet our knowledge of India is omniscience as compared with our knowledge of China. It would almost appear as if Chinese affairs had been deliberately so dealt with by the British Government as to prevent any stock of official knowledge of the Chinese from forming itself; and nobody who is capable of measuring the depths of our ignorance of Japan, and who remembers what the history of that remarkable country has been would be surprised to find that the Japanese market, now yearly increasing in importance, has been finally closed against us at any moment by a people which is possibly only learning the arts of the foreigner to turn them against himself. Amidst such general ignorance, the dependence of our population for the means of procuring work, and food through work, on countries which, if not barbarous, have a civilisation naturally leading to extreme exclusiveness, is one of the greatest of the perils obscuring the future of England. Nobody who the least appreciates it will fail to wish that our markets were nearer home and less likely to be taken away by causes of which we have little knowledge and over which we have little control. It is much to be wished that Mr. Lowe could be induced to review the opinions or the prejudices which have led him to offer resistance to the negotiation of farther Commercial Treaties. He has used no argument worth attention on the subject except in contending that such treaties have the effect of reviving Protectionist errors. As a matter of fact, this may be true; for there are people who cannot distinguish between the old class of Commercial Treaties, which created a sort of little loop in the circle of Protection, and the treaties which have been entered into since we adopted Free Trade. When once Customs Duties came to be imposed exclusively for fiscal purposes, Commercial Treaties necessarily changed their nature. A treaty of this kind is now nothing more than the purchase of a new market by the abandonment of all or part of a fund which would otherwise have come into the Exchequer. This fund, if it got there, might possibly create a surplus; and what Mr. Lowe really means is that he likes to dispose of his own surpluses in his own way. This year he so disposed of one as to bring about a doubtful diminution in the price of sugar to the extent of about a farthing a pound. Mr. Lowe is entitled to contend that this economy benefited the working class more than the opening of a new market for the produce of its labour; but he is not entitled to assert that the possibility of buying such a market with his surpluses is a mere Protectionist delusion.

The Daily Telegraph says China is again a source of trouble, and the old familiar uncertainty still seems to attend all our information about its politics. As a matter of fact, the Chinese Government has not yet fully complied with the demand for justice made by the French representatives. It has banished two mandarins implicated in the massacre of the Sisters of Mercy at Tientsin, and it seems to have executed a round dozen of obscure wretches who were possibly innocent, at least of the particular crime. At the same time it would be unfair to charge the central Government with intentional neglect of an urgent duty in the case, since the very eminence of the criminals might render the action of the Peking officials more difficult to arrange. The means of enforcing such action may, for aught we know, be contemplated by the military movements now announced. Such would also seem to be the impression of our own authorities, for we have sent a battalion of Marines to China, and a body of troops has been despatched thither with pressing haste from Madras. For the present, therefore, it is difficult to say with any assurance whether we should be concerned or relieved by the presence of the young Emperor's "braves" at the Taku forts and the city, or whether the European Powers are likely to become involved in the quarrel of Count Rochechouart. The signs of popular sympathy with the murderers which are to be gathered from the latest China newspapers are the reverse of reassuring. The Viceroy of Nanking, Ma, has been stabbed by an assassin—notoriously for his equitable conduct towards Europeans. Moreover, when the Chefoo of Tientsin executed two kidnappers of children, and pointedly connected their crime with the Convent of St. Vincent de Paul, the people sent him a "ten-thousand-names umbrella," and, in addition to this signal token of approval, a tablet in blue and gold, bearing the inscription, "Countless families have produced a Buddha." After the horrid butchery at Tientsin there were published over the Empire roughly-drawn and highly-daubed fans, representing with coarse fidelity the cruel tragedy of the 21st of June. In the grotesque perspective and quaint figure-drawing made familiar to us by the willow pattern plate, the artist had depicted the Catholic church sending out flames from every window, the boats on the river crowded with armed people, and the victims succumbing to knife and matchlock, three of them in the foreground writhing in caricatured agonies. The "Governor," moreover, was portrayed sitting in his chair of state, and blandly surveying the atrocities. These fans appeared everywhere—in the yamum, the tea-shop, the theatre, the comprador's office; and another was being issued by advertisement, which gave the sufferings of the martyred nuns with all that frankness of ghastly and indelicate detail of death and torture in which Chinese artists appear to revel. It is, no doubt, an ugly fact that these "fans of instruction" sell so well; and the circumstance bears an uncomfortable affinity to the "chupatties" which flew over India in the days immediately preceding the Mutiny. At the same time, it can be no new thing to hear that the mandarins dislike and dread the presence of Western settlements, and that the people are easily alarmed about the integrity of their religion, and the spiritual safety of their offspring. On the opposite side we have to set the notorious fact that European ideas are penetrating China with European goods, and the outbreak of bigotry is a tribute to the reality of that progress. What we have now to do is to secure the safety of our settlements, and to apply a close but friendly pressure to the Central Government. The arrival of our troops, even if they proceed no further than a treaty port, will help to check any wavering in the resolutions of the authorities at Peking, and the force will be available for more rigorous measures should events unfortunately call for decisive action.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's Circular:—Since the date of our last, transactions in tea have been very moderate, and at prices showing some decline in values of Greens and Japans. Included in the business reported are sales of 5,700 half-chests Green, 5,500 half-chests Japan, 1,000 half chests Oolong, and 450 half-chests Souchong. Of the Greens 800 half-chests are new crop goods (one of the chops of fine Teenki, less the Hysons), now on the way from San Francisco. The price paid has not transpired, but it is understood that the fine lines realised about last seasons opening rates. The Japans include 1,350 half-chests New Crop, and for these 68c. to 75c. are now fair quotations for medium to good medium. The market closes generally inactive, with values somewhat unsettled for most descriptions. We repeat previous quotations, with the remark, however, that the figures are largely nominal.

The following are the current quotations:—Greens (Moyune, Twanki and Fychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 70c. to 115c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 55c. to 100c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 43c. to 105c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 52c. to 85c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow Oolongs, common and good, 48c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 56c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 47c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 63c.; finest, 65c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 40c. to 50c.; superior and fine, 54c. to 63c.; finest, 65c. to 85c.; Japans, common, 55c. to 58c.; medium, 60c. to 62c.; fine and finest, 68c. to 75c.; choice, 80c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Oct. 5, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 19,086,204 lbs.; Japans, 9,707,319 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,746,894 lbs.; Oolongs, 8,511,462 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 40,206,343 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 50,072,510 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 5, 4,979,756 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 29,818,136 lbs., there remains a total of 15,274,618 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Sept. 20 to Oct. 5 amounted to 836,448 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 1,549,658 lbs.; and the exports to 387,650 lbs.

Coffee.—The current quotations for East India kinds are, Java Government bags, 20½c. to 23c.; Java mats, 20½c. to 23c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. The market generally has been dull, and Brazil especially has shown great inactivity, the principal movement having been in East India descriptions. Java has attracted considerable attention, the result of the late operations being to take the whole stock from first hands, and concentrate it in the hands of a few houses who are holding for higher prices. There has been a pretty active jobbing inquiry, and some 5,000 mats have been resold at 20½c. to 21½c., besides 800 bags Government bought on private terms. We quote pale 20½c., medium 21c. to 22c., and brown and fancy 22½c. to 23c. gold, though the jobbers have been selling at even higher rates than these. Messrs. C. Risley and Co., in their circular, give the figures of the consumption of Java in the United States as follows:—In 1869 the consumption was 65,000 piculs, and ending Oct. 1, 1870 (nine months), there have been 101,000 piculs consumed, leaving an available supply of 37,500 piculs, or 75,000 mats. These figures would seem to warrant the expectation of higher values, especially as the parcels expected soon come to the present holders of the stock. There are other considerable shipments on the way, but these are not expected for some time to come. Of Ceylon we note sales at auction of 114 bags at 16⅜c. to 18⅜c. cash, and privately of 341 bags at the current quotations, and 1,000 bags on private terms. There has been no business in Singapore or Manila. The stock of Manila on the 1st Oct. was estimated at 400 bags, against 4,564 bags on Oct. 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 670 bags, against 873 bags; of Java mats, 31,760, against 88,391 bags; of Ceylon, 9,426 bags, against 8,927 bags; of Singapore, nil, against nil.

Camphor.—China is quoted 19c. gold (in bond).

Cordage.—The manufacturers of cordage have reduced the price of Manila half a cent. per pound. We annex quotations for the various descriptions, for which there is a fair demand. Manila cordage, 20½c.; Manila cordage, 6 thread and 9 thread, 4½in. and 5-16 in. diam., 21½c.; Manila cordage, 12 thread, 4⅜ in. diam., 21c.; Manila hay rope, 21c.; Manila cordage, bolt rope yarns, 22½c.; 6 thread and 9 thread, 23½c.; Tarred Manila, 20c.; fine tarred Manila lath yarn, 21½c.

Essential Oils.—Aniseed is quoted $2 to 2.10; Cassia, $1.20 to 1.25 gold (in bond).

Fire Crackers.—The stock is reduced to about 8,000 boxes, and the market is firm at $3.90 to $4, the latter price being generally demanded. 1,000 boxes extra No. 1 have been sold at $3.75.

Gunny Cloth.—Continues in limited demand, and though prices are without quotable change, the tendency is rather in buyers favour. We quote native, nominally, 29c., Borneo, 30c.

Gambier.—The current quotation is 3½c. gold (duty paid).

Hemp.—The Asa Eldridge arrived shortly after the date of our last report with 3,826 bales Manila, of which 1,500 had been sold floating at 13c. gold; subsequently the sale was reported of 2,000 bales, ex Great Admiral, at 13c. gold, 60 days' sight. By this last transaction the stock is reduced to 5,730 bales, which are all held by one firm at 14c. gold; this has suspended business for the present, there being no disposition to purchase above 13½c. gold. The stock of Manila on the 1st October was estimated at 7,730 bales, against 10,178 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 10,436 bales in 1868.

Indigo.—Manila continues in steady demand, and we note sales of 73 cases at $1.10 to 1.30 currency.

Preserved Ginger.—China is quoted $10.50 currency (duty paid).

Rhubarb.—The quotation for China is $1.50 to 2 currency (duty paid).

Rice.—The new crop of Carolina has been brought forward, and in i the bulk of the business has been done. Rangoon has been somewha less active in consequence, and prices have declined; the sales amoun to 2,200 bags at $6.87½ to 7.12½ currency (duty paid), and 1,420 bags at $3.35 to 3.37½ gold, in bond.

Sugar.—The market presents a very quiet appearance, but owing to small supplies there is little anxiety to make sales, and former rates are maintained. The transactions have included 20,950 bags Manila, ex Olivia Davis, at 8⅜c.; 26,665 bags superior Manila, ex Annie Richmond, at 9½c.; and 1,860 baskets Java at 10½c.

Spices.—There is a good jobbing demand, and the market generally is steady and firm. Sales have been made, in lots, of 200 cases Nutmegs at $1 to 1.02½; 15 to 20 do. Mace, $1.30; 500 to 600 bales and cases Cassia, 48 to 50 c.; 200 to 300 bales Cloves, 25½c.; and Pepper, 26c. to 26½c., all gold. In addition 300 piculs Cassia, in cases and mats, sold, to arrive, at a private price; we also notice 400 bales Batavia Cassia, balance ex Cyclone, in Boston, for New York account, on private terms, and 100 cases do., ex Professor, also there, at 46½c., and 15 do. Mace, per same, $1.25, both gold.

Tin.—The advices of the favourable result of the Dutch Trading Company's sale on the 7th Oct. had but little improving effect upon the market; the only sales reported are 300 slabs Straits at 33¼c., and 50 slabs Banca at 36¾c. gold.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
AND PILLS.—Common humanity suggests, and public interest demands, that the knowledge of the surest, safest, and quickest method of renewing soundness to the sick should be enforced upon all unfortunate sufferers. For bad legs, bad breasts, and scorbutic and scrofulous sores, Holloway's medicaments are specifics. The grateful and earnest testimony of thousands who have experienced their unrivalled power over these complaints, and who have been raised from prostrate helplessness and a condition loathsome to themselves and others, renders it quite unnecessary to enlarge in this place upon their extraordinary virtues. The affected part should be bathed with lukewarm water, and when the pores are opened the Ointment should be rubbed in twice a day all round the complaining parts.

THE STRAITS TIMES.—Daily, weekly, and fortnightly editions; published in Singapore for circulation throughout the Straits Settlements Java, Borneo, Siam, French Cochin China, China and Japan.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT, VIA SAN FRANCISCO.)

SEPT. 23.

Trade continues very bad, owing to the European war. Mr. Gower leaves with his gold-mining machinery for the Island of Sado, in the Yangtsze, to-day. The same vessel also takes a small iron steamer, which is to be erected there, and run between Nee-e-gata and Sado. The seasons are good, and all the crops promise well.

Some Japanese officers are leaving by this mail to travel for five years at the expense of the Government, in which there have been several changes. The two departments, Finance and Interior, which were generally under one set of officers, have been separated, to the mortification of the officers, who will probably resign rather than endure the restriction to finance only. The railway works are proceeding slowly. The lighting of the Settlement is engaging attention, and a subscription paper is to be handed round; the proposal made by the committee to charge two cents per foot per mensem frontage for the works having been declined, though it seemed a fair price. The war authorities have changed their mind concerning the Naval College.

NAGASAKI.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SEPTEMBER 16, 1870.

Continuing my letters, the last of which was dated 1st Sept., since when the London and China Express (French editions) of 10th June and 8th July have been received by the Waverley steamer from Yokohama, which arrived here on the 5th instant. During the interval the following vessels have arrived from London:—Waverley (str.), on the 5th, via Yokohama and Hiogo, and the British barque Zohrab, on the 14th instant direct—the latter after a long passage—169 days.

I am happy to be able to announce that the Nagasaki postal difficulty has been overcome by a proposal made by the Postmaster-General of Hong Kong, and agreed to by this community. The United States postal authorities are willing to allow the British closed mails to be carried between Shanghai and Nagasaki by their mail steamers at the rate of 12 Mexican cents per oz. for letters, and 20 Mexican cents per lb. for newspapers and samples, and the British postal authorities to reimburse the outlay intend charging an additional 4 cents per ½ oz. for letters, and 2 cents for each newspaper or 2 oz. printed books, samples, &c. The local rate Hong Kong to Nagasaki to be unchanged. This arrangement is similar to that proposed by me in my letter dated 15th July, the only difference being the place where the additional amount should be collected. By the above arrangement we have escaped a difficulty which threatened to become very serious, and although we were quite willing to get our letters in Shanghai and pay the local postage we could not, as no one had authority to break the seal of the boxes.

The movements of vessels of war during the same time have been the North German corvette Hertha, which sailed from Yokohama on the 2nd instant. H. B. M. S. Salamis, arrived from Chefoo 6th inst. Russian corvettes Haydamack and Alma arrived here 3rd and 13th instant, the former from Hakodadi and the latter from Valparaiso, &c. The Russian corvette Vsadnick, having on board Commodore Pilken, sailed for Shanghai on the 6th instant, and the following vessels of war remained in our harbour:—British: Ocean, Salamis and Cockchafer. Russian: Haydamack, Almaz.

Death has been busy in our little community; the first, Alexander Webster Henderson, on Sunday, 4th instant, from disease of the heart, aged twenty-seven years: and the other is Eugene Pignatel your agent at this port, aged fifty-three years.

I hear that the North German patriotic fund subscription list has been increased to about $1,800 by twenty-four individuals, the actual number at this port at the time the subscription was raised. In my last I stated twenty seven persons, but of this number I find three are of other nationalities.

A reply to the memorial sent on the 25th March last through H.B.M. Consul to H.B.M. Minister on the subject of tea duties has been given to the memoralists, and bears all the Japanese characteristics. The documents in reply consist of a letter from the Japanese authorities at Yedo to Sir Harry Parkes; one from him to H.B.M. Consul at this port and another from H B.M. Consul at this place to the memorialists, and the substance of these is that the Japanese decline to increase the duty on Bancha, and give three reasons for coming to this conclusion. First, that it is unfair to tax all teas alike. Second, that they fear the revenue would suffer if any such measure is adopted. Third, that they think if Bancha is made to pay the high rate of duty it would become unsaleable, and thus the peasantry would suffer, and be deprived of a source of profit. All the memorialists have gained by the trouble they have taken in the matter is to obtain from the Japanese authorities a promise that in future "they will use more care in inspecting teas," and H.B.M. Consul in his letter asks the British firms to give him information if any infringement of the above promise is discovered by them. The memorialists may be certain that the new order of things will be strictly carried out when they ship teas, but a vast amount of uncertainty exists as to whether the Celestials will be included in this new regulation.

The guardhouses at the entrances to the native town have been used (as it was anticipated they would be) for purposes which show that they are intended for more than our protection, and on this becoming known it caused some of the Consular body to bring the matter to the notice of the Governor, who promised to give orders that all Japanese, when accompanying foreigners, shall be allowed to pass the guardhouses without being questioned as to the object of their visit to the settlement on the foreigner saying that they are with him. This has been notified by circular from H.B.M. Consul to the British residents.

I hear from native sources that the Prince of Chikusen has been confined to his own dwelling-house, and is now guarded by Government troops, pending the inquiry into the counterfeit kinsats and nebus question. This Prince, who is said to be as poor as possible, has always been unfriendly to foreigners, and it is in his country where any quantity of these spurious coins and notes have been manufactured; so that if he has to pay dearly for his subjects' delinquencies he will not get any sympathy from Europeans. His agency at Nagasaki has also been closed.

COMMERCIAL.

Tea: A considerable quantity has been shipped to Kobe, both by the natives and foreigners, where prices are dangerously high. It is supposed that the Kobe people do not understand the value of the leaf usually brought to this market, or they would never pay the absurd prices they are now doing. Experienced persons who for years past have shipped this description to the United States and England, I hear, are unanimous in their opinion that the operators are not likely to repeat the same next year. But little is doing for shipment to England or America.

Exchange on London is quoted 4s. 4½d. for six months' sight 1st class credits; a few small drafts are offering by the officers of the men-of-war, who, no doubt, would be willing to give a better rate.

Some large parcels of tobacco have been settled at $7 per picul in the rough state.

Exchange in bous: These have advanced to 404, in consequence of certain Europeans being engaged in what the Stock Exchange call "Bull transactions," and in these the native money-changers (ever ready to squeeze) render them great assistance in carrying out their views. The annoyance and loss caused by such a fluctuating currency as the Japanese greatly interferes with the transactions of the bona fide traders, who keenly feel the successive delays in issuing the new coinage.

Freights to London are nominal, as there is no vessel loading. The North German barque Alida has completed her loading, but is detained, owing to the war between France and North Germany; but I cannot find out whether she intends lying here until the war terminates.

CHINA.

PEKING.

A letter from this place says:—The war party at this place, confident in the ultimate success of Prussia, and of the consequent weakness of France, believe that the latter country will not be able to exact an adequate reparation for the Tientsin insult. Troops were being concentrated in the province of Chihli by Tseng and Po Wang. The Seventh Prince and Po Wang hate the Roman Catholics, and have already sent six reports to the Emperor on the subject of the Tientsin outrage. The Empress mother, Empress Dowager, and Sixth brother of Prince Kung are anxious to maintain peace; but one of Prince Kung's brothers is very hostile to foreigners. A storm is evidently brewing, and the apparent weakness of the foreign ministers will make it all the more terrible when it does come. The Sisters are quietly sending away the children and patients under their care, and intend to repair to Fuhkien. Prince Kung is opposed to their leaving.

CHEFOO.

The missionaries have arrived safely from Tung-Chow, and the presence of the ladies of the party have enlivened the community at this port. A cricket match is to be played, at which their presence, with the band of the Barossa, is expected to add to the enjoyment of the occasion. There is a rumour that all the foreigners are to be assassinated on the 15th or 18th of this present Chinese moon, and a very uneasy state of feeling obtains among the converts. In connection with this it is reported that 300 Chinese, believed to be soldiers in disguise, have arrived in this port.

NEWCHWANG.

Business at this port continues very dull, and there is little prospect of immediate improvement.

There are five German ships in our river war-bound. One of them, the Oberon, had obtained a little cargo for Hong Kong, but the China merchant who was loading the vessel has paid $1,000 to the captain, for which sum the merchant is released from his obligation to fulfil the contract, and the Oberon discharged what cargo it had received. It is very probable that these fine vessels will have to remain in port all the winter.

An English vessel, the Algernon, got sadly damaged some weeks ago in entering this river. A survey was held, and she was condemned and sold at auction for some Tls. 1,500.

The residents at this port are beginning to look forward with somewhat uncomfortable feelings to the approaching winter. It is generally felt that the Governments should provide them with naval or military protection during the winter. The English residents addressed to Mr. Acting Consul King a letter on the subject.

SHANGHAI.

The dates are down to the 15th Sept. The London mail (P. and O.) of 29th July arrived out on the 11th, with telegrams to Aug. 21, but via Kiachta they extend to the 23rd. The following summary is from the North China Herald:—

The British Foreign-office has at length received news of the massacre at Tientsin, both from its ambassador at St. Petersburg and from the Governor of Hong Kong—but not from Mr. Wade! Mr. Otway added that he was informed 600 troops had been despatched to Tientsin, to land if required; this must be a mistake, either of Mr. Otway's, or in the report. General Whitfield, we all know, held troops in readiness to send if he were required; but of course Mr. Wade sent no such requisition, and the praise which is bestowed on him by anticipation for his energy may haply turn to stronger blame.

Mr. Davenport, who has been lately Acting Interpreter at Hankow, has taken up the post of H.M.'s Vice-Consul at Shanghai.

We mentioned last week that a meeting had been summoned to consider the propriety of erecting works for the defence of the settlement. This has been postponed—for the reason, we believe, that the Council found there were more points requiring consideration than they first supposed; and that matters would not be ready to bring before the community on the 13th in the shape and completeness which they desire. Most people think that it would have been better to hold the meeting notwithstanding. It is likely some rather wild schemes might be mooted, but they would be corrected in course of discussion, and sanction might at least have been obtained to one measure—the erection of barriers, on which all are agreed, even when differing in estimate of their value. They would be invaluable obstacles to a mob in case of riot. However, we hope the Council will soon conclude their preparations, and that the necessary measures will be decided on.

A lamentable accident occurred in connection with the volunteers on Friday last. A rifle, accidentally discharged by a member of a party who were practising at the Butts, killed two Chinese children who were standing by, waiting to pick up the empty cartridges. The ball passed through both their heads, killing them almost instantaneously. The other children who were by stood thunderstruck for the moment, but only for a moment, before they rushed off to carry the sad news to the villagers. It is needless to dwell on the scene that ensued when the parents of the children came up. We all know that, whatever defects there may be in the Chinese character, want of affection for their children is not one. They have, too, feelings beyond those of simple affection; the son is looked to as a prospective support in old age, and as the descendant whose duty it is to perform the ancestral rites which are the cream and essence of Chinese religious belief. Unhappily, only one phase of the loss can in this instance be made good. A subscription list has been opened, and a liberal sum will no doubt be raised to compensate, so far as money can compensate, the terrible loss. An inquest was held in the afternoon at the Hongkew police station. Some difficulty was found in convincing the Chehsien that one ball could have killed the two children, but he was at length persuaded; and, after the inquiry was ended, Mr. Medhurst conveyed to the Chinese present the sincere regret which the Volunteers felt at the distressing accident.

Another occurrence, on the night of the same day, caused some excitement in the settlement. A deaf and dumb Chinese, who is well known to the police, rushed into the French Police Station about midnight, and gave them to understand that a foreigner had been murdered in the neighbourhood of the city wall. A sergeant and four men at once started for the spot, but could find no trace of the occurrence; nor did a more complete investigation on the following day lead to a better result. The villagers say they heard of some party, among whom they believe were some rowdy foreigners, trying to break into a rice-shop, but they had heard of no affray nor murder. It may chance that one of these was killed, but the police cannot learn that any foreigner is missing. The police were fired at by the guard at the city gate while making their first search.

The Chinese had an amusing rumour—that the Mongolian bannermen, in the height of their patriotism, were determined to march across the Continent to aid Prussia in her struggle with France. It was suggested to one native who mentioned it that not a man of the crowd would reach even the confines of Russia.

A meeting of gentlemen desirous of instituting a course of popular lectures, to be delivered during the approaching winter, was held in the Asiatic Society's Rooms on Saturday. No definite scheme was put forward, but Dr. Macgowan suggested in the course of conversation that the meeting should demit to the Asiatic Society the duty of getting up the proposed course. Some conversation ensued as to how far the constitution of the Society permitted it to be identified with such a movement, and Mr. Kingsmill read an extract from one of the Society's rules, which showed that it was intended to foster any such work. A committee was eventually appointed to arrange preliminaries, and submit results to a meeting of the Asiatic Society.

The Shanghai Autumn Races were to take place on the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th November. There were to be six races on each day—all for ponies; and on each day a steeple chase. Rumours of a rising have been renewed in connection with them—the idea being, we presume, that advantage may be taken of the usual absence of a large number of foreigners during the race week, on excursion inland; but no weight is attached to the report, which is of the very vaguest.

There are a number of men-of-war in the harbour at present, and there has been a great deal of saluting. The French corvette Venus and the Russian corvette Veadnich arrived on Friday, and both exchanged salutes with the United States ship Benicia, and Her Majesty's ship Zebra. Salutes were fired on Sunday from the Veadnich and the Benicia, in honour of the Emperor Alexander's birthday. The Venus left again for a cruise. The United States ship Colorado arrived from Hong Kong.

A Ningpo correspondent writes:—A sort of clan fight occurred here a few days ago, between some Fohkien and Hankow men. No one, however, was killed, and only two men badly hurt, though the row occasioned some excitement. I do not think there is any serious foundation for the rumours that have been renewed lately of a probable attack on foreigners; for I think the people here are well disposed, and that the officials do not wish to make trouble. The rumour probably arose from the hurried journey by the Taoutai to Hangchow, which you lately reported, and from the fact of his having ordered some troops to be in readiness for movement, before he left. There are Chinese rumours abroad, that the authorities have received instructions from Tsan-kwo-Fan to get up a rising against, and expel, foreigners, and that the Taoutai at once sent to Hangchow for instructions. Putting two and two together, this may perhaps connect with the Taoutai's visit. And the Futai's sensible proclamation may perhaps be his answer to the temptation. However, all is quiet again, and will remain so, unless disturbing influence is brought to bear. The Chi-fu has followed up the Futai's proclamation with a longer one to the same effect. It may be worth while to say that the report which has been mentioned of the fortifications of Chinhai being repaired is untrue; they are untouched. Probably the fact that some workmen are employed in repairing the temple has given rise to the tale.

Tseng-kwo-Fan's appointment as Viceroy of Nanking is recorded in the Peking Gazette; Li-hung-Chang succeeds him as Viceroy of Chih li, and the latter's brother, Li-han-Chang, is confirmed in the Viceroyalty of the two Hu provinces. It remains to be seen what this move may imply.

There has been some excitement at Chinkiang during the past week. The Taoutai gave notice to the Foreign Consuls, on the 5th instant, that he had received information of an intended riot, in which case he feared the soldiers could not be restrained. But he had appointed an officer, with special power, to search out and arrest any instigators of disturbance. No trouble has occurred since, so it may be hoped the Taoutai's fear will not be realised. He is reported to have been terribly alarmed after the death of Ma, and to have changed his guard and his sleeping room. It is also said that placards, calling for an extermination of foreigners on the 28th of the Chinese moon (24th instant), were posted at Kiukiang on the 7th instant, but were promptly taken down by the authorities.

FOOCHOW.

A correspondent in Foochow writes, under date of the 19th Sept., that reports have become current of an intention on the part of the mandarins to exterminate the missionaries. but although many sinister rumours were going about up to the date of the Yesso's departure, nothing had occurred to indicate the advent of the troubles foreboded. It appears that the mandarins have commenced a subterranean ditch or mine, and that they are preparing rockets and other ammunition with, as they say, the object of defending the city in case of attack; but it is suspected that these preparations may have another object. Should the aspect of affairs become more serious, some of the Catholic missionaries have determined to seek refuge in Hong Kong.

HONG KONG.

Dates are down to Sept. 24. The P. and O. mail of Aug. 12 arrived out on Sept. 19 with telegrams to 4th.

The reign of terror inaugurated at Tientsin appears to be extending to the southern provinces. Intelligence reaches us that an emeute has broken out at Fatshan, on the Pearl River, about twelve miles above Canton, the scene of the famous incident in the China career of Admiral Keppel. It appears that the native Christians at Hong Kong and Canton have lately built a chapel at Fatshan, at a cost of £500, which sum they raised entirely by subscriptions among themselves, and without any pecuniary assistance from foreigners, missionary or otherwise. On the completion of the edifice it was determined to have an opening ceremony on a grand scale, and several Protestant missionaries and native converts were invited to attend. The Rev. Dr. Legge, the head of the mission, declined to be present, wisely considering it undesirable, in the existing state of native feeling, to take any action that might lead to excitement. Only one foreigner was present, the Rev. J. Chalmers, of the London mission, who preached the dedication sermon. The ceremony passed off without interruption, notwithstanding the apprehensions that had been expressed, and Mr. Chalmers left Fatshan at the close of his sermon, refusing to remain for some festivities appointed to take place in the evening. To his early return to Canton he probably owes his life. At about six P.M. the mob, which had often expressed its intention of destroying the building when finished, collected about the doors, and openly declared that improprieties were being committed within the chapel. The native assistant denied the charges, and endeavoured to cool the growing excitement; with the usual result, however, for in an hour the building had been burst into, sacked, and burned. The converts made good their escape, and no loss of life occurred, though several bad wounds were received. The property was entirely Chinese, and no foreigner was injured, so that it is a matter in which the Consuls will have difficulty in taking action. Two constables who were fetched from the Yamun refused to interfere, and the Fire Brigade, which turned out in force, confined their exertions to preserving the neighbouring houses, allowing the chapel to burn as it might. Fatshan is noted for its opposition to the encroachments of missionaries, and the representative of the Wesleyan Mission at that place has for some time past resided but little there. The effects of this outrage on the Canton people have not yet shown themselves in an obnoxious form; perhaps the almost certain impunity of the Fatshan savages will fire the mine in Canton. It is said that Mr. Robertson faithfully takes up the cue given by the great Negation at Peking, and blame is freely given to foreigners for trying to excite the passions of the good Chinese.

In connection with the present unsettled state of affairs in China we may mention a report which comes to us from good authority, indirectly in fact, from the authorities of a garrison town, who are in a position to be among the first to hear of such a matter if it really has an existence. The report is that the Viceroy of the Kwang Tung Province has issued orders to the commander of the fleet stationed in the south of China to prepare for war. This may be preparatory to acting on the defensive against French invasion, or on the aggressive as regards foreigners generally, and this outrage at Fatshan may be the first symptom of a general outbreak throughout the whole south of China against the Christian religion and the detested foreigner.

We observe that the China Directory, which was published last year by Messrs. Morris, will be issued from the office of the China Mail in the last week in December. It is advertised to contain complete information concerning all changes in the various firms, offices, companies, and professions throughout China, Japan, and the Philippines. The price is two dollars.

The following account of the average amount of Bank-notes in circulation in Hong Kong, during the month ending Aug. 31st, is published in the Gazette:—

Chartd. Mer. Bank of India, London, and China	668,334
Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China...	320,450
Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation	1,182,865

time, and from Macao to here inside three hours; she has resumed her old place on the Coast line.

The action for libel instituted by the Hon. C. C. Smith, Registrar-General, against Mr. Smith, the publisher of the Daily Press, resulted in a judgment being given for the plaintiff, with $250 damages and costs, including the costs of attorney. The libel complained of consisted of leading articles referring to the alleged interference of the Registrar's office with judicial proceedings in the case of some Chinese who had been fined for erecting mat huts; but the fine is considered not only as excessive, but arbitrary and opposed to the evidence of the articles themselves, which contain no more than a little homely sarcasm, which we regret to see thrown away on the authorities. Mr. Justice Ball's judgment may be regarded as one which no English jury would endorse.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

Dates extend to the 28th Sept. The official Courrier de Saigon contains the Governor's proclamation of the decree of the Senate of the 21st May, establishing the constitution of the Empire in French Cochin China. Government notifications also appear to the effect that the punishment of persons detected in circulating false news will be strictly enforced, and that in order to encourage the cultivation of pepper, all land devoted to that purpose will be exempted from land-tax for four years. The Inspectorship of Cai-lay is transferred to Cay-be, which will also include Phung-phu and Phung-hod, transferred from the district of Caulo which is abolished.

The non-official Courrier reports the weather favourable, and the crops promising.

The second list of the subscriptions for the wounded, and for the families of those killed in battle, amounts to f.22,942. Among the subscribers are many Annamese.

The Courrier complains that the news of the war in Europe has not been received by the Germans in the same spirit as by the French. Immediately on learning that war was declared the Governor of Saigon issued an order permitting German residents in the colony to remain, although he had the right to expel them in a few hours. The Prussian Consul at Singapore acted so far differently that, apprehending that the Creusa transport might leave the port for France, with her cargo of invalids, he wrote to the British Governor, requesting him not to permit more than three days' coal to be supplied to her. The British Governor having rejected this application, the Prussian Consul repeated it, with a protest against the Governor's decision.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

Dates are down to the 22nd Sept. The weather and rice prospects were good. The rains had been constant and unobjectionably abundant in Bangkok for the purposes of successful paddy cultivation. There has been no lack of rainfall in other vicinities as well as Bangkok. Advices from Wat Bote, a great rice-growing district in one of the Eastern provinces, show that the people of that locality complain of too much rain; that the rice plants do not grow up fast enough for the increase of water. A few months since complaints from that quarter were that the paddy crop would be meagre, because there was not rain enough. On the whole, we may conclude that their complaints were mere feints. Paddy was selling in that district for 24 ticals per coyan of 2,500 k'anans. All along the line of travel from Bangkok to Wat Bote the rice fields are in the most promising condition, and the yield will, without doubt, be abundant. Advices from Krung Kao (old capital) show that the growing paddy promises a flattering yield. The yield from this vicinity is what is termed the Namuang grain.

The European war had excited the deepest interest among natives as well as foreigners, but the papers are devoid of news of general interest. The friends of the Rev. Stephen Mattoon, formerly so deservedly popular in Siam, will be gratified to learn that on his return to his native land he has been appointed President of the Biddle College, North Carolina, and has received from his alma mater the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

BORNEO.

—o—

SARAWAK.

Dates are down to Sept. 20. The London mail of August 5 arrived on Sept. 6.

We are glad to welcome the Sarawak Gazette, which bids fair to be most useful. We quote from it that the disturbances in the Rejang district are at an end, and that peace has been restored among the Katibas and Batang Lupar tribes. The inland trade, which is of considerable importance, has been resumed; and Malays are now venturing again into the district in search of the valuable articles it produces. This happy result has not been reached without much labour.

H H. gunboat Heartsease arrived here from Simanggang on Tuesday, Aug. 30, with H. H. the Rajah and the Ranee on board. The Rajah and Ranee were at Banting on the 29th ult., and were most warmly received by the Dyaks. These Balow Dyaks, once famous as pirates and head-hunters, have now for several years been the staunch friends and allies of the present Rajah.

The Rajah has appointed Mr. George H. Bacchus (late of the 7th Dragoon Guards) Assistant Resident of Sibu, vice Mr. R. A. W. Macpherson, who retires from the service.

A large and influential company have applied to the Government for a tract of 2,000 or 3,000 acres of alluvial land near Si Tapok hill, on the bank of the river, for the cultivation of sugarcane. The soil there is admirably adapted for it, and already a Chinese company have from fifty to sixty acres of fine cane there, chiefly Mauritius, obtained from Province Wellesley. As the company intend using steam machinery with all the latest improvements, including even steam ploughs, it is hoped the undertaking will be a great success.

The pepper plantations at Tanah Puteh, Quop, and Matang, are now in full bearing, and the vines look healthy. The indigo grown by the Chinese at Si Tapok, from seed given by Mr. Martin, is equal to any in the East.

The General Council will be held this year at Sarawak at about the end of September or the beginning of October. All the native chiefs will sit with the European residents from the principal outstations as members of this Council.

Good broad roads are being made through the native suburbs of Sarawak, by the Malays at their own wish. Mr. J. A. St. John is superintending their construction, and the Government have provided materials for some of the bridges over the different creeks which intersect the kampongs.

Early in the month prizes were awarded to the Dyak tribes of Simpoke and Quop, for growing the best crops of hill paddy, from seed ordered by the Government (through the kind aid of Mr. Martin) from Java. Mr. Martin, Miss Coutts' agent here, promised a prize of fifty dollars to the tribe who should produce the best crop, and a second of twenty-five dollars for the next best. The Simpoke Dyaks got eighty-fold and the Quop people about sixty. Several other tribes competed; but, owing to the very wet season last year they were unable to burn off the jungle which had been felled, but had to clear the ground by manual labour; consequently the yield was small.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 1st October. The London mail of 26th August arrived on the 26th September.

The Legislative Council met on the 27th September, when H. E. the Governor stated that a steamer has been purchased in England for about £8,000, and will shortly be sent out to Singapore, when it is his intention to dispose of the Peiho and Rainbow. Mr W. R. Smith gave notice of motion that a covering vote of $7,415.51 be included in the next estimates to cover the balance of cost of Government House. A return of the expenditure incurred for the reception of his Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh on the occasion of his visit to the Settlements in December, 1869, was laid on the table, but the amount did not transpire.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA*.—Transactions had been unimportant throughout the interval. A few small sales had been made in Grey Shirtings at a decline of about 10 cents for 7 lbs. goods, and prices for all other counts were lower. Cotton Yarn was without inquiry, and prices were weaker. The following were the ruling quotations:—G. E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.45 to 2.50 per piece; do., 8¼ to 8½ lbs., $2.90 to 2.95; do. 9 to 9¾ lbs., $3.40 to 3.45; G. E. White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, $3.05 to 3.10; do., 64 to 72 reed, $3.20 to 3.30; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.95 to 2.30; Cotton Yarn, No. 16 to 24, $44 to 44.50; do., 28 to 32, $45 to 46; do., 38 to 42, $47.50 to 48; Camlets, S and BBB, $13.50 to 14.50; do., SS, $12 to 13; do., SSS, $9 to 10; Lead, $5.75 to 6.25 per picul; Iron, Nail Rod, $2.60 to 3.40 per picul; do., Bars, $2.60 to 3.25 per picul.

HIOGO AND OSAKA*.—Advices had been received of the European war; the effect of these had been to check the improvement which was reported in our last advices by this route; and prices for most articles, both Cotton and Woollens, had assumed a downward tendency. Grey Shirtings: Owing to the moderate supply, prices had been fairly maintained, and at closing there was still some inquiry at but a slight decline. Cotton Yarn: A good business in Nos. 28 to 32 and 38 to 42 had been done, at gradually declining rates. Nos. 16 to 24 neglected. Turkey Red: Owing to large arrivals, prices had fallen, and there was less demand. Black Velvets were saleable at about former rates. Camlets remained without change. Black Lustres continued fairly saleable. Mouselines de Laine had been sold in some quantity, and prices were fully maintained. Cloth was neglected. Blankets had been in somewhat less demand. Lead was in rather better request, and prices were firmer. Quotations (in dollars at 104 rios per $100):—Cotton Yarn: No. 16 to 24, $134.61 per bale; 28 to 32, $147.11 to 148.08; 38 to 42, $153.84. SHANGHAI.—Cotton Piece Goods: Very little worthy of special notice had transpired during the week. The demand for common 7 and 8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings had been steady, but although stocks were low, and the dealers experienced great difficulty in finding the goods, prices remained almost unaltered. Sales of Common chop for early arrival reported at Tls. 2.19 to 2.20 per piece. Common 6 lbs. and 7 lbs. T-Cloths had also been in steady request, and considerable parcels had changed hands at about former quotations; the prices for Mexican 7 lbs. and for 8 lbs. Cloths were purely nominal. English and Dutch Drills had been sold to a moderate extent at a slight decline. Holders of American makes, however, were asking higher values, and thereby checking business in them. Jeans: Both importers and speculators had been forcing off this fabric at a concession to buyers. In Fancy Cottons the business had been very trifling. Woollens: Barter transactions in Long Ells had taken place, and these, with the resales of same, constituted nearly the whole trade in Woollens. We do not give quotations, as, while these barter settlements were being held, it was almost impossible to determine their true market value. Camlets, Lastings, and Figured Orleans were not lower, but there was very little inquiry for them, or in fact for any description of Woollen manufactures. Metals.—Iron: Only a very trifling business had been transacted during the week. Settlements, 4,400 bundles Nail Rods at Tls. 1.87 for fair to good assortments, and Tls. 2.10 per picul for small sizes. Quotations, with the exception of small sizes, which had declined 5 cands. per picul, were unchanged. Lead quiet. Coal: Arrivals very limited, and tendency to firmness in price. Quotations (duty paid):—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., Tls. 1.7.2 to 1.7.5 per piece; 8¼ to 8½ lbs., Tls. 2.1.9 to 2.2.5; 9 lbs., Tls. 2.2.5 to 2.3.0; G.E. White Shirtings, Tls. 1.6.0 to 2.2.5; American Drills, Tls. 3.3.0 to 3.4.0; Jeans, Tls. 2.5.0 to 2.5.5; English Drills, Tls. 2.9.0 to 3.0.0; Jeans, 8 lbs., Tls. 2.0.0 to 2.1.5; Dutch Drills, 30 inch. 40 yards, Tls. 2.7.0 to 2.8.0; Jeans, 30 inch 30 yards, Tls. 2.1.5 to 2.2.0; T-Cloths: 6 lbs., ordinary, Tls. 1.1.5 to 1.2.0; 7 lbs., Tls. 1.3.0 to 1.4.0; 6 lbs. Mex., Tls. 1.3.5 to 1.4.0; 7 lbs. Mex., Tls. 1.4.5 to 1.6.0; 8 to 8¼ lbs., Tls. 1.7.5 to 1.9.0; XX, Tls. 2.2.5 to 2.3.0.

FOOCHOW.—Sales were reported of 40 pieces Assorted Long Ells at $7.70, and 1,500 pigs Lead at $7.

HONG KONG.—The import market had ruled quiet during the week for every description of goods, as inquiry had been light and business considerably interfered with by heavy rains that had fallen. Transactions in Cotton Yarns had been confined to one or two small sales of No. 16 to 24, made at former prices. The market was still bare of 8.4 lb. Grey Shirtings, and former rates were still obtainable for this weight. In T-Cloths common 6 lbs. and best chops of 7 lb. goods were in fair demand, and prices were firmly maintained. American Drills had been neglected; English had been moderately placed at low rates. In Woollens, Scarlet Long Ells were firmer, sales having been made at $7 20 to 7.25 per piece; no improvement was noticeable in other Woollen Goods. Lead and Tin had been dealt in to a small extent at maintained rates.

SINGAPORE.—The latest market quotations were as follows:—40s Mule Twist, $135; 8¼ lbs. Shirtings, $2.75 to 2.77½; 7 lbs. do., $2.30 to 2.35; 5 lbs. T-Cloths, $1.45 to 1.50; 6 lbs. do., $1.70 to 1.75; 7 lbs. do., $2.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA*.—A fair demand had existed throughout the interval at prices which showed no perceptible change at the close. The market had been rather better supplied with Teas of good quality, and purchases had been confined mostly to these sorts. Settlements for the month had amounted to about 9,000 piculs. The Ariel and Benefactress had sailed for New York, on the 1st and 9th Sept. respectively, carrying 1,249,583 lbs. Quotations: Common and Good Common, Nominal, per picul; Medium, $35 to 38; Good Medium, $39 to 41; Fine, $42 to 45; Finest, $46 to 48; Choice, $50 to 55.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.*—The market for the month had been quiet. The Fine to Finest grades were scarce, and commanded full prices, whilst the commoner descriptions were plentiful, and could be purchased at lower rates. Settlements were returned at 2,400 piculs. Shipments to Yokohama on native account, 1,000 piculs. The Chinese had imported about 1,500 piculs of Nagasaki leaf, a portion of which had been purchased by the Government Trading Company. Arrivals, 5,400 piculs; stocks, 5,000 piculs. The current quotations were—Common, none; good common, Rs. 25 to 28 per picul; medium, Rs. 29 to 35; good medium, Rs. 36 to 43; fine, Rs. 44 to 48; finest and choice, Rs. 49 to 55.

SHANGHAI.—Black: A fair business had been transacted during the week. Quotations remained unchanged; but arrivals had been large, and, with an advancing exchange, and the possibility of higher freights, easier prices were expected. On the other hand, natives were speaking most confidently of an early stoppage of supplies. Should such an event happen, and considering the stock as compared with the same date last year, a firm market might be the result. Green: Finest chops continued in demand at extreme prices. Other kinds were not much enquired for, but showed no change in value. The current quotations were:—Oonam, Oonfa, &c., Tls. 15 to 20; Hohow and Ningchow, Tls. 14 to 19½; Oopacks, &c., Tls. 17½ to 21; Fychow, Moyune and Teenkai, Tls. 40 to 46; Pingsuey (chops), Tls. 31½; do. (boxes), Tls. 37 to 42½; Shanghai packed (fine lines), Tls. 45

FOOCHOW.—Messrs. Westall, Galton and Co. report as follows:—A considerable business has taken place in Congous during the week, buying being more general. The demand has run principally on strong Teas for price, such as Saryunes and Yung Hows, at from Tls. 12½ to 14 short. Buying for Australia has been going on to some extent, principally in the flavoury kinds of second crop Teas, at very full prices. Souchongs have been in more request, at rather lower rates. The firmness of the Teamen has prevented further purchases of Oolong, which will be in abundant supply this season. Some fine to finest Pekoes have been bought at the reduction quoted last week. Scented Teas have been shown more freely, and the demand noticed last week, caused by a slight concession of the natives, is checked for the moment. Settlements for the week comprise: Congou, 21,720 chests; Souchong, 2,460 chests; Oolong, 170 half-chests; Pekoe, 470 chests; Scented Teas, 3,460 boxes. Arrivals during the week consist of: Congou, 17,090 chests; Souchong, 1,190 chests; Oolong, 6,220 half-chests; Scented Teas, 7,000 boxes. Quotations are:—Congou: Finest, none; Good Medium to Fine, none; Flavoury to Medium, 16 to 22½; Ordinary to Common, 13 to 15½; Dust and Broken Leaf, 8 to 12. Souchong: Finest, none; Medium, 23 to 26; Common to Fair, 17 to 22. Oolong: Quotations entirely nominal. Pekoe: Fine to Finest, 37 to 63. Scented Teas: Fine, none; Fair to medium, 19½ to 23. The Export to Great Britain and the Cape of Good Hope is 21,523,253 lbs.; against to same date last year, 30,962,665 lbs. To the Colonies, 5,354,989 lbs., against 8,591,811 lbs. To United States, 1,459,035 lbs., against 363,168 lbs.

CANTON.—There had been rather more business transacted in Scented Teas during the interval since last mail, at prices showing little or no change from those then ruling. The willingness of holders to accept former offers had occasioned the settlements effected, rather than any increased demand on the part of buyers.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.*—In consequence of the unsettled state of affairs in Europe all operations in Silk had been checked, and no business of any importance had taken place. Stocks were accumulating, and were at the close estimated at a little over 2,000 bales. Prices were lower, but quotations must be considered as nominal. In Silkworm Eggs settlements to date were estimated at 150,000 cards at prices ranging from $3 to 4 for Medium Annuals, and $4 to 5 for best.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.*—The outbreak of hostilities in Europe had put a complete stop to operations. Dealers reported that prices in the interior were still very high, and seeing the uncertainty as to how the foreign demand was likely to rule, were bringing no silk forward, nor did they show much inclination to accept lower prices and resume business. Settlements for the month were nil, and there was no unsold stock at this port. For the above reasons no quotations can be given. Silkworms' Eggs: Settlements by foreigners were of too trivial an amount to note. Shipments on native account still continued to Yokohama. Best Annual Green varieties were held for Rios 2.25 to 3.00 per card. Bivoltines, of which the greater part of the cards here consisted, were to be had at Rios 0.40 to 0.60 per card for Green descriptions and Rios 0.10 to 0.15 per card for White.

SHANGHAI.—During the few days previous to the departure of the present mail there had been more willingness on the part of sellers to allow further concession in prices for their silks, and this had caused buyers to enter the market; especially as they had been able to get their parcels on joint account with the natives, besides obtaining a decline of about 3s. to 3s. 6d. per lb. on their settlements. About 500 bales were reported settled upon this basis, and transactions were still being entered into. The arrivals from the interior had again been very limited, and the unsold stock was still estimated at 5,000 to 6,000 bales. The export to date was estimated at about 2,000 bales over last year's to same time.

CANTON.—The market was very quiet, and prices continued nominally without alteration.

INDIAN OCEAN.—EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO.

The following information has been received from Her Majesty's Consul at Batavia, 1870:—

Batavia Roads.—The following changes have been made in the buoyage of this roadstead:—The beacon with ball lately standing on the northern Struisvogel rock has been removed, and a white beacon buoy moored in its place. The convex buoy of the Neerstuk has been replaced by two white buoys moored on the north-west and south-east points of the reef. A second black buoy has been placed on the southeast point of the Neptunus reef. The buoys placed near the above dangers are fixed in such a manner that a vessel passing outside them may steer with safety either north or south, east or west, along the reefs off which they are moored.

SOUTH-EAST COAST OF BORNEO.—The commanding officer of the Dutch steamship Coehoorn reports that during her passage along the south-east coast of Borneo the vessel struck on a sandbank hitherto unknown. There is twelve feet water on the bank, and the position given is lat. 3 deg. 57 min. 30 sec. S., and long. 115 deg. 25 min. E. The commander of the steamship Betsy reports having struck on a reef with fifteen feet of water, near the southern entrance of Pulo Laut strait.

RED SEA.—PERIM ISLAND LIGHT.

The following copy of a telegram from the Bombay Government has been received, and is published for the information of mariners. "A new light at Perim about to be set up. During change the stationary (fixed) light from the Aden light ship will be substituted and placed on the flag staff at Perim about 150 yards due East of the old light. This temporary light will be erected on or about 26th Oct., and be visible from a distance of ten miles. A smaller light will be substituted on the Aden light ship to replace that sent to Perim."

JAVA SEA.—LIGHT ON PULO LEPAR.

The Government of Java has given notice that about the beginning of October, 1870, a newly established white light of the sixth order would be exhibited from Tanjang Laboc, the eastern point of Pulo Lepar, Macclesfield Channel. The light, which is visible from seaward in every direction, is exhibited from an elevation of 39 feet above the level of high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of eight miles. The above light will, in conjunction with that exhibited from Jelaka Island, facilitate the navigation of Macclesfield Channel by night. This notice affects the following Admiralty charts:—Gaspar Straits, No. 2,137; Eastern Archipelago, western portion, No. 941*a*; and Gaspar and Banca Straits, No. 2,149.

CHINA—EAST COAST.—NEW LIGHTS AND ALTERATION IN LIGHTS.

The Marine Commissioners-office at Shanghai has given notice that lighthouses are in the course of erection for the exhibition of the following lights on the East coast of China:—Lamock, white, Jan., 1872; Chapel, white, Jan., 1871; Chikseu, red, June, 1872; Turnabout, white, Jan., 1872; White Dogs, white, Jan., 1872; North Saddle, white, Sept., 1871; Sha-wei-shan, white, Jan., 1871; Shantung, white, Jan., 1872; Woosung, red, March, 1872; Square Island, white, March, 1872; Tiger Island, red, March, 1872; Newchwang light-vessel, white, April, 1871. Also the following alterations will be made in existing lights:—Tung-sha, at the entrance of the Yank-tze-Kiang, will, in December, 1870, be changed from a red revolving light to a white revolving light, of fourth order, dioptric. Lang-shan, Yang-tze-Kiang, a fixed white light, of sixth order, thirty-five feet above the sea, and visible six miles, will be plased in position in January, 1871. Little Kintoan, at entrance of Yang-tze-Kiang, will be discontinued on same date as the exhibition of Woosung light, viz., March, 1872.

(COMMUNICATED.)

I am sure your readers must have perused your Correspondent's letters upon the above subject with very great pleasure. As an old resident of the port, and as the first foreigner who ascended to the summit of the "Lu Shan" mountains alone, I need not inform you that I watched the account of his ramble amongst these celebrated hills with more than ordinary interest. I soon got upon his track, and, inasmuch as he was only enabled to obtain a very limited view of the grandeur of the scenes around and above him, I venture to offer you a short report of my ascent to the highest and most southernmost peak of the range, viz., the "Han Yang Fung."

Soon after my arrival at Kiukiang I contracted what was not inaptly termed the "Mountain Fever;" almost everyone who visits the port is struck with the majesty of these mountains. Standing upon the enormous plain immediately at the rear of Kiukiang, and rising, as it appears, almost perpendicularly, no sooner do the difficulties of such a feat present themselves than, in nine cases out of ten, the desire to make the ascent terminates in a pic-nic to the "Loong Tahu" and an expedition to the "Cock's-head Rock," the point I apprehend your correspondent describes. Not so, however, with myself. I soon sought to ally myself with other mounting spirits, but the one or two thorough paced climbers, considering mine as merely an outburst of the usual zeal, were indisposed to admit me into their confidences. Determined, however, to overcome their prejudice, accompanied by one friend only, I started on Monday, October 11, 1864.

An ascent of the Lu Shan mountains must not be thought of as a matter of an afternoon's walk; chairs, coolies, provisions for three days, and blankets, and, if the traveller intends making any observations, an aneroid, barometer and compass must be provided, also a few thousand copper cash, a dollar and, say, four quarter-dollars. Fully equipped with all the necessaries for the above named period we left Kiukiang at 6.30 A.M. on the 10th, taking the route via the "Loong Tahu" or Dragon's Pool,—where, as your correspondent states, the residents in Kiukiang had erected a bungalow, and where pic-nic parties were held throughout the summer—and arrived at the joss-house (temple) of Se Lum-Chee at 10.30 A.M. Here we found, much to our annoyance, that, in consequence of the absence of sleeping accommodation in the mountains, it would be necessary to remain until next day; otherwise we should be benighted, and most probably lose our way, if not our lives. This break in our journey, however, was not thrown away, for the scenery in the immediate neighbourhood is of itself well worth a visit. There is also quite close to the temple a large seven-storied Pagoda in a tolerable state of preservation. One of the numerous mountain torrents here finds a bed, supplying very excellent water to the neighbouring village and temple. We were immediately at the foot of the range, and in view of almost the whole of the gorge up which we had to wend our way, and which was crowned by a pagoda similar to the one we were standing by. The hills were covered with several very beautiful kinds of azalias, all in full bloom, and amid these surroundings we spent a most enjoyable day. Having completed our arrangements for the morrow, which included, besides the safe custody of our belongings during our absence, the engagement of a trusty guide—one of the wood-cutters who daily ascend the mountains for the purpose of procuring fuel—we turned in at an early hour upon some clean straw on the floor of the joss-house, and sought refreshment in sleep, to enable us the better to stand the fatigue in store for us. Half-past four on the morning of the 11th found us astir, and, after a good substantial but plain breakfast, we started off, preceded by our guide, at 5.30 A.M. The native women, nearly all of whom were up and about, having already despatched husbands and sons upon the day's work of wood-cutting, were much astonished on learning from our guide the object of our visit into those parts; and, as the Chinese are unable to comprehend any act which is undertaken without some immediate view to profit, the minds of the villagers were sorely puzzled, and, from the remarks made as we passed along, they were evidently of opinion that we were bound in search of some of the precious metals which are—perhaps not altogether erroneously—believed to be hidden in these mountains.

At an altitude of 2,000 feet stands the pagoda called Teen Che Fung, over against the village of Teen Che Sze. The gorge, here rising almost perpendicularly, is composed of a series of rocks, which wind round and round, and form a kind of natural staircase. The ascent is very fatiguing to those unaccustomed to this style of progression. We arrived at the top of this splendid pass at 8.30 A.M. (time three hours), having passed through a village called Sa Yin Shu, where there is a very substantial stone bridge, and a gateway—doubtless a memorial—some distance up the mountain, by name Chuck Yen Sze. At this place, after a short rest, I left my companion, and at 8.45 A.M. proceeded for the summit, taking the guide and one coolie, the latter carrying a bottle of champagne—my only refreshment until rejoining my companion. Soon I took a south-westerly direction, and descending some 500 feet into the valley which divides the two ranges, I came upon a small hamlet (with ruins of a temple) called the Quong Loong Sze. Two priests were here, and proved exceedingly civil and agreeable. From them I learnt the name of the principal peak, and obtained valuable information as to the route. A further ascent of some distance, along a path strewn with chips of wood, brought me to a small place called Woo She Chow, where seven or eight men were busily engaged making charcoal. This was the last inhabited place I met with, there being no tenements at a higher elevation. Soon after leaving this place, and bearing slightly to the left, all trace of the pathway was lost, and the remainder of the ascent was through grass, brushwood, and watercourses, the former often rising to over six feet high, the latter generally dry, or with only a small quantity of water trickling down them. The summer, which had been exceptionally hot, had been succeeded by a dry autumn, but the channels were sufficiently deep to show that in the rainy season the torrents must roll down these mountains with terrific force and volume. As may be imagined, this portion of the journey was most difficult, and many a time I was on the point of giving up, as the obstacles in front appeared more formidable than any which I had yet encountered; but, notwithstanding the fatigue which I now began to feel, I pressed forward animated with the desire of achieving the object of my ambition. At noon I found myself on the summit of what there could be no doubt was the highest peak in the range, and which the guide assured me was no other than the celebrated Han Yung Fung.

The weather was most favourable for my visit, and nothing intervened between where I stood and the blue vault overhead. From this standpoint a most extensive and charming view was obtained, embracing the Woo Low Fung, or five old peaks—the most venerated cluster in this range—the Se Lum Che Pagoda, the city of Nang Kong Foo and pagoda, and a large extent of the Poyang Lake. Time occupied in ascent, 6½ hours.

After a rest of twenty minutes and a draught of champagne, specially retained for the summit, I commenced to descend—having first placed my card, with a few particulars of my visit, in the empty bottle, and covered the same over with stones, thus forming a sort of cairn—reaching my companion at the gateway before mentioned at 3.30 P.M. We then continued the descent to Se Lum Che, which place we reached at 5.25 P.M., having been absent twelve hours all but five minutes, and I walking, with occasional rests, the whole of the time. A good dinner, over which I recounted to my friend the success I had achieved and the incidents I had met with, closed in the evening of this eventful day, and after a good night's rest we started for Kiukiang at 6.30 A.M. on the 12th, calling at the Loong Tahu to enjoy a bath in the Dragon's Pool, and reaching our homes at 1.35 P.M.

We saw no game or wild animals on this trip, but the hamlets are many of them walled round, and the inhabitants say that such a precaution is necessary to keep out the wild boar; tigers and panthers must also be hidden in the jungle, as I have seen the skins of these animals exhibited about Kiukiang with every sign of having been newly slain. Snakes are numerous. I have made many excursions of a similar nature to this, both in the North and South of China, and I can bear testimony to the civility and kindness of the country people. Curiosity they always exhibit, and their slight-of-hand is sometimes anything but pleasant; but hatred or ill-will I have seldom seen. The height of the Lu Shan Mountains, computed by barometrical readings, was 5,500 feet; the time occupied in ascent and descent five minutes under twelve hours. My zeal for mountaineering was thus vindicated, and, as a reward for my perseverance, I was thenceforth particularised as Vice-President of the Kiukiang Alpine Club.

THE PRESS AND CORRESPONDENTS ON THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

The Globe says:—In Mr. Hammond's letter no sort of mention is made of the ports of Tientsin and Newchwang, where most undoubtedly the most imminent peril exists, both on account of the hostile agencies there at work and also because from the middle of this month until the middle of March the foreign residents are kept prisoners by the ice, which as effectually prevents any aid coming to their support as it renders their escape impossible. On the other hand, at Shanghai, beyond a few vague rumours, nothing has occurred to show that there is any danger imminent; and a strong guarantee of security exists in the presence of a large volunteer force and of a no inconsiderable fleet of men-of-war and merchant ships, which crowd the harbour at all seasons of the year. The telegram from Mr. Wade which we published on Monday stated that Newchwang was "unsafe." What possible protection, we would ask, can the battalion of marines which "are about to be sent to China," or the detachment of infantry which, in case of emergency, the Admiral has orders to land at Shanghai, afford to the British residents at that ice-bound port during the approaching winter? If the Government wishes to maintain peace in China, the surest way is promptly to show to the Chinese that we have both the power and the will to protect our fellow-subjects from outrage and wrong. To leave British subjects in places which are "unsafe," without sufficient protection, is to invite attack and precipitate a war.

The Post says:—Previously to the receipt of the latest news we had been led to suppose that matters were being satisfactorily arranged in China. We had telegrams from Mr. Wade breathing peace; we had accounts of investigations by high mandarins, and we had assurances that justice was to be meted out in the shape of death and banishment to those most prominently compromised in the Tientsin massacre. Our Government appears to have taken a rather easygoing view of the question. There were apparent evidences of a want of energetic action and good faith on the part of the Chinese Government. A manifestation of physical force, whether that force were to be applied or not, was desirable. The French were not in a position to compel reparation. But the cause was not that of France only. All foreigners were threatened. Our Government has hesitated to adopt adequate measures of precaution. The consequences may be most serious to ourselves. Indeed, as it is, it is doubtful if the winter will pass over without some of the foreign settlements in China being attacked. Everything tends to show that an extensive organisation adverse to all "foreign devils" exists in China, and that it has been deliberately set in motion.

Mr. Magniac, M.P., writes to The Times:—The China question is of such exceeding interest that I do not hesitate to request the publication of the accompanying letter from the Foreign-office, which explains itself. I need not take up your space with the preceding correspondence, but, with reference to statements which have appeared, I may perhaps be permitted to say that the body of merchants hav strictly confined their recommendations to the adoption of such measures as would, in their judgment, prevent any momentary outbreak of the populace, unchecked at the outset, from spreading into a general attack upon foreigners. Our anxious desire has been to avert the recurrence of a China War, from which none of our countrymen would suffer more seriously than ourselves, and none, I may assert with confidence, would on grounds of humanity deplore more sincerely.

"FOREIGN-OFFICE, Oct. 29.

"Sir,—I have laid before Earl Granville your letter of the 27th inst., inquiring whether there is any truth in the report contained in a telegram said to have been received from Bombay that troops were about to be sent to China from Madras, and I am directed to say that neither the India-office nor the Foreign-office has any knowledge of such a movement. The report may, indeed, have originated in a native regiment being about to be sent to Hong Kong, in the ordinary course of service, to relieve the native regiment which has been there for the last two years.

"There can be no doubt that Sir Henry Kellett will take all such measures as may be found necessary and practicable for the protection of British subjects in China, if any special measures are required for the purpose. There is nothing later from Mr. Wade than his telegram of September 26, which has been published, or from the Admiral than a despatch to the Admiralty of the 22nd of August; but he appeared satisfied with the precautionary measures he had taken for the protection of the ports, at each of which a vessel of war is stationed.

"A battalion of Marines will be shortly sent to China to be at the disposal of the Admiral, and if he and Mr. Wade should be of opinion that British interests at Shanghai are in danger they are instructed to draw from Hong Kong or Japan a detachment of infantry, which, in case of emergency, might be landed for the purposes of protection, and which could remain on shore until the danger was past.—I am, Sir, your most obedient, humble servant, "E. HAMMOND.

"Charles Magniac, Esq., M.P."

THE TRIESTE ROUTE.

We have been favoured with a letter from a correspondent travelling by this route. Our present correspondent writes from Trieste, to which place he had travelled from London without experiencing any difficulty, except the delay of few hours between Brussels and Mayence, which was caused by extra trains containing horses and munitions of war. There is reason to believe that the train by which our correspondent travelled is often many hours late, and sometimes a whole day behind time, so that travellers should, for the present at least, make their arrangements so as to admit of some detention on that part of the journey. From Mayence to Vienna, and again from Vienna to Trieste, the express trains keep good time. To do the journey comfortably, travellers should start on Monday morning, and stop at Brussels on Monday night, and next morning book for Mayence, where they will be due about nine P.M. It is on this part of the journey only that delays are to be expected, and the effect of them may be obviated if they spend the night of Tuesday at Mayence, and, starting the next day at one P.M. (which gives plenty of time), book through to Vienna, where they will arrive at ten on Thursday morning. They can then spend the day at Vienna, sleep there on Thursday night, and at seven A.M. on Friday take the train which is due at Trieste at 9.30 P.M. the same day. They have thus the whole of Saturday to secure their berths, &c., as the steamer sails at midnight on Saturday. By travelling continuously the time might be considerably shortened, but persons who do not like more than twelve or fifteen hours of railway travelling at a stretch, and are anxious to provide against disappointment, should take the trains indicated above. Travellers should provide themselves with refreshments for the railway journey between Brussels and Vienna, as the trains stay so short a time at the stations, especially when behind time, that it is impossible to obtain satisfactory refreshment at them. Between Vienna and Trieste no such precaution is necessary, as plenty of time is allowed for breakfast, luncheon, and dinner at the buffets.

THE EXHIBITION OF 1871.

The war now raging on the Continent will doubtless deprive the Exhibition of 1871 of many specimens of French and German industry, which under other circumstances would have found a place within its walls. An opportunity is, consequently, presented to our friends in the Far East of securing a much larger extent of space for the display of their contributions than would have fallen to their share had there been no interference with the progress of Continental manufacture. With reference to the last Exhibition, great complaints were made that the productions of the Far East were either pushed into some obscure corner or refused for want of space. This is not likely to be the case next year; and we may, therefore, hope that that vast quarter of the globe may be represented with the prominence which is due to the value and extent of its productions.

The Juno, corvette, 6 guns, 1,462 tons, 400-horse power, Captain J. K. E. Baird commander, has sailed with the detachment of Marines which is ordered for service on the China station. Several additional appointments of officers have been made and, we subjoin the complete list:—Colonel Fleetwood Richards, commanding; Capt. E. B. Snow, Brevet-major C. W. Burton, Capt. A. H. H. Walsh, Capt. P. R. Holmes, Lieut. St. A. St. John, Lieut. G. A. Heseltine, Lieut. C. S. F. Fagan, Lieut. J. H. Sandwith, Lieut. B. St. L. Denny, Lieut. S. Polkinghorne, Lieut. A. C. Smyth, Lieut. H. O. P. Wright. The staff consists of Capt. J. D. Broughton, Paymaster; Second Capt. A. Hill, Adjutant; Lieut. E. O. B. Gray, Quartermaster; Surgeon John Caldwell, Assistant-surgeon W. H. Putsey.

THE CHARGE OF LIBEL AGAINST THE "INSURANCE TIMES."—At the Central Criminal Court, before the Recorder of London, Mr. Cornelius Walford, barrister, and editor of the Insurance Times, surrendered on his bail to an indictment charging him with publishing a false and defamatory libel against Arthur Bower Forwood and James Russell Ross, underwriters at Lloyd's, in reference to alleged marine insurance frauds, and also with publishing the satire, knowing it to be false. The defendant pleaded guilty to the first count, but not guilty to the second. Mr. Metcalfe, on behalf of the defendant, admitted that the article which contained the libel had been published without due consideration, and stated that the defendant was now convinced that he had made an error in allowing the article to appear. Mr. Serjeant Parry, who appeared for the prosecution, said that the prosecutors had learned that the defendant had been a considerable sufferer by the proceedings which had been taken, and under these circumstances the prosecution would be satisfied if the defendant entered into recognisances to come up for judgment when called upon. The Recorder observed that the libel was of such a character that there was no other course left open for the prosecutors than to take proceedings. The defendant, however, had now done all that a gentleman could do, by apologising for his error, and he would therefore consent to the defendant entering into his own recognisances. This course was then adopted.

THE ALBERT LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.—The affairs of the Albert Life Assurance Company were before the Chief Clerk to Vice-Chancellor Bacon on the 29th ult, when the solicitor for the official liquidator stated that the order of Lord Justice James for meetings of the directors, shareholders, and policy-holders of the various companies to be held in London for the purpose of enabling them to express their views as to the reconstruction, and also to state their approval or disapproval of the scheme, had not yet been carried out, because it seemed that there was an inability on the part of the official liquidators to devise any satisfactory basis upon which the meetings should be held and proceed. They intend to apply next term for instructions. Another application was made yesterday to Lord Justice James for directions with reference to the meeting which had been ordered by his Lordship. His Lordship said it was no part of his view that a meeting of the shareholders should be held before a meeting of the creditors. The meeting of creditors should include all persons claiming to be creditors in respect of policies or otherwise of the respective companies. Notice of the meeting should be given not only by letter, but also by advertisement, to those who had made claims. As to the creditors in India, &c., the substance of the proposed arrangements should be telegraphed to them, and advertised there, and the time for the meeting should be fixed in a reasonable manner, so as to admit of the communication of their opinions.

Social Life of the Chinese; a Daguerreotype of Daily Life in China. By the Rev. Justus Doolittle; edited and revised by the Rev. Paxton Hood. London: Sampson Low and Marston.—We have received a copy of the above work, which we heartily commend to the perusal of our readers. Those unacquainted with the peculiar manners and customs of the Celestial Empire will obtain in its pages an instructive record of the character and habits of all classes, while those even whose knowledge of China is the result of residence in the country and of consequent personal experience will derive great amusement from the manner in which the ludicrous aspect of many social observances is presented. The text is supplemented almost on every page by woodcuts, which, while they embellish the work, serve in addition to render the details of Chinese life and character clear to the eye in their every detail. The general "get up" of the book is extremely good; indeed marvellously so when the low price—8s. 6d.—at which it is published is taken into consideration.

THE RAILWAY PLANT FOR JAPAN.—We recently noticed that tonnage had been engaged by Mr. Lay's orders for the rails and other appliances for the proposed railways in Japan. We now subjoin a list of the quantities by each vessel:—Grenadier, 200 tons, sailed; Kate Covert, 850 tons, sailed (50 tons construction); Vale of Doon, 800 tons, sailed; River Avon, 250 tons, loading; Fire Queen, 900 tons, nearly complete; Iloine, 800 tons, loading; Serica, 150 tons, loading; John R. Worcester, 250 tons, engaged. The Benvenue, Iloine, Vale of Doon, and River Avon also take a quantity of material, including telegraph poles, &c. The Burmah takes from Glasgow the necessary sleepers.

IN the current number of Fraser's Magazine there is an article entitled "The Present Condition of China," written by a resident, which is a most interesting article, evidently based on a wide experience. It begins with a very startling statement—that in the course of the last twenty years the vast population of China "has been reduced nearly one-half." There must surely be some exaggeration here. The writer attempts to show that the original cause of almost all rebellions in China is simply want of food.

A WORK in two volumes is announced for publication by Mr. John Murray, under the following title:—A Voyage Round the World, touching at Australia, Java, Siam, Canton, &c.; by the Marquis de Beauvoir; translated from the French under the superintendence of the Author.

Commander A. C. May, late of Her Majesty's gunboat Opossum, on the China Station, who was promoted a short time since to his present rank while in command of that vessel, has arrived in England. Lieut. Martin J. Dunlop, who until lately commanded the Dove, is expected home.

We are glad to be able to inform our readers that although Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett is in a very delicate state of health, he writes in good spirits, and there is reason to believe he will not have to resign his command.

THE Rev. A. E. Moule, of Ningpo, is the author of a work which will be issued in a few days, entitled Chapters on China and the Chinese. A notice will appear in our next issue.

The Ellenborough, from Hong Kong with troops, now over five months out, is not yet reported.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR CEYLON.—Tenders have been invited for the conveyance of about 175 rank and file and officers for Colombo.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homœopathic preparation of Cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets labelled—JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

NORTH GERMAN CONFEDERATION.

HAMBURG, Nov. 1.

From the very commencement of the war, and after every action that has taken place, French prisoners were sent to Prussia for confinement in the fortresses at the greatest distance from their native country, and when these became overcrowded the strong places in the centre of the kingdom—Spandau, Magdeburg, Custrin, Minden, and Koneigstein—were made use of for the same purpose. But after the capitulation of Sedan, when accommodation had to be made for Marshal MacMahon's whole army, Prussia proposed to transfer a part of the burthen of looking after the safety of the prisoners to the other States of the North German Confederation, a proposal that of course met with no opposition, but, on the contrary, was received in the most patriotic spirit. It was therefore arranged that the prisoners of war should be partitioned between the different States in proportion to the number of their population at the last census, and thus about 1,500 were to fall to the share of Hamburg; but in consideration of the sacrifices made already by the inhabitants of this city—the large amount of aid afforded for the wounded, the vast sums voluntarily subscribed for the relief of the widows and orphans of the men killed in battle, the large share of the national war loan taken by Hamburg capitalists, and various other acts of an eminently patriotic and benevolent character—this city was spared as long as possible from the expense and inconvenience of having to take care of prisoners. Besides, there was the difficulty of finding a suitable place of safety to confine them in, as Hamburg is no longer a fortress, but an open town, and the common prison is not larger than is required for the safe keeping of civil prisoners convicted of crimes and misdemeanours, as in all other large and populous cities.

But when, after the capitulation of Strasburg, accommodation had to be provided for 20,000 more French prisoners, Hamburg felt she could no longer in justice and fairness take the benefit of the delicacy observed towards her by the other Sovereign States of the Confederation, and with her usual patriotic spirit volunteered to take charge of her share—an offer that was joyfully accepted by the King of Prussia, who sent a special telegram to the Senate to thank them. "Where there's a will there's a way," and it was soon decided to fit up a floating prison. Arrangements were therefore made with the Hamburg-American Steam Company to charter from them one of their large Transatlantic steamers, that in happier times ran between this city and New York, but are now thrown out of employment, and remain safely in port for fear of capture. The Teutonia was selected for this service, and being built of iron, with ample space for the accommodation of seven or eight hundred emigrants in the steerage and a hundred and fifty cabin passengers, she was admirably adapted for this novel duty, the only alteration found necessary being a temporary wooden hut built up on the deck as a guard-room, and this was soon accomplished. She now lies at moorings in midstream in the Elbe, with about seven hundred French prisoners on board. Being a shareholder in the company, I had no difficulty in going on board to inspect the arrangements. The prisoners, with many of whom I conversed, belong to every arm of the service, and among them were about fifty Zouaves and nearly as many Turcos. They were captured at various places—Weissenberg, Sedan, Toul, and Strasburg. They make no complaint of their accommodation or food, but consider themselves to have been betrayed and sold by their generals, or they would never have found themselves in their present plight. Many of them are decorated with medals for their campaigns in Mexico, Italy, and China, as well as for the Crimean war. They all believe they have been deceived and are grossly ignorant of the events that led to the war, and all that has happened since they became prisoners. I found their ideas of geography wonderfully confused, though most of them have served in some foreign war and ought to know better; thus till they crossed the Rhine they firmly believed that Berlin was situated on the banks of that river. Those on board the Teutonia are divided into three companies, only one of which is allowed to be on deck at the same time, and that only from sunrise to sunset. The guard consists of sixty men under a captain, furnised by one of the battalions of Landwehr in garrison here, one-third of the number being on duty as sentinels in different parts of the ship for two hours at a stretch, like the sentries on shore. The guard is relieved every day, and before the fresh detachment embarks they draw up on the quay and load their needle-guns with ball-cartridges. The prisoners are well fed, and as their stomachs are not accustomed to the black bread of the country, made of rye, and which is the common food of the German soldiers and the lower classes generally in this country, dysentry broke out, and since then they receive rations of white bread, made of wheat flour, which appears to agree with them better, for when I went on board there were only four patients in the hospital bays. At first the officers, who are accommodated in the cabins, were allowed to come on shore on certain days on parole, and they were frequently seen walking about in the streets; but as this permission was abused in some of the fortresses, strict orders have now been issued to deny all French officers and non-commissioned officers this privilege any longer; in consequence of which they complain loudly of ennui, and as we now get but few French newspapers here, and they are of course profoundly ignorant of the German language, they have nothing to read or amuse themselves with.

I have taken the trouble to make up from the official accounts the number of French prisoners now in Germany, and as it may interest many of you readers I subjoin it, as follows:—August 4, Weissenburg, 800; 6, Woerth, 4,000; 7, Saarbruck (Spicheren), 2,000; 9, Lutzeelstein and Lichtenberg, 800; 15, before Metz, 4,000; 16, Marsla-Tour, 2,000; 30, before Metz, 20,000; Sept. 1, before Sedan, 28,000; 2, at Sedan 4,000 officers, 83,000 rank and file, and 14,000 wounded; 23, Toul, 2,350; 25, Versailles, 300; 27, Strasburg, 20,000; 30, before Paris, 300; Oct. 10, Artenay, 2,000; 16, Suissons, 4,733; 17, Montdidier, 182; 18, Chateaudun, 2,000; 21, sortie from Paris, 100; 24, Schlettstadt, 2,400; 25, on the Aignon, 195; and now Metz, 173,000; making together a grand total of 371,860. We know further that in many of the minor engagements and sorties (particulars not given in the official telegrams) many prisoners were made; so that at the present moment there must be nearly 400,000 French prisoners in Germany. And Paris! what about the garrison there?

You will have informed your readers from other sources of negotiations that have been in progress for a truce of arms to allow the general elections for a national constituent Assembly taking place in France; but should they lead to any practical result, the question arises whether it would reflect the general feelings of the nation. Say that the above 400,000 fighting men represent a population of two million souls; Alsace and Lorraine, claimed by Germany, and certain to be excluded from voting, two millions more; other provinces of France from the Rhine to Orleans and Beaugency, now in the occupation of the German invaders, say only six millions, making at least ten millions, or nearly a third—at all events more than a fourth—of the whole population. Now let us suppose that the Republicans should have rather more than half of the remainder, and the Imperialists rather less, the Republicans would of course carry the day; but the above exclusions, or even only the 400,000 prisoners, if permitted to vote, might do so in favour of a restoration of the Emperor, or at least the Prince Imperial as Napoleon IV., and thus give a very different result to what is generally expected.

The Hamburg Correspondent contains the following under the head of Local Intelligence:—"Herr G. T. Siemssen, of this city and China, has paid over to the central office of the Associated Committees for the relief of the wounded Germans the sum of 10,125 mks. beo., as the proceeds of a remittance received from Herr Ferdinand Nissen and Herr Th. Wagner, at Shanghai, as the heads of the branch Association formed there for the support and relief of wounded German soldiers, on account of the sums subscribed for that purpose by the German residents at Shanghai, Ningpo, and Hankow. It must surely be considered as one of the most joyful appearances of the present war, already so rich in sublime episodes, that the Germans abroad give such tangible proofs of their devotion and sympathy with the national cause, and therefore this very handsome donation from compatriots living in a far-distant country is deserving of the warmest gratitude on the part of the Fatherland."

COMMERCIAL.

There is more doing in the Tea Market, and prices are well supported; among the sales by private contract were 900 chests Common Congou, 396 do. Moning Congou, 509 do. Kaisow Congou, 66 packages Younghaysan, 320/4 and 230/8 chests Souchong. A fair demand for Rice prevails, and full values are easily obtained; it appears that the reduction of the duty in the Zollverein has increased the consumption, as large quantities go daily to the interior. A cargo of 7,000 bags of Arracan, per Florence Danvers, has just been sold to a miller here. Cassia Lignea in very active demand, and higher prices paid. Pepper is also dearer, and large transactions are reported. Nothing to say about Spelter, except that prices are nominally the same, but lower offers would probably not be refused. The Money Market is easy, and the rate of discount unaltered.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.—Florence Danvers, from Akyab; Johann Cesar, from Apia (Navigators' Islands).

LOADING.—For Shanghai, Jurgen, August; for Singapore, John Fought; for Hong Kong, Jupiter.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 2.

The rumours of a Ministerial crisis become more and more definite. There is now no question that four Ministers will resign — viz., Mr. Lilaar, Mr. van Mulken, Mr. Roest van Limburg, and Mr. de Waal. Why Mr. Lilaar yields needs no explanation; his Ministerial career was a fiasco, and literally he has done nothing which tends to justify his appointment; he has not taken a single measure to improve our penal code, notwithstanding we still live under that which was decreed by Napoleon I. As regards Mr. van Mulken, the Minister of War, it seems that he fears for the sharp debate which, without doubt, will take place upon our means of defence, which, according to a great many letters published in our papers, are not in an efficient state, and it is even asserted that, notwithstanding many millions were expended, the condition of our army, fortresses, and water works are in anything but a good condition. That Mr. Roest wishes to transfer his portfolio to Mr. Gericke creates no surprise at all. Of more interest is it to hear that Mr. de Waal intends to resign. The Vaderland, which has a good deal of respect for this gentleman, assures us that the bad health of this minister compels him to ask the King to release him from his duties; but I am of opinion that he also is afraid to face Parliament. In a former letter I had occasion to state that the mysterious Royal decree, published by the official Java Courant, by which the agrarian law was set in operation, was applauded by our Conservatives. Of course this meant that the Liberal party was disappointed, and more than that, there is a general conviction that Mr. de Waal has played with the Liberals as a cat with mice. Perhaps never has any law caused so much trouble as the Agrarian Bill. After a party struggle of weeks and months, the Bill at last was approved of. The satisfaction was general, because everyone trusted the Liberal principles of Mr. de Waal. But when the Royal decree became known the disappointment was enormous, because the whole law is annulled by it, and under its stipulations it becomes quite impossible to cultivate the waste grounds of Java. It will be most difficult to obtain the necessary labour, and besides Mr. de Waal decreed so many conditions and restrictions that capitalists will decline to invest their money in these undertakings. I need not add that Mr. de Waal has thrown overboard his reputation of being a Liberal Minister, and notwithstanding that the India Budget was carried by an exceptionally large majority, his ordinary Budget would without the least doubt be outvoted had he had the hardiesse to wait for a vote of want of confidence. I say the hardiesse, and indeed this is the true word. The Royal decree, of which I spoke, created astonishment, but the last Java papers, received via Brindisi, were received with indignation, caused by the decrees of the Governor-General containing the reform of the Preanger system. In some circles Mr. Mirandolle is named as the successor of Mr. de Waal; the question, however, is—if he will incline to work with this Cabinet of half measures.

Telegraphic news, received here privately from Batavia, states that one of the most important commercial houses has stopped payment. When we review the very high reputation of the Dutch branch established here we may well fear for more failures in Java. The state of our trade is satisfactory; one shipowner and shipbroker stopped payment, but this is of small importance, the failure being expected. At the Bourse matters are very dull, and the greatest inactivity prevails. A good business, however, has been done in the dividends of the Trading Company, which now stand at f.83. Home funds remain unaltered. Notwithstanding that a general dulness prevails, it is curious to see how very little the prices of the several foreign bonds are affected by the war. The state of the Bank is very healthy, which proves much either for the sagacity of the directors or the soundness of our trade.

The election in Alkmaar has concluded with the return of Mr. van Foreest by a small majority—about 200 votes. It is, however, asserted that the Burgomaster of that place played a very strange part in this election, and some papers say that it would not be gentlemanlike of Mr. van Foreest to accept the seat. Mr. J. Baron Taets van Amerougen will resign his seat in the First Chamber.

A good deal of noise has been made because a French man-of-war has towed a German vessel, the Elise, of course as a prize, into the harbour of Flushing, whilst our Government did not take measures to compel that vessel to quit the neutral harbour within twenty-four hours after her arrival. The Elise, however, when entering the harbour, came in contact with another vessel, and was so much damaged that she is not seaworthy.

Yesterday evening H.M.S. Argus left Flushing, bound for Java. The question now is, if she will reach her destination without further misfortunes. H.M.S. de Doumel, which returned some days ago from a trip in the North Sea, is said to be unseaworthy. I think it is high time to inspect the seaworthiness of our naval officers; it is not to be credited that these costly vessels should be built in such a manner that they should not be able to cross the ocean.

According to a Royal decree, the second lieutenants of the East India army, who are in Holland, are to join the Infantry Corps, to receive further instruction. The recruiting office in Harderwyk, where soldiers for the East India army are enrolled, will be reorganised. Colonel Seelig will be pensioned.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The last Trading Company's coffee auction met with a full attendance of buyers, and the competition manifested at the same caused the whole to be disposed of at an advance, which has continued since to be fully maintained, and the market looks very healthy. Sugar continues to exhibit a firm appearance, which likewise is the case with most other leading articles of produce, in which, however, there has been, upon the whole, but little stirring since my last report.

COFFEE.—A healthy tone continued to prevail in the market since the public sale, the result of which I reported in my last, but the business done from first hands privately has been confined to a very few unimportant lots. Holders generally keep back. Stock of the Trading Company, 261,000 bales; private stock, 43,000 bales.

TEA—in consequence of the favourable result of the last auction, has somewhat advanced, and 85c. to 88c. is paid for Congou. Stocks: 6,800 chests China, and 8,400 chests Java.

SUGAR continues firm, but the inquiry has been checked by the high demands of importers. Sales have, consequently, only been to a limited extent. Java of the new crop has sold afloat in the proportion of f.¼ to f.⅜ above September value, and buyers can be found for shipments near at hand at f.1 above September.

JAVA TOBACCO.—The public sales of 6,486 b. Java, of sundry marks, to be held here to-morrow, have been increased by 1,017 bales, mark J C and H V R; and next Friday 2,108 bales Java will be put up for sale by public auction at Amsterdam, whilst offers at secret tender are invited there on the 5th inst. for 2,148 bales Java.

BANCA TIN.— Rather more inquiry has been manifested for this article, which resulted in some transactions at f.73½, f.73¼, and f.73, since when f.73¼ is again demanded. Contracts have been closed for delivery, ex the next spring sale, at f.72, which price has subsequently been raised to f.73. Total stock, 175,285 slabs; stock of Billiton, 6,300 slabs.

SPICES.—Although prices are firmly maintained in the proportion of the quotations established at the late Trading Company's public sale, no transactions of note have taken place since the same. Sales are reported of 30 lots Nutmegs, No. 1, at 126c. Stock on warrants in the Trading Company's stores:—Nutmegs, 3,628 casks; Mace, 343 casks; Cloves, 2,960 casks; Cinnamon, 33 packages.

RICE.—The demand remains on the whole inactive, and prices are barely supported.

RATTANS.—Little doing; 150 piculs, ex Dageraad, changed hands on secret terms.

COCOA-NUT OIL is quiet; prices are nominally maintained.

HIDES.—The following parcels have changed hands since my last report, viz.: 275 Cow (Sourabaya), ex Glenduror; 200 Padang Cow, ex Walcheren; 100 Samarang do., ex Vooruit; 313 Cheribon Buffalo, ex Lichstraal; 297 do., ex Jacoba Helena. At Amsterdam sales have been closed by private contract of 2,045 Samarang Ox, which belong to the parcels lately offered there for sale by secret tender, and which were not taken.

JAVA INDIGO.—About 70 chests changed hands on slightly reduced terms. Some further supply of this article came to hand here per Maria Louise Antoinette, which will soon be placed on the market.

PRESERVED GINGER.—330 chests China, ex Esmeralda, from Canton, were put up for auction, 270 chests of which passed the hammer at 70c. to 72c., and 60 chests were bought in.

COTTON.—A dull tone has prevailed in the middle, but has been followed up towards the close of the week by renewed firmness, and prices have again hardened.

ARRACK.—225 casks Sourabaya, ex Equator, 50 ditto ex Glenduror, 50 ditto ex Weljekset, and 50 casks Batavia, ex Glenduror, changed hands on secret terms.

SHIPPING.

UNITED STATES.

The Franco-Prussian War promises to affect a newly-inaugurated branch of American industry in a manner scarcely foreseen. The silk trade of Southern France has, in consequence of recent events, been almost suspended, and the latest advices from Japan inform us that orders of silkworm eggs and silk for the European market have entirely stopped. The attention of European factors has thus been drawn to the experiment commenced a year or two since in California. From time to time occasional paragraphs in our Californian contemporaries inform us of the prosperity of the silk-growing colony planted on the western slopes of the Sierras, but the attention of the general public has not been so fully attracted as the subject demands. If the attempt to supersede China and Japan as the great staple-producing marts be successful, it is difficult to foresee the vast extent of the trade in silk which would owe its inception to American enterprise.

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA.

The following is an extract from a letter written by the Rev. Griffith John, of Hankow, on Missionaries in China:—

"It is reported that when Sir Rutherford Alcock left Peking Prince Kung expressed a wish that 'he would carry with him to England the opium and the missionaries.' The story is, I have no doubt, quite true. Knowing that the missionary question does not weigh a feather with the British Government, that the sentiments of the English Minister are most unfriendly to the missionary enterprise, and that the English treaty is in reality simply a bread-and-butter treaty, it was quite natural for the Prince to speak of the missionaries in the way he did. It is not at all probable that he will express himself in exactly the same terms to the French minister on his departure from the capital. It would, doubtless, have been gratifying to Prince Kung to see all the missionaries taking their leave of China along with Sir Rutherford Alcock, but it would have pleased his Highness still more to see Her Majesty's Minister carrying with him the Legations from Peking and the merchants from the ports. But what would have been the use of suggesting such a thing to the guardian of our 'material interests' in this great country? Let no one imagine that the Chinese authorities look upon the Protestant missionaries as compared with other foreigners in the same light in which they look upon opium as compared with other merchandise."

OUR POSITION IN CHINA.—REST AND BE THANKFUL.

THE Foreign-office has at length been induced to speak out in reference to its China policy, and complete disappointment for all who had hoped that it was at length beginning to understand its duty in connection with this subject is the result. Mr. HAMMOND'S reply to inquiries instituted by Mr. CHARLES MAGNIAC (which will be found in another column) fully bears out the convictions which we have expressed from the first, that there was no foundation for the recent rumour that troops were being despatched from India. Neither is there anything in Mr. HAMMOND'S letter to encourage the idea that the naval and military commanders in China have yet been authorised to depart in any way from the instructions imposed on them after the affair of Yangchow. It is true that private telegrams have been received at Liverpool to the effect that a large screw steamer had been chartered at Bombay to convey troops from that port to China; but, Mr. HAMMOND'S letter, if it shows anything, seems to show that no weight can be attached to this information. Meanwhile every fresh telegram brings new evidence of the energy with which the Chinese Government are pushing forward their preparations for war. We learn to-day that they continue to import large quantities of ammunition, arms, and cannon; and they have already launched four gunboats, mounting ten guns each, at Shanghai. It is clear that the Ministry has either not been so well-informed on these matters as private individuals, or that it has culpably kept the country in the dark concerning the dangers which they are suffering—we might almost say encouraging—the Chinese to accumulate round our countrymen. And yet this last manifesto of the Foreign-office reveals no more than the fact that nothing whatever has been done, and the Government still clings so obstinately to the delusions concerning China, which it cherished before we heard of the affair at Tientsin, that it treats the lives and property of our countrymen as not worthy of even a promise of better protection. To such a pass has the inactivity of the Government reduced our status in the Far East. Our trade with China may slip from our grasp, all hopes of improving our position in the country are melting away; but our Government will not see any danger or lift a finger to save the interests at stake.

OUR CHINA POLICY IN 1847 AND 1870.

THE following extract from a despatch from Lord PALMERSTON to Sir JOHN DAVIS in 1847 presents a striking contrast to the letter from the Foreign-office to Mr. MAGNIAC, which appears in another column:—

"With reference to the measures which the British residents at Canton are taking for their defence against attacks by the Chinese mob, I have to state to you that I do not think it advisable to discourage the British residents from forming themselves into an armed association for their common and mutual defence against such attacks. On the contrary, it seems to me that such a measure is wise and expedient. I consider that Mr. Consul MACGREGOR proceeds on an entirely erroneous principle, in thinking that organisation for defence is dangerous by tending to irritate the mob. The foreigners should of course abstain from any act of aggression or provocation towards the Chinese, but they are much more likely to be attacked if they are unable to defend themselves than if they are prepared to resist aggression."

REVISION OF THE JAVA TARIFF.

ON the 3rd of July, 1865, the existing Java tariff was instituted in Holland. The last article enacts that it shall only remain in force till the 1st of January, 1872, and a revisal must thus be prepared during the present session of the Dutch Parliament. This stipulation about a revision had no other significance than to indicate that the tariff was a first and an important step towards a liberal system, and that, at its expiration, the differential duties would be further decreased, in order—as was stated by the Dutch Minister of the Colonial Department in his minute of reply to the section report upon the East India Budget—to equalise the interests of all nations which take part in the Java trade. Such a liberal policy, the Minister indicated, will contribute to the prosperity and tranquillity of Java, and will tend to strengthen the Dutch authority. Mr. DE WAAL seems by this to be guided by the best principles, and the question only remains whether he will apply them. During recent discussions in the Dutch Parliament much doubt has been expressed respecting the policy of this Minister, and one of the leading members of the Liberal party, Mr. MIRANDOLLE, termed him a man of half-measures, hesitating, and undetermined—one who preached Liberal principles, but did not apply them. It will, however, be very difficult for any Minister to check a liberal revisal of the said tariff, because public opinion in Holland is decidedly in favour of it. Of course there is a small party of Protectionists in Holland, as elsewhere, who maintain that foreign trade with Java must be checked by differential customs duties, which system, they argue, has encouraged Dutch industry. It is, however, a favourable sign that these assertions do not find favour in the eyes of the parties chiefly concerned, the Dutch public, and that both the Hague Union, for promoting trade and industry, and the principal manufacturers of Twenthe (the Dutch Manchester) are in opposition to a policy of protection. They are unquestionably in the right; experience has shown that a liberal policy in trade alone promotes the general welfare. By the law of the 3rd July, 1865, the protection of the import of Dutch articles in Java was decreased from 12½ to 10 per cent., but, nevertheless, there has been a continuous increase of export from Holland. For instance, official returns show that the export of one of the principal articles—cotton goods of Dutch manufacture—advanced from 8,877,758 guilders in 1865 (differential duty 12½ per cent.) to 13,910,893 guilders in 1869 (differential duty 10 per cent.). Another fact may be cited. In 1865 the duties on the export from Holland to Java of books, wax-candles, and millinery goods were abolished. In that year the export of books, with certificate of Dutch origin, was 59,383 florins, while for the present year the value has been 90,290 florins. A corresponding increase is observable in candles, the comparative figures being 9,730 florins and 49,638 florins, while the exports of millinery goods have advanced in value from 26,750 florins to 71,608 florins. These figures are more eloquent than any arguments. If a further reduction of the differential import duties be advisable, still more desirable is it that they should be abolished gradually on the export of articles from Java. By the law of 1865 the export duties are maintained on indigo, coffee, sugar, and tin. Trade in Java, however, cannot flourish until such time as the island is made an open market for the whole world and equal rights are granted to all nations. The time has happily gone by when the idea prevailed Holland could be the only market for Java produce.

THE PACIFIC MAIL COMPANY'S CHINA SERVICE.

THE Pacific Mail Steam Company of New York has now engaged in its China Service, actively and in reserve, ten paddle-wheel steamers, comprising an aggregate capacity of more than 31,000 tons. The larger portion of this tonnage is employed in the Trans-Pacific Service, making one round voyage a month between San Francisco and Hong Kong, calling each way at Yokohama. The other portion is employed in making three round voyages a month through the inland sea of Japan, between Yokohama and Shanghai, calling each way at Hiogo and Nagasaki. Under contract with the United States' Government for the conveyance of the Mails, the Trans-Pacific Service was begun on the 1st of January, 1867, since when thirty-seven round voyages, comprising 480,000 miles' steaming, have been made on that route. The Inland Sea Service was begun on July 28, 1867, since when seventy-two round voyages, comprising 173,000 miles' steaming, have been made on that route. The Company has thus made a total of 109 round voyages and 653,000 miles' steaming in less than three years, and the result has been so satisfactory that, in view of the increasing traffic on both lines, it is already in contemplation to make the Trans-Pacific Service bi-monthly instead of monthly. We are much more disposed to congratulate the Pacific Mail Company on the success they have so well deserved than to cavil at the monopoly of the Pacific by a purely American service. The possession of San Francisco, which the discovery of the gold-fields developed as it did our own Melbourne, at once placed the Americans in the best position to carry out this line; and we believe that, keen as are our ship-owners in competing for the trade of the world, any attempt to interfere with the Pacific Mail Company on this line would be unprofitable and hazardous. There is nothing to wound our national pride in this concession. The English flag enjoys the virtual monopoly of the vast Atlantic trade, and we can afford to America the supremacy on the Pacific the more readily because we learn that the rumoured intention of the Pacific Company to run steamers via the Suez Canal and the Red Sea is entirely unfounded.

To enable this Company to enter with fair prospects of success on the more frequent service proposed on the Pacific, they have applied to the United States Government for a pro rata increase of subsidy—i.e., $500,000—making a total of $1,000,000 per annum for the bi-monthly service. In anticipation of this concession the Company is now engaged in preparing drawings and models of iron screw steamers of 5,000 tons each, with a speed of about twelve or thirteen knots loaded. These steamers it is intended to run alternately with the large paddle-wheel steamers — the screws to carry cargo and Chinese passengers mainly, thus giving more room for cargo with cabin passengers in the paddle-boats. Such a line, it is believed, would be fully commensurate with the requirements of cargo and passengers for years to come, and with the object of thoroughly building up and fostering such a line, the Company intends to restrict itself to the limits of its present routes, and not to enter upon routes already sufficiently developed by other companies, unless compelled to do so in self-defence. The principal object which the United States Government had in view in establishing the China Mail Service was avowedly commercial development; and the postal service, though essential as a means of promoting commercial intercourse, was regarded as incidental and of secondary importance. In 1865, when the law was passed authorising the present service, the commerce between California and Asia, then limited to exchanges with the British colony of Hong Kong, was nearly stationary or declining; America had scarcely any trade with Japan or Northern China, and her general Asiatic trade was languishing and passing into other hands. This condition of affairs continued until 1867 and 1868, when new facilities for regular and rapid transportation of goods, movement of passengers, and interchange of correspondence, began to produce the results contemplated by Congress in the establishment of this line of steamships. American trade with Asia began to increase largely; a valuable traffic sprang up between California and Japan, and an important trade with Shanghai and ports of Northern China. At the same time, and particularly since the Pacific Railroad has been completed, a considerable and increasing passenger business, previously enjoyed by the competing lines of British and French steamships, via Suez, has been diverted to the American route, which will be largely increased by the establishment of a bi-monthly steamship service from San Francisco.

The following returns, from official sources, show the growth of the trade with Japan and China since this service was established:—

The mails transported between San Francisco and ports of Japan and China have also rapidly increased in extent and importance, as shown by the statements of the amounts of postage collected thereon. The United States postage amounted in 1867 to $3 556.45, in 1868 to $9,990 87, in 1869 to $15,327.26; and the returns so far received for 1870 show a proportionate increase. This does not include the correspondence conveyed by these steamers from Hong Kong to America, the entire postages on which accrue to the Colonial Government of Hong Kong, in accordance with the provisions of the postal convention of that Colony.

The results already gained by the China Mail service have been secured without the aid of the Pacific Railroad, which will hereafter lend a powerful influence in developing and extending American commerce in the direction of Asia, while it will itself derive a large part of its usefulness and profit from the same source. There is no doubt that the increasing trade now justifies the doubling the service on the Japan and China line; and, as the Pacific Mail Company have always performed their contracts to the entire satisfaction of the Government of the United States, and as Great Britain will largely participate in the facilities of more frequent communication now proposed, we hope that the additional subsidy will speedily be granted by Congress, and we cordially wish the Company every success in their new and spirited enterprise.

By the arrival of the last mail, due on the 31st ult., we are enabled to congratulate the Post-office on having made the Brindisi route an established fact; but we regret that our congratulations on the delivery of the letters and papers by the same line must be for the present deferred. Although the mails reached London at six o'clock on Sunday evening, and therefore in good time for delivery by the first post on Monday morning, only a small portion of the correspondence found its way to its destination by that time, and newspapers and packets continued to come in by driblets during the day, so that the bulk of them was not delivered before five in the afternoon. This shows a great want of organisation at the Post-office, but no doubt some part of the delay was attributable to the loss of time involved in calculating the extra postage which the authorities thought proper to charge. Both letters and papers were stamped "insufficient," and an extra penny was demanded for the latter and threepence extra for the former. This is not strictly fair, because both letters and papers were correctly prepaid for the Marseilles route as usual, and we think that the Post-office, with its enormous revenues, might have afforded to swallow the very small cost of sending via Brindisi on this occasion, seeing that no notice had been given of the alteration or its consequences. While on this subject we cannot but observe that the present exorbitant rates of postage between England and the Far East must soon engage public attention. One shilling and sevenpence for a letter to or from China is simply intolerable.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS ASSOCIATION.

At the meeting of this Society, held on the 28th ult., and referred to in our last issue, the following resolutions were passed:—

1. That having considered the report of a committee appointed by the Legislative Council of the Straits Settlements to inquire into the expenditure upon Government House, the Association find the same to be fully confirmatory of the views expressed by them to the Secretary of State as to the extravagance of the outlay. That the question at issue is not whether the building now erected be or be not worth the money spent in construction, but whether an edifice of such pretentious vescription be not out of all proportion to the requirements of the serdice and the revenue of the colony, and calculated to entail upon future Governors an outlay which is conducive neither to dignity nor utility, and which has been hitherto unknown in the Settlement.

Digitized by Google

2. That it distinctly appears by the report of the committee that a sum of $4,511 constituting a portion of the outlay on Government House was nevertheless entered to another account, that this proceeding is strongly condemned by the committee, and this unfortunate disclosure (confirmatory as it is, of reports before widely credited) having given rise to a scandal in the colony, derogatory to the character of the Government, it is the opinion of this Association that special inquiry is called for, and that the Secretary of State be respectfully but urgently requested to institute a searching inquiry into the matter.

3. That it is with the greatest satisfaction that the Association learn that the Secretary of State has ordered an inquiry to be instituted into the civil establishments of the Straits Settlements, but the Association deem it highly important that this inquiry be extended to the expenditure of the colony, under a close and detailed examination of the accounts of the several departments.

4. That in view of the continued dissatisfaction existing in the Straits Settlements with the position of the Judges of the Supreme Court, and after call made on this body by the Singapore Association, on the question of judicial independence, the Association pledge themselves to further efforts, in order to effect the restoration of the Judges to the position held before the transfer.

Monetary and Commercial.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £295,782; to Bombay, £100,000; and to Madras, £4,217. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10d. on all the Presidencies, and tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 10⅛d. will receive about 35 per cent., and on Bombay at that rate at about 39 per cent. above in full. These results show a slight increase in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

The mail and passenger service to Australia and New Zealand, via San Francisco, which was commenced in May last under a temporary postal contract with the Colonial Governments, having proved successful, will, we are informed by the English agents Messrs. H. Starr and Co., be continued under a permanent arrangement, and a superior class of boats, it is said, will replace those now plying between the coasts of California and Australia The departures are monthly, either way, and the route includes the Great Trans-Continental Railway across the American continent.

The directors of the Singapore Gas Company have issued their report for the half-year ending 30th June. The profits for the half-year are £1,564, and the directors recommend a dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum on the preference capital, and 7 per cent. per annum on the amounts paid-up on the original capital. At a meeting held on the 25th the chairman, Mr. Stephenson, said that the financial position of the company had been improved. The cost of plant was £65 less than in the corresponding half of last year. The profit and loss account was better by £400 than in the corresponding half of last year. The general charges and return passages of their employes were heavy this half-year; and Mr. Wells, their engineer and manager, had recommended the establishment of a reserve fund to equalise the charges under that head. Their manager had recently sailed for Singapore, and they had no doubt on his arrival that he would continue to carry on their affairs in the same efficient way as he had hitherto done. The death of Mr. B. J. Clarke had caused a vacancy in the direction, but they did not think it desirable to fill up the vacancy until the next general meeting. Mr. B. Cooke seconded the motion for the adoption of the report, which, after a short discussion, was carried; the dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum, less Income-tax, on the preference capital, and at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum on the ordinary capital, free of Income-tax, was declared for the half-year ending the 30th of June last, payable on the 30th of November. The proceedings concluded with thanks to Mr. Wells, the manager, to the local committee in Singapore, and to the chairman and directors.

On the 1st November a call of £1 fell due on the China Submarine Telegraph shares, making £6 paid.

The four new steamers which are under construction by Messrs. Caird and Co., of Greenock, for the P. and O. Company, will all be completed next year, and will probably be launched as follows:—The Khedive, 3,390 tons, 600-h.p., in January; the Mirzapore, 3,390 tons, 600-h.p., in March; the Peking, 3,000 tons, 600-h.p., in September; and the Agra, 3,000 tons, 600-h.p., in November. The Ripon and the Syria, which have been for so long a time in the Company's service, have been taken by Messrs. Caird and Co. in part payment for the new steamers. Messrs. Denny and Brother, Dumbarton, are building the Indus, 2,850 tons, 450-h.p., which will probably be ready next March.

Telegrams from Shanghai announce the suspension of Messrs. Glover, Dow and Co., Shanghai. It is presumed this is caused by the failure of Glover and Co., Japan. There are rumours of the stoppage of another firm in the China trade, with a home branch, but no names mentioned.

We understand that the Insurance Offices for which Messrs. Glover and Co. acted in Japan have agreed to the transfer of their interests to Mr. Henry Gribble, whose circular appears in another column. The agency for Lloyd's has not yet been decided.

The partnership of Mr. Kinnear, in the firm of Kinnear, Hawes, and Hertz, tea brokers, has ceased, and the business will now be conducted under the firm of Hawes and Hertz.

The bar silver from the West India steamer and other sources has been disposed of for the Continent at 60⅝d.; Mexican dollars have realised 58⅛d. per oz., in both cases showing a slight advance.

—o—

TEA.

The very moderate arrivals of the last fortnight have caused a general improvement in prices and a competition resulting in profits to the importer of from 3d. to 6d. per lb. on Congous from Shanghai, but not so good on Foochow imports. The Teas per Belted Will, from Canton, have also done very well.

Messrs. Arthur Capel and Co.'s Circular says:—We have still to report a very firm market, with a fair amount of business doing. Very full prices have been paid for the further arrivals of new Kaisow kinds of Congou, whilst on the other hand Monings and Wopaks have not been quite so eagerly taken, the supplies having been rather in excess of the wants of the trade for the moment. A large business has been done in new Scented Teas, nearly the whole cargoes of the Belted Will and Prism having found buyers, but at some concession in prices. In old Teas there has only been a moderate business, but some good medium black-leaf kinds of old import have realised very full prices. Red-leaf Congous, siftings, and broken-leaf kinds only sell in small quantities, at about previous prices. Fair to good common remain steady at 11½d. to 1s. per lb. Fair to good Kaisows of old season have been fully supported. For those to hand, per Vine (str.), very full prices have been paid for all fair to good and fine kinds. Pak Lims have recovered 1d. per lb. from the recent fall, the demand having improved. Black-leaf kinds: low qualities remain without improvement either in demand or price. Fair to good common show no alteration at 1s. to 1s. 1d. per lb. Fair to good, of old import, have been sold from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6½d. per lb. In new prices have ruled a shade easier for good to fine kinds, finest from their scarcity realising full prices. Amoy kinds: fair quality has been sold from 10½d. to 11d. per lb.; good from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 2d. per lb.—the latter in boxes. The Oolongs, per Vine, have found ready buyers at extreme rates, say from 1s. 8d. to 2s. 7d. for good to finest kinds. Fine Souchongs are wanted, but there have not been many on offer. Flowery Pekoes show no alteration in price. Scented Teas: Canton Capers have sold readily, but prices for good kinds must be quoted fully 1d. per lb. lower. Foochow kinds have sold at former prices. Canton Orange Pekoes have sold at a further reduction of ½d. to 1d. per lb. Foochow kinds have also sold at a slight decline. In Uncoloured Japans there has been nothing of interest to report. Green Teas: Some further supplies have come to hand. Pingsuey kinds have sold at about previous prices, but Moyune kinds rather lower. In Canton kinds there is no change to notice. Public sales of China Tea, on the 1st inst., comprised 13,444 packages, of which 9,075 packages were sold without reserve. The stock in the United Kingdom on the 31st ultimo was estimated at 72,300,000 lbs., against 72,280,000 lbs. last year, and the quantity afloat at 32,208,020 lbs., against 52,207,480 lbs.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular reports that a steady business has been transacted the past fortnight; prices have been well supported, arrivals again being on the most moderate scale for the time of year, and importers have been firm holders. The shipping trade to the Continent continues suspended; to Canada a few orders have come forward for Greens of finest quality, which rule high. The deliveries stand as follows:—

Home consumption for London from 1st Jan. to 31st Oct.	68,265,000	64,656,000
Export do. do.	24,000,000	29,600,000
Sent coastwise do.	35,100,000	28,730,500
Total,	127,365,000	122,986,500

Merrs. Hawes and Hertz's Circular states that several parcels o Flowery Pekoe, ex s.s. Vine, of very superior quality, have been taken up at 4s. 2d. per lb. New season's Souchongs are still scarce. Oolongs are in limited supply, and those arrived ex s.s. Vine have found ready buyers at extreme prices, ranging from 2s. to 2s. 6d. per lb.

Messrs. Lloyd and Cheshire report:—Low Siftings have been sold publicly at 4¼d. to 4½d., and Common Congou at 11⅜d. to 1s. In Amoy kinds we have no change to notice. Medium Kaisows of old import continue very scarce. New Kaisows of inferior quality sell at about former rates, and medium, up to 1s. 8d., are in moderate request. We hear of no sales of fine. Souchong: Transactions in this class have been on a very moderate scale, and quotations remain unchanged. Black Leaf: Low Common has sold at 11½d., and Common at 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1d. A good demand continues for the lower grades of New Monings at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d., and the better kinds have also been taken up to 2s. 1d.; fine move off slowly at full prices. New Makes have sold readily at 1s. to 1s. 0½d. in half-chests, and 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 5d. in boxes.

SILK.

The market is slightly improved in tone since the public sales of last month, and a fair amount of business is doing at steady rates for Chinas, manufacturers still continuing to show a marked preference for that Silk. In Japans there has also been business doing, the trade at last beginning to realise the fact that present rates for this Silk are comparatively low and tempting; for good parcels an advance of 1s. has been established. Canton Silk is attracting much attention at the new range of prices for Tsatlee reel, say 16s. 6d. to 17s. 6d. for common to good ordinary quality, and some large transactions have taken place at these rates, which are certainly in favour of buyers; fine Silk continues extremely scarce, and is saleable at full prices. The stock of Canton Silk is extremely large, but the present rates will, no doubt, stimulate consumption. In Bengals there is some little business, but limited to those classes which are just now wanted, say good medium and coarse native kinds. Deliveries of Silk continue on a good scale, considering the condition of the chief continental markets.

CHINA SILK PIECE GOODS.—The quantities in the public sales of 2nd inst. were very small; good White Pongee Handkerchiefs, which were scarce and wanted, sold well, but for other kinds there was no demand; prices paid were 23s. to 26s. for good to best plain white, 11 to 12 oz., 7 to 8 yards 27 to 28 inches; and 25s. to 30s. for good to best figured White; 450 pieces in all sold. Crimson and Magenta Handkerchiefs were all withdrawn for want of bidding. Of Shantung Pongees 750 pieces were offered, quality fair but dressed, measurement 20 yards 18½ inches, weight 29½ oz.; they realised 12s. 10d. to 14s. 8d. per piece.

COFFEE.

Notwithstanding that a continuous and heavy supply of Plantation Ceylon has been placed upon the market there has been an active competition for all parcels offered and an advance of 1s. to 2s., which was established during the few days subsequent to our last report, has since been firmly maintained; the current rates rule as follow: Triage, 45s. to 52s.; small grey, 50s. 6d.; colowry, 53s. to 59s.; low middling to middling grey and dull, 57s. 6d. to 60s.; bold ditto, 62s. to 68s.; middling colowry, 60s. 6d. to 65s. 6d.; good to fine middling, 66s. 6d. to 73s. 6d.; good bold, 74s. to 77s.; peaberry, 71s. to 71s. 6d. Native Ceylon has been actively inquired for and rates show an advance of 1s. to 2s. the same as for Plantation; at the close a considerable quantity is held for higher terms than are now ruling; the closing prices may be given as follows:—Small, 42s. 6d. to 43s.; fine bold, 54s to 54s. 6d.; fine bold pale, 55s. to 57s. 6d.; peaberry, 53s. 6d. to 54s. 6d.; good to fine ordinary, 51s. to 52s. Of other East India kinds no sales are reported.

The export deliveries show some improvement compared to last week, and are 600 tons above last year's, but as the landings are rather in excess of the deliveries and 1,400 tons larger than in 1869, the surplus in the stock now amounts to 2,300 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 81,917 cwt., against 110,095 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 4,569 cwt., against 32,028 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 2,402 cwt. Plantation, against 4,275 cwt., and 3,136 cwt. Native, against 6,554 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the forty-three weeks ended Oct. 29, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 35,030 tons, against 35,812 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 61,533 tons, against 63,811 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 8,697 tons, against 9,198 tons; of all descriptions, 15,735 tons, against 16,062 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 25,041 tons, against 23,148 tons; of all descriptions, 40,984 tons, against 40,315 tons. The stock on Oct. 29 was, of Ceylon, 15,156 tons, against 14,461 tons; of all descriptions, 29,033 tons, against 26,754 tons.
